May Apply For Little Miss, Teen Pageants

Applications are now being accepted for the Miss Minnesota teen queen pageant to be held at the Holiday Inn in Rochester on April 9 and 10, 1976. This is the fifth year for the pageant.

Judging is based on scholastic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality and appearance, and there will be separate judging and awards for contestant's 100 word themes on the subject, "Why I Am Proud To Be An American". There is no talent or bathing suit competition, and ages are 13-17 years of age. Currently reigning is Miss Mary Murphy of Woodlawn.

The Little Miss Minnesota Talent contest will be held April 9, same location. Ages of contestants will five to 12. Catagories are baton, voice, instrumental, dance and variety. Judging will be 75 per cent on artistic ability, 25 per cent on poise, personality and appearance. This is the second year of the Little Miss nationwide talent contest. Currently reigning winner from Granite Falls is Carolyn Kruse.

Applications for the pageant and contest are available from Certification headquarters, box 406, Rockton, Ill. 61072. Please specify age category, and send self-addressed, stamped envelope for more information.

Conference On Rural America Gains Interest

An essay on education by Dr. Thomas Matchie, NDSU English department, did what the conference on rural America committee wanted done—it developed areawide interest in the topic and sparked a range of responses from readers.

The essay was the first step in getting participation in the first mini-conference of the year-long conference on rural America. That mini-conference will be on November 27 at 7:30 p.m. at Crookston central high auditorium.

The following comments from area residents were gathered by the conference on rural America committee:

Cliff Zaffke, member of the Crookston school board and a former teacher, believed Dr. Matchie's discussion posed a fascinating question as to whether education determines culture or vica-versa. However, he basically disagrees with the conclusion that education should determine culture. Instead, he feels that education always has and will continue to "respond to society's demands."

Where futurists are concerned, Zaffke believes there have always been futurists in education. As always, these futurists will continue to "make waves" in the educational process and society will continue to either accept their new ideas or reject them if they prove not to be acceptable.

Karlstad banker Stuart M. Folland responded, "The world has its eye on rural America. As we observe the swirl of transition which focuses attention upon us, we must prepare ourselves sociologically, intellectually and financially to cope with the pressures we will face," he said. "Pressures to produce—whether it be food and fiber, our trades or our professions—each segment of our society will be profoundly affected."

Folland added, "The Conference on rural America is avowed as a contemporary spokesman to these current issues. Each of us should participate to whatever degree we feel compelled to seek out directions for the choices ahead."

Folland encouraged Valley residents to "become involved—become informed." "The challenge is ours," he added, "our response must be certain."

JoAnn Swanson, a teacher in the Crookston school system, commented, "The article itself finally clarified to me what is going on in regards to the entire Conference program.

"I thought Dr. Matchie's discussion was thought-provoking, although I did not necessarily agree with everything he said. I would be concerned about an educational system that was designed solely as a determinant of culture because of the possibility of only one point of view being pursued."

The education mini-conference will feature three speakers.

Recovery Of Economy Gets Cautions Look

Minnesota business people are treating the economic recovery very cautiously, according to the November survey of Minnesota business conditions, conducted by the college and graduate school of business administration at the University of Minnesota.

"Retail sales and manufacturing production show substantial gains for the second consecutive quarter," the report's summary states, but "inflationary pressures are increasing."

The survey is based on responses from 139 Minnesota retailers and manufacturers and administered by graduate assistant Robert Dwyer under the superivsion of associate dean Roger B. Upson.

May's survey report identified a recovery that continues, but prices for materials, reported by 34 per cent of the manufactureres, "manifest seemingly ever-present inflationary pressures."

These pressures on manufacturers have been shared with retailers and consumers, although retail sales, too, are running ahead of last year's.

Retail employment has increased seasonally, but runs below one year ago, which indicates "some conservatism as to the future course of retail sales.

"With both retail and manufacturing employment below year-ago levels, (respondents) are not acting as though the increased sales, production and new orders are indications of a rapid upturn," the summary states. "Instead, the evidence suggests a probable continued slow improvement."

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I have been receiving my pension check from the Veterans Administration monthly without fail until this month. Why?

A—You neglected to notify VA that you moved to a new address.

Q—What is the "vet-rep" program I keep hearing about?

A—It is an all-out effort by the Veterans Administration to place a counselor on college campuses to insure prompt delivery of GI Bill educational assistance checks by expediting changes of address, dependency status or training programs.

Q—When an educational check has the right claim number, but the name is misspelled, for example: "Willie Hancock" is shown for "Lillie Hancock," and the claimant cannot get the check cashed, how can a new check be made and how long will it take to get a new check to be issued?

A—This check should be returned to the Veterans Administration regional office calling attention to the error. Action will be taken to correct the name and have the check reissued. If special pay procedures are indicated, the claimant should receive a check within seven days.

Berve Diary Tells Of Early History

(Editor's Note: Following contribution to the Pennington county history book was compiled by Mrs. Dorothy Berve, widow of Hilbert Olaus Berve. It is published in the same form in which it was received, just as all family histories will be published in the book sponsored by the Pennington county historical society.)

Hidden away in the attic of an abandoned farm house near Germantown was found the diary of H.O. Berve, then an attorney in Thief River Falls. The wooden box in which it was stored was withered and greyed with age.

In his diary, he writes of a twenty mile hike from Germantown to Thief River Falls, in April, 1910.

The leaves on the trees were starting to bud. The coots were making their nests in the muskeg swamps and the crows were talking to one another while the hawks were hunting mice in the fields. There were many walking trips but this one in April 1910 was the memorable one. It was a twenty mile hike to Thief River Falls and I wanted to get there as soon as possible in hope of getting work at the sawmill. Then the logs were floated down the river and great loads of logs came in drawn by horses.

After the long walk, I stayed all night at the Great Northern Hotel and could have slept until noon, but I needed to be up early and on my way to the sawmill. But as I walked across the river bridge, I could see that the millyard was filled with men looking for work. Anyway I planned to stay it out until my turn came.

The skies were cloudy and it was cold, already it had begun to drizzle. I buttoned up my coat and sat on a damp log and started to converse with the men around me. Then the foreman of the mill walked up to us and said they had hired all the men they could use.

A spring rain had started but I had that Norwegian persistence and decided to find work in the town, so I made my rounds to the stores and to the grain elevators, but all were alike, already they had more help than they could use for the little business they had.

I had to stay on for two more days while the rain continued, but at last the clouds began to drift away in dark, rugged masses and the clear sky appeared. But Thief River Falls was a bleary sight and how the surrounding country must look! Out in the Muskeg swamps it would be much worse.

Such days brought a lonesome dark gloom and unforgettable discouragement to the settlers and made them blind to everything else. How hopeless everything looked to them. So in a mood, I sat in my hotel room and debated what I ought to do. No work in town at least for me. Besides everything was paralyzed throughout the country, no seeding for many weeks. I could not afford to stay in town for the little money I had was fast running out. But in the end, I decided to go back to the swamps.

Berve, H.O.

There was the stagecoach which carried the mail, so I made my way to the livery stable, from where the stagecoach started. The mail carrier was my friend and he promised me a ride with him on the next day. The rig was three seated and drawn by stage horses.

The main business of the stage was to carry the mail to some of the new post offices on the old reservation, but as there was no other means of conveyance up through the country, passengers, bundles and a heap of other material was also carried. So the next morning, I was on hand at the livery stable and Simon the driver was there too, not with his three-seated rig, but this time a one-seated buggy.

Simon and me filled the seat and in front of us were mail bags and mail packages. Simon carried a buggy whip and he used to swear and growl at his horses, especially if one slipped or lagged behind.

We started home and on the way we would plunge into the water reaching over the wheels. It seemed to be mud without bottom. The old stage horses had constant abuse, but a horse named Ditlow was smarter than the others. When things became too tough, he just laid down in the mud. Much traveling in swampy regions had taught him this. So during the trip we watched Ditlow with dread for fear he would lie down.

There was the old Torgenson slough that was so much worse than all the rest. The earth consisted of quick sand which was then covered with two feet of water. When we came to it, Simon said, pulling at the bits, "We've got to rest our horses."

He tightened up the lines in good order, with the whip ready in his right hand. The horses waded into it. All of a sudden, they seemed to sink almost to their bellies. Then Ditlow stopped, leaned forward and sideways and placed his weight on the tugs and tried to extract his hind feet which were up to his knees in mud. But down on his back came the whip. In his agony, Ditlow made a frantic effort, and on we went.

Then at last we reached the firm ground on the other side of the slough. But again we reached the water and the quick sand. Ditlow pulled his feet out of the mire and with a quick splash tumbled over. But neither Simon's savage beating or his ungodly swearing brought Ditlow to his feet.

"Here's where we get out and show our strength," Simon said.

Simon dug around in the mail, and finally found a pair of boots. Already I had mine on. So we had to unhitch. When Ditlow realized he was free, he stood up without any urging. What a funny sight he was, dripping with mud and water!

With Simon and me out of the buggy and pushing we had it out of the slough again. Simon was furious as he stepped into one of the holes Ditlow had made, and his boots were filled with ice water. Soon again we were on our way, and Simon with an important gesture cracked his whip.

Then we turned and traveled the grassy sod. Our horses traveled easier now and we made better progress.

I remember one place in particular, a little island retreat far out into the lake.

But shivering and cold on that rainy April day we reached Germantown and I was again home in my homesteader's shack.

Again I was left alone in my shack with my thoughts and with my dreams. Some days I would lie on the roof of my cabin watching the clouds and looking out over the country, for the sight of humanity even at a long distance would comfort me.

Sometimes the heavy sense of loneliness would drive me away from the homestead and I would visit neighbors and friends. Somedays I might be invited to dinner and other times I would just drop in on some Sunday afternoon and stay for supper.

To the north of the new reservation also known as the eleven towns, lay the old reservation with homes scattered here and there. There were no roads as are known today, only trails. Across some of the lanes were laid corduroys, consisting of poles laid side by side, so that people could drive across. But while the roads were not good, most of us had good legs.

I remember two men who used to make it on foot from Grygla to Thief River Falls. One was a tall Norwegian who used to come swinging down the trail and just eat up the distance. The other was a short, determined German covering the distance equally well.

Soon there were ditches being built which made the country what it is today.

There were no nicely equipped school houses scattered along the country. One of the first schools I taught was located in a homesteader's log cabin standing on the edge of a large aspen grove. Another school I taught was a homesteader's frame shanty with loose tar paper on the outside walls, playing a tatoo on the walls on windy days.

Legislative Pay Raise Is Questioned

The following comments were submitted by Chuck Slocum, chairman of Independent-Republicans of Minnesota (IRM) to a joint House-Senate committee studying legislative pay raise:

While the average citizen in Minnesota has seen his real income diminish and his purchasing power substantially reduced because of inflation and increased government spending in the past two years, it seems incongruous to us that the Minnesota legislature is again considering a pay raise for its members. The philosophy does, however, seem in keeping with the governor's "austerity" budget that amounts to a 38 per cent increase in state spending.

We commend the members of this joint committee for bringing the subject of pay raises out into the open, and for taking time to carefully consider all the issues involved in legislating pay raises. It's important that this type of work be obvious to the public because they understand pay raises much more than they understand many of the issues that come before legislative committees.

But, perhaps it would be more fruitful to convince the taxpayers they are getting their money's worth from their legislature right now, and then there would not be such a large outcry when raises are awarded. Surveys indicate that eight out of 10 people believe government spends too much money. Add to that the fact that Minnesota ranks number two in average per capita taxes and property taxes are at an all time high, and it doesn't seem like much is being done to ease the tax burden.

There are several ways the legislature could begin to indicate its sincerity to the taxpayers. The Senate doesn't find it necessary to hold mini-sessions; why are they necessary in the House? At a cost of $26,000 a day it seems like a lot of money to spend for the amount of resulting work. We are convinced a series of interim committees could continue to function without calling the full House into session several times during that period.

The use of per diem and expenses to supplement a legislator's pay is a grey area as far as most citizens are concerned. They all know how expense accounts work, and most believe they can be "padded." In this case it's the taxpayer's money that is being spent, and many taxpayers aren't at all convinced it's being spent wisely. Perhaps the base pay should be set high enough that per diem is no longer necessary. Then the taxpayers would know just how much their legislature is costing them.

The average legislator is now paid $14,000 a year, including expenses. The suggested raise would up that to about $15,400. We know a lot of taxpayers who would like to be making that much money in a full-time job. This is not to suggest, however, that we feel the legislature should become a full-time position. This would greatly undermine the citizen-nature of our legislature and almost assure that people making over $20,000 a year would no longer care to serve.

The matter of legislative pay raises all boils down to one fact: Does the public think it's getting its full dollar value out of its elected representatives. Apparently not, or there would not be such a public rage everytime the idea is offered. Before going any further in determining compensation for legislators, we respectfully submit that time would be better spent determining how much time the average legislator spends on state business, how physically and intellectually demanding that work is, and what are the financial needs for staff, transportation, etc. By presenting these kinds of conclusions to the public, the legislature might begin to see more public support for pay raises.

MSU External Study Program Begins Dec. 2

Though launched only five years ago, Moorhead state university's Scandinavian students program ranks in seventh place among all colleges and universities in the U.S. and Canada in enrollments in its Norwegian language and other Scandinavian courses.

The ranking is contained in a statistical analysis published in the spring issue of "Scandinavian Studies", a quarterly journal of the society for the advancement of Scandinavian Studies.

As noted in the article, MSU's program with three years academic study of Norwegian as its foreign language core, is one of the fastest growing in the nation. Currently, there are eight majors and almost 30 minors in Scandinavian studies at MSU and each quarter sees almost 200 students enrolled in various offerings in Norwegian language and Scandinavian history, literature, art and geography, according to Dr. Kenneth Smemo.

Dr. Smemo, who resides in rural Hawley and also teaches in the MSU history department, is director of Scandinavian studies at MSU. Seven other Scandinavian specialists on the MSU faculty make up the program's participating staff.

The other institutions in the top 10, listed in descending order, are: University of Washington, University of Wisconsin, University of Minnesota, St. Olaf college in Minnesota, University of Texas, University of California at Berkeley, University of California at Los Angeles, University of California at Santa Barbara and San Jose state university in California.

The article underscores, "It can be seen that bachelor of arts major enrollments overall have increased from 96 to 151 or 56 per cent (since a similar analysis conducted in 1970). This is despite the failure of a college with traditionally sizeable enrollments to respond to the questionnaire.

"Only one university represented showed a decline in BA major statistics, and this by only four enrollments, while there were nine increases and three schools maintained their previous levels."

The article terms the general outlook for the humanities in Scandinavian area studies in North America "positive," based upon the overall enrollment picture in the U.S., "which shows that, despite declines in graduate degree enrollments and a number of individual languages, there has been an increase of 13 per cent, from 4,072 to 5,490.

"(This is) exclusive of the rise in social science enrollments, which, if included under the broader heading "Nordic Area Studies," would boost the increase to 18 per cent or an enrollment of 5,660, up by 868 from the survey of 1970."

4-H CLUBS

Ringbo Bobcats

The Ringbo Bobcats 4-H club met at the Joe Kotok home on Nov. 19 with Cecelia Swenson presiding. Flag and club pledges were led by Lori Kotok taking Jody Garthus' place who was not present. Roll call was given by giving a safety hint. There were five new members and their names are Theresa, John, Joseph, JoAnn and Diann Roggenbuck.

The secretary and treasurers reports were carried till the next meeting.

Cindy Swenson talked about the hayride, Lori Kotok talked about the home environment workshop she and Janice Kotok attended in Newfolden and Cecelia Swenson gave a talk on the awards banquet.

New business was preparing for the Christmas dance. A committee was picked for this project. They are: Sheila Erickson, Marie Kotok, Sharon Rostvet, Daren Green, Scott Stuart, Myles Garthus and Theresa Roggenbuck.

A motion was made for planning project meetings. The members will plan on starting in January.

Names were drawn for Christmas exchange. A limit was set for one dollar.

The food workshop in Viking on Saturday was discussed and many are planning to attend.

There were 17 members, 2 visitors and three parents that attended.

The meeting was adjourned by Lori Kotok and Sheila Erickson seconded the motion.

Refreshments were served by Kotok's. The next meeting will be a Christmas party at the Jay Garthus home on December 17. Lunch is potluck.

Project talks were given by Janice Kotok on her quilt and Sheila Erickson and health and Tim Erickson on aircraft.

Recommends Merging Milk Market Orders

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) has recommended amending and merging four midwestern federal milk marketing orders, combining and expanding the areas they now cover. The proposed single order would be known as the Upper Midwest order.

Affected orders are the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Duluth-Superior, Southeastern Minnesota-Northern Iowa, Minnesota-North Dakota, and Eastern South Dakota orders. The latter order would be left as a separate order, with only five of its most northerly counties included in the merger.

Principal cities in the merged area are Minneapolis, St. Paul Rochester, Duluth and Moorhead; Fargo, N.D.; and Superior, Wis.

H. L. Forest, dairy official in USDA's agricultural marketing service (AMS), said the recommendations are based on a public hearing held in Minneapolis last November. The hearing was held at the request of dairy farmer cooperative associations in the markets.

The hearing evidence showed that merger of the orders in this area is needed to provide more uniformity in returns to milk producers in what is now a common production and marketing area. Mr. Forest said. The merger also would provide a broader basis for the equitable sharing of returns for their milk among producers throughout the Upper Midwest, Mr. Forest added.

The proposed merger is in line with a current trend toward fewer but more far-reaching orders. For instance, the number of orders peaked at 83 in 1962, but through mergers the number now comes to 56 orders, covering much larger marketing areas. The orders set minimum prices, based on supply and demand, that milk dealers or handlers in a regulated area must pay to dairy farmers for milk. Important end-results, Mr. Forest said, are more orderly marketing conditions and reasonable prices for farmers, and a steady supply of milk for consumers. About 80 per cent of all fluid-grade milk in the United States is now marketed under federal orders.

The single Upper Midwest marketing area would combine territory now under the separate orders with substantial presently unregulated areas in northwestern Wisconsin and northern and southwestern Minnesota. Some unregulated territory also would be brought under the separate Eastern South Dakota order.

Provisions of the merged order would be basically the same as the present Minneapolis-St. Paul order, but with some changes in pooling, pricing, and producer payments.

Pool plant standards for distributing and supply plants would apply uniformly throughout the single marketing area, and would be keyed to fluid milk (Class I) utilization for the whole market for the same month of the preceding year.

The existing price structures in the separate orders would be modified to provide the fluid-use (Class I) price to handlers located in each of the principal population centers in the area.

The uniform price to producers would be announced on the 11th day of the month, one day after handlers' reports are due. Partial payments would be made the third day after the end of the month for milk received the first 15 days of the month. Final payment would be on the 18th day after the end of the month.

Copies of the recommended decision may be obtained from the market administrators of the orders, or from the Dairy division, Agricultural Marketing service, U.S. Department of agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Local 40 et 8 Gives Nursing Scholarships

Registered nurse training assistance is one of the projects that the 40 et 8 supports on a national basis. Voiture 737 of the 40 et 8 which covers Pennington and Red Lake counties awards three $300 scholarships each year to students enrolled in a course of instruction leading to an R.N. degree, according to L.W. Larson, Red Lake Falls, chairman of the 40 et 8 nursing scholarship committee.

Awards in 1975 went to Joyce Feragen of Thief River Falls, who is attending St. Cloud school of nursing; Diane Czech of Red Lake Falls, attending Mankato state university school of nursing; and Janet Berry of Grygla, attending Nebraska Methodist hospital school of nursing.

May Apply For Little Miss, Teen Pageants

Applications are now being accepted for the Miss Minnesota teen queen pageant to be held at the Holiday Inn in Rochester on April 9 and 10, 1976. This is the fifth year for the pageant.

Judging is based on scholastic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality and appearance, and there will be separate judging and awards for contestant's 100 word themes on the subject, "Why I Am Proud To Be An American". There is no talent or bathing suit competition, and ages are 13-17 years of age. Currently reigning is Miss Mary Murphy of Woodlawn.

The Little Miss Minnesota Talent contest will be held April 9, same location. Ages of contestants will five to 12. Categories are baton, voice, instrumental, dance and variety. Judging will be 75 per cent on artistic ability, 25 per cent on poise, personality and appearance. This is the second year of the Little Miss nationwide talent contest. Currently reigning winner from Granite Falls is Carolyn Kruse.

Applications for the pageant and contest are available from Certification headquarters, box 406, Rockton, Ill. 61072. Please specify age category, and send self-addressed, stamped envelope for more information.

Conference On Rural America Gains Interest

An essay on education by Dr. Thomas Matchie, NDSU English department, did what the conference on rural America committee wanted done—it developed areawide interest in the topic and sparked a range of responses from readers.

The essay was the first step in getting participation in the first mini-conference of the year-long conference on rural America. That mini-conference will be on November 27 at 7:30 p.m. at Crookston central high auditorium.

The following comments from area residents were gathered by the conference on rural America committee:

Cliff Zaffke, member of the Crookston school board and a former teacher, believed Dr. Matchie's discussion posed a fascinating question as to whether education determines culture or vica-versa. However, he basically disagrees with the conclusion that education should determine culture. Instead, he feels that education always has and will continue to "respond to society's demands."

Where futurists are concerned, Zaffke believes there have always been futurists in education. As always, these futurists will continue to "make waves" in the educational process and society will continue to either accept their new ideas or reject them if they prove not to be acceptable.

Karlstad banker Stuart M. Folland responded, "The world has its eye on rural America. As we observe the swirl of transition which focuses attention upon us, we must prepare ourselves sociologically, intellectually and financially to cope with the pressures we will face," he said. "Pressures to produce—whether it be food and fiber, our trades or our professions—each segment of our society will be profoundly affected."

Folland added, "The Conference on rural America is avowed as a contemporary spokesman to these current issues. Each of us should participate to whatever degree we feel compelled to seek out directions for the choices ahead."

Folland encouraged Valley residents to "become involved—become informed." "The challenge is ours," he added, "our response must be certain."

JoAnn Swanson, a teacher in the Crookston school system, commented, "The article itself finally clarified to me what is going on in regards to the entire Conference program.

"I thought Dr. Matchie's discussion was thought-provoking, although I did not necessarily agree with everything he said. I would be concerned about an educational system that was designed solely as a determinant of culture because of the possibility of only one point of view being pursued."

The education mini-conference will feature three speakers.

Recovery Of Economy Gets Cautions Look

Minnesota business people are treating the economic recovery very cautiously, according to the November survey of Minnesota business conditions, conducted by the college and graduate school of business administration at the University of Minnesota.

"Retail sales and manufacturing production show substantial gains for the second consecutive quarter," the report's summary states, but "inflationary pressures are increasing."

The survey is based on responses from 139 Minnesota retailers and manufacturers and administered by graduate assistant Robert Dwyer under the superivsion of associate dean Roger B. Upson.

May's survey report identified a recovery that continues, but prices for materials, reported by 34 per cent of the manufactureres, "manifest seemingly ever-present inflationary pressures."

These pressures on manufacturers have been shared with retailers and consumers, although retail sales, too, are running ahead of last year's.

Retail employment has increased seasonally, but runs below one year ago, which indicates "some conservatism as to the future course of retail sales.

"With both retail and manufacturing employment below year-ago levels, (respondents) are not acting as though the increased sales, production and new orders are indications of a rapid upturn," the summary states. "Instead, the evidence suggests a probable continued slow improvement."

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—I have been receiving my pension check from the Veterans Administration monthly without fail until this month. Why?

A—You neglected to notify VA that you moved to a new address.

Q—What is the "vet-rep" program I keep hearing about?

A—It is an all-out effort by the Veterans Administration to place a counselor on college campuses to insure prompt delivery of GI Bill educational assistance checks by expediting changes of address, dependency status or training programs.

Q—When an educational check has the right claim number, but the name is misspelled, for example: "Willie Hancock" is shown for "Lillie Hancock," and the claimant cannot get the check cashed, how can a new check be made and how long will it take to get a new check to be issued?

A—This check should be returned to the Veterans Administration regional office calling attention to the error. Action will be taken to correct the name and have the check reissued. If special pay procedures are indicated, the claimant should receive a check within seven days.

Berve Diary Tells Of Early History

(Editor's Note: Following contribution to the Pennington county history book was compiled by Mrs. Dorothy Berve, widow of Hilbert Olaus Berve. It is published in the same form in which it was received, just as all family histories will be published in the book sponsored by the Pennington county historical society.)

Hidden away in the attic of an abandoned farm house near Germantown was found the diary of H.O. Berve, then an attorney in Thief River Falls. The wooden box in which it was stored was withered and greyed with age.

In his diary, he writes of a twenty mile hike from Germantown to Thief River Falls, in April, 1910.

The leaves on the trees were starting to bud. The coots were making their nests in the muskeg swamps and the crows were talking to one another while the hawks were hunting mice in the fields. There were many walking trips but this one in April 1910 was the memorable one. It was a twenty mile hike to Thief River Falls and I wanted to get there as soon as possible in hope of getting work at the sawmill. Then the logs were floated down the river and great loads of logs came in drawn by horses.

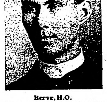
After the long walk, I stayed all night at the Great Northern Hotel and could have slept until noon, but I needed to be up early and on my way to the sawmill. But as I walked across the river bridge, I could see that the millyard was filled with men looking for work. Anyway I planned to stay it out until my turn came.

The skies were cloudy and it was cold, already it had begun to drizzle. I buttoned up my coat and sat on a damp log and started to converse with the men around me. Then the foreman of the mill walked up to us and said they had hired all the men they could use.

A spring rain had started but I had that Norwegian persistence and decided to find work in the town, so I made my rounds to the stores and to the grain elevators, but all were alike, already they had more help than they could use for the little business they had.

I had to stay on for two more days while the rain continued, but at last the clouds began to drift away in dark, rugged masses and the clear sky appeared. But Thief River Falls was a bleary sight and how the surrounding country must look! Out in the Muskeg swamps it would be much worse.

Such days brought a lonesome dark gloom and unforgettable discouragement to the settlers and made them blind to everything else. How hopeless everything looked to them. So in a mood, I sat in my hotel room and debated what I ought to do. No work in town at least for me. Besides everything was paralyzed throughout the country, no seeding for many weeks. I could not afford to stay in town for the little money I had was fast running out. But in the end, I decided to go back to the swamps.



Berve, H.O.

There was the stagecoach which carried the mail, so I made my way to the livery stable, from where the stagecoach started. The mail carrier was my friend and he promised me a ride with him on the next day. The rig was three seated and drawn by stage horses.

The main business of the stage was to carry the mail to some of the new post offices on the old reservation, but as there was no other means of conveyance up through the country, passengers, bundles and a heap of other material was also carried. So the next morning, I was on hand at the livery stable and Simon the driver was there too, not with his three-seated rig, but this time a one-seated buggy.

Simon and me filled the seat and in front of us were mail bags and mail packages. Simon carried a buggy whip and he used to swear and growl at his horses, especially if one slipped or lagged behind.

We started home and on the way we would plunge into the water reaching over the wheels. It seemed to be mud without bottom. The old stage horses had constant abuse, but a horse named Ditlow was smarter than the others. When things became too tough, he just laid down in the mud. Much traveling in swampy regions had taught him this. So during the trip we watched Ditlow with dread for fear he would lie down.

There was the old Torgenson slough that was so much worse than all the rest. The earth consisted of quick sand which was then covered with two feet of water. When we came to it, Simon said, pulling at the bits, "We've got to rest our horses."

He tightened up the lines in good order, with the whip ready in his right hand. The horses waded into it. All of a sudden, they seemed to sink almost to their bellies. Then Ditlow stopped, leaned forward and sideways and placed his weight on the tugs and tried to extract his hind feet which were up to his knees in mud. But down on his back came the whip. In his agony, Ditlow made a frantic effort, and on we went.

Then at last we reached the firm ground on the other side of the slough. But again we reached the water and the quick sand. Ditlow pulled his feet out of the mire and with a quick splash tumbled over. But neither Simon's savage beating or his ungodly swearing brought Ditlow to his feet.

"Here's where we get out and show our strength," Simon said.

Simon dug around in the mail, and finally found a pair of boots. Already I had mine on. So we had to unhitch. When Ditlow realized he was free, he stood up without any urging. What a funny sight he was, dripping with mud and water!

With Simon and me out of the buggy and pushing we had it out of the slough again. Simon was furious as he stepped into one of the holes Ditlow had made, and his boots were filled with ice water. Soon again we were on our way, and Simon with an important gesture cracked his whip.

Then we turned and traveled the grassy sod. Our horses traveled easier now and we made better progress.

I remember one place in particular, a little island retreat far out into the lake.

But shivering and cold on that rainy April day we reached Germantown and I was again home in my homesteader's shack.

Again I was left alone in my shack with my thoughts and with my dreams. Some days I would lie on the roof of my cabin watching the clouds and looking out over the country, for the sight of humanity even at a long distance would comfort me.

Sometimes the heavy sense of loneliness would drive me away from the homestead and I would visit neighbors and friends. Somedays I might be invited to dinner and other times I would just drop in on some Sunday afternoon and stay for supper.

To the north of the new reservation also known as the eleven towns, lay the old reservation with homes scattered here and there. There were no roads as are known today, only trails. Across some of the lanes were laid corduroys, consisting of poles laid side by side, so that people could drive across. But while the roads were not good, most of us had good legs.

I remember two men who used to make it on foot from Grygla to Thief River Falls. One was a tall Norwegian who used to come swinging down the trail and just eat up the distance. The other was a short, determined German covering the distance equally well.

Soon there were ditches being built which made the country what it is today.

There were no nicely equipped school houses scattered along the country. One of the first schools I taught was located in a homesteader's log cabin standing on the edge of a large aspen grove. Another school I taught was a homesteader's frame shanty with loose tar paper on the outside walls, playing a tatoo on the walls on windy days.

Legislative Pay Raise Is Questioned

The following comments were submitted by Chuck Slocum, chairman of Independent-Republicans of Minnesota (IRM) to a joint House-Senate committee studying legislative pay raise:

While the average citizen in Minnesota has seen his real income diminish and his purchasing power substantially reduced because of inflation and increased government spending in the past two years, it seems incongruous to us that the Minnesota legislature is again considering a pay raise for its members. The philosophy does, however, seem in keeping with the governor's "austerity" budget that amounts to a 38 per cent increase in state spending.

We commend the members of this joint committee for bringing the subject of pay raises out into the open, and for taking time to carefully consider all the issues involved in legislating pay raises. It's important that this type of work be obvious to the public because they understand pay raises much more than they understand many of the issues that come before legislative committees.

But, perhaps it would be more fruitful to convince the taxpayers they are getting their money's worth from their legislature right now, and then there would not be such a large outcry when raises are awarded. Surveys indicate that eight out of 10 people believe government spends too much money. Add to that the fact that Minnesota ranks number two in average per capita taxes and property taxes are at an all time high, and it doesn't seem like much is being done to ease the tax burden.

There are several ways the legislature could begin to indicate its sincerity to the taxpayers. The Senate doesn't find it necessary to hold mini-sessions; why are they necessary in the House? At a cost of $26,000 a day it seems like a lot of money to spend for the amount of resulting work. We are convinced a series of interim committees could continue to function without calling the full House into session several times during that period.

The use of per diem and expenses to supplement a legislator's pay is a grey area as far as most citizens are concerned. They all know how expense accounts work, and most believe they can be "padded." In this case it's the taxpayer's money that is being spent, and many taxpayers aren't at all convinced it's being spent wisely. Perhaps the base pay should be set high enough that per diem is no longer necessary. Then the taxpayers would know just how much their legislature is costing them.

The average legislator is now paid $14,000 a year, including expenses. The suggested raise would up that to about $15,400. We know a lot of taxpayers who would like to be making that much money in a full-time job. This is not to suggest, however, that we feel the legislature should become a full-time position. This would greatly undermine the citizen-nature of our legislature and almost assure that people making over $20,000 a year would no longer care to serve.

The matter of legislative pay raises all boils down to one fact: Does the public think it's getting its full dollar value out of its elected representatives. Apparently not, or there would not be such a public rage everytime the idea is offered. Before going any further in determining compensation for legislators, we respectfully submit that time would be better spent determining how much time the average legislator spends on state business, how physically and intellectually demanding that work is, and what are the financial needs for staff, transportation, etc. By presenting these kinds of conclusions to the public, the legislature might begin to see more public support for pay raises.

MSU External Study Program Begins Dec. 2

Though launched only five years ago, Moorhead state university's Scandinavian students program ranks in seventh place among all colleges and universities in the U.S. and Canada in enrollments in its Norwegian language and other Scandinavian courses.

The ranking is contained in a statistical analysis published in the spring issue of "Scandinavian Studies", a quarterly journal of the society for the advancement of Scandinavian Studies.

As noted in the article, MSU's program with three years academic study of Norwegian as its foreign language core, is one of the fastest growing in the nation. Currently, there are eight majors and almost 30 minors in Scandinavian studies at MSU and each quarter sees almost 200 students enrolled in various offerings in Norwegian language and Scandinavian history, literature, art and geography, according to Dr. Kenneth Smemo.

Dr. Smemo, who resides in rural Hawley and also teaches in the MSU history department, is director of Scandinavian studies at MSU. Seven other Scandinavian specialists on the MSU faculty make up the program's participating staff.

The other institutions in the top 10, listed in descending order, are: University of Washington, University of Wisconsin, University of Minnesota, St. Olaf college in Minnesota, University of Texas, University of California at Berkeley, University of California at Los Angeles, University of California at Santa Barbara and San Jose state university in California.

The article underscores, "It can be seen that bachelor of arts major enrollments overall have increased from 96 to 151 or 56 per cent (since a similar analysis conducted in 1970). This is despite the failure of a college with traditionally sizeable enrollments to respond to the questionnaire.

"Only one university represented showed a decline in BA major statistics, and this by only four enrollments, while there were nine increases and three schools maintained their previous levels."

The article terms the general outlook for the humanities in Scandinavian area studies in North America "positive," based upon the overall enrollment picture in the U.S., "which shows that, despite declines in graduate degree enrollments and a number of individual languages, there has been an increase of 13 per cent, from 4,072 to 5,490.

"(This is) exclusive of the rise in social science enrollments, which, if included under the broader heading "Nordic Area Studies," would boost the increase to 18 per cent or an enrollment of 5,660, up by 868 from the survey of 1970."

4-H CLUBS

Ringbo Bobcats

The Ringbo Bobcats 4-H club met at the Joe Kotok home on Nov. 19 with Cecelia Swenson presiding. Flag and club pledges were led by Lori Kotok taking Jody Garthus' place who was not present. Roll call was given by giving a safety hint. There were five new members and their names are Theresa, John, Joseph, JoAnn and Diann Roggenbuck.

The secretary and treasurers reports were carried till the next meeting.

Cindy Swenson talked about the hayride, Lori Kotok talked about the home environment workshop she and Janice Kotok attended in Newfolden and Cecelia Swenson gave a talk on the awards banquet.

New business was preparing for the Christmas dance. A committee was picked for this project. They are: Sheila Erickson, Marie Kotok, Sharon Rostvet, Daren Green, Scott Stuart, Myles Garthus and Theresa Roggenbuck.

A motion was made for planning project meetings. The members will plan on starting in January.

Names were drawn for Christmas exchange. A limit was set for one dollar.

The food workshop in Viking on Saturday was discussed and many are planning to attend.

There were 17 members, 2 visitors and three parents that attended.

The meeting was adjourned by Lori Kotok and Sheila Erickson seconded the motion.

Refreshments were served by Kotok's. The next meeting will be a Christmas party at the Jay Garthus home on December 17. Lunch is potluck.

Project talks were given by Janice Kotok on her quilt and Sheila Erickson and health and Tim Erickson on aircraft.

Recommends Merging Milk Market Orders

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) has recommended amending and merging four midwestern federal milk marketing orders, combining and expanding the areas they now cover. The proposed single order would be known as the Upper Midwest order.

Affected orders are the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Duluth-Superior, Southeastern Minnesota-Northern Iowa, Minnesota-North Dakota, and Eastern South Dakota orders. The latter order would be left as a separate order, with only five of its most northerly counties included in the merger.

Principal cities in the merged area are Minneapolis, St. Paul Rochester, Duluth and Moorhead; Fargo, N.D.; and Superior, Wis.

H. L. Forest, dairy official in USDA's agricultural marketing service (AMS), said the recommendations are based on a public hearing held in Minneapolis last November. The hearing was held at the request of dairy farmer cooperative associations in the markets.

The hearing evidence showed that merger of the orders in this area is needed to provide more uniformity in returns to milk producers in what is now a common production and marketing area, Mr. Forest said. The merger also would provide a broader basis for the equitable sharing of returns for their milk among producers throughout the Upper Midwest, Mr. Forest added.

The proposed merger is in line with a current trend toward fewer but more far-reaching orders. For instance, the number of orders peaked at 83 in 1962, but through mergers the number now comes to 56 orders, covering much larger marketing areas. The orders set minimum prices, based on supply and demand, that milk dealers or handlers in a regulated area must pay to dairy farmers for milk. Important end-results, Mr. Forest said, are more orderly marketing conditions and reasonable prices for farmers, and a steady supply of milk for consumers. About 80 per cent of all fluid-grade milk in the United States is now marketed under federal orders.

The single Upper Midwest marketing area would combine territory now under the separate orders with substantial presently unregulated areas in northwestern Wisconsin and northern and southwestern Minnesota. Some unregulated territory also would be brought under the separate Eastern South Dakota order.

Provisions of the merged order would be basically the same as the present Minneapolis-St. Paul order, but with some changes in pooling, pricing, and producer payments.

Pool plant standards for distributing and supply plants would apply uniformly throughout the single marketing area, and would be keyed to fluid milk (Class I) utilization for the whole market for the same month of the preceding year.

The existing price structures in the separate orders would be modified to provide the fluid-use (Class I) price to handlers located in each of the principal population centers in the area.

The uniform price to producers would be announced on the 11th day of the month, one day after handlers' reports are due. Partial payments would be made the third day after the end of the month for milk received the first 15 days of the month. Final payment would be on the 18th day after the end of the month.

Copies of the recommended decision may be obtained from the market administrators of the orders, or from the Dairy division, Agricultural Marketing service, U.S. Department of agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Local 40 et 8 Gives Nursing Scholarships

Registered nurse training assistance is one of the projects that the 40 et 8 supports on a national basis. Voiture 737 of the 40 et 8 which covers Pennington and Red Lake counties awards three $300 scholarships each year to students enrolled in a course of instruction leading to an R.N. degree, according to L.W. Larson, Red Lake Falls, chairman of the 40 et 8 nursing scholarship committee.

Awards in 1975 went to Joyce Feragen of Thief River Falls, who is attending St. Cloud school of nursing; Diane Czech of Red Lake Falls, attending Mankato state university school of nursing; and Janet Berry of Grygla, attending Nebraska Methodist hospital school of nursing.

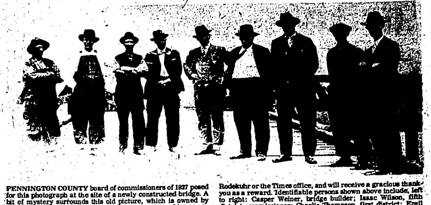
Volume 64 | Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota | Wednesday, November 26, 1975 | Number 93



PENNINGTON COUNTY board of commissioners of 1927 posed for this photograph at the site of a newly constructed bridge. A bit of mystery surrounds this old picture, which is owned by Oscar Houske of Thief River Falls. No one contacted by county auditor C.W. Rodekuhr knew where this bridge was located, or who the man standing second from right is. Any person in possession of this knowledge is invited to contact either Rodekuhr or the Times office, and will receive a gracious thank-you as a reward. Identifiable persons shown above include, left to right: Casper Weiner, bridge builder; Isaac Wilson, fifth district commissioner; Charlie Thompson, first district; Emil Larson, third district; T.P. Anderson, county auditor; J.S. Roy, fourth district; Andrew Ness, second district; and (far right) H.O. Berve, county attorney.

School Board Accepts Arbitrator's Decision

Acceptance of an arbitrator's decision requiring payment of step increments to teachers employed under the 1974-75 salary schedule (including retro-active payment) and ratification of an agreement with the Teamsters union occupied much of the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls board of education Monday evening.

The arbitrator's decision was given following a grievance filed locally and involves only the increments on the salary schedule in effect for the 1974-75 school year, as applied to the current teaching year. No arbitration hearing has been held as yet on the 1975-76 and 1976-77 teacher contract. The board reaffirmed at last night's meeting that it does not intend to reopen negotiations on the new contract but will await a decision by the recently-selected panel of three arbitrators.

The Teamsters union settlement involves an agreement covering secretaries, bus drivers, custodians, cooks and maintenance personnel. Although the contract agreement is for two years, the salary settlement is for only one year of the contract.

Major changes in the Teamsters contract in addition to salary increases are inclusion of personal leave for regular employees; permitting bus drivers with morning and evening runs, kindergarten routes and late bus routes to qualify for fringe benefits; increasing participation in family plan health insurance from $30 to $35; and addition of $50 per year to salaries of cooks who hold certificates from the state department of education.

Hourly rates for bus drivers under the 1975-76 schedule will increase from $3.43 to $3.65 for first year drivers and advance to a maximum of $4.36 (last year's maximum was $3.92) and will advance to $4.36 after four years (up from $4.06).

Mechanics will start at $3.54 per hour (up from $3.24) and advance to $4.63 (up from $4.33) after four years. Food service workers will start at $2.55 (up from $2.20) per hour and advance to $3.07 (up from $2.72) after four years of experience.

Class III secretaries will start at $2.80 per hour (up from $2.40) and move to $3.40 (up from $3) after four years. Class IV secretaries will start at $2.51 and advance to $2.95 after four years (present rates are $2.11 and $2.55).

Additional compensation is given to lead men in the custodian category, foremen in the mechanics category and head cooks in the food service category.

Adopted unanimously by the board, the resolution on the teacher grievance decision stated the following: "Resolved, that increments and lane changes should be paid and the board shall grant all benefits earned and acquired while the 1974-75 contract was in force, until modified by negotiations, mediations or arbitrations."

Supt. William Corliss said that retroactive pay to teachers and employees covered by the Teamsters union contract will be paid prior to the Christmas vacation period.

In other action Monday night dealing with personnel salaries, the board granted increases to supervisory and confidential employees who are not covered under bargaining groups. These positions, raises and adjustments, and 1975-76 salaries, respectively, include the following:

Business manager, $1,500 raise (plus $500 adjustment) to $18,000; personnel clerk, $500 to $9,500; superintendent's secretary, $860 (plus $700 adjustment) to $7,280; buildings and grounds supervisor, $1,000 to $13,000; transportation supervisor, $1,000 to $13,000; food service supervisor, $640 to $8,640; accounts payable clerk, $603.20 to $7,176; and payroll clerk, $457.60 to $7,176.

Extra-curricular assignments approved Monday evening were James Gunstad, Lincoln high school boys' curling supervisor, and Everett Marshall, Lincoln high school one-act play director.

Marilyn Sonnenberg was employed as clerical aide at Knox elementary school and Barbara Larson was transferred from AVTI receptionist-secretary to AVTI accounting secretary, effective when a suitable replacement is hired.

JoAnn Myers was hired as a kitchen helper at Knox school as a replacement and James Gunstad and Harold Halvorson (school bus drivers) were approved as responsible for reporting of inclement weather conditions from December through March. The additional assignment for the bus drivers is to be reimbursed at $15 per month.

Authorization was given for the administration to advertise for bids for general school and office supplies and equipment for the 1976-77 school year.

A curling program for the 1975-76 school year was also approved with payments of $1,250 for physical education

TWO VEHICLE CRASH at about 8:30 a.m. today about 12 miles west of St. Hilaire on SAR 3 resulted in the death of a Grand Forks, N.D., man, John Arthur Rustvold, 35. Rustvold reportedly commuted from Grand Forks to work in the accounting department of Arctic Enterprises here. According to the Pennington county sheriff's department report, the Rustvold car was traveling east on SAR 3 when struck on the left side by a pickup truck, driven south on county road 10 by Arthur Armstrong of rural Thief River Falls. Impact spun the pickup around, leaving it facing north on the south side of the intersection. The Rustvold car continued east through the south ditch and stopped on the edge of a plowed field. Both drivers were alone in their vehicles and Armstrong was apparently uninjured. There were no obstructions at the intersection, the roadway was dry and SAR 3 is protected by a stop sign on the county road.

City Helps To Hire Senior Meals Head

Based on action taken at the regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday evening in the city auditorium council chambers, the city will contribute to the cost of hiring a site manager for the new senior meals and activities program which started November 10 at Northwestern hospital.

Linda Carlson of the city was hired for the position by the hospital under a recommendation by Susan D. Abbott, program director. CETA has agreed to provide 60 per cent of her base salary expense for the first 40 weeks of her employment from November 11, 1975 to Aug. 14, 1976. The city will provide the balance of the cost during this period.

In dollars, the CETA contract payments will total $3,002.40 and the city will pay $2,752.20. The city is entering into the agreement on a pilot program basis, and will reconsider its participation in the program when the CETA contract expires.

The city also passed a resolution agreeing to contract for the services of municipal Ordinance Codifiers of Minneapolis at a sum of $8,950 to revise, rearrange and codify the city ordinances with such additions and deletions necessary in order to provide a workable and current city code. The firm's codifier will work in association with city attorney Robert Wurst and city clerk-treasurer Gerald Wigness.

The council approved three parking changes requested by chief of police ,Kenneth Froschheiser. Parking will now be permitted in what was formerly a no parking area on Spruce avenue S., north of Mark Twain school, to allow additional spaces in a closer proximity to the school. Froschheiser's second request was that the two-hour parking zone be reinstated on Zeh street between Knight and Main avenues.

Also approved was a plan for a no parking area at the front of the sports arena to permit a passenger pick-up and drop-off area to be formed City officials felt that parking congestion near the front of the arena could block the passage of emergency vehicles entering and leaving the arena lot.

Recommendations from the council tax and assessments committee were approved. The committee recommended that Mel Carlson's request for an adjustment on a $1,380 assessment on lot seven be denied and that a water assessment to Ed Langlie be adjusted from $480 to $100.

The third item of discussion by the tax and assessment committee involved a request by Robert Ohlhauser for reconsideration of a $3,809 assessment for water and sewer on his property on lot 12, north of the A & W drive-in on highway 59. The committee recommended that his water assessment be deferred, but that his $2,753 sewer assessment be levied. The park and recreation board had previously rejected Ohlhauser's proposal for development of a portion of his property into a city park.

Plan Benefit For Sonnenberg Family Dec. 6

To assist in the payment of medical expenses for the DuWayne Sonnenberg family of rural Thief River Falls, Aid Association for Lutherans branches of Goodridge and Thief River Falls will hold a benefit chili supper December 7 at St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Sonnenberg, whose infant child died after extensive surgery and hospitalization, have incurred large medical and hospital expenses. The benefit supper will be served from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at a cost of $1.50 for adults, $1 for children and a maximum of $6 per family.

Set Pennington Co. Township Officers Meet

Annual meeting of the Pennington county township officers association will be held on Friday at 8 p.m. at the Pennington county courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls.

Ervin Strandquist of Newfolden, president of the state association of township officers, will be guest speaker.

Skaar, Olsons Attend SWCD Annual Meet

Leonard Skaar, supervisor of Pennington county soil and water conservation districts, and conservation farm winners Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson, will attend the state convention in Marshall Sunday.

As state association president, Skaar will call the meeting to order for the approximately 400 participants on Sunday afternoon.

Directors of Minnesota's 92 soil and water conservation districts will hold the 39th annual convention of the Minnesota association of soil and water conservation districts in Marshall November 30 through December 2. Theme of the convention is "Proper Land Use Is Our Primary Goal: 1776—1976."

Featured speakers will include Congressman Richard Nolan, of Minnesota's sixth district; Harry M. Major, state conservationist, U.S. soil conservation service; and Robert Hansen, executive director, legislative commission on Minnesota resources.

Soil and water conservation districts are organized under state law to assist landowners in managing their land and conserving their resources. The districts are managed by an elected, unsalaried board of local citizens.

Fiddlers Ball December 6th At Newfolden

Newfolden Bicentennial commission is sponsoring a fiddlers ball to be held Saturday, December 6, at 8 p.m. at the elementary school in Newfolden.

Area fiddlers are invited to take part in supplying the music for the evening, with or without their own accompanist. Accompanists will be furnished by the committee for those who wish. Good sound equipment is being provided. Tickets are $1.

Anyone with questions may contact Ernest Nelson or Omer Broten of Newfolden or Harvey Engen of Viking.

SOMETHING NEW has been added at the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute. A piano has been contributed to the school and placed in the cafeteria area where it will be available for student use. Mrs. Henry Bothman donated the piano which was purchased with money received as memorials to her late husband, a long-time instructor at the AVTI. She is shown at the piano with Kathy Kohler of Thief River Falls, one of a number of AVTI students who are also pianists.

Income Tax Management Meet Dec. 9

An income tax management meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. on December 9 at the State Bank of Warren basement meeting room, according to Charles D. Peterson, county agent.

Dr. Earl Fuller, extension economist in farm management, University of Minnesota, St. Paul and Bill Penning, area extension agent, farm management, Thief River Falls, will be on hand to discuss the following: The farm income tax; what constitutes income; gift provisions in tax laws; and depreciation schedule.

Computerized forms will be available for tax planning purposes of the 1975 taxable income.

Myra Sabo Weds Larry Garriot; Reception set

PFC Myra Marie Sabo, daughter of Mrs. Mardella Sabo of Thief River Falls, became the bride of Spec 4 Larry Wayne Garriot, son of Mrs. Donna Wehby of Nashville, Tenn., and James Garriot of Louisville, Ky., on Friday, November 7.

The couple was married at a double ring ceremony with only close relatives attending. Rev. J. W. Farmer of the First Baptist church in Carrollton, Ky., officiated.

Both the bride and groom are in the U.S. Army. The bride is a generator operator and mechanic and the groom is a radio teletype operator. They are stationed at Emery-Kasern in Wurzburg, Germany.

A supper and reception for the newly-weds will be held in Thief River Falls on November 28, beginning at 6:30 p.m., at Noper's Fireside room. All friends and relatives are invited. No invitations have been sent.

Ragvold Aakers To Note Their 24th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ragvold Aaker of St. Hilaire will be honored at an open house on Sunday in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The open house will be held at the Evangelical Covenant church in Thief River Falls. Hours will be from 2 to 5 p.m.

The couple's children, Mary and David, are hosting the event. They invite all friends and relatives to attend. No invitations are being sent.

Waller-Peterson Vows Spoken In St. Louis Park

Miss Marlene Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland E. Waller of Fridley and formerly of this city, and Ordean Peterson, son of Mrs. Ruth Peterson of Thief River Falls, exchanged marriage vows recently at Park Assembly of God church in St. Louis Park.

Rev. Ed Hollen officiated at the early afternoon double ring ceremony. At the organ was Betty Embertson, a friend of the couple. Dan Olson, also a friend of the couple, sang, "Let Us Climb the Hill Together," "Time in a Bottle," and "Wedding Prayer."

For the ceremony, the chancel was graced with candelabrum on each side of the altar. Before the cross were two brass candlesticks and a large floral arrangement.

The bride was excorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a floor-length gown of ivory peau de ange styled with a chapel-length train. Antique lace formed the yoke, edged with a ruffle, the deep cuffs on her sheer, fitted sleeves and the 14 inch flounce that encircled her skirt. At the empire waistline was a cummerbund with a soft bow. Her chapel-length veil, edged with lace, fell from a Juliet styled headpiece complemented by fresh, white roses, daisies and carnations. She carried a colonial bouquet of roses, carnations, daisies and babies' breath, in pastel colors.

Elaine Sochor of Minneapolis, a friend of the couple, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Marcia Methusalem of Thief River Falls, a friend of the bride, and Cheryl Veth of Nassau, Bahamas, a sister of the bride. Their identical gowns of yellow and white gingham check with tiny pink flowers, were styled in empire fashion with square necklines and short puffy sleeves. Creating interest were three rows of large ruffles with lace trim, encircling the bottom of their skirts. To accent their attire, they wore white garden hats with yellow ribbon and flowers tied in a bow. Each carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and pink daisies with yellow roses.

Wearing similar attire was Melissa Elie of Minneapolis, a cousin of the bride, who served as flower girl.

Best man was Mark Boone of Minneapolis, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Mike Schroeder of Vancouver, British Columbia, and Dan Remus of Minneapolis. Serving as ushers were Mike Engen of Thief River Falls and Tom Holland of Minneapolis. All are friends of the bride and groom. For their attire, they chose dark green tuxedos with mint green shirts and white carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a yellow rose with stephanotis and babies' breath.

The mother of the bride wore a pink, short sleeve, floor-length, A-line gown complemented by a corsage of pink roses. The mother of the groom was attired in an aqua floor-length gown with long, sheer sleeves. Her corsage was composed of aqua carnations and pink roses.

Special guests at the ceremony were Mrs. Ida Smith and Mrs. Lora Waller, grandmothers of the bride.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony. Host and hostess were Ernie and Phyllis Fitzlaff, brother-in-law and sister of the groom. Lexi Fredricks, a friend of the couple, presided at the guest book. Punch was served by Geri Peterson and Phyllis Fitzlaff, sisters of the groom. The two-tiered chocolate wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with yellow and pink roses, was cut and served by Darlene Houston, a sister of the groom. Connie Jarvinsivu, a sister of the bride, and Ruby Ohnstad, a sister of the groom, poured.

Following a wedding trip to Duluth and along the North Shore drive, the couple is now at home at 2700 Rhode Island avenue South, Apartment 228, Minneapolis. Both the bride and groom attended school in Thief River Falls and are 1973 graduates of Lincoln high school. The bride is employed by Lufkin Medical laboratory in Minneapolis, and the groom is employed in St. Louis Park by N.A.P.A. Genuine Parts company. Photo, John Riddle, Minneapolis.

25th Anniversary Is Noted By The Vernon Philipps

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Philipp were guests of honor at a family supper on Saturday night, October 11 at the American Legion club. The event was in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. The couple was married October 22, 1950.

Present at the supper were the Philipps' children: Mr. and Mrs. Daryl (Paulette) Augustine of Star Prairie, Wis., Mr and Mrs. Joe Philipp, of Goodridge, Dale Philipp and Mike Philipp.

Also present were Wendy Burtness, Mrs. Philipp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mead of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Philipp's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Peters of Viking.

The following day, the children hosted an anniversary observance at the Philipp home. Centering the serving table was a two-tiered anniversary cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Roger Swanson. The cake was decorated with green and white roses and topped with a 25th anniversary symbol accented by white doves. On either side of the cake were silver candles in silver holders.

Those present, in addition to those that attended the Saturday night supper were Derek Augustine, the couple's only grandchild; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Philipp, who were attendants at the wedding 25 years ago; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Blazina of Thunderbay, Ontario, Canada, Mrs. Martha Burtness, Rosalind Burtness, Mr. and Mrs. Marlan Augustine, Paula and Nancy Jo Peters, Mrs. Ernest Morben, Mrs. Obert Morben, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Philipp and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Philipp.

Sending gifts in observance of the event were Miss Bert Phillips of Oakland, Calif., and Mrs. Edna McFarland of Wenatchee, Wash., Philipp's aunt and sister; Mr. and Mrs. Dayle Kainz and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nelson.

For the occasion, Mrs. Phillip wore a floor-length gown styled with a gracefully flared beige skirt topped by a sleeveless brown bodice trimmed with beige braid. Her corsage was a double white orchid. Philipp's boutonniere was a white carnation.

BPW Club Help Set Up College Course

Thief River Falls Business and Professional Women's club will assist Northland Community college in setting up the course, "Women In Management," to be given at the college in the spring.

The decision to assist in this project was made at the meeting of the club held November 18 at the Elks club. Al Nichols, instructor at the college, presented information on the course, using tapes and slides.

Joyce Peterson, member of the Christmas decorating contest together with Doris VeVea and Wanda Schuster, gave a progress report on the contest. She stated that the contest was limited to non-lighted decrations and that judging would be made during daylight hours on December 20. Judging will be in two categories: the traditional, and the Bicentennial. She concluded by saying that entry blanks, found in the Times, are to be mailed to the Chamber of Commerce by December 10.

Reports on several other activities were also given. Myrt Wilson reported on the membership drive for the Northern Blood bank, sponsored again by the local BPW club. She stated that 106 new members had been obtained at the centers held at Northland Community college and at the City Auditorium. Clarice Collins reported on the observance of BPW week, stating that the luncheon for working girls was a success. Over 300 attended the luncheon.

The meeting also included a membership presentation by Clarice Galliher, financial report by Elaine Lendobeja and the secretary's report by Carole Gates.

Eight guests attended the meeting. They were Arlene Novak, Barb Natvick, Barb Larson, JoAnne Anderson, Darlene Pladson, Renae Wold, Jan Mark and Pat Meglich.

Viking Town And Country Christmas Party Is Set

Viking Town and Country garden club Christmas party will be held December 3 at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Peterson. The event is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m.

A pot-luck lunch will be served.

Members are also reminded that dues will be paid at this meeting.

Bonnie Markstrom And Jim Elleson Are Wed

Arrangements of white daisies and peach colored carnations graced the chancel at Trinity Lutheran church for the wedding of Miss Bonnie Markstrom and Jimm Elleson, both of this city.

The double ring ceremony took place on September 13, at 2 p.m., at Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Berton Hushagen officiated. Kristi Hendrickson, a friend of the couple, was the organist, playing "For All We Know," as the processional. The bride's fellow members of The Crackerjacks, a group of girls directed by John Hustad, sang, "We've Only Just Begun," and "The Wedding Song."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Markstrom of this city. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. William Elleson of Crookston and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Manning of this city.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in an ivory eyelet gown designed and sewn by Sue Wysoski. The gown was trimmed with needlepoint lace. It was fashioned with an empire bodice, square neckline, long sleeves, and a gracefully gathered tiered skirt. Her ivory veil of bridal illusion fell from a coordinating headpiece, accented by needlepoint lace and miniature pearls, also designed and made by Sue Wysoski. The bride carried a large colonial bouquet of white daisies and babies' breath, complemented by peach carnations.

Janet Williams attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Becky Svir and Sue Wysoski. All are friends of the couple. They wore identical floor-length, halter styled gowns of a peach floral nylon with ruffles at the neckline and around the bottom of the skirt. Their jewelry consisted of bracelets worn above the elbow. All the attendants carried bouquets of peach colored carnations interspersed with babies' breath.

Attending the groom as best man was Tom Barry of Thief River Falls, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Murray Melander, friend of the couple, and Jon Markstrom, brother of the bride. Serving as ushers were Greg Leach, Jerry Sandahl and Jeff Tunberg, friends of the couple. All the men of the wedding party were attired in dark brown tuxedos with ivory ruffled shirts and peach carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Markstrom selected a floor-length gown of a beige homespun floral pattern, accented by silver jewelry and silver shoes. Her corsage was of white daisies and peach carnations. A similar corsage was worn by the groom's mother, who was attired in a floor-length gown of a multicolored floral print topped by a harmonizing aqua jacket.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors for approximately 200 relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ihle of Grand Forks, N.D., brother-in-law and sister of the groom, served as host and hostess. At the guest book was Mrs. Lee Simmons of Moorhead, sister of the groom. Becky Torfin and Dee Ann Hoganson, friends of the bride, served the punch.

Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake, made and decorated by Marie Graham. The cake was topped by a wedding bell ornament and surrounded at the base by white daisies. Mrs. Leslie Olson of this city, a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Harold Swanson, aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake. Pouring coffee were Genny Goulet and Pam Burstad, friends of the bride. Waitresses were Teresa Munt, Lucy Jorde, Polly Bulger, Michelle Lasha and Jani Swanson. Marcie Madunich was the bride's personal attendant.

The couple is at home at 513 South Markley. The bride is attending Lincoln high school and the groom is enrolled at Northland Community college. Photo, Lund Studio, Roseau.

Urge Drivers To Ready Cars For Winter

Minnesota department of public safety commissioner Edward G. Novak recently reminded state motorists that there is little to be gained, and perhaps even a bit to lose, by postponing the winter automobile maintenance that is vital to safe and comfortable travel during the cold winter months ahead.

"Snow and extreme cold are taxing to all of a vehicle's systems," Novak said, "and it is a foolish person who doesn't see to his winter driving needs early. A driver can save time and money, as well as avoid frustration, by taking care of these needs now, before the first severe weather when service stations are glutted with motorists who waited too long."

Fuel economy also comes into play, according to Novak, and this is where a driver may actually end up losing money by delaying maintenance on his automobile. The tune-up that a driver has now will start saving money right away.

In addition to a regular winter "tune-up", Novak offered the following tips to insure that a car is safe and ready for the rough winter driving months ahead:

Battery power goes way down in cold weather. Don't take it for granted that your present one will last another winter. Have it checked and replaced if it is old or holds only a light charge.

Good brakes are a must for winter driving. Even a slight pull to one side can send you into a skid on ice or packed snow.

Put your snow tires on before the first snowfall and check your front tires for wear and damage. Metal studs are no longer legal in Minnesota, but motorists will find that for the really tough going, nothing beats reinforced tire chains. If you have radial tires on your car, buy radial snow tires for the winter. Mixing tires of a different construction, such as bias or bias belted, can adversely affect the handling characteristics of your car.

Carbon monoxide kills without warning. Have your entire exhaust system checked for leaks. Maximum visibility is a number one priority every time you drive. Worn wiper blades should be replaced and wiper arm tension should be adjusted. Driving with frost covered windows is dangerous and against the law, so make sure your defroster is working well and carry an ice scraper.

School Board Accepts Order By Arbitrator

and $300 each for boys' and girls' inter-scholastic curling to be made to the Thief River Falls curling club. Bids will also be received for a wrestling mat to be used at Lincoln high school.

The board also entered into an agreement with the city of Thief River Falls for the use of the old and new arena and baseball field for an annual fee of $20,000. The figure is an increase of $1,500 from last year.

Hourly rates and fringe benefits for seven CETA employees were adjusted to the new minimum rate paid for training as of July 1, 1975. The rates range from $2.51 to $3.82 per hour.

Adjustments were also made for part-time and hourly employees with new rates being as follows: District aides, $2.21; senior high guidance aide, $2.32; support of service aide, $2.43; and athletic aide, $2.50; student cafeteria help, $2.20; substitute teachers with degree, $32.50 full day or $18.65 half day and without degree $23.50 full day and $14.50 half day;

Also pool supervisor, $4.05; lifeguards, $2.30; locker room attendants, $2.20; ice rink attendants, $2.20; ticket takers, $45 per month; nurse assistant, $3.56; secondary technician, $2.90; substitute cooks, $2.55; substitute bus drivers, $3.65; substitute custodians, $3.82; substitute mechanics, $3.54 to $4.63; and substitute secretaries, $2.46.

Farm management secretaries (hired under the local program at Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes, Hawley, Fosston, Fertile, Climax, Barnesville and Pelican Rapids) range from $2.32 to $3.21.

License Plates Due By Jan. 10

Owners of trucks, trailers, motorcycles and recreational vehicles in the state have until Jan. 10, 1976 to complete their registration without penalty. After January 10, a $2.50 late fee is tacked on to the regular registration fee.

Broughton Is Sentenced On Trespass Plea

After pleading guilty to a charge of trespass in Pennington county district court October 22, Bradley J. Broughton of Thief River Falls was ordered to pay a $300 fine and serve 90 days in the county jail at Roseau. He is presently serving the sentence imposed and was given a period of nine months to pay the $300 fine.

Broughton was charged with burglary at his arraignment before the court on September 13 but pleaded guilty to the lesser charge at his hearing October 22. Terms of the sentencing allowed him to serve the jail sentence under the Huber law if employment could be found in the Roseau area. He was also given credit for nine days served in jail prior to sentencing.

Jorgenson Is Cited For CD Flood Efforts

Pennington county civil defense director Ellsworth Jorgenson has been commended for his role in the 1975 June floods by division of emergency services director Wes Lane.

The award was presented at a state seminar of county civil defense directors at the Marriott Inn in Bloomington.

In presenting the award, Lane cited Jorgenson for continued dedication in preventing damage to public and private property during the heavy rainfall last June.

Raymond H. Pederson, 57, Dies In Oregon

Raymond H. Pederson, 57, of 751 Ivy Avenue, Eugene, Ore., and formerly of this community, died Monday, November 3.

Funeral services for Raymond Pederson were held November 5 in the Chapel of Memories Funeral home in Eugene. Rev. Bruce Engebretson, pastor of the Bethesda Lutheran church, officiated. Interment was in the West Lawn Memorial park cemetery.

Raymond H. Pederson was born April 1, 1918 in New Solum township, Marshall county. On May 10, 1945, he was married in Thief River Falls to Norma Blomberg. After their marriage, the couple made their home here for a number of years. Pederson was employed by the L. B. Hartz Wholesale until moving to Eugene, Ore., where they have since made their home.

He was a member of the Eugene Teamsters union and the Thief River Falls Eagles lodge.

Surviving are his wife, two sons: Mark and Michael Pederson; one daughter, Mrs. Randy (Lana) Rowe, and a grandson, Jeffery Rowe, all of Eugene, Ore.

Also surviving are two brothers: Kenneth Pederson of Thief River Falls and Earl of Grand Forks, N.D., and five sisters: Mrs. Harvey (Loretta) Helle and Mrs. Richard (Dorothy) LeMoine, both of Thief River Falls, Irene Hanson of Moorhead, Mrs. Percy (Mildred) Hanson of Grand Forks, and Mrs. Donald (Irma) Rentch of Lakewood, Calif.

Attending the services from this area were Mrs. Harvey Helle and Mrs. Kenneth Pederson of Thief River Falls, Earl Pederson of Grand Forks and Irene Hanson of Moorhead.

Cathy Lineberry Is Honored At Bridal Shower

Miss Cathy Lineberry was guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower on Friday, November 21, hosted by Mrs. Munro Poole and Mrs. Larry Poole.

The bride-to-be was presented with a corsage of red and pink roses. Centering the serving table was a cake, iced in white and decorated with red flowers with green foliage. Topping the cake were a miniature bride and groom sitting on a love seat.

Present at the shower were the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Carole Lawson, Mrs. Elmer Poole, Mrs. Margaret Dale, Lonnie Cummings, Stacy Cummings, Mrs. Harold Dupree, Mrs. Ron Ostby, Dena Poole and Kim Poole.

Sending gifts but unable to attend were Mrs. Mike Poole, Mrs. Leonard Helgeland, Mrs. Bob Ingersoll, Mrs. Elton Cummings, Mrs. Harold Van de Streek, Mrs. Bob Lundbohm, Mrs. Orville Dahl and Mrs. Orville Joppru.

Miss Lineberry will become the bride of Bill Poole on Saturday, December 20, at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic church in Plummer.

Legion Aux. Meeting And Yule Party Slated

American Legion auxiliary will meet Monday at 8 p.m., at the club rooms.

Activities will include the unit's annual Christmas party with an exchange of gifts not to exceed $2. Those who do not wish to participate in a gift exchange may give a donation towards any auxiliary project.

All members are encouraged to attend and are asked to bring a few Christmas goodies for the lunch that will follow the meeting.

A supper at 7 p.m., with members of the Post, will precede the meeting.

In an effort to increase attendance at meetings, members are asked to contact friends and neighbors, who are members but who do not attend, and encourage their participation in auxiliary activities.

Minn. CLRS Makes Survey On Pig Total

"Where are we now in hog and pig production?" is the question the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service, headed by David N. Taylor, will try to answer when it conducts the quarterly hog and pig survey during the last week of November and the first week of December.

Some 1,700 Minnesota farmers will receive a hog and pig inquiry asking them questions about current inventory numbers, previous quarter's farrowings and their intended farrowings during the next six months. The answer received to these questions will be the basis for setting the estimates for Minnesota's $481 million hog and pig industry.

All farmers receiving a questionnaire are asked to return it promptly. A zero report is as important as one with several hundred hogs. The individual report is confidential and used only to make state and national estimates. The hog and pig report will be released at 3 p.m., EST, on December 22.

Celebrate 80th Birthdays

The ladies aid of the Alma Lutheran church held their regular monthly meeting and business meeting on Wednesday afternoon and at this meeting Mrs. Alvin Broten and Mrs. Ole Bustrack were honored guests having had their 80th birthdays. They were presented with corsages and a gift from the ladies aid, as well as many other cards and gifts. The program included devotions by Mrs. Leslie Dahl and two duets rendered by Mrs. Sanford Baagus and Mrs. Lawrence Jergenson. Readings were given by Mrs. Peter Moe and two poems were read by Mrs. Ella Peterson of Warren. Mrs. Broten's daughter Mrs. Ragner Stanghelle of Warren gave a tribute to her mother and reminisced of times of her childhood. She presented her mother a crysanthemum plant. Then she led the group in the singing of "Over the River and Through the Woods".

A lovely luncheon was served which included a birthday cake baked by Mrs. Sanford Baagas. The decorations for the event carried out the Thanksgiving theme.

Fire Destroys

Early Friday morning a fire broke out in the temporary dwelling of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Foss and family, which burned all of their furniture and personal belongings. Both Mr. and Mrs. Foss sustained burns, but were able to get their two children a girl of six and a boy of four years old out safely. The Foss's have been in the process of building a new log home and were temporarily living in the garage near by. The children have been staying with their grandparents and Mr. and Mrs. Foss have been staying with neighbors since the fire.

House Warming

Wednesday evening a group of neighbors gathered at the Laverne Johnsons for a house warming party. The Johnsons were presented with a gift. The evening was spent playing cards followed by a pot luck lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewayne Gustafson of East Grand Forks were supper guests at the Clarence Gustafson home Saturday evening.

Mrs. Melvin Grandstrand Notes Birthday

Mrs. Melvin Grandstrand was honored on her birthday when coming to help her celebrate Wednesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Grandstrand and Darrin, Mr. and Mrs. Micheal Kasprowicz and Mathew of Karlstad, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Sinn and girls of Thief River Falls. Her daughter Mrs. Sinn brought her a beautiful decorated birthday cake which was served with the birthday luncheon.

Mark Halvorson Celebrates Birthday

Mark son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Halvorson was honored on his birthday Simday when dinner guests at his home were Mr. and Mrs. Davin Halvorson and Mandi of Thief River Falls. In the afternoon Mrs. Gene Halvorson brought a decorated birthday cake over to Mark's grandmothers, Mrs. Hannah Halvorsons and a supper was served in honor of Marks birthday. Guests were Tricia Halvorson, Mr. and Mrs. Davin Halvorson and Mandi of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Gene Halvorson, Mark, Tamie and Nancy.

8 Auto Mishaps In City Cause Heavy Damage

Eight automobile accidents in Thief River Falls within the last week caused one car to be totaled, an estimated $3,425 damage to other vehicles and injuries to one pedestrian.

In the first of two accidents Monday, November 18, Cora Grendahl of Thief River Falls was traveling west in the 100 block of Third street at 2:55 p.m. when she struck the door of a parked car which was suddenly opened by its driver, James F. Bernauer of the city. Damages were estimated at $100 to each car.

Between 4:15 and 4:30 p.m. Dora Jesch of the city was walking across the intersection on the 200 block of east Eighth street when she was struck by a medium size, dark blue car driven by a female with brown hair and glasses. The car, which had come from the north and turned right, continued west on Eighth street, leaving Dora Jesch with a bruised leg.

In the first of two accidents Wednesday afternoon (Nov. 19), Harry Simons Sr. of Thief River Falls pulled into the Main avenue intersection from Second street stop sign at 12:07 p.m. and was struck by a vehicle driven by Kenneth Poole of the city, causing the Simons car to spin around and strike a vehicle driven by Steve Larson of the city, which had stopped on Second street facing west. Damages were estimated at $200 to the Simons car and $150 to the Poole car. The Larson vehicle, owned by Lee Plumbing, was not damaged.

At 4:40 p.m., Louis Cerny of the city was traveling west on highway 59 when he stopped to make a left turn into Dale avenue and was struck from behind by a car driven by Lynette Collins of Newfolden. Estimated damages were $800 to the Cerny car and $400 to the Collins vehicle.

Two accidents were reported within an hour of each other Thursday. At 3:25 p.m., Marlys Hruby of Goodridge was driving north on Markley avenue and Steven Michaelson of Holt was traveling east on Gulf street when their cars collided in the intersection, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Hruby car and $300 to the Michaelson vehicle.

Mrs. Arnold Lee of the city was traveling north on Horace avenue at 3:57 p.m. when her car slid on ice on the 600 block and struck a parked vehicle owned by Geraldine Sabol, TRF, and totaled it. Damages were estimated at $600 to the Lee car.

Friday at 8:20 a.m., Mrs. Richard A. Olson was driving east on Tenth street when she tried to stop at the LaBree avenue stop sign, slid and struck a school bus turning west from LaBree. Francis Vaudrin of the city was the driver of the bus. Estimated damages were $150 to the Olson car and $75 to the bus.

Wallace Sjaaheim of the city reported that while his car was parked in the American Legion lot between 7 and 9:30 p.m. Friday, it was struck by a blue-colored vehicle, causing an estimated $250 damage.

In other matters, the post office reported Tuesday, November 18 that mail had been taken from a box on 933 Arnold av. north November 10.

Gregory Tabor of Northland Manor told police Wednesday, November 19 that the door to his apartment had been vandalized. There were scuff marks on the door and it had been pulled from its hinges.

Red Owl store apprehended Guida Solheim, 73, of the city Thursday for allegedly shoplifting $2.91 worth of food items. The same day, D & H market apprehended Jacqueline Kostrzewski, 20, of the city for allegedly shoplifting $1.50 worth of groceries.

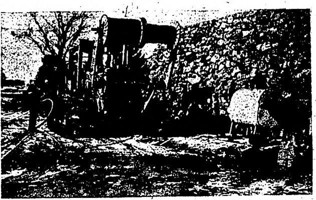
Also on Thursday, an officer on-duty reported seeing the window to Ace Hardware store broken at 3:25 a.m. Pliers were found in the area, and vandalism is suspected.

In one of three incidents reported Saturday, a local store apprehended a female juvenile, 11, for allegedly taking a record valued at $1.04. Upon further investigation, two other female juveniles admitted taking candy items from various stores in the past.

Peter Efteland of the city told police that his house had been broken into while he was away, causing $10 damage to the door. Nothing was believed taken in the incident, which is believed to have occurred between 1 and 2:30 p.m. Agda Klinke of the city said her home had been entered between 9 and 11 p.m. and a coffee table, two bedstands, and some figurines were broken, causing $120 damage.

Sunday, Jim Lambert of the city reported that during the last week the windshield of his car was shot with an air rifle.

Monday, Melvin Ernst of Northland Village said that his car was stolen at 10:50 a.m. It was later found to have been mistakenly taken to a garage for service.



PUBLIC SERVICE work was accomplished by Northwestern Bell telephone company crews from Thief River Falls late last week at the Pennington Pioneer village, established by the Pennington county historical society. The crews installed plastic pipe for natural gas service and included a tracer wire so that the line can be located if necessary at a later date. The company has also done other work on the site without charge to the historical society.

4-Hers Given Certificates Of Graduation

Graduation certificates were recently awarded to eight Pennington county 4-H members. Eligibility is based on graduation from high school or having reached the age of 19. All of the 4-H members who received graduation certificates have been very active in their 4-H clubs.

Those who received graduation certificates are: Barbara Holmstrom and Barbara Bauer, New Solum 4-H club, both 4-H members for nine years; Lee Wold, Satellite 4-H, a member for nine years; Judy Mosbeck, a member for nine years and Marya Hallstrom, a member for 10 years, both from Black River 4-H; and Sherry Solseng and Karen Koop, members for nine years and Marsha Adamson, a member for 10 years, all from City View 4-H.

Potato Board Election Meet Slated Dec. 11

A combined nominating convention and election meeting to fill one of Minnesota's three positions on the National potato promotion board will be held at Stephen on December 11, it was announced recently by the Minnesota department of agriculture.

All commercial growers who produce at least five acres of potatoes are eligible to participate in the selection of the successor to the expiring three-year term of Larry Bogestad of Donaldson.

The combined sessions will be held at the municipal water filtration plant in Stephen. Dr. Rollin M. Dennistoun, department administrator who will supervise the election, is scheduled to convene the meeting at 1:30 p.m.

Minnesota's holdover members of the National potato promotion board are Cornie Mullenberg, of Hollandale for two more years and Ralph Mathew, Jr. of Barnesville for one more year.

Representation of the national board is allocated according to the volume of production. Minnesota is entitled to three members because it has maintained an average of more than 12.5 million hundredweight of potato production annually for the past three years. Minnesota is the nation's seventh highest potato producing state.

While they are eligible to participate in the determinations, commercial potato producers who have exercised the assessment refund privilege are ineligible under the federal regulations for nomination or election to the National potato promotion board.

FU Head Says Farmers Will Take Control

Speaking Monday evening, Carpenter emphasized, "For several years now, many have been asking who will control agriculture. Tonight, I am saying that we are no longer asking, we are declaring that farmers will control agriculture. Farm families of this land, their cooperatives and their rural communities will control agriculture. We will control agriculture because we are entitled to it."

That declaration of entitlement, according to Carpenter, includes the right of farmers to control the land "because of our record of stewardship and care for the soil is the best in the world."

Carpenter said, "Farmers also have the right to give direction to agriculture, to have a stronger and more effective voice in agri-business, and to an equitable share in the benefit and rewards from agricultural production.

"It is our goal to share with others the fruits of our entitlement. Farmers, perhaps better than any others, know that the fertile soil and the productive greatness of this land is a blessing and no something created by man. That is a blessing that should be shared. Every child should share this blessing by having all the good and wholesome food that he needs. The families of labor and other consumer neighbors are entitled to an abundance of good food, with realistic and relatively stable prices.

"We can make this happen."

Holt 4-H

The Holt 4-H club met on Nov. 20 at the Holt Village hall with the president Rozanne Swanson calling the meeting to order. The pledges were said. The secretary and treasurer reports were read and approved. Mrs. Elroy Bennett passed out awards. The Holt club received a certificate for being an honor club. It was decided that we send $5 to the Fergus Falls state hospital. A Christmas party was discussed and voted on by the 35 members, five parents, and two visitors present. We decided to have the party Dec. 30, at the Nazareth Lutheran church, and those who wanted to, bring presents and those who didn't want to didn't have to.

Timmy Kjensrud and Judy Benett planned the program. There were six members of the club who played musical instruments, poems were read by Rozanne Swanson, Erick Kjensrud and Dana Peterson. This was followed by a guitar solo by Timothy Kjensrud. Connie Benett arranged a game for us to play. Tom Steinhauer led three songs. Mrs. Adolph Steinhauer and Mrs. Ronald Moe brought refreshments.

Allison Johnson
Reporter

Kratka 4-H met at the town hall November 12 at 7:30 p.m. Main order of business was the Christmas party to be held December 10. Everyone is to take part in the program. On Dec. 22 the club will go caroling.

Brad Nelson gave a demonstration on building a model launch pad. Robyn Johnson demonstrated how to make a shoe tree, which is used for drying wet boots. Lunch was served by Sharon Johnson.

Farm Survey Results Help Farmers Plan

Latest estimates of cattle, hogs and chickens on farms, expected pig and calf crops, and winter wheat production in 1976 will hinge on a major nationwide survey set for late November and early December by the U.S. department of agriculture (USDA).

David N. Taylor, statistician in charge of the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service, explained that estimates developed from this annual survey are always useful to those making decisions in agriculture. The information aids producers, processors, planners and others in managing output and marketing operations and helps maintain an orderly situation for agriculture.

Of particular interest in the coming estimates will be how another year without government acreage restrictions following a record crop in 1975 and increased foreign demand affected wheat farmers' fall plantings.

The estimates will be available through the Minnesota crop and livestock reporting service in December for wheat, hogs and poultry and early February for cattle.

The survey results rely on cooperation from thousands of producers in this state and across the country who willingly respond to mail questionnaires and participate in personal interviews. Producers visited by local USDA representatives serve as a cross-section of all the nation's farmers. All responses are kept confidential and only state and national summaries are published.

Dr. C. Johnson To Speak At Viking Series

Public attendance is invited at the series of spiritual life meetings to be held beginning Sunday in the Viking Lutheran parish, according to Rev. Ralph Hofrenning, pastor.

Dr. Cecil Johnson, bishop of the northern Minnesota district of the American Lutheran church, will be speaker at services to be held at the Zion Lutheran church in Viking at 10:45 a.m. and 8 p.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Tuesday and at the Oak Ridge Lutheran church at 9:30 a.m. Sunday and 8 p.m. Monday.

Dr. Johnson's sermon themes will deal with "The Rediscovery of Jesus" as Savior, Shepherd, Spokesman and Sovereign.

MN. Epilepsy League Holds Meet At 'U'

A unified effort statewide on behalf of some 80,000 Minnesotans suffering epilepsy disorders was the primary topic discussed as members of the Minnesota epilepsy league (MEL) met at the University of Minnesota recently.

"In the past, many of the state's 11 epilepsy chapters has tended to function separately and independently. Now it is time we coordinated our efforts to achieve greater public understanding of epilepsy and its causes," according to Mrs. Dolores Speidel, Minneapolis, newly-elected president of MEL.

In a day-long meeting, members of MEL, a Ynited Way service agency: elected officers and members of the board of directors for the coming year; drafted plans for creating new public awareness and understanding during November, epilepsy month; and presented service awards to persons who have made substantial contributions in terms of increased public awareness during the past year.

Youth Traffic Safety Meeting Set Dec. 19-21

First conference of the newly-formed Governor's youth council on traffic safety will be held December 19 through 21 at Camp Courage near Maple Lake.

Membership in the council is open to all Minnesota high school students, and has been formed to work on traffic safety problems, especially as they apply to young drivers. After the three-day conference at Camp Courage, council members will return to their communities to implement traffic safety programs at the local level.

The council is sponsored by the Minnesota department of public safety, and expenses of the conference will be paid out of traffic safety funds.

Commissioner Edward G. Novak heartily endorses the program as "vital in dealing with these problems right at the source," and announced that additional conferences will follow if a good start is made in December.

Any Minnesota high school student interested in joining or in attending the December conference may apply in writing to: Governor's youth council on traffic safety, 210 highway building, St. Paul, MN. 55155.

Frost-Covered Bridges Peril For Motorist

Slippery bridges are a peril for the unwary motorist at this time of year, the Minnesota highway department warns. High humidity, low temperatures and a flow of cool air beneath bridges may combine to form a slick, dangerous bridge surface.

Drivers should cautiously approach bridges that appear to be wet or frosty, a tell-tale cue to reduce speed immediately without applying brakes. Research has shown that skidding or hydroplaning can begin at speeds as low as 35 miles per hour.

UMC Winter Quarter Has Many Classes

A number of course are being offered winter quarter at the University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston (UMC) that could be beneficial and be of interest to persons who are not enrolled as full-time students. All courses begin the week of December 1 and will run through February 27. They may be taken on a credit or non-credit basis.

The business division will offer Principles of accounting II. The course will meet on Monday and Thursday from 6:30 to 8:15 p.m.

Two courses that may be of interest to adult students are being offered through the division of hotel, restaurant and institutional management. Hotel financial management will meet at 8 a.m. Mondays and Wednesday plus a laboratory will be scheduled. Institutional financial management will meet at 9 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. Both courses, taught by Robert Downing, require previous accounting experience.

The home and family services division is offering four courses that could be useful for the non-traditional student. Interior house materials will meet from 3 to 5 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. Practical experience in working with such interior materials as wall, ceiling and floor coverings will be discussed. Trends of interiors will meet at 9 a.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Historical and current interiors will be discussed. Lou Guthrie will teach both courses.

Introduction to social gerontology, a study of the characteristics of different stages of aging, will be offered from 11 to 12:10 on Mondays and Wednesdays. Phyllis Solee is the instructor.

Education of exceptional students will meet at 8 a.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. This is an orientation course for people involved with exceptional individuals, and considers the mentally retarded, speech and visually impaired, physically handicapped and neurologically impaired person. Kevin Shanahan is the instructor.

Four courses will be available through the general education division. A speed reading course will meet from 2 to 3 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday. Gretchen Starks is the instructor.

A poetry course, forms and ideas in literature, will meet at 11 a.m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. Dr. Ervie Glick will teach the course.

During this Bicentennial year, a history course could prove interesting. Development of America, taught by Joseph McKenna, will meet Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. One section will meet at 1 p.m. and a second will meet at 2 p.m.

World cultures and ideas, a humanities course, will meet from 3 to 4:20 on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Lynn Mullins will instruct the class.

For more information on any of the courses listed and for information or registration procedures, interested persons may write the Registrar's Office, UMC, Crookston 56716 or call 281-6510, extension 241.

Ag. Industry Income Shows Biggest Drop

Commissioner Jon Wefald reported recently that the 1974 balance sheet on the state's agriculture industry reveals the biggest drop in net farm income in Minnesota history, down $543.4 million or 24 per cent below the $2,295,800,000 record level of 1973.

He suggested, "this helps explain some of the braking of Minnesota's business economy from the peak prosperity levels of 1973.

"It means that each of Minnesota's 118,000 farm families experienced a single year loss of net income averaging $4,605. Average net income per farm last year is estimated at $14,851; compared to the record $19,456 in 1973.

"After paying income and self-employment taxes for 1974, the average Minnesota farm family had less than $9,000 for living expenses, other normal consumer purchases, capital investment, and savings programs," Commissioner Wefald stated.

Average gross income per farm in Minnesota last year was a record $41,088, an increase of $4,278 or 12 per cent over 1973.

At the same time, production expenses also climbed to a new record high, $24,165 per average farm and $2,851,500,000 for Minnesota's total farming industry, both representing a 14 per cent increase over 1973 Minnesota farm production costs.

The sharp increase in production costs, compared to gross farm income, cut the rate of gain for realized net income to only 8.4 per cent a total of $1,998,100,000 for the state and $16,933 per farm.

Adverse weather that cut crop production by 30 per cent in 1974, and adverse prices on farm livestock and poultry production sharply reduced the quantities and value of carryover inventories. This balance sheet adjustment was a $245.7 million loss item for 1974, contrasted with the record $453 million gain in the 1973 net change in farm inventories.

Commissioner Wefald added that Minnesota agriculture this year is encountering most of the same hazards that in 1974 sharply reversed net farm income. low carryover inventories, export embargoes, falling farm prices, severe crop losses to adverse weather, and still rising production costs.

River Valley

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad
Oklee, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hofstad along with mother Ida Mostrom accompanied Andrew Mostrom of Thief River Falls to visit with Ida's cousin Claude Newhouse who lives in Winnipeg. They did lots of sight seeing and enjoyed the weekend. Prowlers Confirmed As Swimming Power

An article appearing in a recent Hutchinson Leader newspaper issue found North Central Section swimming coaches Jerry Carlson of Hutchinson, Tom Uvaas of Fergus Falls and Vance Stanoff of St. Cloud Apollo picking Thief River Falls to win this year's sectional meet title.

Fergus Falls is the defending North Central Section champion. The Otters won the title a year ago when Hutchinson finished second, Apollo third and Thief River Falls fourth.

Thief River Falls coach John Kopari already predicted a possible North Central title for the Prowlers this winter. Now he also has the backing of his fellow sectional coaches.

Laker Football Coach Resigns

Marv Kostelecky, head football coach at Detroit Lakes high school for the past five years, submitted his resignation to school officials there last week.

Kostelecky asked to be relieved of his duties at the school effective January 1. He plans to join an insurance firm in Fargo.

The 30-year-old Kostelecky's five-year record at Detroit Lakes was a dead even 22-22-1. He posted seasonal records of 6-3, 6-3-1, 1-8, 6-3 and 3-5.

Kostelecky-coached Lakers lost four of five games against Thief River Falls. The only Laker win over the Prowlers during Kostelecky's reign was a 19-7 decision in 1974.

Start Busy Winter Sports Schedule

Area winter sports season began this week, signaling the start of an extremely busy schedule for this writer.

The Times will be covering no less than 16 athletic teams this winter, including Lincoln high school basketball, hockey, swimming, wrestling and girls' basketball, along with Northland community college basketball, hockey and girls' basketball.

In addition to the Thief River Falls teams, coverage will also continue to be given to four Times area small schools: Goodridge, Grygla, Plummer and Marshall County Central at Newfolden. Both boys and girls basketball teams at those schools will be included in our coverage.

It's certainly a handful, but with the proper amount of cooperation from coaches of each team, an appropriate amount of coverage can be given to each and every squad.

Miscellaneous

+Three new coaches will appear in Region Eight hockey circles this season with Ken Anderson taking over at Detroit Lakes, Mike Metzer at Crookston Cathedral and Jim Micheaud at Red Lake Falls.

+Andrew Kelson, a star performer for the University of Minnesota-Crookston basketball team the past two years, is now a starting forward for the Moorhead State University basketball team. Kelson is a Warren, Ohio native. Terry Bohn, a freshman center from Breckenridge, is also a member of the Dragon varsity.

+Bruce Olson, a freshman with the University of Minnesota-Duluth hockey team after a starry career at Roseau, has four goals and three assists in nine games with the Bulldogs this winter.

+Kelly Kappes of Borup was named to the Minneapolis Tribune's 1975 nine-man all-state football team of the year Sunday. He is the cousin of Vern Kappes of Thief River Falls.

+Minnesota North Stars head coach Ted Harris offered this interesting quote in a recent North Stars news release: "Rebounds are as important in hockey as they are in basketball." Harris was complaining because the North Stars were not getting their share of rebound shots while posting a dismal 4-15 record, good for last place in the NHL's Conn Smythe division.

Bemidji Rally Topples Lincoln Girls By 31-25

Thief River Falls suffered through a cold-shooting second half Monday as Bemidji rallied from an 18-17 halftime deficit to claim a 31-25 girls basketball win in the Lincoln high school gym.

The Prowlers made just one of 15 field goal attempts after intermission as they fell behind 21-19 at the third quarter break and trailed by as many as 10 points late in the fourth quarter.

Thief River Falls led most of the first half after Cheri Onkka connected on back-to-short base line jump shots and Laural Larson made one shot from the same spot for a 6-2 Prowler lead 3:46 into the first quarter.

Bemidji rallied to tie the game 6-6 at the first quarter break, but Thief River Falls rattled off eight straight points in the second quarter to go ahead 14-7. Marty Minor's short jump shot started the Prowler surge. Onkka followed with a pair of free throws, Joan Engel hit from close range and Onkka added a fast break bucket on a nice feed from Minor to force a Bemidji time-out with 2:13 elapsed.

The Lumberjacks managed to pull within one point by halftime and then outscored the Prowlers 4-1 in a ragged third period. Bemidji then continued to pull away by scoring eight straight points to start the fourth quarter, taking a commanding 29-19 lead.

"We played a super first quarter," pointed out Prowler coach Judy Charlebois, "but they started sagging on Cheri and the girls didn't know where to go. I think it was mostly our inexperience that showed through."

Bemidji coach Jim Wahl said his team "got a little more aggressive in the second half." Wahl gave credit to Sue Spaulding and Cindy Kaasa who led the Lumberjack scorers with eight and six points, respectively. Spaulding did most of her scoring early to keep Bemidji in the game while Kaasa came off the bench late in the third quarter to spark the Lumberjacks rally.

Onkka scored eight points and Minor added seven for the Prowlers who shot only 26 per cent from the floor, hitting but nine of 34 attempts. Bemidji shot only 22 per cent by making 15 of 67 tries. The Prowlers sank seven of 15 free throw attempts while Bemidji made just one of 10 gift tosses. Bemidji held a 36-27 rebound edge. Both teams turned the ball over time and time again, with the Prowlers losing the ball 46 times and the Lumberjacks losing possession 34 times.

Bemidji won the junior varsity game by a nearly identical 32-24 margin, holding quarter leads of 10-8, 18-17 and 28-18. Thief River Falls' Kelly Storhaug was the game's high scorer with nine points.

Thief River Falls will returned to action Monday when the Prowlers play a 7:45 p.m. game at East Grand Forks.

Prowlers Handle Roseau 72-47 In Season Opener

Thief River Falls handled out-manned Roseau in relatively easy fashion Tuesday as the Prowlers opened their 1975-76 basketball season with a 72-47 win over the Rams in the Lincoln high school gym.

Co-captains Don Forney and Jeff Neelan paced the Prowler attack with 22 and 14 points, respectively. Every member of the Prowler squad played in the game and eight different players scored as Glen Peters made a successful debut as Prowler head coach.

However, Peters wasn't totally happy with his team's play during the somewhat ragged game. "I know we're capable of playing better ball," said Peters. "Although, at times we played well in spurts when we moved the ball well, moved it down court and got the good shot off."

Thief River Falls trailed twice in the early going before Forney caught fire. The 5-8 guard scored nine straight points in a 1:47 span to push the Prowlers in front of 12-4 with 3:46 remaining in the first quarter. He scored on three fast break lay-ups, a 15-foot jump shot and a free throw. It was never really a very close ball game after his offensive outburst.

Forney finished a sensational first quarter with 13 points as the Prowlers took a 17-8 lead.

Thief River Falls suffered through a dismal second quarter shooting performance when Prowler shooters found the basket just six times in 28 attempts, allowing Roseau to stay within eight points, 30-22, at halftime.

The Prowlers found the range, though in the third quarter and at the same time began dominating the rebounding charts to out-score the Rams 23-9 enroute to a 53-31 cushion at the third quarter break.

Thief River Falls built its biggest lead of 32 points, 66-34, when Forney hit back-to-back short range jump shots midway through the final quarter.

Peters had special praise for Forney and 6-1 junior forward Mike Wiebolt who scored all eight of his points to help the Prowler second half surge. "Forney played a nice floor game," said Peters, "and I thought Wiebolt did a good job both offensively and defensively."

Roseau coach Larry Peterson, a Thief River Falls native, found some bright spots in the game even though his team, a heavy underdog going into the contest, was soundly beaten. "We hustled and didn't quit," pointed out Peterson. "We can go out with our heads up. The kids are all young; they've got an awful lot to learn."

Peterson praised the play of 6-1 forward Lonnie Lofstad, one of three sophomores who saw extensive duty for the Rams. Lofstad was the only Roseau player in double figures with 14 points.

Thief River Falls shot only 37 per cent from the field for the game, hitting 31 of a staggering 84 attempts. Roseau mustered only a 30 per cent shooting effort on a 17 for 57 showing. "Our first half shooting really hurt," said Peters. "We're a much better shooting ball club than that."

Thief River Falls made 10 of 20 free throw attempts while Roseau enjoyed a productive 13 for 18 night at the line. The Prowlers finished with a healthy 52-30 rebound advantage, thanks largely to a big 22-rebound effort by the 6-6 Neelan. Roseau topped the turnover charts 22-18. Prowler guard Terry Dyrdal and forward Brian Peterson combined for 12 assists, with Dyrdal handing out seven.

The Prowlers host Kennedy Sat., Dec. 6, in their next outing.

Northland Alumni Game Is Saturday

Northland community college basketball team will open its 1975-76 season Saturday when the Northmen host a Northland alumni squad.

The fifth annual season-opening varsity-alumni game will start at 7:30 p.m. in the Northland gym. Coach Chet Engelman's Northland varsity squad holds a 3-1 edge over the alumni team jointly coached by Times sports editor Mike Lundgren and KTRF sports director Don Howe.

The alumni squad has been buoyed by the announcement made this week that Tony Burke will make his first alumni game appearance this year. Burke, a Bemidji native, was Northland's first MCJAA all-stater when he made the honor squad after the 1971-72 season.

Burke holds several Northland rebounding records, including most career rebounds with 716, most rebounds in single season with 413, most rebounds in a Northwest Division game with 28 and most defensive rebounds in a Northwest Division game with 15.

Burke also boasted scoring talents when he played for the Northmen. He ranks second on the Northland single season scoring charts with 513 points to 593 for David Dickey and he ranks fourth on the Northland all-time scoring charts.

Howe and Lund expect Burke and Paul Walker, a veteran of all four alumni games, to provide the alumni with a rugged rebounding game.

Alumni scoring is expected to be provided by Nick Neibauer. Neibauer ranks second on the Northland all-time scoring charts with 843 points to 1,053 for Dickey. He also ranks second to Dickey in the school's record books for a single season average with a 19.2 figure in 1969-70 compared to Dickey's 21.5 of a year ago.

Neibauer does hold several school free throw shooting records, including most career free throws with 211, highest career free throw percentage with a 75.4 per cent figure, most free throws in a single season with 123 and high single season free throw percentage with a 77.3 per cent figure.

Engelman did not announce his team's starting line-up, although everyone on the Northland roster is likely to see action.

Northland will play on the road in its second test of the season Tues., Dec. 2, when the Northmen play the Grand Forks Air Force Base basketball team.

Swimmers To Host Lakers In Opener

Coach John Kopari's Lincoln high school swimming team opens its 1975-76 season Monday when the Prowlers host Detroit Lakes in a 7 p.m. dual meet in the Franklin middle school pool.

Thief River Falls, an early season favorite for North Central Section honors this winter, will be a heavy favorite to open its season with a win over the Lakers.

"Things have been going real well for us," pointed out Kopari. "We've just about doubled our work load during the first two weeks this year compared to last year and our times have been a lot faster."

Kopari said a possible line-up for Monday's opener will find Dan Heieren and Eric Thorsgard in the 200-yard freestyle; Mark Storhaug and Jeff Carter in the 200-yard individual medley; Jim Harris in the 50-yard freestyle; Jim Forney in the diving competition; Keith Poissant and Bruce Storhaug in the 100-yard butterfly; Greg Omdahl in the 100-yard freestyle; Mark Storhaug and Heieren in the 500-yard freestyle; Dave Cork and Kevin Murphy in the 100-yard backstroke; and Carter and Jim Grant in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Cork, Mark Storhaug, Carter and Omdahl will form the 200-yard medley relay team while Heieren, Cork and Omdahl swim in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

Kopari is still looking for another 50 and 100-yard freestyler and an anchor swimmer for the 400-yard freestyle relay team.

A new scoreboard, a new diving board and a new pace clock will be used for the first time by the Prowler boys Monday.

Thief River Falls' second test of the 1975-76 season will come Sat., Dec. 6, when the Prowlers host a strong Fargo South team in a 1:30 p.m. meet in the Franklin pool.

TRF YOUTH HOCKEY

by Ron Novak
Program Director

Thief River Falls' 1975-76 Pee-Wee division will consist of three phases, the Pee-Wee A team, the Pee-Wee B team and the Pee-Wee In-House program.

The Pee-Wee A team, coached by Neil Carlson and Dale Wennberg, is co-sponsored by the TRFAHA and the Eagles club. The team has 17 players who are currently preparing for their season opener against Crookston December 7. Thief River Falls will host the Pee-Wee A state hockey tournament March 12-14 to highlight the 1975-76 season.

Pee-Wee B team is coached by Dave Hemp and Gary Skime. The team will play about 20 games this winter, starting December 7 against Crookston.

Four teams will form the Pee-Wee In-House program. Members of the Pee-Wee A squad will not play in the In-House league. Coaches in the In-House program include Chuck Sharpe and Carl Anderson, Canadiens; John Sampson, Blackhawks; Scott Blankenfeld and Jeff Olson, Bruins; and Steve Stokke, North Stars. A 15-game schedule is planned for each team, with games being played Saturday morning in the sports arena. Teams will practice twice each week.

Candy Sale

Winners have been announced in the annual candy sale drive.

Greg Nelson was named the overall top salesman for selling 169 boxes of candy. He'll receive a radio plus a $15 gift certificate at Wilson's Sports Centre.

Mike Boeltier was the top salesman for the Squirts. He sold 96 boxes of candy. He'll receive a $15 gift certificate for his efforts. Robert Huot sold 84 boxes of candy to rank second among the Squirts. He'll receive a $10 gift certificate.

Robert Nelson was the top salesman for the Pee-Wees. He sold 72 boxes of candy. He'll receive a $15 gift certificate. Jeff Moser sold 60 boxes of candy to rank second among Pee-Wees. He'll get a $10 gift certificate.

Coaches Meeting

A traveling team coaches meeting will be held Sunday at 7:15 p.m. at the sports arena. Schedules, travel and practice times and uniforms will be distributed.

Coaches Clinic

Lincoln high school' head hockey coach Bill McGann will address a coaches clinic for all Thief River Falls youth hockey coaches Saturday at 9 a.m. at the sports arena.

The clinic will be held from 9 to 10 a.m., with an intersquad scrimmage game scheduled to be held from 10 to 11 a.m.

Week's Schedule

Wed., Nov. 24, 6:45 p.m. Pee-Wee B; 8 p.m. Bantam A.

Fri., Nov. 28, 11:15 a.m. Mites A-H; 12 p.m. Mites I-Z; 1 p.m. Squirts A-J; 2 p.m. Squirts K-Z; 3:15 p.m. Pee-Wee In-House for Sharpe and Anderson, and Blankenfeld and Olson-coached teams; 4:30 p.m. Squirt A.

Sat., Nov. 29, 11:15 a.m. Pee-Wee In-House for Stokke and Sampson-coached teams; 12:30 p.m. Pee-Wee A; 1:45 p.m. Pee-Wee B; 3 p.m. Bantam B; 4:15 p.m. Bantam A.

Sun., Nov. 30, 3:30 p.m. Squirt A; 4:45 p.m. Pee-Wee A and B; 6 p.m. Bantam A and B.

Mon., Dec. 1, 7:45 p.m. Bantam A; 9 p.m. Bantam B.

Tues., Dec. 2, 3:45 p.m. Mites A-H.

Wed., Dec. 3, 6:45 p.m. Pee-Wee B; 8 p.m. Pee-Wee A.

MARCHELLE CUPPETT of the Prowlers had a difficult time maneuvering against the Lumberjacks Monday during the Thief River Falls-Bemidji girls' basketball game in the Lincoln gym. Dianna Melberg of Bemidji tried to tie up Cuppett on the play while Prowlers Marty Minor (21), Cheri Onkka (54) and Laural Larson (32) looked on. Bemidji won the game 31-25.

New Coach Paul Williams Drilling Cardinal Quint

Although only two lettermen appear on his roster, new Plummer high school head basketball coach Paul Williams is expecting his Cardinals to play a strong 1975-76 basketball season.

Co-captains Dave Walter and Carl Torkelson were both starters a year ago when the Cardinals posted a 9-12 record for then head coach Rick Koivisto. There are, however, no other ball players with any varsity experience to complement those two talented ball players. And to complicate matters even more, four of Williams' top seven ball players are sophomores.

"We're going to be inexperienced," admitted Williams, "but the kids have pretty good basketball knowledge. They have real good attitude—they really want to play ball. If we can gain a little experience along the way we'll be able to surprise a few people."

Williams, in his first year of coaching after playing college basketball at Mankato State, expects to start Walter, a 5-10 senior, and 6-0 sophomore Stan Tvedt at the forwards and Torkelson, a 5-9 junior, and 5-10 sophomore Marty Hesse at guards. Tom Willett, a 6-1 junior, will start at center for the Cardinals.

"We've looked pretty decent in some scrimmages we've had," said Williams. "We've got real good speed. We'll be running a lot and we'll be pressing.

Torkelson, who led last year's ball club in handing out assists while also being named the team's best defensive player, will spark the Cardinal fast break, along with Hesse, explained Williams. Willett and Tvedt have proved themselves to be strong rebounders despite their lack of height and Walter should provide the team with with a big scoring punch. Walter was the Cardinals' leading scorer a year ago with a 14.3 point average. "He's got some real nice moves," said Williams about Walter, "and once he gets open he's got a nice soft touch."

The rest of the Plummer varsity roster includes 5-8 junior Dean Hesse, 5-10 junior Russell Sorenson, 6-1 junior Jim Lundy, 5-10 sophomore Dan Willett, 5-6 sophomore Ted Witt, 5-10 sophomore Lonnie Eskeli, 5-7 sophomore Greg Fossell, 5-0 sophomore Neil Mattison, 6-3 freshman Dale Carlson and 5-10 freshman Craig Dahlen.

Williams will be assisted this winter by Les Hofstad, who at one time served as head coach for the Cardinals who have had four head coaches over the past four years.

Plummer opens its 1975-76 season Tues., Dec. 9, at Goodridge.

DISPLAYING ONE of the most impressive-looking racks probably ever seen around northwestern Minnesota, this prize 220-pound, 13-point buck provided Rob Naplin with a highly successful 1975 deer hunt. Naplin, who lives west of St. Hilaire, downed the big buck Sunday while hunting near Roseau. His party of three hunters filled out in four days of hunting.

TRF, Crookston Open Wrestling Season Friday

Thief River Falls and Crookston wrestling teams, traditional season opening foes, will kick off the 1975-76 season Friday when the Prowlers host the Pirates in a 7:30 p.m. match in the Lincoln high school gym.

Thief River Falls coach Ed Krystosek expects a close match when the two rivals get together. "Crookston had a good team last year and they were young, so they should have a good group of returning lettermen," pointed out Krystosek. "But I think we have a good chance of beating them if we wrestle as well as we're capable of wrestling. Things have been going pretty good in practice. I think it'll be a good match."

Following its season opener against the Pirates, Thief River Falls challenges defending Region Eight champion Fertile in a 7:30 p.m. contest at Fertile Tues., Dec. 2.

Hockey League To Start Play On Wednesday

Four teams will take part in the 1975-76 Thief River Falls men's city hockey league season, it was announced by the Thief River Falls park and recreation department.

The league will open its season Wed., Dec. 3, when Rude Electric plays Norech's in a 10:45 p.m. game in the sports arena. Red Lake Falls and the Kat Haus will also field teams this winter.

'U' Athletic Task Force Has Final Meeting

More control of financial aid to athletes and elimination of special tutoring programs for male athletes at the University of Minnesota were among recommendations made this week at the final meeting of the all-University task force on intercollegiate athletics.

The task force, created to evaluate the University's athletic programs' compliance with Title IX guidelines, will forward its recommendations to Stanley Kegler, vice president for institutional planning and relations, and president C. Peter Magrath.

Financial assistance programs for athletes, administered by the men's athletic department, came under strong attack by task force members.

Marion Freeman, assistant professor of social work at the Twin Cities campus assistance center and a member of the assembly athletic committee, said intercollegiate athletics are "big time, big business."

"There is serious damage to the values and goals important to us as a society and system," Freeman said. She said the argument that "they all do it," does not mean that every school should participate in the current, accepted system for athletic financial aid.

Freeman said intercollegiate athletics has been a "boy's club" and views the equality demands of women's athletes as those of adversaries.

The task force recommendation calls for all financial aid, except for scholarships, to be available to all students on the basis of need. Athletic scholarships should be awarded on the basis of a minimum grade-point average of 2.8 (B-), demonstrated athletic ability and the recommendation of a coach.

The task force also recommended that each campus assembly committee on intercollegiate athletics appoint a committee to award scholarships and that all financial aid programs, including those for athletics, be administered through the financial aid office on each campus.

In an effort to bring intercollegiate athletics and education closer together, according to one committee member, the task force recommended that special tutorial assistance provided to male student athletes be eliminated. The task force charged that the present system was unequal in that similar programs were not available to female athletes or to all other University students. It was recommended that athletes use the facilities of existing study-skill programs on all campuses.

In other action, the task force recommended that Student life studies survey students' level of interest in sports, both as participants and spectators. The task force also urged that a committee be appointed by Magrath to monitor the enforcement of Title IX provisions throughout the University, in addition to athletics.

It was also recommended that a separate committee be established by campus assembly committees on intercollegiate athletics to supervise non-revenue producing athletic programs (excluding football, basketball and hockey). Task force members said that so much attention is usually paid to football, basketball and hockey that other programs are neglected.

The task force received progress reports from the coordinate campuses on the equalization of men's and women's athletic programs there. Duluth and Crookston now have directors of women's athletics and Morris has added two new staff positions to the women's athletic program. The coordinate campuses have also made progress in the sharing of services and equipment.

Don Collins, athletic director at Waseca, said the newness of the school there is an advantage in that change is not so difficult to make.

The task force was established over a year ago to evaluate the University's athletic programs' adherence to Title IX guidelines, which prohibit sex discrimination at institutions receiving federal aid.

TO AVOID CONGESTION and provide for a more orderly parking arrangement, a new parking control zone has been established at the Thief River Falls sports arena. Poles and cables have been installed to mark the boundaries of the parking area and no parking will be permitted along the roadway or directly in front of the arena during the hockey season, according to Kenneth Froschheiser, Thief River Falls police chief. He said that the police department will issue parking tickets to violators and the possibility exists that vehicles in violation will be towed away. The change has been made necessary because of the difficulty of reaching the building with emergency vehicles, the chief said. He added that the area will remain open for persons who wish to discharge passengers in front of the arena and then remove their vehicles from the no parking area.

RAY JOHNSON of Thief River Falls caught this lunker walleye while fishing recently in Rainy River east of Baudette. The trophy fish weighed just over 13 pounds and measured nearly 32 inches long. It had an 18½ inch girth.

RIVER VALLEY

Mary Carlson, who is staying at the Orlando Chervestads had as her company Sunday her sister, Mrs. Jenny Chapman, brother Andy Carlson who is home on leave from the Navy and step-brother Richard Carlson all from Lake of the Woods.

Mrs. Orlando Chervestad attended the OEO supper meeting at the new Catholic church of Fosston Wednesday evening. She was accompanied by her mother Signe Evenson who was a supper guest at the Sven Arneberg new home of rural Fosston. Sven was in a car-truck accident last February near Lengby and is not feeling very good. We wish him a speedy recovery.

NW Minnesota Ski Trails Are Opened By DNR

Two area trails were included among a list of ski touring trails that will be available for use this winter on state lands.

Commissioner Robert Herbst of the department of natural resources announced the list of 18 ski trails this week.

The area trails among the state-wide system of trails are located at Itasca state park and Lake Bemidji state park.

Itasca, located 28 miles north of Park Rapids, contains 20,000 acres of solitude, explained the DNR. Itasca features fascinating areas of large pines, rolling hills and numerous lakes. There are 21 miles of trail that will satisfy all ski tourers, from the advanced to the beginner. Parking and sanitation facilities are available.

Lake Bemidji state park is located five miles northeast of Bemidji. The area contains 3.7 miles of trail.

NCC To Offer Cross Country Skiing Course

For the second consecutive year Northland community college will be offering a community service cross country skiing course for beginners and for persons who wish to continue instruction in this outdoor activity.

The course is scheduled for the winter quarter (December 1-February 20) with the first class meeting to be held Thursday, December 4, at 6:30 p.m. in the college gymnasium with the fee set at $10 for the course. Instructor will be Jerry Winans with Al Adams assisting.

The first class meeting will be devoted to objectives of the class, equipment, planning of trips to other ski areas and also the possibility of organizing a cross country ski club, depending on interest.

With excellent snow conditions predicted, coupled with an increased interest in skiing as a winter activity, a large enrollment is anticipated for this class, according to Bill Kottke, dean of instruction.

People interested in enrolling in advance of the first class meeting or desiring additional information are encouraged to call the Northland community college community service office, 681-2181.

Newfolden Will Feature Donkey Ball Saturday

Newfolden Bicentennial committee will sponsor a donkey basketball game Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Marshall County Central high school gymnasium.

The basketball game played on the backs of trained donkeys will feature all local riders. The Marshall County Central faculty will take on LeRoy's Louts while the Viking Varmints face Becky's Dolls in the two-game event.

The game will use the services of the nationally known Crosby donkey ball company of Chippewa Falls, Wisc.

Advance sale tickets, priced at $1.50 may be purchased from Newfolden merchants. Tickets may also be purchased at the gate for $2.

Card of Thanks

Now that I am home again, I would like to thank Dr. Duane Davidson, the staff and nurses at Northwestern Hospital in Thief River Falls for their efficient service. Thanks to Dr. Olafson, Dr. Howell, Dr. Sorgen, Dr. Lencey, the nurses and staff at St. Lukes hospital in Fargo, for the wonderful care given me.

My thanks to Pastor and Mrs. Roy Malde, Pastor and Mrs. Berton Hushagen, Pastor and Mrs. Jerry Salveson, and Pastor Arneson for their visits.

Thank you to Sheriff Richards and his staff for their services during the time of the car accident.

Also, many thanks for prayers, visits, cards, letters and gifts from relatives and friends. Thank you to all who brought food to our home. These kindnesses will always be remembered. God bless you all.

Warns Danger Of Tire Mix With Radials

Minnesota motorists preparing their vehicles for winter are reminded by the Minnesota department of public safety that snow tires should be matched to the tires already on their cars, particularly in the case of radials.

A vehicle equipped with radial tires (popular on many late model cars), should use a snow tire which is also of radial construction, the department advised. Using snow tires of bias ply or bias belted design of the rear while leaving radial tires on the front wheels can adversely affect the handling characteristics of a vehicle and possibly cause handling instability.

In addition, the department also reports that recent research by the National safety council has indicated that, contrary to the impression of many motorists, conventional radial tires (not of a snow tire design) do not have the same traction and braking advantages of snow tires.

While it has been a popular impression that if you have radial tires, you don't need snow tires for maximum traction, testing under a broad range of conditions has indicated that this is not true.

A summary of the testing program undertaken by the Safety council reported that conventional snow tires in general provide only a small improvement in pulling ability on glare ice, but produced half again as much pulling ability as regular tires in loosely packed snow. Reinforced tire chains proved to be the most effective traction aid for winter driving, providing from four to seven times the pulling power of regular tires on snow and ice.

Studded snow tires, once legal in Minnesota, are now banned except under a condition where a motorist from another state where they are legal passes through or visits the state on an "occasional basis." Generally, this is construed to mean for use during shopping trips, short vacations or other short term trips into Minnesota.

Vol. 64 Thief River Falls, Pennington Co., Minn. Wed., Nov. 26, 1975 Number 92

Enrollment At University Up 6.3 Per Cent

Increased enrollment at all campuses of the University of Minnesota has been reported with a total fall quarter enrollment of 55,114, an increase of 6.3 per cent from last year. The University had earlier projected an enrollment of 52,418.

University President C. Peter Magrath said the enrollment increase is encouraging, since it reflects a "vote of confidence" in the educational programs of the University's campuses and indicates that the University of Minnesota is a "stable and healthy" institution.

"But these enrollment statistics also reflect the continuing and inevitable difficulty of predicting how people behave, for this enrollment exceeds the best projections we were able to make last year when trying to predict our 1975 enrollment for budgetary purposes," Magrath said.

Enrollment in the Twin Cities campus is 45,265, up 5.3 per cent. The previous all-time high enrollment for the Twin Cities campus was 43,061 in 1971.

The University technical college at Waseca increased enrollment by nearly 32 per cent for the second year in a row and now has 705 students. Enrollment at the University technical college at Crookston increased by 9.3 per cent to 930.

Enrollment at Duluth increased by 11.3 per cent to 6,210 and Morris reported an enrollment of 1,593, an increase of 2.2 per cent.

Undergraduate enrollment at Duluth increased by 11 per cent, graduate enrollment was up nearly 15 per cent and enrollment in the UMD school of medicine was up over 18 per cent.

The number of women enrolled at the University continued to increase with women accounting for about 2,000 of the 3,200 additional students attending this fall.

There were 900 more freshmen entering the University directly from high school than a year ago and the number of students continuing on with their University studies increased by about 2,100.

Noting the increase in students returning to campus and persons attending school on a part-time basis, Magrath said it is apparent that the relatively poor job market situation is stimulating some people to continue as students so that they can upgrade their skills and education while waiting for the job market to improve.

The enrollment figures do not include 24,584 students in various program of the University's continuing education and extension division.

The College of liberal arts with 17,232 students was up 4.1 per cent. Enrollment in the Institute of technology increased by 2.5 per cent to 4,035. General college reported an increase of 15 per cent for an enrollment of 3,048 and agriculture was up 18.2 per cent to 1,780.

More Motoring, Yet Minn. Gas Use Stays Down

Although gas consumption in Minnesota has increased only 2.5 per cent so far in 1975, compared to twice that figure nationwide, Minnesotans do not appear to be leaving their cars in their garages.

On the contrary, a year-long tally ending September 30 showed a 21 per cent increase for the year in the number of auto travel requests recorded at the Minnestoa state automobile association (AAA).

Where are these record numbers of residents going?

A majority of motoring Minnesotans preferred the "backyard beauty" of their home state over any other single destination during the past summer months, according to Gene Haustein, AAA auto travel manager. But as cold weather travels in, more Minnesotans travel out—to the sunshine state of Florida and California, making these two states the most popular on a year-round basis.

Over a period of 12 months ending on September 30, more Minnesotans requested auto routings to Florida than to any other state in the nation. California ranked second, largely due to the continuing popularity of Los Angeles which was the most common single destination for Gopher state motorists on a year-round basis. These two coastal states alone accounted for nearly one-fourth of the total motor travel requests during this period.

During the shorter period from April through September of this year, however, AAA auto routings within Minnesota were heavier than to any other single destination, including Los Angeles. On a state-by-state basis, however, California still lured the record number of Minnesota's summer motorists.

Arizona, Texas and Colorado were the next most popular states during the 12 month period. Possibly reflecting the "economy crunch" that has kept more motorists closer to home, the midwest states of Minnesota, Wissconsin, Michigan and South Dakota ranked sixth through ninth and accounted for nearly 14 per cent of the total routings. Washington state finished tenth. These top 10 states accounted to 55 per cent of the 44,481 total auto requests to 61 U.S. states and Canadian provinces, recorded from Oct. 1, $974 through Sept. 30, 1975.

Serious Crime In Nation Rises By 13 Per Cent

Serious crime in the United States rose 13 per cent during the first six months of 1975 over the same period a year ago, Attorney General Edward H. Levi has announced.

This compares with a 16 per cent increase recorded in the first six months of 1974 over a similar period in 1973.

Levi noted that the rate of increase showed a slight drop for the first half of this year when compared with other recent increases. Serious crime for all 1974, for example, was 17 per cent higher than in 1973 and, during the first quarter of 1975, rose 18 per cent over the same period a year ago.

"But we can claim no great solace in the fact that the rate in the rise of serious crime has lessened somewhat," Levi said.

"Crime remains an enormous national problem and current levels are—and must be—seen as unacceptable."

Figures are contained in the FBI's uniform crime reports released by FBI director Clarence M. Kelley. They are based on information provided by city, county and state law enforcement agencies throughout the nation.

The violent crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault increased, as a group, 12 per cent. Robbery was up 17 per cent, aggravated assault nine per cent and murder and forcible rape each increased four per cent.

Kelley said the property crimes of burglary, larceny-theft and motor vehicle theft collectively increased 13 per cent. Burglary and larceny-theft rose 14 per cent each, while motor vehicle theft was up four per cent.

Cities with 100,000 or more inhabitants reported a 12 per cent increase in the volume of serious crime. Rural and suburban areas reported 15 and 14 per cent increased respectively.

Geographically, the southern states registered a 16 per cent increase in reported crime for the first half of 1975.

Mrs. Alfred Solem, Rt. 2, City, 681-3897

This is a reminder that the Steiner Community club will meet Friday evening, November 28, at 8:30. Serving on the program committee are the Charles Lund, Curt Johnson and Wallace Boman families and on the lunch committee Mrs. Ethel Moe, Mrs. Bernice Vatsaas, and Mrs. Amanda Russell. Public is invited.

Mrs. Eldon Moe, Mrs. David Rodahl, and Mrs. Roger Mott presented a demonstration entitled "Show the Facts" at a meeting at the Senior Citizen center of the Skylite apartments Friday afternoon. These ladies are members of the Cowbelle organization and are promoting the use of beef by showing how their cuts can be used to the best advantage. They served barbecue buns following the demonstration.

Mrs. Orlando Solberg and Lance of Plummer were Friday overnight and Saturday guests at the Lloyd Larson home.

Dinner and afternoon guests at the Alvin Halvorson home Wednesday were his brother-in-law and sister, Lt. Col. Ret. and Mrs. George Gatchell from Fort Worth, Texas.

prayer for tomorrow

My Susan took part in the Thanksgiving pageant at church school. Of course, I made her pilgrim costume. Later, as I watched her singing, she looked just like the pictures I have seen of pilgrim children. I felt a lump in my throat and had a real sense of identity with those men, women and children who long ago withstood the hardships of life in a new and alien world.

These immigrants weren't superhuman; they were people just like you and me. They had the courage to believe in a new life—a new country. They believed their ultimate struggle would lead to the freedom they so fervently sought.

Over three and a half centuries have passed. The foundation the pilgrim fathers laid for us seems to be shaking beneath our feet, and even our faith wavers.

But, reconsider. We owe it to those pilgrims as well as to ourselves to reaffirm our belief in God and in our country. And what better way than in your church — this Thanksgiving?

Future Energy Source May Be Biomass

By Jeannie Hanson,
U of M News Service

When most people think of energy, they think of oil, coal, natural gas and nuclear power.

But these are only a few of the alternatives being investigated at the University of Minnesota. Other energy sources are available, though their technologies are not yet fully developed or their economics completely analyzed.

As the cost and availability of the traditional energy sources cause more problems, researchers are beginning to explore the step-sister of the energy family: biomass energy—plants and their by-products.

Nearly 20 University of Minnesota professors from some ten different departments are now at work investigating the use of the biomass for energy. Plans range from the conversion of cattails to fuel to the use of old newspaper (a tree product) in cattle feed and plastics. The Center for the study of the physical environment at the University, coordinated by Roger Aitken, is the research group.

Energy from the biomass is not new. The well-known fossil fuels, oil and coal, are merely ancient plants, decayed and crushed under pressure millions of years ago and put into long-term storage under the earth's surface. Their supply is limited.

But growing on the surface now, almost everywhere, are plants. These can be used as renewable energy, before and after all the oil and coal is gone—and without siphoning off any of the food supply.

Biomass energy can be manufactured from biological wastes: excess cornstalks, newspapers and other paper trash, rice and soybean hulls, sawdust and wood shavings, cattails and manure.

As with any energy source, the raw material must be collected, transported, and stored. Then the type of energy to be produced must be dicided upon. Next, the best process for converting the raw material into energy must be discovered. Finally, the economics of each process for each geographical area at each reasonable size scale must be analyzed.

"We're beginning to explore feasibility at this stage," said Patrick Starr, mechanical engineering professor. Starr and Dean Finn-Carlson, a graduate student, are devising and preparing to run elaborate computer programs. Their eventual goal is to make specific biomass energy use recommendations for Minnesota.

Some of the possibilities to be computer-tested for cost, time, and energy requirements are: direct burning of the plant wastes for crop-drying; direct burning of the wastes in coal-burning power plants as an alternative to coal; pyrolizing them to make storable fuel; and converting the wastes chemically to ammonia and methanol for fertilizer and fuel (through digestion or fermentation).

Use of biomass wastes instead of coal in power plants looks economical already in some locations and the Northern states power company is interested. It has begun in places like St. Louis and Ames, Ia., using municipal trash.

A key factor in all the biomass research is the price of oil and coal. The new energy must not cost more. So as the prices for oil and coal rise, so do the prospects for biomass energy.

The Center for studies of the physical environment, coordinator of the research, operates a resource center for University researchers which is also open to the public. Called the TREE collection (the renewable energy environment), it is an up-to-date library of industrial and academic newsletters and reports, U.S. Government technical information service documents, books, and periodicals, many found nowhere else in the state.

TREE is open to the public 20 hours a week. Interested people should contact Louise Lalonde, librarian, for details, at 373-7970.

Post Secondary Enrollments Up 14,000 In Minn.

Total on-campus headcount enrollments at Minnesota post-secondary institutions increased almost 14,000 students this fall, according to figures compiled by the Higher education coordinating commission.

These enrollments are for the tenth day of class this fall and do not include extension students.

All systems showed substantial increases in enrollment over fall of 1974 except for the private junior colleges which had a slight decline. Total enrollment this fall was 179,735 compared to 165,860 in 1974, an 8.4 per cent increase. Private proprietary institutions are not included in the figures.

Enrollment increases were 7.6 per cent at the state universities, 15.5 per cent at the community colleges, 11.6 per cent at the public area vocational-technical institutes, 6.3 per cent at the University of Minnesota, 5.8 per cent at the private four-year colleges and 40 per cent at the private professional schools. Enrollment at private junior colleges declined .7 per cent.

Enrollments in the four public post-secondary systems increased from 132,268 to 143,670, or 8.5 per cent. The Coordinating commission had projected a 3.4 per cent enrollment increase in the public systems.

MHECC executive director Richard C. Hawk said that a large portion of the increase over the commission's projection may be due to the continuing recession and the large increase in financial aid available to students attending Minnesota institutions.

In fiscal year 1975 there was an estimated increase of 23,500 financial aid awards over the number of awards made in 1974, Hawk said. He pointed out that an estimated $90 million in financial aid money from state, federal private and institutional sources was available to students attending Minnesota institutions. An additional $78 million was available in veterans' benefits and social security benefits.

The 1975 Minnesota legislature appropriated $14 million in state scholarship, grant and work-study funds to be used during the current school year compared to approximately $8 million the previous year, Hawk said. In addition, virtually any Minnesota resident can obtain a loan directly from the state under the Minnesota student loan program.

As an example of increased student participation in federal programs, Hawk said that the basic education opportunity grant entitlement to Minnesota is up about 8,000 students in fiscal 1976 compared to fiscal 1975. Participation in the Federal college work-study program also is up about 8,000 students in Minnesota.

Current enrollment projections suggest that institutional enrollments will be comparable in 1975 and 1982, Hawk said. Enrollments should increase until 1982 and decrease through 1992. However, the projected low point will be equivalent to enrollments in the current academic year, he said.

Hawk said that if the participation rate of either the 18-year-olds or those over 25 should increase, post-secondary enrollments in 1992 will exceed current levels.

A more detailed reporting of enrollments including five-year trends, part-time, full-time, male-female, full-time equivalent enrollments, and new entering freshmen by level and campus will be available in a few months.

WE SALUTE OUR CHANGING NEIGHBORHOOD

We're happy to see the building and expanding going on in Thief River Falls. It's a great place to live, and the kind of a community that creates a good life style. Some of the projects are:

1. LON'S CAFE — Expanded to be a complete restaurant and dining facility.
2. LAW ENFORCEMENT CENTER — Will house all the law enforcement agencies under one roof.
3. BIG T FAMILY RESTAURANT — Formerly the Tastee-Freeze, this building has been expanded to provide seating for 60 persons.
4. FAMILY BOWL — Expanded to add six additional bowling lanes. Now open for family fun.
5. OAKLAND PARK NURSING HOME — New 75-bed nursing care facility is under construction with plans to open next spring.
6. BEST WESTERN OF THIEF RIVER FALLS — An 81-unit motel with complete banquet and convention facilities, and indoor swimming pool. Scheduled to open next spring.

We pause and take stock of our blessings on this annual Thanksgiving, and we're glad we live in a community that is growing and progressing. Happy Thanksgiving to all of you!

A good neighbor you can bank on.

The American Conscience

by Dr. RUDY SKOGERBOE

An interesting twist was presented to the House Ways and Means Committee concerning National Health Insurance. Doctor Max Gammon left his practice of medicine under the British National Health Service to set up a private teaching hospital in London. He testified before the Congressional Committee mainly to warn us that their system should not be duplicated in the U.S. He said, "It is most important for the United States to resist the socialization of medicine for the good of the rest of the world. If you believe that the state is better able to control the affairs of individuals than they are able to control their own destinies, then the prospects for freedom in the rest of the world are very dim."

This is a very strong statement. One does not ordinarily think of socialized or government medicine in this Country having a total effect on the rest of the world. What he is trying to say is that our economy would be taxed beyond its ability to pay and repercussions would be world wide. Because the problem is complex, one might say there is no solution, but I feel there are definite things we can do to make government medicine unnecessary.

I agree there is need for improvement in providing medical care. We all know of those who earn too much to be on welfare and still have too little to pay for insurance. Another problem is catastrophic illness such as cancer, arthritis, injuries, and the endless problems of aging and cardiovascular disease. These require incomes that most people don't have unless they have good unsurance. The other matter is one of getting a doctor when the patient needs one. Emergency rooms in hospitals have become very important and 24 hour coverage is necessary. This is being done in our area and although it needs improvement, it is a start. The reports o patients being turned away because of the lack of funds are terrible and should never happen. In this I think legitimate complaints presented to medical societies would do a lot of good.

What is being done to improve availability of medical care? One hopeful solution is the present increase in the production of doctors. The impact of the larger classes and the new medical schools is just starting to be felt. If the government can be kept out of a universal type of care for another few years. I believe freedom in medicine can be preserved.

When one looks at the waiting lists in socialized countries, medicine in the United States looks good. England today has waiting lists over 500,000. Some have to wait over three years for needed surgery. The problems in Sweden are not much different. Doctor Lifstead, who came to the United States from Sweden, said that the maldistribution problem and the so-called "crisis" in medicine is still there in Sweden together with an array of new problems created by the system itself.

I believe that if the government takes over the practice of medicine the quality of care will go down and the end result will be a disaster. On the other hand, I agree with the critics of medicine that changes and improvements will have to take place. If the present liberal-labor dominated Congress will give our Country more time, it is just possible that demand for government medicine will decline. I agree with Doctor Gammon that a lot more than medicine is at stake in National Health Insurance.

Two attempts on the President's life in just a few short weeks should make us all wonder why. No American who is of sound mind wants his President shot or his life threatened by anyone whether it might be political opposition or just plain insanity. There is something to be said for discipline and accelerated justice, however. It is pretty well accepted that if the President insists on shaking hands in large crowds, there is little that can be done to be absolutely safe. I would agree with Bill Broom of the Herald Washington Bureau that there is no real reason for the President to expose himself in this way. It is impossible for me to run my business by traveling all over the world, and I would agree with this writer that the President might have work to do at home. Anyway, it is not necessary with our system of communications.

Coming back to criminals, however, I would recommend the reading of the Old Testament Book of Leviticus. We are so obsessed in this Country with the rights of the criminal and so quick to accuse the environment that it simply doesn't make any sense. For example, in the Law of Moses, there was no hesitation to institute the death penalty for offenses of considerable less than first degree murder. We have become too criminal oriented and not enough victim oriented. In our own local judicial system, we have seen first degree murder being treated by calling it something else. This makes it possible for the criminal in at least this one case I'm thinking of to be out on the streets while he is still a young man. It is true this particular criminal is insane, but I can see no difference between an insane killer or a so-called sane one. If he takes an innocent life, that's what he has done and society has no place for him.

There is no better way for us to demonstrate our dislike for shooting at our President than to see that justice is done without a long trial and with a certain amount of severity. The punishment should be a jail term of at least fifteen years without bail or parole. Other countries and other cultures hang their assassins or behead them publicly and sometimes without trial. This is not in keeping with our system of justice and I hope it never will be. If I am accused of a crime, I want my day in court and this is the greatness of our system. The Turks, for example, hung communists from the lamp posts and while it is true the communist movement has had a rough time in Turkey, this is not our way. Airline high-jackers have had a bad time ever since the policy was put in effect to shoot to kill whenever possible.

However these things may distress us, I believe it is necessary to insist on a victim oriented attitude. Whether a killer is insane or normal is not relevant. What is relevant is that he has taken an innocent life and his punishment must be in keeping with the seriousness of the crime.

In my opinion there is no substitute for strict law enforcement. When criminals of all ages including our youth can revile and threaten our policemen in the course of their duty, I think these policemen should be able to defend themselves. When our President is threatened, I take this as an insult to me and it should be the same to all Americans. The office of the Presidency is sacred to us whether we agree with the man or not. We have a great Country and a new atmosphere of discipline would be very good.

Strandquist Senior Citizens

by Irene Larson

We have been playing the records of the 20's which Roger Iverson has lent us. He visited our center again Thursday Nov. 20, to bring us more records.

Only 16 registered at our center on Thursday. There will be no meeting next Thursday due to Thanksgiving. Our next meeting will be Dec. 4.

We worked finishing some fridge ornaments and a few ladies crocheted more covers for clothes hangers, finishing four more. While we worked we listened to the record player blaring out voices from the 20's.

Sarah gave a door prize that Mildred was lucky to win.

Polly was absent for the day, but she prepared the lunch which Mildred served.

Laverne D. Swan, senior citizen coordinator for Northwest community action announced that Mildred Nelson was hired under the Comprehensive employment and training act (CETA) to serve as senior meals coordinator for the Strandquist area. Gust Johnson has also been hired for general maintenance.

Mrs. Irene Larson and Ed Carlson of Strandquist were among others who visited and listened to a tape sent by Mrs. Ellen Veach of Spokane, Wash., at the Wendell Lindgren home Sunday afternoon. They also enjoyed a good lunch served by Mrs. Lindgren.

Irene Larson was a supper guest on Sunday evening at the Donald Larson home and later accompanied them to Karlstad where they attended the Thanksgiving services at the school auditorium.

Mrs. Julius Kleinvachter and Pat visited at Eugene Kleinvachters Sunday. Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kleinvachter visited with the Leo Renstroms.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Larson were Saturday evening visitors at the Donella Larson home.

MSU Classes Set For EGF And Crookston

Moorhead state university's winter quarter off-campus program offerings of 56 classes include three planned in East Grand Forks for area persons interested in pursuing part-time their college education or in courses for personal fulfillment.

Offered as part of MSU's continuing education program, the 56 classes, spread among 19 different Northwest Minnesota communities, are in addition to some 106 late afternoon and evening courses scheduled to be held on campus this winter and a variety of special workshops.

Area residents interested in these courses are reminded of two new Minnesota laws now in effect:

—One is a new interstate reciprocity agreement with North Dakota that enables residents of that state to enroll for MSU courses without paying higher tuition rates as they have in prior school years;

—Another enables persons 62 years and over to enroll in credit or non-credit classes at greatly-reduced or no cost on a space-available basis. Where college credit is sought, there will be a reduced fee of $2 per credit hour charged such persons and some courses may have special fees that will be required of all students.

All three of the East Grand Forks courses offer three either graduate or undergraduate college credits.

One is entitled "Conflict Resolution" and the date and place of the weekly class meeting for this will be announced later.

The other two are: "Measurements in Vocational Education," an Industrial education department class that will hold weekly meetings at 6:30 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning December 3, and "Basic Counseling Skills," an education department class that will hold weekly class meetings at 6:30 p.m. on Thursdays, beginning December 4. Both will meet in the area vocational-technical institute.

Off-campus courses are also being offered at the University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston. In the listing, a (g) indicates the course may be taken for either graduate or undergraduate credit. Dates and times are those of the first weekly class meetings and the number following the course title indicates the number of credits the course offers. Each class will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The list includes: Education 410 (g), "Basic Counseling Skills," 3, December 3; Education 489 (g), "Human Relations I", 3, December 2; Education 489 (g), "Human Relations II," 3, December 4.

Interested persons not yet admitted formally for graduate study may make application for admission to take courses for graduate credit at the time of registration. Those desiring to count the credits in a master's degree or fifth year program should make subsequent inquiry to the MSU graduate office to clarify admission procedures to any graduate program.

Registration details for most students can be handled at the first class meetings.

Tuition fees, per credit hour, are $9 for undergraduate Minnesotans, $11.50 for Minnesotans seeking graduate credit, $18 for residents outside Minnesota taking undergraduate work, and $22.50 for residents outside Minnesota seeking graduate credit. North Dakotans may make application to pay the same tuition as Minnesotans.

For further details on any of these courses, please write or call the MSU office of continuing education, phone (218) 236-2181.

Book On Low Cost Lodging Now Available

Low cost accommodations for Bicentennial visitors, and beyond, is the subject of a "how-to" booklet prepared by the American Revolution bicentennial administration (ARBA).

The 36-page primer outlines basic information on alternatives, pitfalls, and possible resources which can be used to establish low-cost lodging facilities in a community.

In the booklet's foreward, John W. Warner, administrator of the ARBA, said: "One of the most vital elements of the Bicentennial will be the movement of people, citizens and international visitors. This handbook is an effort to encourage a wider range of lodgings such as that offered by the guesthouses, pensions and hotels of Europe."

The ARBA produced the booklet in its role as coordinator of Bicentennial programs and events but expects the effort to have lasting value past 1976.

The handbook is designed to be a first step that will minimize needless frustrations on the part of local planners. At the same time, it encourages development of low-cost accommodations so that more people, young and old, resident and international alike will have a greater chance to experience the Bicentennial.

The handbook discusses existing facilities, location and evaluation of facilities and structures, community clearances and support, operating considerations, and staff and budget needs. It also contains directories of helpful contacts.

Information was gathered through extensive interviews with sponsors of existing low-cost establishments around the country. The material was prepared under contract by Hammer, Siler, George associates of Washington, D.C.

The booklet has been sent to over 7,000 officially recognized national Bicentennial communities and is available to others on request. A copy can be obtained by writing to the Program Division, ARBA, 2401 E. Street, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20276.

Kidney Center At University To Open Soon

by Jeannie Hanson
U of M Neww Service

University of Minnesota's new kidney dialysis center, scheduled to open in early February, will allow the university to serve almost twice as many patients with kidney disease as before.

The university dialysis patients in preparation for kidney transplant operations and also treats university hospital patients who experience kidney failure.

"I'm on dialysis Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, six hours a day," reports Gregg Gorres, a barber in his mid-20's. He is currently waiting for a kidney transplant at the university.

When a kidney comes in that matches his blood and tissue type, he will stop chronic dialysis at a hospital near his home and go immediately to the University for an extra, final dialysis before the operation. The dialysis center, built new and expanded from six machines to ten, will be able to help him more quickly and expertly.

According to Dr. Carl Kjellstrand, professor of medicine and surgery and director of the dialysis unit at the university, the new center's advantages will be "safety for the patients, convenience and better working conditions."

Safety is to be enhanced by new equipment that monitors the heart rates and brain waves of people on the dialysis machine. Acutely ill patients, about a third of the total, will be dialyzed in separate rooms from those on dialysis in preparation for transplant.

Convenience will be increased in the new center because all the dialysis machines will, at last, be in one place. A special area will be reserved for very young patients. Delays and movement of patients will be eliminated, and working conditions for doctors and technicians will be vastly improved.

For dialysis patients, three times a week for six hours each time can be long, week in and week out. Fred Hastings, a dialysis technician conducting a tour of the new center, said the increased space will create a much better atmosphere for these patients. "The ones who aren't acutely ill like to play cards and talk while they're on the machine," he said. "It keeps them relaxed."

The new center is primarily the project of Dr. William Bernstein, emeritus clinical professor of colon and rectal surgery. Twice retired and more active than ever, Bernstein decided to raise the money for the university. As chairman of the volunteer fund-raising committee, he was able to raise $1½ million for the project. Contributions from private foundations in the area were supplemented by $750,000 from the Minnesota legislature.

Dialysis machines are expensive, but without them virtually all of the kidney transplant patients at the university would be dead.

FredHastingsexplainedhow these machines substitute for a hyman kidney: "A salt and filtered-water solution is pumped into the patient through an artery while his own blood is pumped out gradually. The blood meets the water and an electrolyte concentrate (the dialysate) and moves across a porous cellophane membrane, which filters impurities from the blood the way the kidney's own blood vessels would if they were working. The blood is cleaned by being recycled and is returned into the vein by tube."

"It is tedious, but it sure makes you feel better," Greg Gorres said. He is one of the many people, from premature infants to those in their 80's, who have been kept alive by dialysis. The university's new dialysis center will help more of those people more safely and efficiently.

Legislation Closes Nickel Mining In Mn.

International nickel company decision to cease operations was as unfortunate as it was unnecessary, Senate minority leader Robert Ashbach said recently.

Company officials announced they were stopping work on a multi-million dollar copper-nickel mining project near Ely triggered by another piece of highly restrictive legislation, which was recently proposed by a member of the Senate.

Ashbach said that the proposal—which includes banning open-pit mining of copper-nickel ore and all mining within five miles of the Boundary water canoe area—was needlessly premature.

"The state has already agreed to spend $3.6 million for the Environmental quality council to study a potential copper-nickel industry in Minnesota. The final environmental impact statement is due in July of 1978. Any legislation on the copper-nickel industry certainly should be delayed until these findings are known," the senator said.

Ashbach sid that if the company follows through on its announcement, it would mean the loss of an additional 1,600 jobs and $18 million in economic growth which the state cannot afford to lose.

"I think the time has come for the public to demand an accounting from their DFL legislators about their attitudes toward the creation of new jobs in the state. I think that so far certain DFL legislators generally have shown a lack of proper balance toward the very serious and complex problem of environment versus unemployment."

Ashbach noted that last month some DFLers suggested the state look into taking over some businesses, "and now we have another proposal to restrict a potential job-producing activity even though a state-sponsored study of its environmental impact is three years away. Is it any wonder employers are viewing our state with suspicion?"

LET'S ALL GIVE THANKS!

Many years ago the first settlers on this continent joined with the native Indians to give their thanks for the harvest of food which they shared. They also gave thanks for just being alive although disease and lack of medicines were common occurrences.

Today, most of the diseases that were prevalent at that time have been conquered and it would certainly be appropriate as we continue the tradition of Thanksgiving to express our gratitude for the good health we enjoy. It would also be appropriate for us to express our thanks to all of you for giving us the opportunity and responsibility of taking care of your pharmacy needs.

The Passing Scene

Football addicts and non-addicts alike can't help but appreciate this column by Rodger Dunnette, Land O'Lakes communications specialist, which appeared in the current issue of the company magazine, the Land O'Lakes Mirror:

Have you ever tried explaining the finer points of football to a woman who thinks a tight end is a player with a drinking problem? Don't. It's too exasperating.

My wife is a wonderful companion, but on Monday nights in the fall why can't she understand that I need to be with Howard, Frank and Alex between 8 and 11 p.m.?

Take a recent Monday evening, for instance.

"He was supposed to split the seam of their zone on a post pattern," exclaimed humble Howard as the video tape camera showed us the action again.

"He sure doesn't move very fast for a runner," piped up a feminine voice from across the room.

"That's the slow motion replay, dear," I patiently tried to explain to my better half, a woman uninitiated to the fraternity of football terminology.

"Well, no wonder the game lasts half the night," she countered. They run every play twice."

It wasn't more than 30 seconds later she did it to me again. The quarterback had uncorked a 40 yard pass and with the ball in mid-air this woman I took for better or worse proceeded to walk directly between me and the TV set, a basket of clothes in hand.

"Move . . .move," I bellowed, "he's throwing the bomb!"

The clothes basket went flying. She hit the floor like a boot camp recruit under live gunfire, shouting in mock hysteria:

"Grab the maniac before he blows up the place!"

The theatrics—though in jest—played to an unappreciative audience. Fortunately for the preservation of our marriage, the "bomb" fell harmlessly incomplete.

When we again got on speaking terms, she explained the untimely cross-over which had for that crucial split second obliterated my view of the screen:

"Well, you didn't miss anything anyway. Nobody had the ball. It was just up in the air."

I sat in stunned disbelief of this recitation of logic I was hearing.

Howard came to my rescue, articulating in words eloquent that the offense was lining up in a different pattern, making number 40 a setback.

"They don't think much of him, huh?" she asked in a matter-of-fact fashion.

"Honey," I said, "why don't you just toddle off to bed and we'll talk in the morning?"

"OK," she replied, "but let me tell you something."

"All right," I answered, "if you can do it during this 60 second Namath panty hose commercial, go ahead."

"Well, if you'd think of something else once in awhile besides watching a bunch of grown men playing for teams with names of animals, and if you'd . . ."

"You've got 35 seconds left," I interrupted, pointing to the stop watch I was holding on her.

"I'll do it in 30," she shot back. "Don't want to pick up a delay of game penalty do I?" Her voice was now dripping with sarcasm.

"How did you know about . . ." I interjected.

"Listen to me, you astroturf addict," she retorted. "If you'd get your backfield in motion once in awhile and do something around here besides gluing your eyes to a television set, you might find a few more passes thrown your way. I'll give you two minutes to turn that thing off and come to bed."

"Incredible," I thought to myself as I flipped off the set and headed upstairs, "she even knows about the two minute warning!"

Who Should Pay

Following editorial is from the Pope County Tribune:

The Minnesota State Planning agency has been asked by Gov. Wendell Anderson to study possible tax increases to help pay for a new stadium or stadia for major league sports and for the support of arts and cultural activities.

Then Peter Vanderpoel, director of the agency, said the financing study will take about two months and will include the consideration of a cigarette tax increase; and entertainment and-or-hotel-motel tax; and a tax on industrial and commercial property.

We don't know at this point what the agency will recommend, and no one knows what the legislature will accept, but we hope that no one in state office has the audacity to suggest that out-state Minnesota assist in paying for new sports facilities.

The prime beneficiary of new facilities for major league teams is the Twin Cities business community, and in our opinion, it should be incumbent on them to guarantee payment of the stadium bonds. Any sports facilities will be revenue producing, so if the new complex costs an estimated $60 million, all or most of that will be repaid by those using the facilities.

The Twins, Vikings, North Stars and Saints draw fans from a large area, including Iowa, Nebraska, the Dakotas, western Wisconsin, southern Alberta and Manitoba in Canada and all of Minnesota. People who come any distance to attend Twin Cities athletic events plan to spend a weekend in the Twin Cities, and they'll be lucky to return home without spending $100 each. That money accrues to the direct benefit of the Twin Cities business community.

In our opinion, it's ridiculous to even think of taxing out-state Minnesota to pay for something that is of only minor benefit to them. People outside the Twin Cities receive nothing in a monetary sense from major league sports except the enjoyment as paying spectators.

We've been disappointed in the response of the Twin Cities business community when talk of new facilities is discussed. They are the prime beneficiaries, and should take the initiative in support and financing.

Raising Delinquents

The following 12 rules for parents in raising juvenile delinquents was originally credited to the sheriff's department in Harris county, Texas. The list was submitted for our suggested editorial use. Although we have printed the "rules" before, they are worth a review in an era when young people find more than enough opportunity to get into trouble with society and the law.

(1) Begin with infancy to give the child everything he wants. In this way he will grow up believing the world owes him a living.

(2) When he picks up "bad" words or "dirty" words, laugh at him. That will make him think he is "cute." He will run off and pick up some other words that will blow the top off your head.

(3) Never give him any spiritual training until he is 21, and then let him decide for himself. By the same logic, never teach him the English language. Maybe, when he is old enough, he may want to speak Bantu.

(4) Praise him in his presence to all the neighbors; show how much smarter he is than the neighbor's children.

(5) Avoid the use of the word "wrong." It may develop in the child a "guilt complex." This will prepare him to believe that when he is punished later on for stealing cars or assaulting women, society is "against him" and that he is being "persecuted."

(6) Pick up everything after him; his shoes, his books, his clothes. Do everything for him, so that he will be experienced in throwing burdens on others.

(7) Let him read anything he wants. Have no concern whatever for what goes into his mind. Provide him with Lily cups for his lips, but let his brain drink out of any dirty container for words and ideas.

(8) Quarrel frequently in the presence of your children. In this way they will be prepared for broken bones later on.

(9) Give him all the spending money he wants; never let him earn his own.

(10) Satisfy every craving of the child for food, drinks, and everything that has to do with the sense of taste and touch, gratifying every sensual desire.

(11) Take his part against policemen, teachers, and neighbors. They are all "prejudiced" against your child.

(12) When he gets into real trouble, always defend youself and say, "I never could do anything with him."

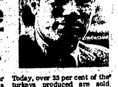
notes from the governor

Wendell R. Anderson



When you sit down for Thanksgiving dinner this week, the main course is likely to be turkey.

Chances are it will be a Minnesota-grown turkey, and the chances are also very good that your friends and relatives in another state will also have a Minnesota-grown turkey for dinner.

That's because Minnesota is the number one turkey-growing state in the Union. And 90 per cent of the 22 million turkeys produced in our state are sold and consumed outside Minnesota.

Nearly 500 Minnesota growers produce those turkeys. In addition, 13 turkey processing plants in Minnesota employ more than 7,000 persons.

Last year direct farm income from turkeys surpassed the $90 million mark. The year before, the best in history, it was a $158 million business. Though income wasn't as good this past year, it was still more than one-third above the 1972 level.

Production is increasing steadily. In 1965, Minnesota growers raised 15.5 million turkeys. Production had increased to 18.2 million five years later, and hit the 22 million mark in 1974.

The reason for this growth is not hard to explain. Fifteen to twenty years ago, 95 per cent of the turkeys sold in the United States were eaten at Thanksgiving or Christmas. Today, over 35 per cent of the turkeys produced are sold throughout the year. Turkey rolls, turkey burgers and even turkey pastrami have made the meat a regular menu item in many homes.

Many regions of Minnesota are affected by the turkey growing and processing industry. Centers for turkey production include Kandiyohi, Stearns, and Meeker Counties.

Wadena, Ottertail, Becker, Roseau, Pennington, Aitkin, Rice, Olmsted, Dodge, Winona, and Fillmore counties are also major contributors to the state's total production of turkeys.

So when we count our blessings this Thanksgiving, we can all be grateful that the thriving turkey industry in Minnesota is giving such a welcome boost to our state's agricultural economy.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

The latest reports on Alaskan energy finds are encouraging. The latest reports on getting the fuel out of Alaska are not.

Right now it looks like millions of cubic feet of natural gas may be thrown away—at a time when we are seriously short of it—because of the years required for the Federal Government to make a simple decision to let private investors build a gas pipeline at their own expense.

Here's the situation: The exploration for petroleum in Alaska is also turning up large quantities of natural gas—more than 10 per cent of the known U.S. supply, according to conservative Interior Department estimates.

Many of the gas deposits are mixed in with oil, as is often the case. When one comes out of the ground, so does the other. That's fine if the gas can be piped off to users. But what if there's no pipe? Natural gas is difficult to store. What comes up with the oil must either be distributed or burned off—wasted.

The famed trans-Alaskan oil pipeline is scheduled to begin limited operation in mid-1977. The wells will start pumping then, with or without a gas pipeline.

The four-year period required to build the oil line—the largest construction project in history—is surpassed slightly by the time it took to get all necessary governmental approvals—the largest pile of red tape in history.

If a similar amount of time is needed for approval of a gas pipeline, then three predictions can confidently be made: (1) Virtually all of the gas associated with the first oil through the oil pipeline will be wasted, perhaps for several years. (2) In the meantime, the lower 48 states will experience such severe natural gas shortages that even some private homes will be cut off. (3) The ultimate cost of building the gas pipeline will escalate by several billion dollars, due to inflation.

The history of the oil pipeline furnishes ample evidence in support of point number three. When first proposed in 1969—as a slightly smaller pipeline—its cost was estimated at $900 million. The current estimate is $6.3 billion, and even that is optimistic.

Two companies are now seeking permission to build gas pipelines. One proposed route would cross Alaska from north to south, near the oil line. The gas would be liquified at an ice-free port on the south coast and shipped to the lower 48 by special tanker. The other route would cross Canada and feed directly into existing gas pipeline networks here.

Each plan has its advantages and disadvantages. But neither, as far as I can see, has problems great enough to outweigh the critical need to get started—on something. Construction alone will take from three to five years.

Does it have to take another four years to get federal approval? No. But a great deal of effort and leadership and statesmanship would be required to cut the red tape. And I don't see much of it in sight.

Congress has floundered around for two years trying to come up with a national energy policy. The best they've been able to do is recommend a temporary rollback of prices (just long enough to get them through the 1976 elections). Our legislators evidently prefer to let crises develop, then charge off seeking scapegoats, rather than preventing trouble before it starts.

The problem—in more ways than one—is lack of enough energy where it's needed.

When asked to describe "the single, most serious deficiency" in the U.S. Postal service, Senator Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) replied: "The main problem is that the Postmaster General does not have his own money invested in it."

What the senator meant, of course, is that any management becomes much more concerned about cost control and efficiency when it has a direct financial incentive to do so. And therein might lie a clue to better control of the federal budget.

In private industry, a manager gains fame and success by contributing to an increase in profits. There are many paths to that objective, but they all amount, in one way or another, to increasing efficiency; that is, to serving the customer better at a lower relative cost.

In a bureaucracy, though, the incentives are entirely different. The importance of a bureaucrat is measured by the size of the budget he commands, and by the rate of its growth. Congress contributes to this order or precedence in the federal government by using the size of appropriations as an indication of its degree of concern for hot national problems.

Now, highly motivated, capable people will seek to advance by the rules of the game they are playing. And there are a lot of good people in the federal bureaucracy. So, it is only natural that they should strive mightily to increase—not reduce—their budgets. As long as that is the best route to higher pay and promotion, how can we expect them to behave otherwise?

All of which brings me to the topic of the federal pay scale. Whether it should be increased, decreased, juggled or left alone is the subject of much debate in Washington these days.

Average pay for a worker in the private sector in 1973 was $8,900 a year. Average pay for a federal civil servant at that time was $12,984. While that sounds as though the government worker is overpaid, defenders of the system point out that the mix of federal jobs is not the same as that in the private sector.

On the other hand, critics of the system say that while federal pay has been raised to make it "comparable" to pay in certain private-sector jobs, federal fringe benefits are considerably better than those available elsewhere, making the total package favor the civil service.

Another across-the-board civil service pay raise is in the offing, with debate centering on whether it should be five percent as the President proposes, or 8.66 percent, as advocated by the Civil Service commission and the office of management and budget, or something else.

Meanwhile, the salary at the top levels of the civil service has been frozen, for a variety of reasons, at $36,000 for the last five years.

Personally, I suspect that the average American taxpayer thinks the civil service pay scale looks pretty generous already. And yet, I'm sure most people would agree that what any individual civil servant makes, within reason, is less important than the total cost of the system. Which is what started me thinking about incentives.

Right now, those people stuck at the $36,000 ceiling can't have much of an incentive of any kind. But just giving them a straight raise will perpetuate the old system, where more people make more money by hiring more people to spend more money.

Well, aren't we smart enough to devise some system whereby the pay of the top civil servants, at least, is determined in part by their ability to increase output on the same budget, or maintain output on a lower budget? It might pay to give it some thought.

Try this on for a movie plot: Gang of outlaws takes over major American city; threatens citizens with fire, destruction of property, looting, rape, murder, robbery and other forms of violence unless demands are met. Mayor's house bombed. Mayor declines offer of help from state police, gives in to outlaws. Citizens pay "protection" money. Outlaws get off scot-free.

Too improbable, you say? Can't happen here? Well, something very close to that just did. In San Francisco.

Does it really make any difference that the "outlaws" were allegedly members of the Police Officer's association of San Francisco? They remained on strike in violation of a court order. And they knew quite clearly what kind of pressure they were bringing to bear on the helpless citizens of the city. The president of the police association observed pointedly that the residents were "not safe in their homes or on the streets."

The firemen voted to join the police. One was quoted as saying, "when you get a burning building with people screaming, just try sending in a laborer."

Mayor Joseph Alioto initially proclaimed the strike "illegal." On August 19, he announced a "get tough" attitude, and warned that San Francisco "can go the route of New York unless we call a halt right now. We are going to fire any officers who are on this strike unless they get back to work immediately," he said.

On August 21, he defied the San Francisco board of supervisors and give the strikers "everything" they wanted, including a promise to punish no one for the walkout. His one "compromise" amounted to postponing the raises until October 15.

The Mayor's actions are at least consistent with his past behavior. Early in 1974, when the city was crippled by another group of public employees, Alioto directed his police to ignore a court order ending the strike. "Our police department is not going to be turned into a squad of strikebreakers," he said then.

For breaking the law and subjecting the people of San Francisco to numerous dangers, the police and firemen got a 13 percent raise—twice as much as the board of supervisors said the city could afford. The pay for rookies went up from $16,044 to $18,216. For captains, it went from $25,944 to $29,316.

Some labor leaders like to say that if a public employee isn't permitted to strike, he is a "slave." Nuts. No one says a public employee can't quit any time he chooses. That's a straw man. What's meant by "right to strike" is not just the right to withhold one's services, but also the "right" to prevent anyone else from performing them. There are millions of jobless people in this country right now who would not consider pay of $16,044 to $25,944 a year cause for a strike.

Public employees don't work for a private company. They work for the citizens of the political unit that pays them. And they are paid out of taxes levied on those citizens. If the citizens don't have the right to determine the use of their tax money—through the ballot—then they are the prisoners and slaves of those who do make that determination.

Public employees who threaten the safety of the public to get what they want sound a lot like the two-bit hood who offers to "protect" a small merchant from having an "accident" for a monthly fee.

New York City is currently reaping the rewards of a system that, among other things, permits municipal employees to retire on pensions higher than the pay they made on active duty. It looks like San Francisco will not be far behind. And then whose turn will it be?

The New York Times—not known for its anti-labor stands—said of Mayor Alioto's action: "He has reinforced the conviction that unions in control of vital public services can compel the community to capitulate by holding a strike gun at its head. This is not only the road to municipal bankruptcy; it is the road to anarchy. It is a death knell for democracy."

Would you believe that Congress is seriously considering legislation to legalize strikes by public employees everywhere?

Attendance At Church Limits Abuse Of Drugs

Church attendance may "immunize" young people against serious drug-abuse problems, according to Joseph Westermeyer, University of Minnesota psychiatrist.

Westermeyer cites as evidence the fact that, among psychiatric patients and groups of "normal" people he studied, heavy drug users were found to attend church the least.

However, he cautioned, getting people to attend church services is too simple an answer to serious drug abuse. His finding applies only to young people who have a history of involvement and attendance at church before problems began. It may not apply to middle-aged or older people or, in the same way, to alcoholics, he said.

And, he emphasized, his study does not prove that the individual's "fall-off" in church attendance "caused" the drug abuse.

Westermeyer offers four other explanations for the correlation between drug abuse and a fall-off in church attendance. "Some people may stop attending church and begin abusing drugs as two separate forms of adolescent rebellion," he said. Others may have used church as a focus for friendship and activity. Without them, they may turn to drugs for these same social relationships, he said.

Traditionally, religious ritual and the use of intoxicants occurred together, Westermeyer said. Now that they are separated in our society, drug use has become more of a problem. Or, he added, drug use and religious practice may be alternative "highs" for different groups of people.

Much of Westermeyer's information is derived from case histories of patients. "Going to church has not kept all of these people out of psychiatric wards or from drug experimentation, even though it may help prevent them from developing major drug problems," he said.

Westermeyer added, however, that "an important part of getting away from drug abuse is often some form of 'religion' such as yoga, transcendental meditation, Alcoholics Anonymous, or a church movement." For example, one 20-year-old man he worked with was not able to give up drugs until he went to live at a farm run by a fundamentalist religious organization.'

Westermeyer also stresses an anthropological approach to explain drug use and abuse. "Societies or groups that integrate religion and intoxicants have low rates of abuse of drugs and alcohol," he said. "For example, Jewish, Greek, Chinese and Italian families traditionally introduce alcohol in a multi-generational, social and often ritual or religious setting. These groups have low rates of alcoholism."

He adds a psychiatric perspective: "Individuals who develop drinking or other drug problems often have had quite ambivalent family situations with respect to the drugs—one parent drinks a lot and the other is totally abstinent, or both drink in a non-sociable way, for example."

But there is no simple answer. A group with a low alcoholism rate may abuse sedatives and tranquilizers, he said.

Preventing serious drug abuse is difficult also because some use of an "escape" can be good for people psychologically, he said. People need "time out" from their roles and ordinary states of consciousness. They need to change their behavior and let themselves go occasionally. Westermeyer said this can be done without drugs, at a public sports event, for example.

And non-ordinary levels of consciousness can be found in religious practice. Religion may not be the "opiate of the people" as Karl Marx suggested. Perhaps opium and other drugs are the "substitute religion" for some, Westermeyer said.

HEAVENLY HOLIDAY TEA COOKIES

Angel Cookies will alight at your holiday tea table! They are truly dainty cookies, as delicate as cherub wings from a lacy sprinkling of confectioners sugar. Look inside for even more beauty—you'll find a taste surprise of jellied cranberry sauce. Totally heavenly! They take a little time, but they're worth it. The lemon-y dough is rolled out and cut to from the triangles which enclose the filling. Rolled oats supply the "body" that makes the dough so easy to handle and give the pleasant nut-like flavor. Do make plenty of Angel Cookies—they soon take flight!

ANGEL COOKIES
Makes 64 cookies

- 1 cup butter or margarine, softened
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 2¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour
- ¼ cup water
- 1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- Jellied cranberry sauce

Heat oven to moderate (350°F.). Beat butter or margarine and sugar until creamy. Stir in lemon rind. Add flour and water alternately, mixing after each addition. Stir in oats. (Dough will be quite stiff.)

Turn one half dough out on floured board or canvas. Roll out dough to form a 12-inch square. Cut into 3-inch squares; then cut each square diagonally into fourths to make triangles. Place half of the triangles on ungreased cookie sheet. Put about ¼ teaspoon cranberry sauce on center of these triangles. Top with remaining triangles pressing edges lightly to seal. Repeat for remaining half of dough. Bake in preheated oven (350°F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Cool on rack. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar, if desired.

STRANDQUIST.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Salentine and Erick of Euclid and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Nelson were early Thanksgiving dinner guests at Leonard Stallocks at Stephen Sunday.

Mrs. Bruno Borowicz was a coffee guest of Sarah Wikstrom on Friday.

The Mission sewing circle at Bethesda deserve honorable mention this week. Especially the few ladies who patiently worked to make ready 46 quilts, 50 hospital gowns, many rolls of bandages and soap bags, for the Lutheran World Relief deadline. Their goal for next year is 60 or more quilts. This could be done, easily if just a few more would come to help. Even bringing in old clothing, drapes or blankets or pieces from your scrap bag would help most any thing useable can be used in making quilts. Much of this you no doubt throw away anyway. The ladies can use it all in attaining next years goal.

TV Personality Agrees . . .

"Hobbies Are a Part of Living"

Being a star of a TV show is not all glamour. It's long hours of concentrated preparation; the need to solve the problems of scripts, of people and budgets day after day. It's making instant decisions that can't be changed once those TV sets are turned on.

Dinah Shore, whose TV series entertains millions has a formula for maintaining her sense of humor and enabling her to relax. It's a simple credo. It's having a hobby. Dinah has many. She is an acclaimed needlepointer, a talented artist, an avid photographer, one of Hollywood's finest tennis players and a golfer who brought national recognition to the most notable Tournament in the history of women's professional golf.

It is Dinah's enthusiasm for hobbies that made her the natural choice of the Hobby Industry of America to be the Honorary Chairwoman of National Hobby Month; an event proposed by a Joint Congressional Resolution passed by the U.S. Senate. Dinah's only difference with the Congressional Resolution stating that "many of the nation's doctors, educators, and psychologists recognize the value of hobbies" is that it should have included every profession in the entertainment field. Just as many business executives recognize a need for a hobby, she says, so too, do people in the entertainment business.

"Hobbies are a part of living," says Dinah. "They keep you from being confined to a narrow sphere of interest limited to work or home responsibilities. They give your mind a chance to clear itself, put problems and worries aside, making it easier to handle them objectively."

There are intriguing hobbies for most everyone. It could be collecting stamps, butterflies or rare books. It might be building scale models of cars, airplanes or ships, or operating your own model railroad empire. There is a fascination, too, in polishing rocks or making jewelry or any of a number of craft and art projects.

Dinah Shore, hobbyist and chairwoman for National Hobby Month, says: "Creative, do-it-yourself hobbies give you a feeling of pride and accomplishment . . . and are fun."

She strongly recommends golf, skiing and tennis; or the outdoor hobby sport of flying radio control planes or sailing model yachts. "Whatever the hobby," says the vibrant TV personality, "it brings a feeling of pride and accomplishment. Most importantly it broadens the hobbyists' horizons; makes them happier on their jobs, at home and with their families and friends."

"Having a hobby," Dinah emphasizes, "need not wait until a person is an adult. The earlier youngsters become involved with a hobby the more likely they will grow to be well adjusted adults. Many of the same hobbies that intrigue adults appeal, perhaps in a different way, to children. It gives them a sense of self identity, building their confidence and instilling self discipline and responsibility. Many schools now use scale model kits as learning tools, giving the students a feeling of achievement, and often motivates them toward worthwhile satisfying careers."

Dinah recommends that children be encouraged to take up the craft of converting articles usually thrown away such as tin and aluminum cans, bottles and cardboard containers into practical and decorative objects. It will stimulate their imagination and creativity—and at the same time help to reduce pollution and keep America beautiful. And what a thrifty way, she smiles, to make a smart, individual gift.

"A visit to the public library to read one of the numerous books on hobbies or to a hobby shop," says Dinah, "is a way of discovering a whole new rewarding world."

Hearing Tests Set For Thief River Falls Area

Electronic Hearing Tests will be given by Beltone, No. 5 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, North Dakota, Wednesday, Dec. 3 at Pennington Hotel in Thief River Falls. Anyone who has trouble hearing or understanding is welcome to come for a FREE test using the latest electronic equipment to determine his or her hearing loss.

Diagrams showing how the ear works and some of the causes of hearing loss will be available. Visitors can also see how a simple operation on the ear has helped thousands of people to hear again and how the latest electronic developments are helping thousands more.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if they have any trouble at all with their hearing.

Even people now wearing a hearing aid should have a hearing test and find out about the latest methods of hearing corrections.

If hearing is your problem—Beltone is your answer.

The free hearing test in Thief River Falls will be held at the Pennington Hotel on Wednesday, Dec. 3 from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. A specialist will be conducting the test through the courtesy of Beltone Hearing Aid Service, No. 5 So. 4th St., Grand Forks, North Dakota, a licensed member of the North Dakota Hearing Aid Dealers Association.

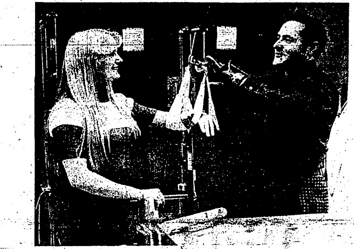
Selection is made by a vote of the faculty and administration and is based on scholarship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, citizenship, service to the college and promise of future usefulness.



DEMONSTRATING the use of deltoid aid equipment in the occupational therapy department of Northwestern hospital services is Art Heinze, chief occupational therapist. Subject of the demonstration is Brenda Nielson of Erskine, a student at Wahpeton state school of science in the occupational therapy assistant program. Miss Nielson, who is also reigning Northwest dairy princess, visited the local hospital during the recent Thanksgiving recess. Equipment being demonstrated above utilizes counter-weights to support the arm while range of motion is being developed following strokes or injury. The local hospital is a training site for Wahpeton school students in occupational therapy.

NCC To Offer 8-Week Course In Investing

Because of public interest in investments and securities, Northland community college has engaged the services of Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood of Grand Forks to offer an eight-week course relating to the development of a sound investment program.

The "Stocks and Investment" course will be offered during the winter quarter and is scheduled to begin on Tuesday at 7 p.m. in room A39 with a registration fee of $10 for the eight-week, two-hour, once-a-week course.

John Stiening, a registered account representative, will conduct the course on a seminar basis with a great deal of open discussion.

Investment areas that will be explored and discussed will include stocks, bonds, mutual funds, underwriting and briefly the commodity market. Persons enrolled will also get an insight into security terminology and an understanding of how "Wall Street" really functions.

Upon completion of the eight seminar sessions, persons will have gained knowledge upon which to make investment decisions.

For additional information, contact the Northland community college community service office at 681-2181.

Fair Annual Meeting Is Scheduled Here Tuesday

'Twas the Night Before CHRISTMAS
GIANT STORY COLORING BOOK

KING SIZE coloring book is reviewed by Brenda Laidley, Miss Thief River Falls of 1975, for Hillary (left) and Kimberly Peterson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Peterson of Thief River Falls. The coloring books are being sold by the Thief River Falls Jaycees with proceeds to be used in the annual "Operation Christmas" project headed by Steve Peterson. "Operation Christmas" is a shopping tour for underprivileged children who are provided with money to purchase Christmas gifts for members of their families under guidance by Jaycees and Mrs. Jaycees. The coloring books are being sold for $3 each and are available at Ekeren Drug, Corner Drug and Larson Music company as well as Cub Scout door-to-door sales in some areas of the city.

Election of directors and report on 1975 operations will take place at the annual meeting of the Pennington county fair association Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls, according to Milan Borsheim, secretary.

Seven directors will be elected at the meeting, including one from each county commissioner district, one from the Goodridge community and one to fill an unexpired term.

Directors whose terms expire include Bernard Myers, first district; Vernon Lee, second district; Duane Olson, third district; Fred Dallmann, fourth district; and Mrs. Russell Culkins, fifth district. The Goodridge area director's position is open at the present time and one director will be named from the second district to fill the unexpired term of Fred Sorensen.

Current officers of the association in addition to Borsheim are Fred Dallmann, president; LaVerne Hamre, vice president; and Wilbur Hallstrom, treasurer.

Annual report of the association for 1975 shows revenue of $16,546 from operations and $16,075 from other sources for total revenue of $32,622. Expenditures totaled $36,337 for the year, including $23,145 for fair operation and $13,192 for other disbursements.

Secretary's ending balance was $3,182—allowing $748.39 for outstanding checks. The balance compares with $6,897 from the previous year.

Premiums paid out at the fair totaled $4,864 and included $1,390 for livestock, $518 for agricultural, $318 for women's activities, $2,302 for 4-H, FFA and youth activities and $335 for senior citizens, grand champions and arts and crafts divisions.

Revenue statement shows that $9,479 was received from grandstand admission and $823 from auto parking during the 1975 county fair. Space rentals, midway and concessions produced $5,667 while entry, stall and pen fees totaled $132.

Revenue from other sources included $1,779 in state aid, $8,597 in county aid, $315 in rents received other than during the fair and $93.79 interest.

Disbursements included $4,864 in premiums, $2,859 in salaries, $7,831 for entertainment, $1,404 for advertising and promotional material, $803 for judging, $463 for insurance, $306 for police and crowd control, $68 for auditing, $2,864 for other administrative expense, $379 for sales tax and $355 for payroll taxes.

Other disbursements not directly connected with operation of the fair included $4,915 for major improvements and additions, $502 for maintenance, $1,180 for debt retirement and $679 for interest. A transfer of $4,790 was made to the premium account.

All members of the association are encouraged to be in attendance at the annual meeting when plans will be made for the 1976 Bicentennial county fair.

Housing Is Problem At 500 Race Stopover Here

Housing still appears the most critical problem as Thief River Falls prepares for the third day stopover of the 1976 St. Paul to Winnipeg International 500 snowmobile race to be held here January 21.

The city chamber of commerce is sponsoring the stopover, assisted by the Jaycees, sheriff's office, and police department among other groups. The chamber race committee expects an influx of between 6000 and 8000 drivers, race officials, snowmobile maintenance personnel, company representatives and fans that day, and all area motel and hotel rooms are completely booked for the 21st.

The chamber's only housing obligation was to find rooms for race officials, which has been done, and a shortage of rooms has been a traditional problem at all the race stopover points. But the chamber is seeking as many accommodations as possible to avoid confusion and disorder when the snowmobilers and their followers reach Thief River Falls.

Financial compensation is available to local residents who can provide a room the evening of January 21. Interested persons are invited to call the chamber office at 681-3720.

Thief River Falls city council alleviated part of the problem at its October 14 meeting by moving to allow overnight parking of motor homes and pickup campers at the sports arena parking lot, with the arena rest room facilities available. At the same meeting, the council gave permission to use the city-owned Dow-Key building for overnight housing and repair of snowmobiles. Jaycees will provide security at the arena and Dow-Key building sites.

Following a visit by Herb Howe, race director, preliminary plans including the finish and starting lines for the stopover were accepted. The finish line for the drivers, who will be arriving by approximately 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, the 21st, will be approximately three quarters of a mile south of Peterson auto wrecking near Highway 59 S. For the Thursday morning start, the snowmobiles will be convoyed up the river to avoid inner city traffic, and then to a point approximately one mile north of the Joppru's Inc. warehouse near Highway 59 N., where the final leg of the race will begin.

A driver's meeting will be held at the Eagles club at about 6:30 p.m. Jan. 21 through the cooperation of the Sons of Norway, who agreed to change their meeting night. Northwestern hospital has agreed to station an ambulance at the finish line, and

Sparby Attends MSBA Delegate Assembly Meet

Wallace Sparby of Thief River Falls will be among school board members from throughout Minnesota to meet today and Tuesday in Minneapolis to discuss their 1976 legislative goals and priorities.

Official delegates—148 in all—are attending the 14th annual delegate assembly of the Minnesota school boards association (MSBA). Sparby is a delegate from the association's Area 26.

Major speakers will include Joan Growe, secretary of state; Howard Casmey, education commissioner; and members of the Minnesota legislature.

Topics to be discussed include the open meeting law; retirement funding; unrequested leave, seniority and tenure; school board elections and campaign disclosures; labor relations and some 35 legislative resolutions.

Resolutions adopted by the delegate assembly will be submitted to MSBA's entire membership on January 14, 1976, at the association's annual business meeting for final approval or rejection. Resolutions to be considered by the delegate assembly have been submitted by local school boards, individual school board members and the MSBA board of directors.

Crime Council Meet Set For TRF Dec. 10

Next meeting of the Region A advisory council, governor's commission on crime prevention and control, will be held in Thief River Falls December 10.

The regular business meeting will start at 4 p.m., one hour after the budget committee meeting. A meeting to study and offer recommendations on 1976 grant applications will be held at 7 p.m. in the district courtroom in the courthouse.

Township Officers Hold Annual Meet Here

MINNESOTA TOWNSHIP NEWS

President Ervin Strandquist Reviews State Ass'n. Activities

Officers and directors were elected and reports given on state activities and county land use when the annual meeting of the Pennington county township officers association was held Friday evening at the county courthouse in Thief River Falls. Approximately 50 township officers and guests were in attendance at the meeting.

Albert Koop of rural Thief River Falls was reelected president of the county association at a reorganization of the board following the meeting. Wallace Tieman of Goodridge was reelected vice president and Henry Panek of Goodridge was reelected secretary-treasurer. Tieman is delegate to the state association meeting being held today in Little Falls.

Reelected to three-year terms on the board of directors were Tieman and Orlan Stolaas of rural Oklee. Lloyd Noreen of St. Hilaire was elected to a two-year unexpired term to succeed Donald Knutson who has moved from the county.

Ervin Strandquist of Newfolden, state president of the Minnesota association of township officers, reviewed activities of the association and pending and proposed legislation expected on the state and national level during the coming year.

Among items mentioned were the association's opposition to a statewide building code which would dictate the types of buildings which could be constructed on farm and city property, and continued efforts of the association to retain revenue sharing funds for townships and small communities. There has been legislation introduced to remove townships and communities with less than 1,000 population from revenue sharing participation.

Marvin Foss Home Burned November 24

Fire destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Foss about a mile east of Viking about 2:50 a.m. on Friday, November 21. Most of the family's possessions were lost in the blaze which started in the upper part of the building near the chimney.

The family had been living in the 24x32 frame building on a temporary basis while building a new log home at the same site. Mrs. Foss said the fire awakened her and that she and her husband took the two children, four-year-old Jeff and six-year-old Jodi, to the family car nearby.

Newfolden fire department responded to the call but was unable to save the building. The family has rented a small trailer for living quarters and expects to have the log house completed in several months.

District Officer Speaks At Mrs. Jaycees Dinner

Cindee Hoialman of Fosston, District Vice president of the Mrs. Jaycees, was guest speaker at the Thief River Falls Mrs. Jaycees annual November dinner meeting held at the local golf club. In her presentation, she gave a resume of the organizational levels of the Mrs. Jaycees of Minnesota.

Accompanying Mrs. Hoialman to the meeting, was Peggy Evenson of Fosston. Other guests were Jackie Schwietz, Ione Markely, Cheryl Rugland, Janet Mork, Judy Evenson, Leone Hunter and Fran Schrotenboer.

During the event, Faith Pladson was initiated as a new member.

President Judy Dimich presided at the brief business meeting. She also read a letter from Senator Corbid in response to the one written by the Mrs. Jaycees concerning the bill which will allocate funds for a museum in St. Paul.

State delegate Muriel Olin reminded members of the charter banquet at Plummer.

Also discussed were the Halloween party sponsored for the elderly, the Charity ball, Thanksgiving basket project, the identification bracelet sales, the Jaycees radio days, the children's Christmas party and Operation Christmas, the Jaycees annual project.

Homemakers Of River Valley Plan Christmas

Christmas events were discussed and the club's Christmas party was set when the River Valley Homemakers club met recently at the Richard Rustan home.

The discussion began with the Pennington County homemakers Christmas party. It is set for December 5 at the Redeemer Lutheran church with each club responsible for bringing three dozen cookies and a centerpiece for the table. It was noted that the event will include music by the Senior Citizens band and a demonstration on making Christmas decorations.

Following a discussion on providing gifts to the patients at the Fergus Falls State hospital, members voted to participate in the project by donating $5.

The club's Christmas party was set for Sunday, December 28, at the Richard Radniecki home. The event will include a turkey supper and door prizes.

The meeting concluded with the lesson, "Entertaining With Foods." Presenting the lesson were Mrs. Rustan and Mrs. Virgil Radniecki.

Annual County Homemakers Yule Party Set

Pennington county Homemakers' Christmas party will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the Redeemer Lutheran church fellowship hall. This party is open to anyone who is a member of a homemaker's club in Pennington county.

The program will include a demonstration on making Christmas decorations, music by the Senior citizens band, drawings for door prizes and lunch contributed by the homemaker's clubs.

Furuseth-Gaffney Vows Spoken In Minneapolis

A banner in the bride's chosen colors of burgandy and dusty rose graced the chancel at Mount Carmel Lutheran church in Minneapolis for the wedding of Miss Sandra Lee Furuseth of this city and Raymond Thomas Gaffney both of Minneapolis.

The banner, inscribed with "And the two shall become one," and the couple's names, featured a dove and three candles, emphasizing the lighting of the marriage candle ceremony that followed the exchanging of the vows. Also accenting the three in one theme of the bride, the groom and Christ, were wrought iron candelabra with three candles, lining the full-length, white carpeted aisle. Arrangements of white football mums and bridal roses graced the candlelit altar. On the altar ring was the white Bible which the bride's mother had received from her husband on her wedding day.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Furuseth of this city and the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaffney. Special guests were the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Olson.

The ecumenical ceremony took place on Saturday, September 20, at 4:30 p.m., with Rev. John F. Palmquist and Rev. Bernard Vedder, OMI, chaplain at the College of St. Thomas, officiating. Organist was Jane Nienaber, who played Buxtehude's "Magnificat Primi Toni," Peeters' "Awake My Heart, With Gladness," and Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," as the guests were seated. Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary" and "Trumpet Tune," were selected for the processional and recessional. During the ceremony, John Wideen sang "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer." As a special touch the bride and groom paused during the recessional and honored their mother and aunt by presenting each with a long-stemmed red rose.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown styled in empire silhouette with an attached, wind swept, chapel-length train. Venise lace, dotted with seed pearls, enhanced the bodice and formed the cuffs of her long, tapered sleeves. For the total look, she wore a hooded cathedral length veil, also edged with Venise lace. She carried a modified cascade of pink and white roses, white carnations, and stephanotis with touches of babies' breath.

The bride's personal attendants were her sister-in-law, Kristi Furuseth, and a cousin, Mary Furuseth.

Matron of honor was Diane Gunderson, a friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Barb Hart, a friend of the couple, and Carol Gaffney, a sister of the groom. All wore identical floor-length gowns of a dusty rose jersey with high necklines, tapered, long sleeves and matching hoods. In their hair, they wore babies' breath tinted dusty pink. Each attendant carried a nosegay of pink carnations, autumn gold daisies and babies' breath with cascading pink ribbon streamers.

Flower girl was the bride's cousin, Lisa Furuseth. She wore a colonial styled floor-length gown of pink eyelet featuring a dusty rose floral print. The gown was styled with short puffy sleeves and high neckline, trimmed with white lace. Her matching lace trimmed bonnet, complemented by a cluster of dusty rose babies' breath, was tied under her chin with a maroon ribbon, matching the ribbon that encircled her empire waistline. She carried a white basket filled with pink roses and carnations, babies' breath and ribbon streamers.

Todd Shea carried the rings on a white satin pillow trimmed with satin ribbon streamers and white babies' breath. Like the men of the wedding party, he wore a tuxedo of burgundy crushed velvet with black trousers, dusty pink ruffled shirt and a pink carnation boutonniere. The groom wore an all white tuxedo with white ruffled shirt and a boutonniere of pink roses and white stephanotis.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Russ Gaffney. Groomsmen were Pat Hart, a friend of the couple, and Jon Furuseth, a brother of the bride. Ushers were Jim Danelski, a friend of the groom, and Peder Furuseth, a cousin of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Furuseth selected a beige floor-length gown and matching, long-sleeved jacket with brown trim. Her corsage was of pink roses, white carnations and babies' breath. A similar corsage was worn by the groom's aunt who was attired in a green chiffon, floor-length gown with long, sheer sleeves.

The parents of the bride hosted a hot hors d'oeuvre and canape reception at the Midland Hills Country club following the ceremony. Approximately 350 relatives and friends attended. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. James Walker, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Russ Bathen, friends of the couple. Tracey Margis, a friend of the couple, presided at the guest book.

On a special table was a three-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and decorated with dusty pink roses. Topping the cake was a Christogram surrounded by a cluster of fresh flowers, corresponding with the bride's bouquet. Greens and vigil lights surrounded the base. The head table, floor-draped in white, was also banked along one side with greens, vigil lights and a profusion of flowers in shades of pink, autumn gold and white.

A dance followed the reception.

The evening prior to the wedding, the groom hosted a dinner at Little Jack's for the wedding party and the immediate families.

The bride is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the Minnesota school of Business, Minneapolis. She is employed by Transportations Systems in Minneapolis, where the groom is also employed. He is a graduate of Edison high school, St. Thomas college and William Mitchell Law school.

Following a wedding trip along the North Shore drive, the couple is at home at 3639 Benjamin Street, N.E., in Minneapolis.

Hodge Podge Homemakers Set Yule Party

November meeting of the Hodge Podge homemakers club was held at the home of Mrs. Carol Petersen.

The County Homemakers Christmas party, set for December 5 at Redeemer Lutheran church was discussed. It was also announced that an indoor horticulture lesson will be presented December 11 at the courthouse meeting room.

The lesson based on entertaining was presented by Mary Numedahl and Linda Hansen. They demonstrated a variety of table settings and centerpieces and also distributed cocktail meatballs and onion party puffs for sampling.

Lunch was served following the meeting by Carol Petersen.

The next meeting of the Hodge Podge homemakers club will be held December 16 at the home of Mary Anderson. Gail Kenville will present a demonstration on Christmas decorations. Each member is asked to bring six and one-half dozen cookies for exchanging.

Fruit Of The Spirit Discussed At WCTU Meet

"Fruit of the Spirit," was the theme of the program given at the Alice Mae Stuart Thief River Falls Women's Christian Temperance union November meeting held at Our Saviors Lutheran church.

The devotional meditation, based on the theme, was given by the Spiritual Life director, Mrs. Earl Ripley. She stated that the fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness and self control. In stressing love, joy, faithfulness, and meekness, she read I John 4:8; John 15:11; Gal. 6:9; and I Peter 5:5. She defined each by saying that love is of supreme importance; Joy is conferred by Christ upon His followers and although Christians should be the happiest of all people, they too often forget to count their blessings; Peace, also a gift of Christ, includes inner calmness under all circumstances, and living in harmony with others; Long-suffering or patience requires great effort in 'idling the motor instead of stripping the gears'; Kindness or gentleness ends with a sweet spirit that always wins; Goodness or uprightness hates evil but loves the sinner instead of compromising with sin and gossiping about the sinner; Faithfulness is required as it is that on which the reward is based rather than on success; Meekness is based on humility, rather than pride as God gives grace to the humble; and Temperance is the same as self control. She concluded by stressing the folly of social drinking as one drink removes inhibitions that govern self-control. By living in the spirit and depending on Christ for every step, nothing further is required.

A number of the members attending participated in the program by reading the clippings brought by Mrs. Green. Agnes Longren read, "Let Me take time for Beauty; Mrs. Alfred Haugen, "Tobacco Invalids". From the Thief River Falls Times, Mrs. Olga Larson, read "Teen-age drinking-Understanding Alcoholism," and "Success of Alcohol Treatment Unknown," and Hildur Lian read "At 50, Happiness Is" and Ellen Spray's Kitchen Karnival comparing Nero of Rome to Madeline Murray O'Hare.

The meeting began with singing "Save the Nation", with Agnes Longren as pianist. Mrs. Olga Larson gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Otto Netteland, the secretary's report. The birthday of Geneva Overum was noted by members signing a card. A welcome was also extended to Mrs. George Netteland, a guest at the meeting. Lunch was served by Mrs. Hildur Lian and Mrs. Otto Netteland.

The next meeting of the WCTU will be held December 9 at the Valley Home. A Christmas program will be given and special treats will be served.

Continue Fringes

In making its plans to crack down on certain previously untaxed fringe benefits, the treasury department indicates that some others will be left alone, including: free air travel for airline employees and travel agents; discounts for store employees; free parking in the company lot or garage; employer-paid dues in professional associations; and free taxi rides when working late in a dangerous neighborhood.

Physical And Self-Exam Cut Cancer Deaths

Breast cancer is the most common fatal cancer for women.

At least half of the breast cancers are incurable by the time they are diagnosed, but an annual physical examination for every woman over 45 could substantially increase her life expectancy, according to Dr. Victor Gilbertsen, director of the cancer detection center (CDC) at the University of Minnesota.

In fact, a 25-year study at the CDC, compared with U.S. census bureau figures, indicated that women treated for breast cancer diagnosed at the CDC live as long as women in the general population who have never had breast cancer.

From 1948 to 1969, the CDC gave 43,000 yearly physical examinations to 8,000 women 45 years of age and older. University physicians found 59 breast cancers. Five years after detection and treatment 58 of 59 (98 per cent) were still alive, Gilbertsen said.

Of the 41 cancers found before 1964, which could be followed for at least 10 years, 35 patients or 85 per cent were alive 10 years later. Of the 29 cancers found prior to 1959, which could be followed for at least 15 years, 22 patients or 76 per cent were alive 15 years later.

Between 1948 and 1973, the CDC found a total of 76 breast cancers. Another 60 were discovered between annual CDC physicals—mostly by self-examination. The survival rates of this group (76 per cent at five years, 61 per cent at 10 years, and 50 per cent at 15 years) were also better than a national survey group.

In 1972 the National cancer institute survey of the same age group (average age 59) showed absolute survival rates for breast cancer patients of 57 per cent at five years, 39 per cent at 10 years and 28 per cent at 15 years.

"A periodic physical examination by a physician, coupled with regular self-examination, seems to be an important factor especially since the cost is low compared to other early diagnostic methods," Dr. Gilbertsen said.

"The examination also contributes to a woman's general good health through early diagnosis of other health problems such as hypertension or diabetes."

What do cat feces and raw meat have in common? Both can pass an organism called toxoplasmosis to the pregnant mother, says The National Foundation-March of Dimes. The result may be birth defects. Expectant mothers should avoid handling litter boxes or eating undercooked meat.

Alcoholism: A Continuing Task To Cope With

According to the Northwestern mental health center at Crookston, progress has been made in coping with the many problems related to the excessive use of alcohol, but much remains to be done. This is obvious when it is observed that:

Probably fewer than 10 per cent of the nation's alcoholic people are receiving the treatment they need; Less than half of the nation's hospitals will admit patients with a primary diagnosis of alcoholism; Most communities continue to jail acutely intoxicated people without referring them to treatment for an overdose of a drug. (Alcohol is a drug.); A great majority of health professionals remain unwilling to accept responsibility for the treatment of alcoholic people.

Other measures of our alcohol-related problems are the numbers of people involved. For example: An estimated nine million Americans suffer from alcoholism; The most recent estimates indicate that one of every three alcoholic Americans is a woman, up from one in six ten years ago. At least four other persons are affected by the behavior of each problem drinker; and 40 per cent of all fatal automobile accidents are related to the misuse of alcohol.

The cost of alcoholism is high in economic as well as human terms: It is estimated that $25 billion is lost to the economy each year because of alcohol misuse.

Problem drinking is on a sharp upswing among our youth, with indicators showing that the use of alcohol is reaching into ever lower age brackets.

Clearly, we face a continuing task of challenging proportions as we seek to promote a more intelligent and responsible use of alcohol in this country.

The federal government supports research and programs to aid in coping with the complex problems in this field. Though these activities it seeks to serve as a catalyst to the states, local communities, volunteer groups, and individuals who initiate and support their own community-oriented activities for preventing and reducing alcohol problems.

An informed, aroused public is perhaps the most important continuing need in the fight against alcoholism. For more information, write to the National institute on alcohol abuse and alcoholism, ADAMHA, P.O. Box 2345, Rockville, MD 20852, or contact the Northwestern mental health center, Crookston, 281-2940.

Mineral Data In Minnesota Made Public

Minnesota department of natural resources reports that mineral information based on drilling of 86 test holes by mining companies has been made available to the public during the past two years.

The 86 drill cores are from exploration conducted in both the middle precambrian rocks of central Minnesota and the greenstones of the northern half of the state, according to Elwood Rafn, director of the division of minerals.

He said that results of the drilling indicated extensive iron-sulfide deposits in central Minnesota.

"In the Tower-Soudan area of St. Louis county, three drill holes intersected significant copper mineralization," said Rafn. "Extensive hematite and iron-sulfide iron formation was indicated in several drill holes from northwestern Beltrami county."

At present, the minerals division has cores from over 240 base metal exploration drill holes on open file, including many from the Duluth complex, Rafn said.

These drill cores are available for examination at the minerals division drill core library in Hibbing.

A list of the open file drill core including drill hole locations and other information is available by contacting David G. Meineke, Minerals exploration supervisor, division of minerals, p.o. box 567, Hibbing, Minnesota 55746.

Be In One The 30 Participating Stores

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Thanksgiving day at our house was just a family affair with our two daughters and their families and Tiny Grandma as our guests.

Nicknames don't always suit the person, but in the case of Tiny Grandma, the nickname suits her perfectly.

Several have asked me to identify Tiny Grandma, whom I've mentioned through the years in Kitchen Karnival. She is my husband's mother. She is short with white wavy hair and blue eyes that sparkle when she laughs. She received her nickname from our oldest grandson, who as a toddler, found it confusing to have two Grandma Sprays. To differentiate between the two, he spoke of her as Tiny Grandma and I became Big Old Grandma, a name which he later shortened to just Gramma.

Tiny Grandma came from a family of eight children. Since she was the oldest, she learned to cook at an early age and excelled in that field. She was very devoted to her family and even after she was married, she would help out when she was needed. Of her six children, she raised five. Included were twin boys—one died at nine months; I married the other.

Tiny Grandma has known much hardship and a great deal of sorrow. Her husband died of cancer when she was in her early fifties. Of her brothers and sisters, she now has only one of each. In discussing her hardships, she always says that giving up housekeeping was the hardest, as next to her family, she loved her home, even though at times she was gone for months helping out at the home of some relative.

The past few years have taken their toll. Her vision is fading and she isn't always right about events during the past years since she began having slight strokes. However, she still gets feisty if someone contradicts her, when she knows she is right. Even now, she likes to be neat and clean. She is the only one I've known that could can beets and have a clean apron when she was through.

Our family was fortunate to have Tiny Grandma with us on Thanksgiving day. She will be 91 on Wednesday.

To correspond with the Bicentennial celebration, today's recipe comes from Tiny Grandma's file. It is for Vinegar Sauce Cake. This sauce is to be served over white cake, similar to a lemon sauce.

Vinegar Sauce

1½ cups sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt

Method: Combine sugar and flour with a little cold water, add remaining ingredients. Mixing well. Add 1½ pints hot water and boil for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Serve hot or cold.

Subcommittee Studies Minn. Liquor Prices

Wholesale liquor prices took a slight jump in October in spite of a 1973 state law that was to promote competition and reduce liquor prices, a House subcommittee learned on November 18.

The subcommittee is looking into the prices of liquor to see if the law, which went into effect June 16 after a series of court suits, is doing what it is supposed to do. Chairman Stanley Fudro (D-Mpls.) said, "We aren't saying the prices are going up. We want to find out if they are."

Joseph Novak, director of the state division of liquor, told the subcommittee that wholesale prices of liquor went down between 10 and 12 per cent shortly after the law went into effect, but then increased slightly, about two per cent from September to October.

The 1973 law requires distillers to sell their liquor to any wholesaler in the state, ending brand monopolies that some wholesalers have had for almost 40 years. The liquor industry challenged the law and in June the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the decision of the lower courts, keeping the law on the books.

Novak said wholesale prices rose slightly after wholesalers met in September with federal officials who warned them they would be violating federal law if they sold below cost. During the December mini session the subcommittee plans to ask wholesalers why prices went up.

When asked if retail stores are passing the lower prices down to their customers, Novak said, "In some instances, yes; in some, no". According to a small sample survey of random liquor stores by Novak's office, prices in the metro area have come down, but outstate prices have not dropped as much, if at all.

Road Deaths Still Down In Minnesota

For the tenth straight month, Minnesota's 1975 road toll remains below the record levels set last year. At the end of October, the current year's total is 639-67 below the 706 for the first 10 months last year.

"There is no doubt that we will finish the year with a better record than last year," commented Minnesota Department of public safety commissioner Edward G. Novak. "The only question is by how much.

"If our luck holds at this pace through December, it is conceivable that we could finish with under 800—a figure we haven't matched since 1962. A good deal also depends on the weather and road conditions during the remainder of the year."

Though the overall total is down, two other categories—pedestrians and motorcycle deaths are up over last year. At the end of October, motorcycle fatals totaled 58, compared with 49 during the full 12 months of 1974. Pedestrian deaths for the first 10 months are 94—or one over the same period last year.

"I really believe that the driving public is beginning to be more aware of the relation between lower speeds and lives saved," Novak said, "and the more aware we are—including the dangers of drinking and driving—the greater the saving in this needless loss of lives."

Unemployment Rate In Minn. 4.8% In Oct.

Minnesota's unemployment rate was 4.8 per cent in October, down .1 of a percentage point from the revised September rate of 4.9 per cent, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing, Minnesota department of employment services, said recently.

The October rate was 1.4 per cent above October a year ago and compares with a national rate of 7.8 per cent for October. None of these rates are seasonally adjusted. (The national seasonally adjusted rate for October was 8.6 per cent and is the publicly announced rate.)

The number of persons unemployed in Minnesota in October was 87,500, down 200 from September but up 26,800 from October a year ago. The number of persons employed in October was 1,726,500, up 5,800 from September but 19,800 below October a year ago.

Minnesota's labor force in October was 1,814,000 persons, up 5,500 from September and up 7,000 from October of last year.

School Safety Patrol Award Forms Mailed

All schools in the state with school safety patrols or school bus patrols are eligible for and urged to compete in this year's safety patrol award program sponsored by the Minnesota safety council.

Written report forms required for entry into the award competition were mailed to all elementary schools in the state this week and must be completed and returned by mail no later than December 15 to be eligible for consideration.

Any school which has not received the forms by December 1 should contact the Minnesota safety council, 145 Hamm building, St. Paul, 55102.

After the written reports are scored, those school patrols that qualify will be inspected by troopers of the Minnesota state patrol. A final selection of winners will then be made by an award committee, and the Minnesota safety council will present plaques for the Award of honor, Outstanding achievement and Meritorious achievement.

Presentation of the awards will be made at the Safety council's Governor's safety conference in May of next year.

Good Holiday Host's Guests Go Home Sober

Minnesota AAA recently issued its annual appeal to holiday party givers to be "First A Friend, Then A Host."

The motoring organization points out that alcohol is involved in one-half of all fatal traffic accidents and for that reason urges hosts to take steps which will allow guests to drive home safely.

The AA says that the true test of being a good holiday host is accomplished by following these rules:

(1) Always have plenty of coffee, soft drinks; non-alcoholic punch and food available for your guests;

(2) When the hour is getting late, turn off the supply of alcoholic beverages and turn on the supply of coffee and food;

(3) and Don't encourage any guest to have "one for the road." And make those last ones for the road—coffee, tea, pop or punch.

Also, (4) Don't let your guest drive home if you feel he has had too much to drink. Call a taxi or arrange for someone else to give him a lift;

(5) and Never press drinks on an unwilling guest. Respect your guest's wishes if he says: "No, thanks" or "Make mine coffee."

Accepted For Class At AVTI

Lori A. Pederson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Pederson of rural Thief River Falls, has been accepted for admission in the clerical class at the local area vocational-technical institute, according to information received from the AVTI admissions office.

Lori will be a 1976 graduate of Lincoln high school.

Soc. Security Man Here Tues.

A representative of the Grand Forks social security office will be in Thief River Falls at the city auditorium on Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Comments On Milk Merging Date Extended

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) has extended from November 28 to December 27 the time for commenting on its recommendations to amend and merge four Midwest federal milk marketing orders.

Affected orders are the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Duluth-Superior, Southeastern Minnesita-Northern Iowa, Minnesota-North Dakota, and Eastern South Dakota orders. The latter would not be merged with the other four orders, but five of its most northerly counties would be added to the proposed new marketing area.

H. L. Forest, dairy official in USDA's Agricultural marketing service, said the recommended merger is based on a public hearing held in Minneapolis in November 1974. The hearing was held at the request of dairy farmer cooperative associations in the markets. At the request of some of the producer and industry representatives, the deadline for commenting has now been extended to December 27, Mr. Forest said.

Persons wishing to submit comments should send them to the Hearing clerk, room 112-A, U.S. department of agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, where anyone may review them.

Poster Contest Cites Resource Of Handicapped

Participation in the national poster contest for students in high school and college is encouraged by the president's committee on employment of the handicapped and the AMVETS in their campaign to let employers know about handicapped workers.

The theme "Handicapped People: An American Asset" should emphasize handicapped people as a manpower resource and other ways in which handicapped people contribute to our nation's well-being.

Two cash scholarships of $1,000 will be provided by the AMVETS national service foundation to the national first prize winners in two categories: High school students in grades 9 through 12; undergraduate students in colleges, junior colleges, universities and technical schools. National winners will also receive round-trip air fare to Washington, D.C., and $100 for hotel and meal expenses while attending the annual meeting of the President's committee on employment of the handicapped, where they will receive their prizes during the spring of 1976.

The national judging panel will include advertising and fine arts professionals as well as representatives from the President's Committee and the AMVETS. All entries must be made through the Minnesota State Council for the Handicapped, Metro Square, Suite 492, Seventh and Robert Streets, Saint Paul, Minnesota 55101, and should be sent by January 15, 1976. Further details regarding the poster contest are available in area schools.

Happiness Is The Times

Three Named To National Heart Ass'n.

John T. Shepherd, M.D., M.Ch., D.Sc., professor in the department of physiology and biophysics at the Mayo clinic and director for research at the Mayo foundation, Rochester, was installed recently as president of the American heart association (AHA) at its 1975 annual meeting held in Anaheim, Calif.

Two other Minnesota heart association (MHA) volunteers elected to national positions recently include Peter F. Staudohar, 3111 Greysolon road, Duluth, as a MHA representative on AHA's fund raising advisory and policy (FRAP) committee, and Allan Stone, 4257 Logan Avenue South, Minneapolis, Minn., as Regional Vice President-elect.

Dr. Shepherd, Staudohar and Stone have dedicated a total of 33 years to the work of the Heart association, which has as its main purpose the reduction of premature death and disability caused by heart and circulatory diseases.

Host Families For European Guests Needed

Thief River Falls area families are needed to host English-speaking European visitors as guests in their homes for a 10-day period during 1976, it was announced today by the American Host foundation.

American Host is one of the few non-governmental programs designed to show the American way of life to foreign visitors by pairing them with American families, and has been endorsed by the American Revolution Bicentennial administration as a nationwide home hospitality program for the Bicentennial year.

Now in its fifteenth year, American Host has opened doors to better understanding for more than 9,000 European visitors who have passed on their new understanding of America to their colleagues and friends.

Being a host family is open to anyone who has the desire to increase understanding and friendship between Americans and Europeans. Host families are required to provide a private room, meals for their guest, the opportunity to meet their friends and neighbors and to see places of interest in the area.

American Host arranges all transportation. Host families are asked to meet their guest upon arrival in their area. Visitors and host families have an opportunity to correspond for at least a month before meeting.

Arrangements for participating as a Host Family can be made by writing to: American Host-Meet the Americans, Hotel Commodore Suite 2100, Park Avenue at 42nd street, New York, New York 10017, (212) 683-6567.

Mrs. Russell Lane visited with her grandmother, Mrs. Agnes Rux, at the Art Armstrong home in Bray Friday evening. Sunday Mrs. Lane was a caller at the Dwight Ortloff home in Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Moen, Keith and Cory brought birthday anniversary greetings to his mother, Mrs. Morris Moen, at Newfolden Sunday afternoon.

Shower and Birthday

A combination baby shower and birthday party was held Sunday afternoon, Nov. 23, at the Alfred Knutson home in Sanders. Honored were the Knutson's infant daughter, Carrie, and Mr. Knutson's mother, Mrs. Melvin Nelson of Middle River, who observed her birthday anniversary the following day. Highlighting the luncheon table was a bouquet of red roses from Mr. Knutson to his wife and daughter, and a bouquet of blue and white carnations from Mr. Knutson to his mother. Hostess was Mrs. Jim Hutchinson, assisted by Mrs. Nelson. Guests were Mrs. Dave Salvhus and son, Mrs. Clifford Sumners and boys, Mrs. Mike Haglund, of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Roger Peterson and girls of Grygla, Mrs. Doug Johnson and son of Gatzke, Mrs. John Gudvangen of Middle River, and Charles Lamb and children of St. Hilaire. Pot luck lunch was served, and Mrs. Sumners brought the birthday cake which was frosted in white and trimmed with floral designs.

David Hamlin of rural Red Lake Falls was a Friday supper and evening guest at the Russell Lane home. Echard Lane was a Saturday caller.

Workshop At Northland CC Stresses Media

Twenty area high schools, represented by 25 librarians and media specialists, recently attended a media-learning workshop held on the Northland community college campus on November 18.

Conducting the informative workshop were May Isaacson, librarian, and Orren Bendickson, biology instructor and audio-visual director, both on the staff at Northland.

A major portion of the workshop was devoted to a better understanding and function of Minitex, a cooperative interlibrary loan operating from the University of Minnesota, and its availability to area high schools through Northland. Carolyn Johnson from Minitex in the Twin Cities, through the use of a slide presentation, explained the reason for Minitex and the learning resources available to all students, regardless of the economic status of a particular area.

Bendickson addressed the group on audio-visual hardware and its capabilities while Mrs. Isaacson presented review of the growing pains of the Northland community college library and the many services it provides to schools and communities in Northwest Minnesota. Each presentation of the agenda was followed by a question and answer session.

Area schools that participated were: Karlstad, Grygla, Newfolden, Gary, Roseau, Thief River Falls, Clearbrook, Gonvick, Middle River, Greenbush, Ada, Fertile, Oklee, Hallock, Fosston, Waubun, Mahnomen, Red Lake Falls, Warren and Fisher.

Call For Oil, Gas Industry Deregulation

A member of the Energy advocates, an informal group of businessmen associated with the oil industry, recently called for federal deregulation of the oil and gas industry to encourage increased exploration and development of domestic energy supplies.

Speaking was R.C. Earlougher, chairman of Goodsey, Earlougher, inc., petroleum consultants, who told the audience that any short-term price increase that would result from deregulation of the oil and gas industry would be offset by long-term benefits.

D. W. Calvert, executive vice president of the Williams companies, another member of the three-man Advocate's panel appearing at the Minnesota press club, outlined a proposed National energy plan.

In that plan, Calvert called for legislation to allow interstate natural gas users to purchase gas directly from producers, intrastate pipelines and other purchasers of intrastate gas.

Calvert also recommended that propane be freed from price controls in 1976 and that an allocation program to assure available propane supplies to traditional markets be continued.

Calvert also said that his company's pipeline transportation subsidiary (Williams pipe line company) has the capability to increase its volume of crude oil shipments to Minnesota.

(Minnesota faces a curtailment of shipments of Canadian crude oil which now make up approximately 90 per cent of the crude oil shipped to Minnesota.)

"Regardless of what many of the politicians say, the oil business is competitive and the price of gasoline and other products at the pump responds readily to the law of supply and demand.

"Deregulation will result in the return to a healthy domestic oil and gas industry which in time will reduce our country's dependency on oil from the Middle-East," Earlougher said.

A Tulsa attorney specializing in oil and gas matters, Fred Dorwart, urged a more realistic attitude on the part of governmental leaders and the consuming public towards the problems of future energy supply.

Dorwart noted, "A stubborn refusal to own up to the true current cost of the consumer's long-range welfare is making a future difficult problem into a future impossible one. We must pay now if we want to maintain the productive capacity necessary to enjoy our future comforts."

The unborn baby is especially sensitive to the mother's health habits in the first month and a half of pregnancy, says the National Foundaton-March of Dimes. Good personal health care before and during childbearing age is always important, the Foundation reminds.

Hope For Same Snow And Ice Removal Level

With less personnel the Minnesota highway department hopes to reach the same level of winter snow and ice control, state maintenance engineer L. F. McNamara said.

Safe travel for road users is the goal of the highway department's snow removal plan. The plan is operational on more than 12,000 miles of trunk highways, including the interstate system.

Because of the reduction in personnel, McNamara explained, the average motorist may notice a corresponding reduction in the level of snow and ice removal this winter.

Less motor fuel tax revenue and increased inflation account for the decreased maintenance budget, he said.

Deadline Today For Seminar Applications

Information and application forms are available at Lincoln high school for the 1976 Hugh O'Brian youth foundation leadership seminar on America's Bicentennial, which is endorsed by the national association of secondary school principals as well as the American association of school administrators and the council of chief state school officers. Application deadline is today.

Each year the foundation enables selected high school sophomores to participate in a week-long, all-expense-paid program designed to promote the development of leadership qualities. The 1976 program will be an in-depth leadership seminar on our nation's horizons, to be held April 3-10 in Washington, D.C. The American Revolution Bicentennial administration will assist in developing the seminar content.

Each high school in the state of Minnesota may be represented by one tenth grade student, and the final selection of a student to represent the state will be made by a group of the state's prominent citizens. The state selection procedures are coordinated by the U.S. Jaycees.

Mama Underpaid

Housewives who believe they are "underpaid" get confirmation from a study by the Social security administration. It finds the value of the work done by the average housewife to be $5,500 a year, up from $4,705 three years ago. Work done by younger wives with children at home is worth even more—about $7,500.

QUESTIONS Answered for VETERANS

Q—My mother receives Veterans Administration dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) based on the service-connected death of my father during World War II. Is she eligible for extra financial benefits since she is ill and requires almost constant attention?

A—She would be eligible for an additional amount of DIC if she is shown to be helpless or so nearly helpless as to require the regular aid and attendance of another person or nursing home care.

Q—I am a 20-year-old student attending college under the Veterans Administration's program for orphans of deceased veterans. Now that I am married, will my $270 monthly allowance be increased?

A—No. The law makes no provision for payment of increased allowance for dependents of eligible persons training under the war orphans and widows educational assistance program.

Q—I have been on active duty for the last ten years and have a year of obligated service remaining. If I start my college career in 1977, my four years of learning would extend into the 1980's. Would my veterans' benefits under the GI Bill finance this education?

A—Yes. For individuals still on active duty the present law provides for educational assistance up to ten years foloowing the last honorable discharge or release from active duty.

13th Teacher Of Year May Be Nominated

Thirteenth annual search for Minnesota teacher of the year is underway.

The program—which has produced two national teachers of the year and placed several others in the top five—is sponsored by the Minnesota state fair, the Minnesota Education association (MEA) and the Minnesota congress of parents, teachers and students (PTSA—formerly PTA).

The 1974 Minnesota teacher of the year—Robert G. Heyer, 9th grade physical science teacher in Mounds View's Johanna junior high—is the reigning national teacher of the year. The 1975 Minnesota teacher of the year—Denneth C. Dvergsten, science teacher in Roseville's Kellogg senior high—is being nominated by education commissioner Howard B. Casmey for 1976 national teacher of the year, to be announced next spring.

In addition to being nominated for national honors, the Minnesota teacher of the year receives a $500 scholarship from the state fair.

The Minnesota teacher, whose name will be announced during traditional ceremonies August 29 (first Sunday of the state fair), will represent the many thousands of teachers in Minnesota, explains MEA president Donald C. Hill.

Nomination forms for the 1976 Minnesota teacher of the year are being distributed to more than 400 local school boards, 700 PTSA chapters, county agents, service organizations and nearly 500 MEA local associations, as well as to news media and other pertinent agencies throughout the state.

Nominations must be postmarked no later than Feb. 2, 1976.

Town Officers Hold Annual Meet Friday

Also noted was a proposal that mercury vapor yard lights and other yard lights be eliminated as an energy-saving measure. Strandquist also reviewed the association's publication which includes articles of particular interest to township officers.

Terry Courneya, Pennington county agent, spoke briefly on land use and planning and answered questions from township officers present. He noted that township meetings on a county zoning ordiance would likely be held during the winter and that township officials with questions or suggestions could contact him in the next few weeks.

Retirement Options

Sorting out the new tax-protected retirement programs, there are two basic types: Individual retirement accounts and HR10, or Keogh, retirement programs. IRAs can be sponsored by employers who don't wish to set up a company-wide program, by individuals whose employers don't have a program, and by those who receive a lump sum distribution from a previous pension plan. HR10 programs are for self-employed individuals or moonlighters.

Use Waste To Make Energy, Cut Pollution

By Jeannie Hanson
University News
Service Intern

What is an anaerobic digestor and how can it help solve the energy crisis?

University of Minnesota researchers Walter Maier and Arnold Fredrickson are working on the design of this machine, which turns crop, forest and animal wastes into natural gas—for heating fuel, power-plant fuel and secondary fuel for diesels and gas turbine engines.

The raw material for this energy machine is the residue of an agricultural and urban state: soybean hulls, waste paper, excess cornstalks, home garbage, wool and cotton fiber, cattle and swine manure, waste grease, oils and waxes and wood shavings, according to Maier, an associate professor of civil and mineral engineering.

In short, the machine uses organic waste to create heat, fuel and electric energy.

The digestor system uses bacteria and enzymes in a low-oxygen environment to convert the raw material to natural gas, fertilizer, carbon dioxide and more bacteria to operate the system. The ratio of plant to animal wastes determines the gas-to-fertilizer ratio in the end product. Part of the organic waste is converted to humus-like residues used for soil-builders like peat moss.

This giant trash and garbage eater fights solid waste pollution, produces at least as much fertilizer as it takes in and creates important energy as well. But it must be made efficient for operation on a large scale.

Engineering problems of the anaerobic digestor are under investigation now at the University. Maier and Fredrickson are concentrating on speeding up the conversion process and on reducing equipment and operating costs.

The exact amount of excess cornstalks in different soil areas is being assessed so that the fertility of the soil will not be diminished with removal of the cornstalks. A total waste disposal-energy extraction system for the future is also being investigated—raw material would be a combination of manures, crop residues and human wastes.

The most efficient size for the basic digestor has not yet been determined. Engineers estimate that one machine for a 400-1,000-acre farm or one for a cluster of farms would be economical possibilities at this point.

"We stress smallness because of the residue problem and the current costs of transportation," Maier said. "The system should be integrated with the conventional farm so that the residues can be easily used for fertilizer there."

The costs and the exact design of the storage, handling, digesting, gas-collecting and residue-disposal components are not yet final. Engineers especially want to minimize the energy expenditure of the system itself: it requires a temperature of 95 degrees F. to operate.

"We're not doing anything that isn't already going on in nature," Maier said. "Our process just concentrates the released methane from decay and decomposition so that it can be used for fuel. We're harnessing the decay process."

Maier estimated that a pilot plant could be available in two years. By that time, the availability and politics of other fuels such as coal, oil and Canadian natural gas might be more clear. Their prices largely determine whether the anaerobic digestor is practical, because its energy costs must compare favorably to theirs.

"Costs for fossil fuels will continue to go up," Maier said. "As oil and gas prices rise, the use of anaerbic digestion will become more economical. In Minnesota it is particularly attractive because we have enough organic residues to equal 70 per cent of the state's present energy consumption.

"As bad as it sounds, the Shah of Iran may have done us a favor. He may have forced us to develop energy alternatives before world coal and oil supplies are used up," Maier said. Among those alternatives is the anaerobic digestor, a system for converting wastes that are available as long as the sun shines.

The rubella (German measles) epidemic of 1964 caused an estimated 50,000 abnormal pregnancies in this country, according to the National Foundation-March of Dimes. To head off another epidemic, routine vaccination of children age one to puberty is recommended.

It's that time of year for after-the-game parties. Since everybody's watching pennies, why not have a homemade pizza party? The kids can put on their own toppings. Just make up several pizzas on cookie sheets the day or night before, cover them with aluminum foil or clear plastic and store in the refrigerator. When the party gang arrives, let them pour on the sauce, cheese and other toppings and pop them in the oven. Half the fun is smelling the pizza cooking. Serve celery, carrots, tomatoes and radishes on a skewer for easy eating, along with milk, fruit punch or soda. Isn't it time the kids made their own fun at home?

DO IT YOURSELF PIZZA

1 (28-7/8 oz.) 2 Complete Cheese Pizza Mix
1 cup sliced onions
1 cup sliced green peppers
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Sliced olives
Sliced pepperoni
Mozzarella Cheese, sliced thin

Prepare pizza dough as directed on package. Spread out on two cookie sheets. Wrap in aluminum foil or clear plastic. Store in refrigerator for future use. Saute onions and peppers separately in margarine. Put these other toppings, sauce from the package and cheese from the package, in bowls for use as toppings when pizza making time comes. Preheat oven to 425°F. Leave the rest up to the guests.

B L Lacertae Are Starlike And Puzzling

by Jeannie Hanson
U of M News Service

"B L Lacertae"—these "starlike objects" are the subject of much current investigation in astronomy. University of Minnesota astronomers John Warner and Wayne Stein and others across the country have pieced together interesting, though incomplete evidence.

So far, 31 B L Lacs have been identified out of millions of stars visible with the largest telescopes. At first they appeared to be variable stars, growing brighter and dimmer by the hour, day, month or year.

Then more puzzling facts were discovered. These "stars" were the source of radio waves and strong infrared light. They had continuous spectra, indicating that non-thermal radiation was being emitted. The radiation was highly polarized. Did this mean they were enclosed in huge dust shells? Or that they were producing "synchrotron radiation," from highly energetic particles spiraling in an immensely strong magnetic field? Astronomers were not sure.

Next, an important clue was found. The B L Lacs were "fuzzy" with faint light emitted from the regions around them, possibly from stars within that "cloud." This meant that they were not single stars. But it created an additional mystery. If they were galaxies, how far away were they? And what is their relation to normal galaxies?

A hypothesis has developed, according to Warner and Stein, that these objects may be assiciated with the nuclei of galaxies in some way. We may be seeing the result of an explosion out of the center of a galaxy. Or the center of an elliptical galaxy itself, where stars are packed a million times more densely than in our Milky Way (an outer arm of our galaxy).

But why would the center of a galaxy explode? Or why would a galaxy emit the combination of radiation coming from B L Lacs? If astronomers knew, they could probably explain quasars as well as the elusive B L Lacs.

Alfred Sorum, Excel Resident, Dies Thursday

Alfred Sorum, 75, a lifetime resident of Excel township, Marshall county, died Thursday at Northwestern hospital.

Funeral services for Alfred Sorum will be held today, (Monday) at 2 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel. Rev. Lloyd Berger, pastor at Zion Lutheran church, will officiate. Interment will be in the Holt cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements. A complete obituary will be in Wednesday's Times.

Some birth defects can be detected before a baby is born, according to the March of Dimes. Using techniques such as ultrasound, electronic monitoring, and amniocentesis, doctors can check the baby's development while it is still in the uterus.

More American teen-age girls are having babies than ever before, reports The National Foundation-March of Dimes. Good prenatal care is especially important for these young mothers, says the MOD, because they are more likely to have complications of pregnancy and dead or damaged infants.

Almer Shager Services Held At Gatzke

Funeral services for Almer Justhes Shager, 76, of Gatzke, were held on Friday at 2 p.m. at the United Lutheran church in Gatzke. Almer Shager died unexpectedly at his home in Rollis township on his birthday, November 25.

Pastor Robert Amundson officiated at the services. As the prelude, the congregation sang "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God". Cindy Yates sang "Behold the Host Arrayed in White," and the United Lutheran choir sang "Oh, God, Our Help in Ages Past". The congregation sang "Now Thank We All Our God" as the recessional. Melanie Lunsetter served as organist and accompanyist. Interment was in the Landstad cemetery near Gatzke, with the Collins Funeral home of Middle River in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were: Arthur, Cheslie and Roy Ruud, Walter and Glenn Lunsetter and Arnt Johnson.

Almer Shager was born on Nov. 25, 1899, in Rollis township, of Marshall county, near Gatzke, to John J. and Martha Shager. He attended school and grew to manhood in the Gatzke community, and was baptized and confirmed into the Lutheran faith there.

Shager farmed his entire life with his brother, John, operating the "Shager Brothers' Farm" in Rollis township, near Gatzke. He was a lifelong member of the former Landstad church and its successor, the United Lutheran church of Gatzke, and was active in a variety of church affairs.

He is survived by one brother: John, of Gatzke; two nieces: Mardella Shager of Glencoe and Mrs. Alan (Rebecca) Gessner of Minneapolis; one nephew: Richard Shager of Stillwater; two grand-nieces, three grandnephews and several cousins.

Shager was preceded in death by his parents and one brother.

Orris Grove, 65, Services Today At Climax

Funeral services for Orris T. Grove, 65, of Crookston and formerly of Climax, are being held today (Monday) at 2 p.m., at Sand Hill Lutheran church at Climax with Rev. Ralph Oakland officiating.

Orris T. Grove was a son of the late Henry and Bertha Grove. He moved to the Climax area in 1911. He attended the Climax school and was married on Nov. 8, 1937 to Sophronia Morgan. He farmed until semi-retirement in June of 1975 when he moved into Crookston.

He was a member of the Eagles lodge and Sons of Norway. He also was a deacon of the Sand Hill church and served as director of the Farmers Elevator at Eldred.

Surviving are two sons: James Grove of Climax and Harlow of Crookston; four daughters: Mrs. Andwick (Joan) Clemenson, Mrs. Robert (Gail) Hasbrouck and Mrs. Richard (Debra) Normandin, all of Crookston; and Mrs. Darryl (Eunice) Anderson of Mandan, N.D.; and 15 grandchildren;

Also four brothers: Chester Grove of Climax, Arthur and Clifford of Crookston, and Nordean of Red Lake; and six sisters: Mrs. Mel (Hazel) Betts of Tiffan, Ohio, Mrs. Alice Weidemann and Mrs. Eleanor Brakkin of Portland, Ore., Mrs. Adolph (Beatrice) Swanson of Grand Forks, N.D., Mrs. Irene Morgan of Climax and Mrs. Orville (Myrtle) Haug of Fisher.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home Wednesday afternoon and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services. A complete obituary will be in Wednesday's Times.

Alvin Fjeld, 57, Of Goodridge Dies Thursday

Alvin Fjeld, 57, a lifetime resident of the Goodridge community, died Thursday at the Veterans Hospital in Minneapolis.

Funeral services for Alvin Fjeld will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m., at the Ekelund Lutheran church with Rev. Bruce Anderson officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery. Military rites will be accorded by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

The body will repose at the Green Funeral home until Tuesday noon and at the church for one hour prior to the time of services. A complete obituary will be in the Wednesday edition of the Times.

Mrs. Carl Ryan Of This City Dies In Mpls.

Mrs. Carl (Orpha) Ryan, 56, a lifetime resident of Thief River Falls, died Wednesday in Minneapolis at the University of Minnesota hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Carl Ryan were held Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at Zion Lutheran church with Rev. Alexander Stoffel officiating. Jerry Jorgdal was the organist and Mrs. LeRoy Beck, the soloist. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Walter Leach, Leslie Paetznick, Leland Knight, Rueben Hoffman, Howard Krause and Louie Myhrer.

Mrs. Ryan, the former Orpha Grindeland, was born Dec. 9, 1918 in Thief River Falls to Henry and Sarah Grindeland, now deceased. She attended school in Thief River Falls and was baptized and confirmed here at Zion Lutheran church. She was employed at several places in this city, including Land O'Lakes where she worked for several years.

On Aug. 25, 1945, she was married at Superior, Wis., to Carl Ryan. The couple made their home in this city.

Mrs. Ryan was a member of Zion Lutheran church and the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary and was a past president of the Eagles auxiliary.

She is survived by her husband, two step-daughters: Mrs. Myrle (Delores) Carlson of this city and Mrs. Marvin (Lois) Theroux of California; two brothers: Clarence Grindeland of Thief River Falls and Ernest of Seattle, Wash.; three sisters: Mrs. Ann Johnson and Mrs. Donald (Grace) Toomey, both of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Rudy (Evelyn) Helgeson of Seattle, Wash.; and several nieces and nephews.

Two brothers and two sisters preceded her in death.

Services Held Near Oklee For C. Syrtveit

Funeral services for Clarence Syrtveit, 79, of Oklee, who died Monday, November 24 at Northwestern hospital, were held Saturday at the Ebenezer Lutheran church north of Oklee.

Rev. Max Dietze officiated at the services. Mrs. Arnold Hammer served as organist and soloist. Interment was in the church cemetery with the Green Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Adolph Hofstad, Orlo Lintvelt, Orlando Chervestad, Ole Olson, Olaf Stolaas and Louis Mathson.

Clarence Syrtveit was born April 28, 1896 at Grand Forks, N.D., to Ole and Marret Syrtveit, now deceased. He attended school and grew to manhood near Thompson, N.D., and was baptized and confirmed there in the East Valle Lutheran church. He later moved to Pennington county with his parents, who settled in Deer Park township where they farmed for many years.

Syrtveit was a veteran of World War I. Following his descharge, he returned to Deer Park township where he farmed and was engaged in construction work. He was a member of the Ebenezer Lutheran church.

On Dec. 25, 1928 he was married to Gunhild Haugen.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Carsten (Marion) Birkeland of Bloomington; three sisters: Mrs. Carl (Emma) Johnson of Thief River Falls, Mrs. Jack (Anna) Ellison of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Lloyd (Clara) Green of Oklee, and a number of nieces, and nephews.

Four brothers preceded him in death.

Mrs. Maxine Gullingsrud Dies In Ariz.

Mrs. Maxine Elizabeth Gullingsrud, 68, of Sun City, Ariz., and formerly of this city, died Wednesday, November 19, of an apparent heart attack.

Funeral services for Mrs. Maxine Gullingsrud were held in Sun City, at the St. Christopher Episcopal church.

Mrs. Gullingsrud was the former Maxine Johnson. She attended school in Thief River Falls and was a 1925 graduate of Lincoln high school. She was a member of the Eastern Star of Eau Claire, Wis.

Surviving are a daughter, Lucille Kirpatrick, two grandchildren, a sister and one brother.

Her husband Tien Gullingsrud preceded her in death in May of this year.

Time Home Purchase

When buying a second home, for vacations, and perhaps eventual retirement, keep the tax consequences in mind. The tax on any capital gain you might realize when you sell your principal residence may be deferred if you reinvest in another home, but not if the replacement house was bought years earlier.

Prohibit Sale Of Flammable Child Clothing

U.S. consumer product safety commission recently announced in the Federal Register that it has provisionally accepted a consent agreement prohibiting Stayon Products Inc., Easely, S.C., a division of Pembroke manufacturing company Inc., Greenville, S.C., from manufacturing or importing products which fail to meet the requirements of the Flammable fabrics act.

Specifically the commission's investigations found that an unspecified number of infant's one-piece sleepers the company manufactured and sold nationwide in the 12 month period following the effective date (July 28, 1972) of the Standard for the flammability for children's sleepwear (DOC FF 3-71), were not labeled with "prominent, permanent and conspicuous cautionary labels" as required under the act.

Section 5(b) of the standard allowed noncomplying children's sleepwear, up to and including size 6X, manufactured between July 29, 1972 and July 28, 1973, to be marketed providing they were labeled "flammable (Does not meet U.S. department of commerce standard DOC FF 3-71). Should not be worn near sources of fire." In the case of Stayon pajamas only the boxes containing the garments were marked with paper sticker flammability warning labels.

Stayon Products Inc., agreed to attempt to recall all noncomplying garments in styles 1054, 1055, 31075, 31077 and any other styles manufactured from July 29, 1972 to July 28, 1973 and sent a recall letter in November, 1974 to all accounts instructing the return of any such improperly labeled children's sleepwear for proper relabeling, credit or full refund.

This agreement is for settlement purposes only and does not constitute an admission by the company that it has violated the law. Any future violation of this consent agreement by the company could result in the assessment of substantial civil penalties.

The complaint and consent order will remain on the public record for 60 days through Jan. 9, 1976, during which time any interested person may submit comments to the Office of the Secretary, Consumer Product Safety commission, 1750 K street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20207.

After considering any comments, the commission may finally accept the agreement or withdraw its provisional acceptance.

For additional information about this consent order, contact the Bureau of Compliance, Consumer Product Safety commission, 5401 Westbard Avenue, Bethesda, MD 20207.

UMC To Offer Treatment For Window Class

What does one do with a window to make it more interesting? Do you have a special "problem window" area that could be enhanced with special treatment? A course beginning January 6 at the University of Minnesota technical college at Crookston (UMC) could help solve decorating problems dealing with windows.

The course is titled "Special Problems: Window Treatments," and will be taught by Lou Guthrie of the home and family services division. The course will run for five weeks, meeting Tuesday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in Dowell 109.

Persons may take the course for either credit or for non-credit (audit. If the course is desired for credit, registration must be completed by December 12. To register, write the registrar's office, Crookston, MN 56716, or call 281-6510, extension 241.

Minnesota Is Home Of World Record Spruce

Not all of the champions are on the playing fields. Minnesota has a national champion white spruce tree, probably the largest in the world.

American Forestry association recently announced that Minnesota's white spruce has been enshrined nationally in the "Social Register of Big Trees". This spruce dethrones the current champion, located in Michigan.

Nominating the tree for recognition were Richard Stapleton, land commissioner at International Falls, and Eugene Jamrock, DNR forester at Grand Rapids. The tree was measured and verified by Douglas Ford, a forester at Littlefork.

Minnesota's giant white spruce (Picea glauca) is located in Koochiching county about 10 miles south of Littlefork. It measures 9 feet 8.2 inches in circumference and is 128 feet high. The tree's crown spread is 24¾ feet.

The department of natural resources says that the age of environmental awareness and concern has generated a great interest in trees, much more than ever before, because of the trees' ability to improve the environment; help cleanse and purify the air; modify temperatures; reduce noise; and neutralize wastes.

Minnesota has a number of the biggest trees in tha nation. Some have been enshrined nationally in the American Forestry association's "Social Register of Big Trees". Others are now in the process of being certified, and possibly enshrined in the "Tree Hall of Fame". There remain many big trees to be found and verified.

Although Minnesota cannot lay claim to a General Sherman Giant Sequoia, which is the biggest tree in the world, we do have some giants of which we are mighty proud. In fact, the largest black spruce in the nation, 82½ feet high and 6 feet 9 inches in circumference.

There is a 59 foot 8 inch jack pine, which is seven feet 7¾ inches in circumference, near Verndale in Wadena county, that is vying for championship status. A champion aspen in St. Louis County near Orr, 88 feet tall and 9 feet 11 inches in circumference, was thought to be the largest in the country, but recently was dethroned by a tree in New York.

A Norway pine standing 120 feet high and 9 feet 8 inches in circumference was, until recently, the world's largest Norway pine. This Norway, which is more than 300 years old, was surpassed in size by a tree discovered in New Hampshire.

Recently, a new state champion green ash was discovered near Hastings by Robert McKane, son of the editor of the "Volunteer", (official magazine of the department of natural resources.)

The tree, growing on the land of William N. Reuter, measures 10 feet 11 inches in circumference, is 65 feet tall and has a crown spread of 55 feet.

Minnesotans are invited to join in the search for native big trees. Just submit a note or report detailing the species, circumference measured 4½ feet above ground, estimated height, crown spread, location and owership.

Submit the report to the Department of Natural Resouces, Division of Forestry, Centennial office building, 658 Cedar street, St. Paul, Minnesota 55155.

Super Stocking Stuffers

Light up your youngsters' eyes Christmas morning with toys you make yourself. With a bit of imagination, you can transform empty cleaning bottles into super children's gifts easily and inexpensively. Here are two you might want to try:

Little Red Rooster — (materials : one empty Grease relief® degreaser trigger control top bottle; red felt and colored paper; black felt-tip pen; rubber cement.)

1. Draw eyes on paper; cut out and glue onto sides of sprayer to form the rooster's head.
2. Cut leg shapes out of yellow paper and glue onto lower sides of container.
3. Fold red felt or paper in half and cut out comb and tail shapes. Glue comb into groove on top of sprayer/head. Glue tail to curved back of bottle.
4. Draw wings on sides of bottle, using black felt pen.

Whale Bank — (materials: one empty Grease relief refill container; red felt and colored paper; black felt-tip pen or black tape; rubber cement; seven popsicle sticks.)

1. On curved side of container, cut slit 1-1/4" x 1/8".
2. Make a base using seven popsicle sticks: glue five sticks edge to edge; then, glue a stick flat on top of stick one and another on top of stick five. (This will keep bank from rolling over.) Glue flat side of container to base.
3. Draw eyes on paper; color, cut out and glue them onto sides of container. Whale's mouth can be drawn on with black pen, or cut an 11" x 1/8" strip of tape and tape it on. Cut off dispenser pull/push top and glue onto top of whale's head to make a spout.

Highway Dep't Saves Taxpayer $1.14 Million

Employees of the Minnesota department of highways saved taxpayers $1.14 million during the third quarter of 1975 under the cost improvement program instituted some three years ago, Commissioner Frank D. Marzitelli said.

The July through September period was one of the most productive quarters the highway department has experienced under the program. Savings during the first two quarters of 1975 were $732,000 and $963,000, respectively.

"Astute management, good engineering and employee participation," Commissioner Marzitelli explained, "made these savings possible. Without the full support of our employees the Department could not have accomplished its work and reduced personnel at the same time. The largest single portion of the savings from State Legislative appropriations resulted from reduction in staff personnel throughout the department."

The impetus for many aspects of the cost improvement program was initiated under the auspices of the Loaned executive action program.

Area Students In Christmas Event At MSU

Moorhead state university's annual Christmas concert this year will feature the traditional concert choir talents augmented by the MSU Chamber singers, Collegiate chorale, Chamber orchestra, Collegium musicum and Brass ensemble.

Area students who are members of the Concert choir include: Marcia Radniecki or Oklee; and Kathy Stoffel, Kathy Wald, Sally Nepper and Judy Stoffel, all of Thief River Falls.

The free public concert is scheduled for two nights, Saturday and Sunday, in MSU's Weld hall auditorium. Both performances will be at 8:15 p.m.

David Ferreira is director of the 53-voice MSU Concert choir and his assistant is J. Cornell Svaren, a graduate assistant from Fergus Falls.

HHH Urges Ford To Sign Energy Bill

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey has termed the energy policy and conservation act recently adopted by the Congress "a reasonable compromise" and urged President Ford to sign the legislation.

In a letter to the President, dated November 18, Humphrey said the measure eliminates uncertainty which is crippling energy production and conservation efforts and is a step toward restoring full employment.

"In fact," he wrote, "enactment of this legislation is the most effective step we now can take to achieve national energy independence without jeopardizing our economic recovery."

Ability Counts Contest Set In Minnesota

The 1976 winner of the "Ability Counts" research writing contest sponsored by the Minnesota state council for the handicapped in cooperation with the President's committee on employment of the handicapped could be an eleventh or twelfth grade student from an area high school.

Students are invited to take part in this contest which is designed to create more public interest in, and support for, the employment of the handicapped. The 1976 theme is "A Profile of Achievement: How a Handicapped Person Approaches Life."

All reports for state competition must be received at the office of the Minnesota State Council for the Handicapped, Metro Square, Suite 492, Seventh and Robert Streets, Saint Paul, Minnesota 55101, postmarked no later than Jan. 31, 1976. Complete rules are found in the flyer from the president's committee provided to all schools.

State prize winners, selected by three prominent Minnesota personalities, will be announced in March of 1976. First place winner will receive an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. In addition, the council for the handicapped will provide United States savings bonds for the top five winners in the state.

Initial Award Won By Local Insurance Man

Roger Paul Mandt of Thief River Falls, an insurance representative with Combined Insurance company of America, has won the initial award in the W. Clement Stone international sales and management achievement club.

The group is unusual in that the needs of customers are under constant review, with representatives calling personally on policyholders at least every six months to provide individual service. Mandt, in March of 1975, became associated with Combined as a representative and his work in service to policyholders earned him his award.

John Erickson In Concert At Bethel College

John P. Erickson, son of Mrs. Dorothy Erickson of Thief River Falls, will be participating in the festival of Christmas at Bethel college in St. Paul on Friday and Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The 19th annual Festival of Christmas, a retelling and commemoration of the Christmas story, will be presented by Bethel's college choir, women's choir, male chorus, band and orchestra to an expected audience of 6,000. John, a member of the college choir, will join over 200 fellow students in presenting the theme, "Sing, O Ye Heavens!" through a program of melody, tradition and worship.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Mention of "privacy" today and many people think of Watergate or the more recent allegations of misbehavior by various cloak-and-microphone government agencies. But the issue goes much, much deeper than bugged olives and bungled burglaries.

Intelligence experts will tell you that most of the information they need can be obtained legally and openly, from government publications, newspapers, etc. The name of the game is gathering, sorting and coordinating. And that's where the computer comes in. Computers lower the cost of data storage and recovery, and facilitate its transfer.

Computers are extremely useful tools. Modern society couldn't function without them. Like the automobile, though, they can be dangerous when misused.

But what constitutes misuse? That's a question we've all got to answer, and it won't be easy.

Businesses collect, sort, store and sometimes trade vast amounts of personal data, from simple mailing lists to credit ratings and even medical histories. Such practices help to eliminate fraud, hold down prices and improve service to the consumer. They also result in the assembly of a great deal of personal information that should, perhaps, be nobody's business by the subject's.

Likewise, government agencies collect, sort, store and trade similar data. And in addition to the sources available to business, the government has in its files census data, tax returns, police reports, and business trade secrets.

Academic records, too, are important both to the individual and to society in general. The institutions collecting and disseminating them are a mixture of public and private, profit and nonprofit.

Consider a sample of the thorny questions raised by the maintenance of computer "data banks":

—Suppose you authorize release of your medical history to insurance company A? Should company A be able to give it to insurance company B without your knowledge? Suppose company B suspects you of trying to defraud it—should a court be able to get the data from company A?

—Suppose private information about you (or your business) is stolen from the computer of a company (or government agency) authorized to have it? Who is liable for the damage done to you?

—Should data-gathering agencies be allowed to consolidate their separate files on you, on the grounds of efficiency? If not, where should we draw the line?

—Opening government files to public inspection, by law, sounds like a noble idea—but would you want your file to be open to the public? (In practice, this is more of a problem for businesses than for individuals. Businessmen fear—with good reason—that competitors will use such laws to get trade secrets and other valuable information.) If the files are open to "the public," can foreign governments be successfully excluded?

—Should one government agency be able to trade data with another—to facilitate a criminal investigation, for example? This question is especially tricky when it comes to tax returns. Since an individual is required by law to file an accurate return, he could invoke the Constitutional protection against self-incrimination if his answers could be used against him in a nontax criminal prosecution.

—How much personal data should government be permitted to gather: Through the census? Through the school system? Through investigative agencies? In its own personnel files? And who should have access to it? In what form?

Those are just a few of the problems. There is plenty of room for honest disagreement among honorable people of all political persuasions. And there is a very great need to begin thinking carefully and metholdically about the best solutions for a few people.

Are you getting tired of noblesounding proposals from the politicians that never seem to "turn out right in practice?

Well, here's another one for you: The "Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1975," introduced by Rep. John H. Dent (D-Pa.).

On the surface, this bill would raise the minimum wage for most workers to $3 on January 1, 1977. Thereafter, the rate would go up automatically with rises in the Consumer Price Index, with an added one per cent bonus increase each time it does.

The bill would also specify a rate for overtime work (over 40 hours a week) of 2.5 times the base rate (it's now 1.5). And "tipped" employees—waiters and waitresses, etc.—would receive the full minimum wage in addition to their tips. (Under the present law employers may use tips to offset 50 per cent of the minimum wage.)

Sounds alluring, doesn't it? After all, how can anybody be against a raise for those at the low end of the wage scale.

But in practice, such laws accomplish nothing at best and at worst can actually hurt those they are supposed to help. To see why, take a close look at the major premises of this bill:

(1.) Income for workers at the bottom of the wage scale can be raised by a law requiring employers to pay more.

What if the employer doesn't have the money? The government isn't proposing to give it to him. And with labor costs accounting for 70 to 80 per cent of the cost of most products and services, most employers would have difficulty swallowing a big increase. Such a boost would increase production costs without increasing productivity—thus raising prices and contributing to inflation.

Of course, there is another alternative for the employer. He can try to maintain production with fewer people. In this case, it will be the low-skilled who are the first to be laid off. An employer just can't pay workers more than their work is worth.

(If the "official" minimum wage rate is lower than the rates established by the marketplace, then it doesn't do much good or much harm either—except to make the least skilled even less attractive to potential employers.)

(2.) Nobody should have to work at an income below the poverty level.

The official "poverty level" is calculated for a family of four. What about the single teenager who's living at home and looking for his first job? He (or she) needs experience and training. But an employee who must be trained is not able to pull his weight immediately.

If employers are forced to pay the unskilled as much as it would cost them to hire the skilled, then obviously they'll hire the skilled in preference. That's why we have such high unemployment rates among the ranks of teenagers.

(3.) High enough minimum rates for overtime will encourage employers to hire new people rather than working their present employees longer.

Most overtime work is a sometime thing—it comes and goes. Even at very high legislated rates for overtime pay, it still wouldn't pay an employer to add new full-time employees to his staff just to handle a seasonal peak or temporary backlog.

The effect of this kind of law is really counterproductive. If the cost of overtimepay is especially high, then the work will be given only to the most highly skilled, most productive employees—either that, or the overtime hours will be eliminated altogether, and services reduced.

Nor does the damage end with the above list of disadvantages. Worst of all, this bill would start a rapidly escalating cycle of inflation that could only end in a spectacular collapse. If the minimum wage goes up automatically with the CPI when prices rise, then most other pay would rise, too, to maintain differentials up the line. An automatic rise in labor costs would cause another rise in prices, and so on.

Representative Dent is walking through a powder mill with a lighted match, looking for ways to be kind to the workers there.

Cold winter weather and more expensive heating fuel may cause consumers to try to save money by having their furnaces and thermostats checked more often. Checkups for safety and economy can be very worthwhile or a series of headaches—depending on the firm you do business with. Some furnace repair salespersons falsely indentify themselves to homeowners as "city inspectors" or "city electricians" conducting safety inspections. These inspections may even be offered "free" just to get the salesperson inside the front door to continue the sales pitch.

Citizens should always make sure to check closely the identification card of anyone who says he is making a safety inspection of your home. If the "official" does not carry an identification card, try to call his or her office or in some other manner make sure the inspection is bona fide. No person on government business will mind.

After a furnace repair salesperson has gotten into your home and made some quick checks of your heating plants, he may attempt to use high-pressure or scare tactics to sell equipment or services.

The salesperson may represent that a severe safety or fire hazard is present and that unless repairs are completed immediately, the homeowner will endanger his or her family. Any time a salesperson indicates a need for anything immediately, a warning buzzer should go off in your mind. This sales technique is an attempt to scare you into failing to consider other bids or taking the time to reconsider a purchase.

By agreeing to act immediately, a consumer places himself or herself almost completely in the hands of the salesperson. Always try to obtain other bids on any major repair job, and make sure you fully understand the terms and costs of any contract before you sign it.

Another high-pressure sales tactic is to disassemble the furnace during an inspection and then refuse to reassemble it unless the salesperson is awarded a repair job. Discuss the details of an inspection before it gets under way.

Homeowners should also remember a couple of other tips. Many fire departments perform free home fire inspections—including a furnace check—for no charge. Also, some utility companies offer reasonably priced furnace inspections. It is often helpful to compare the results of these inspections with the proposal of a furnace repair salesperson.

Comment on proposed changes in the Hatch act is contained in this editorial from the Christian Science Monitor:

The United States House has passed and sent to the Senate a measure which would effectively destroy the 1939 Hatch Act in the name of reforming it.

If the measure is enacted, a large part of the federal government's huge work force of 2.8 million employes could be turned into a vast patronage army similar to the Daley machine which has dominated Cook County politics for the last two decades.

The Hatch Act came about in response to the patronage abuses and political coercion rampant in the New Deal public jobs programs of the 1930s.

It was obvious that these abuses could not be curbed simply by making it illegal for public officials to order their employes to perform political work. The bosses could always find ways to "persuade" the employes to take part in political action on a "voluntary" basis.

The Hatch Act served to eliminate this evil by making it illegal for federal employes to perform political work even on a "voluntary" basis, immunizing them from any kind of pressure.

It is this protection that the "reform" measure, sponsored by Rep. Bill Clay (D., Mo.), would remove. Though there would still be some minor restrictions on the kind of political activitity in which federal employes participate, they could be sent into the precincts to get out the vote on a voluntary basis.

Under a federal court order, municipal employes in Chicago can only voluntarily do political work. They do so in swarms—every election—or else.

As Rep. Edward Derwinski (R., Ill.) who led the opposition to the Clay measure, pointed out, there are other evils in the proposal. Democratic businessmen could find their tax returns audited by an Internal Revenue Service agent who doubled as a Republican ward leader.

A survey taken by the National Federation of Federal Employes of its members a few years ago found 89 per cent supporting the Hatch Act and only 1 per cent favoring its repeal. The Clay measure was opposed by the federation, as well as by the U.S. Civil Service Commission, the Postal Service, the comptroller general, the IRS, and the FBI.

Yet the measure was steamrollered through the House by a vote of 288 to 119. This is a reflection of the Democrats' 2 to 1 margin of power in the House and the massive support given the measure by Big Labor. Interestingly, many federal workers belong to public employe unions and most are considered to be Democrats.

Should the bill be passed by the Senate, it faces an expected veto from President Ford. An override by the House could be prevented if enough of its members are made to see what a monster they are creating.

Secret Basketball?

With the basketball season approaching and the Minnesota Legislature considering changes in the state's open meeting law, we thought a recent editorial in the Madison, Wis. "The Capital Times" might be appropriate. It was entitled "What if basketball were kept secret, too?" Here's the editorial:

Maybe it was simply a case of Spring madness.

First I read in the papers that our "public servants" in the legislature — specifically the Democrats on the Joint Finance Committee — had decided to hash out the state budget in private so the public they serve would not have to be embarrassed by their bickering.

Then I went to the University of Wisconsin Field House Friday to watch the flower of our state's youth play their hearts out on a basketball court.

"I'm sorry, you can't go in," the grim looking usher told me.

"Why not?" I asked. "I thought this was a public event."

"I've got my orders," he said. "If you want to fight over it, go see the head honcho."

So I went to the office of the chairman of the state tournament committee, the Honorable Dennis Counter.

"Why can't I watch the basketball game?" I asked. "I thought the state tournament was for the public."

"Oh, it is," he said reassuringly, "the trouble is, if we let the public watch it, they might get the wrong impression of what the game is about and of the kinds of fine young players we really have."

"How could that happen?" I asked, not fully comprehending his concern.

"Well, look," he said as he leaned forward," there is going to be conflict out there on the basketball court. Two teams are going to be battling for the state's highest high school sports honor. We don't want the public to get the idea that the youth of today does nothing but give elbows to each other. The public should have a more lofty image of athletes."

"Oh," I murmured, looking puzzled.

Counter was warming up to his topic.

"We should not let the public participate in team conflict," he said. "We would do a disservice to our responsibilities and to the public to let team conflicts come out in public. We've got to reserve the right to play crucial games privately."

He suggested that if I had trouble understanding his point, I go talk to the coaches of the two teams.

I went down to the dressing room of the Racine Senators, where I found Coach Henry Doorway looking at diagrams on a chalk board.

"I don't know of any other way it can be done," he said when I asked him why the public could not watch the tournament games. "I would want it to be done otherwise if it were possible to be done otherwise."

I went across the hall where Sheboygan Reps Coach Carl Otter was giving a pep talk to his team. He paused when I entered. I asked him how he felt about keeping the tournament games secret.

"Look, they're not secret," he said. "What we do in there will come out anyway. Besides, all you guys want to do is sell more newspapers."

I still was puzzled until I bumped into the dour-looking coach of the New Berlin Elephants, John Showbiz. His team hadn't made it to tournaments this year, and clearly he was not happy.

"It is clear that Mr. Counter has violated the spirit, the intent and the substance of our fine state's open game law," Showbiz thundered. "He should be indicted by the public and the press for not adhering to the law which he prescribed for other tournaments in this state. He's guilty of duplicity and hypocrisy."

Well, that was an earful. I went back to ask Counter about these charges.

"I have no comment on the spirit and intent of the open game law," he said brusquely. Then he leaned back and smiled.

"Don't worry," he said. "We'll tell you the score when the games are over."

That made me feel a lot better.

What They Mean

In the opinion of a writer in one of our exchange papers, the following definitions are what is meant in real estate descriptions:

Unobstructed view: No trees.

Awaiting your imaginative touch: Sparse and-or tacky interior decor.

Handyman's dream: Owner's nightmare.

Pond site: Swamp, slough or marsh

Land alone worth purchase price: It had better be; house is worthless.

House alone worth purchase price: Small lot next to tavern.

Central to everything: Noisy location.

Easy commuting: Remote from everything.

Country kitchen: No dining room.

Needs finishing touches: Needs roof.

Charm all its own: Don't lean on old porch railing.

All services available: Nothing hooked up.

On paved road: Fronts on a major highway.

Secluded: No road in.

Borrowed Nonsense

Luke and his wife were known as the stingiest couple in the valley. At 78, Luke died, and a few months later his wife was about to join him. She called a neighbor and said weakly: "Ruthie, bury me in my black dress, but afore you do, you might as well cut the back out and make yourself something from the material."

"Couldn't do that," said Ruthie. "When you and Luke walk up them gold stairs, what would them angels say if your dress ain't got no back on it?" "They won't be looking at me," Luke's wife answered. "I buried Luke without his pants."

A lawyer, after long and tiring negotiations in a divorce case, informed his client, "I have arranged a settlement with your husband that is fair to both of you."

"Fair to both?" the disgruntled wife stormed. "I could have done that myself! Why do you think I hired you?"

FANCY THAT!
ARE YOU READY FOR THIS?

The youngest musical trendsetter was probably Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart who could play several instruments and had composed several short pieces by the time he was 5.

The young trendsetters of today are turning to tequila. The Sunrise Cocktail, for instance, made of orange juice and genuine Sauza Tequila poured over ice cubes in a highball glass and 1 or 2 teaspoons grenadine added, is becoming increasingly popular among young Americans.

The youngest tennis champion in the world was Charlotte Dodd who, in 1887, won the Wimbledon tournament at the age of 15 years 8 months.

The youngest full professor of a major university was Colin MacLaurin, who, in 1717 was made a Professor of Mathematics at Marischal College, Aberdeen, Scotland, at the age of 19. At 27, he was made Professor of Mathematics at Edinburgh University on the recommendation of Sir Isaac Newton.

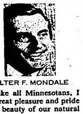
MINNESOTA REPORT



WALTER F. MONDALE

Like all Minnesotans, I take great pleasure and pride in the beauty of our natural resources, and one of our state's most important natural and economic assets is the Mississippi River.

The Mississippi has for centuries served as the lifeline to the Upper Midwest. It brought the first explorers into this region. Later it carried the furs, flour, lumber and grain demanded by our growing nation. The river was the focal point for industrial activity and, with its remarkable scenery, it also provided surroundings that nourished a sense of harmony in our cities and in our culture.

Minnesota is the headwaters of this great river. Nearly a third of the river's total length passes through our state. We have been very fortunate to have in Minnesota this superb natural and economic asset. With this advantage comes a certain responsibility. It is up to us to see that the river is used wisely.

Our society is becoming bigger, faster growing and more complex. Undeveloped areas are disappearing, and competing claims are being made on our remaining resources. And, in attempting to satisfy these claims, public agencies have not always remembered that even a river as powerful as the Mississippi is, like any living thing, quite fragile.

In the past century, the Mississippi has been subjected to virtually every form of abuse. It has absorbed thousands of tons of industrial chemicals. It has been a dumping ground for the wastes of our cities. Scenic areas have been leveled for development and, as a result, many parts of the river can probably never be fully reclaimed.

Minnesota is moving under the leadership of Governor Anderson and Bob Herbst at the Department of Natural Resources to offer as much protection as possible given the authority and funding available to the state. But a fully effective program will require substantial help from the federal government. The question is whether we will be able to get federal action in time.

Last year I authored a successful amendment to the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act to provide for a study of the Upper Mississippi for its eventual inclusion in the federal river system. But, federal government can be slow-moving and I urge all Minnesotans to play an active role in prompting action on the federal study.

It would be a crime if we were to allow the Upper Mississippi, from Lake Itasca to Anoka -- which has remained virtually untouched through the last two centuries -- to deteriorate into just another mass of concrete and neon lights. I think Minnesotans and our country as a whole would do well to use the 200th anniversary of American independence to show our gratitude for the gifts we have received by dedicating a segment of the Mississippi to be forever protected in its natural condition.

If there were ever a natural treasure that was worth saving, surely it is this magnificent river.

To Air Third In Series For Handicapped

No room in an average house is as big a challenge to a handicapped person as the bathroom, yet the person's independence and morale are closely linked to how well he or she can use it.

The third program in the series "Ability—Not Disability" offers many special adaptations and safety tips that can enable a handicapped person to function independently in the bathroom. It was filmed in the homes of disabled persons who have devised methods and installed equipment to guarantee their self-sufficience despite a variety of physical problems.

Also covered in the program are energy-saving techniques for meal preparation, light housekeeping tasks, and moving about the house and yard. "Ability—Not Disability" is a series of six programs produced by the agricultural extension service at the University of Minnesota.

The segment on bathrooms will be aired at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, on channel 2 or channel 13 on cable.

UND To Offer Master Degree In Business

A master's degree has been established at the University of North Dakota for men and women who plan careers as business executives.

In fact, say the officials who administer UND's new master of business administration (MBA) program, inquiries are being received from persons already working as managers in both private enterprise and in government.

It was this demand from students and others that led the university to request funding from the 1975 legislature to begin the program. UND will be the first North Dakota college to offer the MBA. Applications are now being sought, and the 25 to 35 students will begin work in August of 1976. The first degrees may be awarded as soon as the following spring or summer.

According to Dr. Clair Rowe, dean of the college of business and public administration, the university is the logical site for an MBA degree since strong undergraduate business programs have been offered at UND for more than 50 years. Graduate degrees presently offered in accounting, economics and political science are areas which will contribute to the MBA program. In addition, UND has cooperated with the air force since 1963 in conducting on-base graduate programs for officers—including an MBA degree.

The primary objective of the MBA program, Rowe said, is to provide an opportunity for qualified men and women to develop knowledge, abilities and attitudes that will constitute a firm and broad foundation for their growth as effective and creative leaders in business, government and related organizations.

UND's program will emphasize effective decision-making rather than advanced study in a single area of concentration, Rowe said, and has been designed to develop professional management abilities rather than the research competencies traditional in many graduate programs.

The MBA degree program is designed to accomodate individuals who have undergraduate backgrounds in fields other than business. Students with a non-business background probably may take up to two academic years to finish, Rowe said, compared to about one year for students prepared to begin advanced work immediately.

Besides the general admission requirements of the UND graduate school, MBA applicants must take the graduate management aptitude test (GMAT). They must also have completed mathematics through college algebra, or be prepared to remove the deficiency by taking appropriate courses.

To begin graduate work, applicants must demonstrate command of a common body of knowledge in business and administration through course work in economics, accounting, quantitive methods, the functional areas of business, administrative processes, and computer applications to business.

The degree itself requires 32 semester credits of graduate work. Included is a required "core" of 22-24 credits, a two-credit independent study, and sufficient electives to total 32 credits.

Rowe said inquiries should be directed to Prof. Leo Simpson, MBA Program Director, College of Business and Public Administration, UND, Grand Forks, ND 58202.

Spannaus Asks Health Care Law Change

Attorney General Warren Spannaus, recently recommended five changes in Minnesota's health care law to help the state crack down on health care providers who defraud the state's welfare funds.

Speaking before the House and Senate select subcommittee on nursing homes, Spannaus proposed five changes that would require nursing homes to sign their cost statements under oath; make filing false cost statements a punishable crime; add a treble damages provision that would make any health service providers who falsify claims pay back three times the amount of any overpayment they get from the welfare department; open providers' files, including patients records, to inspection by the welfare department; and give the welfare department the authority to exclude from the Medicaid program, health care providers who have defrauded taxpayers or engaged in other illegal activites.

Spannaus said his office got into the problem of fraudulent payments to nursing homes when it provided legal services to the state in the presecution of the River Villa nursing home in Minneapolis and Willmar nursing home. "These," he added, "are the first criminal prosecutions in Minnesota for welfare fraud in nursing homes."

The welfare department's rule 49 requires health care providers to submit cost reports giving the known and projected cost of providing care to Medicaid patients. The state pays for the care of these patients on the basis of these cost statements. By falsifying the statements, providers, such as nursing homes, can defraud welfare funds.

Spannaus said sworn cost statements would "greatly ease the problems of proof when we get to court . . . now we have difficulty proving who is responsible for claims made in the reports."

Making falsifying cost statements a crime would remove the problem of fitting fraudulent statements into the present criminal laws in the state, Spannaus said.

By adding a treble damages provision, he contended "the state would have a better chance to recover all of the taxpayers' money medical vendors have obtained fraudulently."

In asking for the right to look at nursing home records, Spannaus said this would help in uncovering the evidence necessary "in most instances to prove fraud." Many health care providers refuse access to the files "on the ground that the files are confidential."

Bald Eagle Center Offers Winter Courses

Minnesota's most maligned season, winter, is the course subject of three unique programs offered through Bemidji state university's bald eagle center.

The programs, Adventures in contrast, Winter wilderness inquiry, and Winter survival, are designed to give undergraduate and graduate students an opportunity to explore and experience the natural beauty of the season's environment.

Skills such as cross-country skiing, winter safety, outdoor cooking, orienteering, snow hydrology, winter ecology and camping provide the main coursework for the programs, which are presented with varying degrees of difficulty to challenge the novice and the expert.

Adventures in contrast is a series of outdoor living and cross country ski sessions offered December 20-23, December 26-29, and December 31-January 3 at the Bald eagle center. The three-day adventure courses provide students with an opportunity to participate in either day-touring or expedition sessions.

The day-tourers would receive educational and recreational experience concentrating on skiing skills while housed and fed at the center's dormitory and cafeteria facilities. Those selecting the expedition session would concentrate on skiing, cold weather camping, night excursions and survival techniques.

Winter survival, offered from December 20-23, is a program that focuses more attention on living within the elements of winter. Students in this course would build their own shelter that would serve as their base camp while trapping, skiing and studying in the area.

Winter wilderness inquiry, offered in three week-long sessions beginning December 12, is geared for the more experienced ski enthusiast. Held in the Boundary waters canoe area, a group of students will spend a week camping and skiing with an instructor from the Bald Eagle staff.

The staff for all the programs consists of professional adventure program instructors who have had extensive experience in the field of Nordic skiing, outdoor skills, winter safety and human relations.

Both the Adventures in contrast and Winter survival programs will be held at the BSU Bald eagle center, an outdoor learning facility near Cass Lake, and located in the heart of the Chippewa national forest. The center, which is operated by Bemidji state university under permit from the National forest service, is surrounded by tree-covered terrain on the shores of Lydick Lake.

Operated year-round, the BEC offers a humanistic approach to environmental and recreational courses that are as natural and unique as the setting. Included in offerings this past year have been courses such as kayaking, summer wilderness inquiry, weaving, wild foods, nature photography, skills for outdoor living, and outdoor learning for students with special learning disabilities and behavior problems.

More information on the December programs may be obtained by writing: winter programs, Bald eagle center, Cass Lake, MN, 56633 (218-665-2707).

Computer Goof Causes Errors In Notices

Owners of trucks, trailers, motorcycles and recreational vehicles in Minnesota were asked recently by the state division of motor vehicles to check their registration renewal notices for incorrect expiration dates which were printed on a good number of the recently mailed notices.

Due to a computer program error, as many as a quarter million of the re-registration notices were sent out with an incorrect expiration date printed on them, the mistake being only in the year of expiration, improperly printed to read December 31, 1975 instead of December 31, 1976.

The incorrect date was printed on the renewal notices of non-titled vehicles which were sent to communities alphabetically falling from St. Paul to Willmar and on renewal notices for titled vehicles sent to communities from Ada to Cambridge.

New renewal notices will not be sent to truck owners in these cities, but a correction will be made on the incorrect notice when the owner registers the vehicle. Truck owners, as well as owners of trailers, motorcycles and recreational vehicles have through Jan. 10, 1976 to accomplish their annual registration obligation.

Three Get 4-H Alumni Awards

Gonnerman

Mrs. Drevlow

Jamison

Mrs. Nystrom

A college executive, a farmer and two homemakers have been named Minnesota winners in the 4-H alumni recognition program.

Frederick H. Gonnerman of Northfield, Marie Drevlow of Ada, John W. Jamison of Borup, and Betty H. Nystrom of Preston will receive plaques donated by Olin Corporation.

The recognition program honors former 4-H members for their civic and professional accomplishments and their continuing service to 4-H.

Gonnerman and Mrs. Drevlow have been nominated by the Cooperative Extension Service for national consideration in the program. Eight national winners, to be announced in 1976, will receive 10-carat gold keys and expense-paid trips to the 55th National 4-H Congress.

Director of information services at St. Olaf's College, Gonnerman is listed in "Who's Who in Colleges and Universities," "Who's Who in the Midwest," and "Outstanding Young Men in America."

Gonnerman leads a 4-H Club in Rice County and, as an accomplished photographer, is a leader in 4-H photography projects. He is an active member of his church and the Northfield Bicentennial Committee.

Mrs. Drevlow is a homemaker who serves as an adult 4-H leader in Norman County bread-making workshops.

She and her husband, the Rev. A. A. Drevlow, are active in civic organizations. Their seven children are prize-winning 4-H members.

Jamison, a farmer, has served as volunteer fireman and is active in church leadership roles.

As agronomy project leader in a local 4-H Club, Jamison is hailed by members as a "behind-the-scenes worker" in most club activities. This year, he represented the club on the Norman County 4-H Advisory Council, and he has mustered support for 4-H programs in the community.

Mrs. Nystrom is a homemaker who serves on the executive board of the Mille Lacs County 4-H Leaders Council.

She leads a local 4-H Club and directs a county 4-H clothing program. Her other community activities include participation in hospital, church, school and homemaking groups.

Awards in the alumni recognition program are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Winter Sports Season In Full Swing Here

After a few athletic events sprinkled through the last week of November, the 1975-76 area winter sports season shifts into high gear this week with no less than 13 varsity contests scheduled over the next six days.

Action starts tonight (Monday) with the Lincoln high school swimming team hosting Detroit Lakes at 7 p.m. in the Franklin middle school pool. The Lincoln girls are slated to play a 7:45 p.m. basketball game at East Grand Forks tonight.

On Tuesday, the Lincoln high team hosts Moorhead in a 7:30 p.m. game in the sports arena, the Prowler wrestlers are at Fertile for a 7:30 p.m. match and the Northland community college basketball team travels to Grand Forks to play the Grand Forks Air Force base basketball team in another 7:30 p.m. event.

The Northland hockey team opens its season Wednesday with a 7:30 p.m. game in Grand Forks against the University of North Dakota junior varsity.

Three games on tap Thursday will find the Prowler girls' basketball team at Red Lake Falls at 8 p.m. while the Northland basketball and hockey teams host University of North Dakota junior varsity teams in a pair of 7:30 p.m. games.

Grand Forks Red River high school will be in Thief River Falls for a 7:30 p.m. hockey game Friday.

Three events on Saturday wrap up the busy week as the Prowler swimmers host Fargo South at 1:30 p.m., the Prowler wrestlers will compete in the Sioux invitational meet at the University of North Dakota at 12 noon and the Lincoln basketball team hosts Kennedy at 7:30 p.m.

That's a mighty busy schedule.

Dickey Stars For The Sioux

Former Northland community college basketball star David Dickey is dazzling the University of North Dakota basketball fans in Grand Forks with his amazing basketball talents.

Dickey, who entertained area fans with two years worth of basketball wizardry while leading Northland to two straight MJCAA state tournament berths, has already captured the Sioux fans' fancy after a pair of easy season opening wins over Yankton (S.D.) College and Great Falls (Mont.) College.

Although he scored just six points Friday against Yankton and 12 Saturday against Great Falls, Dickey has concentrated on team play while accumulating a batch of assists.

Dickey excelled at both scoring and play making at Northland and anyone who ever watched him play here has no doubts he'll be a star with the Sioux.

North Dakota has a tough assignment tonight (Monday), though, when the Sioux host Creighton University, a strong major college basketball power.

Area Basketball Jamboree Results

Although the annual District 31 pre-season basketball jamboree, a fixture at East Grand Forks for 12 years, was discontinued this season because of the reshuffling of the two-class system in Minnesota by the Minnesota State High School League, there were a couple of jamborees played in the area last week.

A District 31 jamboree at Warren, more-or-less taking over the East Grand Forks idea but without the larger schools in attendance, featured 10 teams, while eight teams, mostly District 32 schools, participated in a jamboree at Hallock.

At Warren, Oslo edged Stephen 30-28, Climax tipped East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 26-22, Alvarado downed Red Lake Falls 32-23, Argyle beat Fisher 22-14 and Warren crushed Plummer 44-19.

At Hallock, Humbolt defeated Lancaster 31-21, Hallock got by Greenbush 28-24, Kennedy crushed Strandquist 26-13 and Newfolden toppled Goodridge 36-30.

THIEF RIVER FALLS' 110-pounder Scott Nelson lifted Crookston's Tony Dufault off the mat for a take-down during Friday night's Prowler-Pirate wrestling match in the Lincoln gym. Referee Howie Sheltz of Bemidji looked on. Nelson pinned Dufault in 1:43 of the first period. Crookston won the match, though, 38-23.

Prowlers Host Spuds In Hockey Season Opener

Lincoln high school hockey team will open its 1975-76 season tomorrow (Tuesday) when an aggressive Moorhead team skates into the Thief River Falls sports arena for a 7:30 p.m. game.

Prowler head coach Bill McGann, beginning his fourth year here, expects Moorhead to be a tough season opener for his squad after watching the up-and-coming Spuds in the recent Region Eight jamboree.

Thief River Falls and Moorhead met in an 11-minute jamboree session with the Prowlers taking a 1-0 decision. Moorhead bounced back to trim Roseau 1-0 while Thief River Falls and Bemidji battled to a scoreless draw.

"They've got 12 lettermen back so they certainly have the experience," said McGann of Moorhead. "They hustled and they played well in the jamboree. They forechecked all over the place, especially against Roseau—they looked like a bunch of kamikaze pilots. We expect it to be a tough game."

McGann announced his line-up for the opener, calling on senior Terry Sullivan to start in the nets for the Prowlers.

Prowler defensive pairs will find senior Kent Ehrenstrom teamming with junior Mitch Dicken while juniors Bill Olson and Steve Erickson skated together. Junior Sheldon Idso will be used as a spare blueliner.

Thief River Falls' three front lines will be headed by an all-senior trio that has Jeff Lindquist centering captain Mike Jury and Bob Forberg. Sophomore Doug Dallmann will center a second unit that finds juniors Jim Loeffler and Jay Kverno at the wings. A third line featuring all juniors has Scott Bergland skating between Brad Kosel and Gordie Markstrom.

"We feel we've progressed pretty much as far as we expected to at this stage," said McGann, "but we're not a polished unit yet, although we're getting there."

The Thief River Falls-Moorhead junior varsity teams start the night's activity at 5:30 p.m.

Thief River Falls will be wearing white jerseys at home for a change this season. The Prowlers have new white jerseys on order, but they haven't arrived yet.

The Prowlers will also be at home Friday when Grand Forks Red River visits the sports arena.

Newfolden Will Host Goodridge In Cage Opener

Area basketball teams open their 1975-76 seasons tomorrow (Tuesday) at two different sites.

Marshall County Central high school will play host to Goodridge while Grygla travels to Lake of the Woods-Baudette in a pair of Tuesday night encounters.

Plummer, the fourth area high school, will not open its season until next week, a Tues., Dec. 9, game at Goodridge.

Nordics Defeat Grygla Girls By 42-27 Score

Marshall County Central out-scored Grygla 12-2 in the second quarter Tuesday to lift the Nordics to a 42-27 girls' basketball triumph at Newfolden.

The two teams battled to an 8-8 first quarter draw before Newfolden pulled away to a 20-10 halftime lead. The Nordics led 31-18 at the third quarter break.

Pam Odberg scored 16 points for Newfolden to lead all game scorers. Grygla's Connie Sistad scored 13 points in the season opener for both clubs.

The two teams will be back in action tonight (Monday) when Newfolden hosts Karlstad and Grygla entertains Roseau.

LHS Swimmers To Host Lakers Tonight, 7 p.m.

Coach John Kopari's Lincoln high school swimming team opens its 1975-76 season tonight (Monday) when the Prowlers host Detroit Lakes in a 7 p.m. dual meet in the Franklin middle school pool.

Thief River Falls will also be in action Saturday when the Prowlers host Fargo South in a 1:30 p.m. dual meet at Franklin.

Pirate Rally Pins 38-23 Loss On Lincoln Matmen

Crookston overcame a 23-22 deficit with three straight match-ending wins Friday to decision Thief River Falls 38-23 in a spirited 1975-76 season opening wrestling match in the Lincoln high school gym.

Mike Hanson began the Pirate victory-clinching winning streak with a major four-point 9-1 triumph over Dale Furuseth at 167 pounds. Three take-downs, a two-point nearfall and an escape by Hanson pushed Crookston ahead 26-23.

Rugged Tim Coauette wrapped up the win for Crookston at 180 with a second period pin of Randy Olson. The 3:10 pin built the Pirate lead to an uncatchable 32-23 margin.

Laine Bennen then put additional icing on the cake by posting the Pirates' fifth pin of the night, a 3:48 second period stretching of Neil Johnson in the heavyweight finale.

The two long time athletic rivals threatened to make short work of the night's proceedings when the first four matches were all decided by first period pins.

Crookston's John Jansen stopped Randy Ayers in 1:38 of the 98 pound opener and the Pirates' Rick Chandler followed with a 46 second pin of John Monroe at 105 to give the visitors a sudden 12-0 bulge on the scoreboard.

However, Thief River Falls responded with back-to-back pins registered by Lee Furuseth and Scott Nelson to even the score at 12-12. Furuseth stretched Neal Planto in 30 seconds at 112 and Nelson flattened Tony Dufault in 1:43 at 119.

The score remained tied when the Prowlers' Stuart Mickelson and the Pirates' Keith Bakken wrestled to a 2-2 draw at 126. Mickelson led 2-0 on a second period reversal, but Bakken came back in the third stanza with a penalty point and an escape with just four seconds remaining.

Dan Hallstrom manhandled Tim Tilleman 11-1 for a major four-point decision at 132 to put Thief River Falls in front 18-14. Hallstrom registered three nearfalls enroute to the easy win.

The Prowler lead jumped to 21-14 when Larry Swanson outlasted Mark Nelson 15-11 at 138 in the night's most exciting match. Swanson at one time led 5-0 in the first period, but fell behind 6-5 by the time the opening stanza ended. Swanson then jumped ahead 15-6 with a pair of second period nearfalls, but barely avoided losing by a pin in the final period when Nelson gained a three-point nearfall at the final buzzer.

Randy Dufault of Crookston quickly pulled the Pirates back into contention, though, with a 1:09 first period pin of Peter Mosbeck at 145, slicing the Prowler lead to just 21-20.

The margin remained at one-point after Thief River Falls' Duane Gonsorowski and Crookston's Dean Hanson wrestled to a 3-3 draw at 155. A first period takedown and a second period escape gave Hanson a 3-0 lead, but the same combination in the second and third periods by Gonsorowski tied the match.

Thief River Falls won the forfeit-dotted junior varsity match 33-31.

Coach Ed Krystosek's Prowlers will be back in action tomorrow (Tuesday) when Thief River Falls challenges defending Region Eight champion Fertile in a 7:30 p.m. encounter in the Falcons' gym. Thief River Falls will take part in the Sioux invitational meet at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks Saturday starting at 12 noon.

98—John Jansen (C) pinned Randy Ayers (TRF) 1:38; Tim Wavera (C) dec. Tim Maidment (TRF) 4-0.
105—Rick Chandler (C) pinned John Monroe (TRF) :46; Jim Scheuneman (TRF) won by forfeit.
112—Lee Furuseth (TRF) pinned Neal Planto (C) :30; Clark Nelson (TRF) won by forfeit.
119—Scott Nelson (TRF) pinned Tony Dufault (C) 1:43; Mike Selves (TRF) pinned Rick Garcia (C) 1:56.
126—Stuart Mickelson (TRF) and Keith Bakken (C) 2-2 draw; Mark Sorvig (TRF) dec. Dan Pahlen (C) 11-2.

Hwy—Laine Bennen (TRF) pinned Neil Johnson (TRF) 3:48; Scott Pepper (C) won by forfeit.

Lincoln Girls Travel To EGF, RLF This Week

Lincoln high school girls' basketball team, a 31-25 loser to Bemidji in its 1975-76 season opener last week, will try to even its record at 1-1 tonight (Monday) when the Prowlers play a 7:45 p.m. game at East Grand Forks.

Thief River Falls will also be in action Thursday when the Prowlers play an 8 p.m. game at Red Lake Falls.

LHS Basketball JV Squad Rips Roseau 72-17

Thief River Falls blitzed Roseau 72-17 Tuesday in junior varsity basketball action in the Lincoln gym.

Peter Lee and Steve Enderlien each scored 16 points and Bruce Williams added 10 for the winners who led at every quarter stop, 9-4, 27-9 and 53-10.

Northland Tips Alumni By 88-85

Northland community college basketball team outlasted a scrappy alumni squad 88-85 Saturday to open its 1975-76 season on a winning note.

Although the final score was a lot closer than most people expected, the triumph did mark the fourth Northland win against just one loss in the traditional season opener. The win also stretched Northland's home court winning streak to 23 straight games over a three-year span.

The score might have been even closer except for a bit of unfortunate luck that struck the alumni, resulting in a game-saving technical foul assessed against the visitors.

Northland sophomore Frank Ridley sank the first attempt on a bonus free throw situation with just 17 seconds remaining in the game to give the Northmen an 87-85 lead. A few moments later Bill Whitney stepped to the line for Northland with an opportunity to ice the game with another one-and-one opportunity.

However, Whitney missed his first shot and Northland rebounders Tom Super and Paul Walker corraled the carom with just seconds remaining, passing to Nick Neibauer in a hurried attempt to get downcourt. Neibauer, though, called for an alumni timeout, a precious commodity long before used up by alumni coach Mike Lundgren.

The alumni were assessed a technical foul for their unappropriated timeout call and Ridley sank the ensuing free throw with just three seconds left to wrap up the decision.

"We just did not take the game seriously," admitted Northland coach Chet Engelman. "From a spectator standpoint it was an exciting game, but I'm kind of disappointed in our play. Maybe we'll learn something from it."

Lundgren barred reporters from the alumni lockerroom after the game, refusing to address the press.

The alumni actually held the upper hand throughout much of the closely played game that found the score tied on 10 occasions, with the lead changing hands 10 times.

Super scored with 13:30 remaining in the first half to give the alumni a 16-14 edge, a lead they didn't relinquish until after intermission. The alumni led 44-37 at the halftime break.

Nick Neibauer, the game's high scorer with a sensational 33-point performance, scored four minutes into the second half to increase the alumni lead to 52-42, the biggest advantage enjoyed by either team.

Northland suddenly erupted offensively, however, to outscore the alumni 16-5 over the next four minutes to take a 58-57 lead.

The lead then changed hands several times until Northland freshman Dave Davenport put in two free throws with 1:41 left to give the Northmen the lead for good, 82-81.

Davenport, who starred for Northland with 19 points and 26 rebounds, sandwiched a pair of field goals around a bucket by Super over the next minute to maintain an 86-83 Northland lead.

Nick Neibauer hit from the floor with 25 seconds left to pull the alumni to within 85-86, but Ridley then clinched the game at the free throw line.

Joining Davenport in double figures for Northland were Ridley with 17 points and Whitney and freshman Dave Caspers with 11 apiece. Super scored 24 points for the alumni and Tom Neibauer, recruited for the short-handed alumni squad even though he's not a Northland graduate, added 14.

Northland connected on 36 of 92 field goal attempts for a 39 per cent showing while the alumni shot 43 per cent from the field on a 35 for 82 effort. Northland made 16 of 30 free throw tries and the alumni sank 15 of 26 gift tosses in the foul-plagued contest. Northland finished with a sizable 76-52 rebound edge, but the Northmen also topped the rebound charts 28-25.

Northland is scheduled to return to action tomorrow (Tuesday) with a 7:30 p.m. game against the Grand Forks Air Force Base basketball team in Grand Forks. The Northmen return home to host the University of North Dakota junior varsity Thursday.

Bald Eagle Center To Hold Skiing Clinic

A ski touring instructional clinic for cross country skiers of all ages and skill levels will be held at the Bald Eagle Center near Cass Lake December 20-21.

Co-sponsored by Bemidji State university and the United States ski association, central division, the clinic is designed to instruct beginners in the basics of cross country skiing while advanced skiers can use the clinic as a prerequisite for taking the USSA instructors exams, which will be held at a later date.

The clinic will contain 20 hours of ski touring instruction, with the instructors provided by the United States ski association.

Cost for the clinic is $50, which includes instructional fees, trail fees, lodging and meals. Participants may also obtain, at no additional cost, two undergraduate or graduate credits from Bemidji State university.

Lodging will be at the Bald Eagle center, which is located in the heart of the Chippewa national forest 25 miles east of Bemidji. The center is operated by BSU as an outdoor learning facility and includes dormatories, a cafeteria and classroom space.

Participants in the clinic will have to provide their own ski equipment, waxes, extra clothing, and day pack materials. Bedding will be provided by the center.

Alternative packages are available for participants who wish to arrange for their own lodging and meals. Cost for the clinic alone is $36.30, while lodging is $4.50 and meals $9.20.

Registrations will be accepted until December 15.

In the event that snow conditions are not adequate on December 20, the clinic will automatically be rescheduled on the following weekend December 27-28. Those interested in the clinic are urged to keep both weekends open.

More information may be obtained by contacting Bill Weller, coordinator, Hobson Union outdoor program, Bemidji State university, Bemidji, MN 56601, or by calling 218-755-3367 during the day and 218-751-8404 evenings.

Wildlife Group Offers Outing Into Rockies

If you are looking for a really different Christmas gift or vacation this year, the national wildlife federation may have the answer.

NWF, the nation's largest conservation education organization, has scheduled a "Colorado in Winter conservation summit" to be held at the YMCA of the Rockies, near Estes Park, Colo., from December 27 through January 1.

Open to singles, couples and families, the five-day outing will offer participants "a rare chance to live with and learn about nature in the stillness of a high-country winter," according to the non-profit NWF. The program includes indoor and outdoor classes in such subjects as winter photography, cross-country skiing, outdoor cooking and snow survival. There will be field trips to observe big game animals and small alpine birds and evening programs with square dancing, slide shows and "think tank" discussions of environmental issues.

One of four NWF "summits" held yearly, each in a different region of the U.S., the Colorado winter outing is designed for outdoor enthusiasts of all ages, with special programs for youngsters from five to 15. Further information may be obtained by writing to conservation summit, department CW, national wildlife federation, 1412 16th Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

PROWLER SENIOR Stuart Mickelson tried to maneuver out of the grasp of Crookston's Keigh Bakken during Friday night's wrestling match here. The two wrestlers battled to a 2-2 draw in the 126 pound match. Crookston beat Thief River Falls 38-23.

SCOTT NELSON of Thief River Falls appears to be asking referee Howie Sheltz of Bemidji, "Just what does a guy have to do to get a pin around here?" The Prowler senior was trying to pin Tony Dufault of Crookston in the 119 pound match of Friday's Prowler-Pirate wrestling encounter in the Lincoln gym. The referee responded by showing how far Dufault's shoulder was off the mat with his fingers. Nelson did get the pin, though, in 1:43 of the first period, but Crookston won the match 38-23.

Warn Against Aluminum Pipe In Fish House

If you are building a new fish house of have to replace the stove pipe from your heater, the Minnesota safety council warns you not to use aluminum pipe.

Aluminum pipe is chiefly for use as vent pipe for kitchen range hoods, bathrooms, clothes dryers and other ventilating purposes where open flame or a high degree of heat doesn't exist.

Heat from an oil, wood or gas stove in a fish house can melt the pipe with resulting deadly chimney fumes and dripping of molten metal.

Standard stove pipe, designed to carry higher levels of heat, will perform satisfactorily.

'U' Asks NCAA Investigation Date Extension

University of Minnesota has requested a one-month extension of the December 1 deadline for reporting to the National collegiate athletic association (NCAA) on allegations of irregular recruiting practices by the Gopher basketball team.

Stanley B. Kegler, university vice president for institutional planning and relations, said the attorney investigating the allegations for the university has nearly completed his work, but that some more interviews may be helpful to the study.

The subcommittee of the faculty assembly committee on intercollegiate athletics, which is hearing the investigator's reports and formulating recommendations to prevent future violations, would not be finished with its work by December 1, Kegler said.

"The committee does not wish merely to address symptoms, but rather to recommend some fundamental operational and policy changes," Kegler added. He asked that the deadline be extended to January 1.

Minnesota Ski Guide Book Is Now Available

A guide to skiing in Minnesota, listing 35 downhill and 97 cross country ski areas, is available from the Minnesota tourist information center.

Published annually, the guide provides location, lift prices, slope and facility description and hours open for all downhill operations.

For those who ski regularly in Minnesota or who have used the guide before, improvements in areas will be noticeable. Afton Alps has new chair lifts as does Buena Vista and Welch. There's new paint and stain at many areas and a new chalet at Hyland Hills. New slopes increase skier's choices at Spirit Mountain, Mt. Itasca, Hyland Hills and Wild Mountain. Many ski facilities have new rental equipment and expanded snowmaking equipment to lengthen the season and insure good conditions continually.

As cross country or Nordic skiing gains in popularity, the number of areas with marked trails has increased. This year's guide has a 33 per cent increase in the number of areas with marked and groomed trails. There are areas within city limits and many more on resort properties and state parks and forests.

Information on cross country areas includes the number of miles of marked and groomed trails, trail use fee, snowmobile use in the area and a description of the facility and its provisions for lodging, camping and shelter on the trails.

For the free publication, write to "Guide to Skiing in Minnesota," Minnesota Tourist Information Center, Box 128, 489 Cedar St., St. Paul, MN. 55101 or call (612) 296-5029.

GPA Topic Is Co-Op Part In Export Market

Increased co-op participation in the export marketing of U.S. grains will get the attention of more than 4,000 farmers attending the 38th annual meeting of the Farmers Union grain terminal association Tuesday and Wednesday at the St. Paul civic center.

The farmers will be representing ten Midwest and Northwest states served by GTA, a St. Paul-based regional marketing and farm supply cooperative which serves more than 650 local cooperative grain elevators and building supply yards.

One recently launched marketing program will be described for the delegates by George Voth, executive vice president and general manager of FAR-MAR-CO, Inc., a large regional grain marketing cooperative with headquarters in Hutchinson, Kans.

Voth will report on a program known as PROMARK which enables farmers, through FAR-MAR-CO, to pool wheat for sale.

Highlighting the two-day session will be an address by Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota at the convention banquet the evening of December 3.

GTA President B. J. Malusky will report on GTA's operations to delgates the morning of December 2. The past fiscal year brought the second largest net earnings in GTA history. Managers of GTA's seven operating divisions will give their reports the afternoon of December 2.

Other speakers include Burgee Amdahl, president of the St. Paul bank for cooperatives; Tony Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, and president of the Farmers Union organizations in the states served by GTA.

Chairing the business sessions will be Jewell Haaland, Clarkfield, Minn., chairman of GTA's board of directors. Haaland will also address the convention the afternoon of December 3.

Three young men who have gained recognition for their role in agriculture will be special guests. They are John Fisher, Trimont, Minn., president of the Minnesota 4-H federation; Lonell Moeller, Beresford, S.D., vocational agriculture instructor, and Mark Grubb, Conrad, Mont., Grain Terminal foundation scholarship winner attending Montana state university at Bozeman.

Moeller represents the several vo-ag instructors who receive Grain Terminal foundation awards each summer for advanced training at Upper Midwest land-grant colleges, and Grubb will be the spokesman for a group of outstanding under-graduates in agriculture or farm-related studies selected to receive Grain Terminal foundation scholarships.

The annual election of directors will be held the afternoon of December 3. GTA's directors, all-farmers representing the various states served by GTA, are elected at caucuses of each state's delegates.

From its headquarters in St. Paul, GTA marketed 257 million bushels of grain and oilseeds during its last business year. It operates 13 livestock and poultry feed manufacturing plants; a barley malting division with plants in Milwaukee, Chicago and Winona; an oilseed processing division with plants in Mankato and Fridley; a durum wheat mill in Rush City, Minn.; and 119 building supply yards in seven states.

Band Returns Help To Trace Bird Travels

Suzanne Doerger crouched beside a dead bird under the picture window of her Cincinnati home. Awe-struck by the lifeless form, the seven-year-old girl noticed two small bands on the bird's right leg. She cuddled the bird gently and carried it to her father for some answers.

The child's father recognized scientific significance in the leg bands and called a local bird bander.

The bird was identified as a male Kirtland's warbler. The species is native only to Michigan. Holding on for dear life in that state, the Kirtland's warbler is classified an endangered species whose existence is precarious at best. Conservation groups have launched campaigns to help the species.

Dr. Lawrence Walkinshaw, a retired Michigan dentist widely recognized as an expert in ornithology, verified from his records that the dead Kirtland's warbler had been banded when 10-12 days old by Bruce E. Rhdabaugh on July 2, 1971, at Mack Lake, Oscoda county, Michigan.

The Michigan expert observed the banded male on several occasions during the summer nesting periods between 1973-75. He made positive identification of the male from its leg band number in live capture studies and from a dark blue band also placed on the bird's leg. Dr. Walkinshaw said the prolific male had sired at least 14 young during the time he observed the bird on its summer range in Michigan.

Ornithologists say Michigan's Kirtland warblers migrate to the Bahamas during winter seasons. Although it basks in warm climates, the bird has a high winter mortality rate, experts claim. A June 1975 census revealed there were 358 Kirtland's warblers in Michigan.

Suzanne Doerger's recovery of the dead bird in Cincinnati will help ornithologists assess the status of the endangered species. "This is probably one of the most complete stories on an individual bird we know," Dr. Walkinshaw said. He emphasized that if people would examine dead birds for identification bands, similar valuable recoveries might be made to help scientists working with birds and endangered species.

Agents of the U.S. fish and wildlife service said that anyone finding a banded bird or specimen protected by law should contact a state or federal enforcement officer. It is unlawful for private citizens to possess a protected or endangered species.

Number 116-24662, male, Kirtland's warbler contributed to replenishment of his ranks until Sept. 27, 1975, when its light was snuffed out after the bird allegedly flew into a picture window in Cincinnati.

Bush Grants Offered To MN. Students

Bush opportunity grants program, designed to provide Minnesota community and junior college students an opportunity to continue their studies in Minnesota private colleges, will aid about 230 new transfer students in the fall of 1976. Individual study grants are awarded by the participating private colleges, and are for up to $1,000 each.

The private colleges will select individual winners from among transfer applicants who are Minnesota community college graduates, who plan to pursue a full-time academic program, and who have demonstrated financial need. Individual grants are renewable for a second year of study, providing the holder remains in satisfactory standing and demonstrates need for the money under the usual financial aid standards of the college.

Any Minnesota community college graduate interested in applying for funds under this program should contact the financial aid office at this community college or at the private college he is interested in attending.

Participating Minnesota private colleges are: Augsburg college; Bethel college; Carleton college; Concordia college (Moorhead); Concordia college (St. Paul); Gustavus Adolphus college; Hamline university; Macalester college; and Minneapolis college of art and design.

Also College of St. Benedict; College of St. Catherine; St. John's University; St. Mary's college; St. Olaf college; College of St. Scholastica; College of St. Teresa; and College of St. Thomas.

The Bush opportunity grant program is financed by grants to these colleges from the Bush Foundation, St. Paul.

DNR Changes 4-H Pheasant Chick Program

Sportsmens' clubs, FFA chapters, 4-Hers and other groups planning to obtain day-old pheasant chicks from the Minnesota department of natural resources next year will find that the requirements have been changed.

Wildlife officials announced this week that those who want to order the chicks for stocking in 1976 will have to attend a "pheasant clinic" in order to obtain application forms for ordering the chicks. In addition, groups will be supplied with no more than 50 chicks unless they agree to carry out a pheasant habitat project.

The pheasant clinics will be conducted by DNR wildlife managers throughout the main pheasant range between, February 16 and March 15. Those planning to attend must first file a "pheasant clinic registration form". Copies of the form and other program information will be available from DNR wildlife field offices or from DNR central headquarters, Centennial Building, St. Paul 55155 (612-296-3344).

Completed forms should be mailed or sent to the St. Paul office, post marked no later than Jan. 31, 1976.

Roger Holmes, wildlife chief, said "The former day-old chick program, although very popular among various organizations, has never been more than a stocking program. The new program emphasizes the over-riding importance of habitat and requires groups to undertake their own habitat improvement projects as well as providing cooperating groups with day old chicks.

"We are pleased that this program has the endorsement of state 4-H and FFA advisors. It is hoped that through this program, the DNR and cooperating groups can work together toward providing a significant amount of wildlife habitat."

Approve Bill On Licensing All Plumbers

After more than six hours of hearings, a bill licensing plumbers in towns of 5,000 or less won approval from a House subcommittee during the November mini session.

Since 1933 state law has required the licensing of plumbers, water conditioning contractors, and installers working in towns with a population of 5,000 or more, exempting those operating in towns of fewer than 5,000 people.

Rep. Douglas St. Onge, (D-Bemidji) author of the bill, HF 1170, said there's no reason to have "two standards of health in the state." He said small town residents who are victims of poor plumbing have no recourse, but to go to court. Consumers who have work done by licensed plumbers and are dissatisfied can go to the state department of health for recourse.

The bill includes a "grandfather clause" which allows anyone who has been in the business as a master plumber or journeyman plumber for at least four years to get a license without having to take the examination.

Speaking against the bill, Gary Larson, executive director of the Minnesota retail hardware association, told the committee, "It's not the same situation you have in the metropolitan area. If the local plumber doesn't do a good job, people will know." John Swanson of Midland Cooperatives said the cost of installing small appliances will go up, but "it won't add to the value of the product."

BSU Courses Offered At TRF And Karlstad

Bemidji state university extension and continuing education programs will be offering 62 courses in 21 Minnesota cities this winter quarter.

The courses, which vary in subject matter from public school law to beginning Norwegian, are being offered for either undergraduate or graduate credit through Bemidji State.

Thief River Falls and Karlstad, will be among those cities where courses will be held. Other sites include: Bemidji, Biwabik, Brainerd, Cass Lake, Chisholm, Cloquet, Eveleth, Grand Rapids, Hibbing, International Falls, McIntosh, Naytahwaush, Park Rapids, Perham, Red Lake, Staples, Virginia, Wadena and White Bear Lake.

Registration for most classes is completed at the first class session. A student may register for a class during the second session, but will be assessed a late fee.

Certain courses, indicated in the following class list, will require pre-registration.

Tuition cost for the courses will be $9 per undergraduate and $11.50 per graduate credit for residents of Minnesota. Non-residents tuition is set at $18 on the undergraduate level and $22.50 for graduate.

Senior citizens, when enrollment space is available, may take the courses at the cost of $2 per credit, or may audit the courses at no charge.

The Bemidji State university area services office, which conducts the extension and continuing education programs, emphasizes that additional classes can be added if enough interest is shown in a particular geographical area.

Following is a list indicating the site and location of the course, course name, starting date, number of credits offered, and any other pertinent course information. All classes will begin at 6:30 p.m. unless otherwise indicated: Thief River Falls, Northland Community college, Room B37, Principles of Behavior Modification, December 2, 3 credits; Vo-Tech, Room 114-116, Learning Disability Needs in Vocational Education, December 4, 3 credits; Vo-Tech, Room 116, Philosophy & Organization of Vocational Education, January 9 and 10, 3 credits.

Courses and sites for classes in Karlstad were not given, but may be obtained by writing to Bemidji state university.

Raising Of Drinking Age Gets Approval

A House subcommittee approved November 19 a bill raising the age for drinking liquor in bars and restaurants to 19 and for buying liquor in stores to 21.

The subcommittee approved Rep. Keith Langseth's (D-Glyndon) bill, on a 4-3 vote after holding five hearings on the issue. During this fall the sub-committee traveled to Duluth, Windom and Breckenridge where school officials testified that the 18-year-old drinking age has caused problems in the high schools by making liquor available to younger students.

Representatives of student organizations testified against the bill at the November 19 hearing. They argued that the bill creates a "double standard", and questioned whether it takes more maturity to take a drink than it does to buy a house or vote.

The legal age for drinking went from 21 to 18 when the legislature changed the legal age for majority to 18 during the 1973 session.

Clean Air Act To Be Subject Of Dec. Meet

A public meeting to discuss a provision of the 1970 federal Clean air act calling for the prevention of "significant deterioration" of air quality will be held at 9 a.m. December 8 in the auditorium of the State office building, St. Paul. The meeting will be sponsored by the Minnesota pollution control agency (MPCA), the state agency responsible for implementation of the federal regulations on significant deterioration of air quality.

"This so-called anti-degradation provision is one of the most controversial and misunderstood provisions of the clean air act," according to Peter L. Gove, MPCA director. "We scheduled this meeting as an initial attempt to explain this provision as it will apply to Minnesota and, hopefully, to clear up some confusion which seems to exist about it," Gove added.

The agency has invited three persons to participate in the meeting, in addition of agency staff. They are Barbara Brown, office of air quality and land use planning, U.S. environmental protection agency (EPA), Washington, D.C.; James T. (Ted) Shields, environmental affairs director, Minnesota association of commerce and industry (MACI); and John Herman, Minneapolis attorney representing the North Star chapter of the Sierra club and a legal specialist in environmental affairs. Shields and Herman have agreed to serve as "reactors" to information presented by staff members of the MPCA and EPA.

Issues to be discussed at the meeting will include air quality maintenance benefits of anti-degradation and the economic and social implications of the regulations. There will also be a thorough discussion of proposed amendments to the clean air act's anti-degradation provision now being considered by the U.S. House and Senate.

Using existing regulations, the EPA has established three "zones" or "classes" of air quality and ordered the states to choose which of the zones to use in dividing up air quality areas within their boundaries. The MPCA has not as yet acted to designate zones in Minnesota and cannot until public meetings and hearings are held in affected areas.

Border Clinics For Arthritis Are Criticized

For years the Arthritis foundation has carried on a special campaign to acquaint arthritis victims in Minnesota with the hazards of the arthritis treatments put out by clinics on the Mexican border.

Now the foundation has published a new pamphlet that describes the dangers to life and health that can result from the medications for arthritis symptoms provided by these clinics.

The pamphlet may be obtained by calling the Arthritis foundation's message center and requesting a copy. The center's toll-free number is 1-800-552-1278. Callers will first hear a brief recorded message summarizing the dangers of the Mexican treatment.

Publication of the pamphlet was made possible with the assistance of the United Way of Northeastern Minnesota, one of the many community combined giving organizations that support the research and education programs of the Arthritis Foundation.

National Food Policy Topic Of FU Meeting

Overriding issue of the 34th annual Minnesota Farmers Union convention which ended last Tuesday was the need for a national food policy, the issue on which the future of family agriculture depends.

In addition, Minnesota Farmers Union members adopted a resolution saying preferential treatment given palm oil in permitting large quantities of imports, reductions in transportation rates and food labeling practices was another example of the highly discriminatory, cheap food policy being followed by some Ford administration officials.

Cy Carpenter, MFU president, issued a "Declaration of Entitlement" in his address to the convention on Monday night. "Farm families of this land, their cooperatives and their rural communities will control agriculture. We will control agriculture because we are entitled to it."

National Farmers Union President Tony T. Dechant said Monday night that the tools exist to maintain full employment and full production, but the Ford administration is following mistaken policies.

Bill Walker, executive director of the Alliance for food, called on presidential candidates Sunday night to put food high on their priority list. "It's time people make food the national issue that it is," Walker said.

Minnesota energy agency director John Millhone warned no one should underestimate the energy situation while offering recommendations for conservation, while Mayor Larry Cohen of St. Paul said the dream of a National Food policy is now becoming a reality because of the Alliance for food.

In the major address of the convention, Dr. John Hannah, executive director of the United Nations world food council, said "if there is to be peace in the world, there must be enough food to alleviate gross malnutrition everywhere. That goal will not be attained unless the U.S. plays a leadership role that it is best qualified to play."

A congressional panel featuring Cong. Al Quie, Bob Bergland, Rick Nolan and Jim Oberstar, a Cooperative outlook conference with Farmers Union central exchange (CENEX), Farmers Union grain terminal association (GTA), Farmers union marketing and processing, and National Farmers Union insurances, plus a discussion of the family farm security plan with Minnesota attorney general Warren Spannaus were other highlights of the two-day convention. Farmers Union milk marketing (FUMMC) was also part of the convention.

Others atending the convention included Gov. Wendell Anderson, Sen. Walter Mondale, AFL-CIO President Dave Roe, and Minnesota agriculture commissioner Jon Wefald. Approximately 1,200 attended the Tuesday evening banquet.

RRV Winter Shows Are Set For Feb. 20-29

Plans for the 1976 Red River Valley winter shows are on schedule, says Paul Brekken, general manager. The winter shows office is now open full time with final planning activities for the 10-day exposition for the 1976 show about completed.

The official premium book is at the printers and will be mailed in late November or early December. Again this year, the interest in booth space is higher than ever. Concessionaires will need to contract early to be assured of space. Women's activities, headed by Jeannine Windels, report the ladies have been busy since last spring. The demand for educational seminars is more than the available time permits.

Mark your calendar now and plan for fellowship, mixed with a little useful learning during the winter shows for 1976.

Test Yourself: Fuel Economy Driver Quiz

Government mileage ratings for new automobiles allow you to compare relative miles-per-gallon of various models in both highway and city driving. The ratings, however, cannot compare fuel-economy driving ability or preventive maintenance practices between you and other drivers of the same model car.

The following AIC multiple-choice quiz will help determine your fuel-economy driving knowledge. Seven correct answers rate you as a first-class economy driver; five or lews indicate you can improve your new-or-used car's mileage.

(1) To obtain the best mileage going uphill in a standard six-passenger car: a) hold throttle steady, letting car gradually lose speed; b) keep uphill speed constant by gradually increasing throttle; c) speed up just before reaching hill.

2) How much can tuning up a badly out-of-tune engine affect gas mileage? a) does not affect mileage; b) can increase mileage about five per cent; c) can increase mileage as much as 25 per cent.

(3) When parking briefly, you save gasoline by shutting off and restarting your car's engine in a stop as short as: a) five minutes; b) three minutes; c) one minute.

(4) Low tire pressure: a) increases gas mileage; b) decreases gas mileage; c) has no affect on gas mileage.

(5) When starting a car on cold mornings, the best gas-saving technique is to: a) start driving slowly after a 30-second warm-up; b) thoroughly warm-up the engine before driving; c) increase throttle speed to warm-up the car faster.

(6) Highway driving under 60 miles per hour compared with 70 to 75 mph will increase gas mileage about: a) five per cent; b) 10 per cent; c) 15 per cent.

(7) For maximum mileage with automatic transmission: a) accelerate rapidly to get the car into high gear; b) accelerate slowly to get the car into high gear; c) nothing will affect mileage with automatic transmission.

ANSWERS: (1) b—Test drivers advise gradually accelerating uphill with large cars to maintain speed; holding throttle steady uphill with small cars allowing speed to bleed-off. (2) c—Fouled spark plugs or bad connections can cut mileage by 25 per cent or more. (3) c—The engine burns more gasoline idling for one minute than is required to restart it. (4) b—Causes excessive drag, requiring more power. (5) a—Once oil pressure builds up, driving slowly toward your destination heats up the car faster and also saves fuel and time. (6) c (7) b—Slower start shifts most automatic transmission cars into fuel-saving high gear sooner than tromping on the accelerator, which wastes additional gasoline.

Nursing Home Welfare Rule Is Disputed

Proposed changes in State welfare department rule 47 governing physical therapy treatments for residents and patients of nursing homes would have a deleterious affect upon patients and could raise program costs to taxpayers as much as 700 per cent, Harry Lemieux, president of the Minnesota association of health care facilities, said recently.

In public testimony before welfare officials, Mr. Lemieux and other members of the association described how proposed changes in the welfare rule would no longer allow them to recover the costs of providing physical therapy within the nursing home. This disincentive would also discourage those homes contemplating setting up a physical therapy program for residents, and also cost-saving out-patient therapy services to the community.

Nursing homes, mandated by federal regulation to make physical therapy available to patients in need, are currently reimbursed by the Welfare department up to a maximum of $15 per day.

The proposed regulations, said Mr. Lemieux, could, in effect, force some nursing homes to discontinue service and transport their patients to a hospital where therapy costs for the same treatments may run as high as $77 per day; not including transportation costs which can average, in addition, between $36-$50 per day. Unlike nursing homes, hospitals are not subject to a cost ceiling for therapy treatments.

Under questioning at the public hearing, welfare officials admitted that they had not investigated the number of nursing home physical therapy patients affected, nor the cost differential of transporting nursing home patients away from the home for treatments.

Transporting patients away from their homes, Mr. Lemieux added, would be detrimental to some. Certainly it would influence the physician's decision whether or not to prescribe physical therapy, and could impact upon the progress of the patient, particularly those in need of extensive therapy.

Simple economics dictate that the Welfare Department rethink its proposals to encourage rather than discourage physical therapy within the nursing home, said Mr. Lemieux, adding: What would an increase from $15 to, say, $115 per day per patient mean to Minnesota taxpayers?

Harder to assess and yet most important, he concluded, would be the effent upon the nursing home resident who would be displaced from an envionment he is most comfortable and confident in.

Slow down and live.

Amber, Yellow, Red Driveway Reflectors Out

For safety's sake, use only one white (colorless) or blue colored reflector on each side to mark driveway entrances. This was the advice of R. H. Sullivan, State highway department traffic engineer, in seeking to maintain uniformity in color designations and design of markers throughout the state.

Use of red, amber or yellow reflectors is not permitted for driveway markers because such colors resemble a taillight of a motor vehicle and could be confusing to the approaching motorist. As such, these colored reflectors are a hazard to safety.

Sullivan recommended white or blue colored markers. Reflectors are not to be more than three inches in diameter and should be installed on the driveway at least 10 feet from the edge of the road shoulder.

Call Palm Oil Over Soybeans Discriminatory

Apparent preferential treatment being given palm oil over soybeans was called "another example of the highly discriminatory, cheap food policy being followed by some Ford administration officials" by Minnesota Farmers Union MFU) members in St. Paul.

A resolution adopted during their convention Monday said that the preferential treatment comes in permitting large quantities of imports, reductions in transportation rates and food labeling practices.

MFU members, in the same resolution, asked the Interstate commerce commission not to grant its proposed exclusive rate reduction to palm oil on December 3. That plan would give palm oil a $465 per car reduction over other vegetable oils including soybeans.

Cy Carpenter, MFU president, emphasized, "We do favor expanded trade but it should be in accordance with international commodity agreements. It should be within some comprehensive planning rather than the hit-and-miss planning now."

The Minnesota farm group also concluded that no clean cut justification exists for not requiring that palm oil be listed as an ingredient on food labels.

MFU members added, "Therefore, we call upon the appropriate government agencies, especially the department of agriculture, to justify their actions and guarantee that this and similar actions will not harm U.S. farmers."

Beef Cattle Day Set Dec. 5 In Crookston

Beef cattle researchers will report at the annual beef cattle day scheduled for December 5, at the Northwest experiment station, Crookston. The meeting will be held in Kiehle auditorium on the technical college campus. This move was made to accommodate the increasing number of cattlemen who come to this meeting. The day will begin with registration and coffee at 9:30 a.m. The program starts at 10 a.m. sharp.

Several members of the beef cattle research team from the University of Minnesota will review their work for the past year. An update report on the five housing systems using two corn silage levels will be given by R. E. Smith, West Central experiment station, Morris. There will be a report on the new feed additive, Monensin. Forage levels and feeding systems will be discussed by J. C. Meiske, department of animal science, St. Paul. A review of protein nutrition for ruminants will be reviewed by R. D. Goodrich, Department of Animal Science, St. Paul.

Lunch will be served in Bede hall, UMC, at 12:30. A question-and-answer period will conclude the day's activities about 3 p.m.

The University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station with headquarters in St. Paul fields one of the outstanding research teams on beef cattle nutrition in the entire country.

Mark your calendar. This will be a useful day for anyone interested in the beef cattle business.

Left Turn On Red Is Legal New Years Day

Jan. 1, 1976, is the effective starting date of lawful left turns on the circular red traffic signal, Minnesota department of public safety commissioner Edward G. Novak announced recently. It will not apply in Thief River Falls or most small communities.

"The left turn on red is more restricted than the right turn on red. The left turn can be made only from a one-way street, and only into an intersecting one-way street on which traffic is moving from right to left," Novak said.

"And, after the one-way street conditions are met, the turning vehicle is bound by the same rules governing the right turn on red. First the driver must come to a complete stop at the red light. He may then make the turn if no sign has been erected prohibiting such turn, and after yielding to pedestrians and other traffic in the intersection."

Novak also cautioned drivers to study the intersection carefully before attempting the left turn on red. "A good indicator to look for," he said, "is the sign and arrow directing traffic one-way from right to left."

He also explained that a one-way street is one that carries traffic in just one direction. This is not to be confused with multi-lane, divided streets and highways where traffic moves in both directions, but is separated by medians or physical barriers.

Minnesota's right turn on red has been authorized since July 1, 1972, and experience indicates that traffic has moved smoothly with few accidents or violations.

Novak also pointed out that, unless the traffic lanes are marked otherwise, the left turn must be made from the extreme left lane and into the extreme left lane of the intersecting street or highway.

Hogan Is Elected Fair Secretary On Tuesday

Bill Hogan, Secretary

Fred Dallmann, President

Wilbur Hallstrom, Treasurer

LaVerne Hamre, V. Pres.

Dan Helle, Nominating Chm.

Milan Borsheim, Past Sec.

William Hogan was elected secretary of the Pennington county fair association to succeed Milan Borsheim and all other officers were reelected at the annual meeting of the association Tuesday evening at the Pennington county courthouse.

Hogan, a past president of the association, was selected by the board of directors at a reorganizational session following the annual meeting. Borsheim has served as secretary for nine years and submitted his resignation at the annual meeting.

Reelected to the board of directors were Bernard Myers, district one; Vernon Lee, district two; Duane Olson, district three; Fred Dallmann, district four; and Mrs. Russell Culkins, district five. Borsheim, who had served on the board as a director at large, was elected to fill the unexpired term of Fred Sorensen from the second district and Arlan Ellingson was elected to represent the Goodridge community on the board.

At the reorganizational meeting following the annual session, Fred Dallmann was reelected president, LaVerne Hamre was reelected vice president and Wilbur Hallstrom was reelected treasurer. New terms of office will officially begin January 1.

Dallmann and Hogan will serve as official delegates to the annual convention of the Minnesota association of county fairs to be held January 18, 19, 20 and 21 at the Hilton hotel in St. Paul. Other officers or directors of the local organization are also expected to attend the state meeting.

Dates for the 1976 Pennington county fair have been set for Wednesday through Sunday, July 29 through August 1. The five-day event will have a Bicentennial emphasis and discussion at the meeting included presentation of a number of ideas of how that theme can be developed.

Among items suggested were creation of a Bicentennial gate for entrance to the fairgrounds; display of antique machinery and farm equipment; exhibit of household antiques and utensils inside the arena; involvement of the Red Lake band of Chippewa Indians through either a craft display or pow-wow, or both; sponsorship of a county-wide ecumenical church service on the last day of the fair; presentation of a rodeo as part of the fair attraction or separately; and several other locally-produced events or programs.

Some discussion was also devoted to best utilization of exhibit space for livestock, primarily due to the greatly increased interest in the 4-H club horse project. Board members took the situation under advisement pending future determination of possible additional livestock

Planning Commission Acts On Applications

Recommendations for special use permit and variance requests, and for community development priorities, were given by the Thief River Falls planning commission at a meeting Monday in the city auditorium. These recommendations will be considered at the next regular meeting of the city council.

The commission recommended that special use permits be granted to James A. Kotz of 712 Red Lake Boulevard and Windfield R. (Whitey) Olson of 302 Merriam avenue S. to establish businesses in their homes. Kotz has developed plans for a catalog order sporting goods business specializing in hunting supplies and Olson is establishing a catalog mail order business titled the "BFJO Sports Shack".

A variance request for a 40 x 50 foot addition to the municipal liquor store on Highway 59 South received a favorable recommendation from the planning commission. A variance is needed in order to allow the addition to extend within 15 feet of the lot line boundaries. The commission emphasized concern, however, that constructing an addition to the steel-structured store will perpetuate what some feel is the building's lack of aesthetic value.

The planning commission tabled action on proposed zoning changes in Tessum's addition requested by Wayne Bjornrud to allow a mobile home area within the addition.

During discussion of proposed community development priorities, the commission decided to recommend two priorities for inclusion on the city pre-application for a HUD community development grant. These include subsidy and grant funding for housing rehabilitation in the city, and funds to acquire Burlington-Northern railroad property south of the American Legion club for redevelopment.

FFA Collects $260 In Drive

Thief River Falls Future Farmers of America chapter recently completed its grain drive for Camp Courage during which $260.65 was collected in grain and cash.

Money realized from the collection and grain sale has been sent by the chapter to Camp Courage.

Concerts Set At Franklin's Open House

Approximately 600 students will participate in a Christmas open house at Franklin Middle school Tuesday at 7 p.m. The school sixth, seventh and eighth grade choirs, and the orchestra and swing band will perform in a total of 21 15-minute concerts which will be held in eight separate rooms during the open house.

Performing from the sixth grade will be three choirs—two mixed and one boys'. The seventh grade will offer two mixed choirs and boys' and girls' choirs, and two mixed choirs from the eighth grade will sing. Also vocalizing will be two small groups from the sixth and seventh grades. The orchestra is composed of sixth, seventh and eighth graders and seventh and eighth graders are included in the swing band.

Art displays will be available for viewing during the open house in the showcase area at the front of the school and in the art rooms. Refreshments will be served in the home economics area of the school.

Indian Parents To Meet Thur. At Goodridge

To become eligible for fund entitlement under the Indian education act, Goodridge public school will hold a general meeting of all Indian parents with children attending the Goodridge school on Thursday at 9:30 p.m. The meeting will follow the girls' basketball game and be held in the school home economics room.

According to Dr. David M. Brown, superintendent, the purpose of the meeting is to elect a parent advisory committee which will take part in planning of the proposal. The school plans to make application for funds under the act this year with the money to be used directly for the benefit of Indian students.

UFO Expert Lectures At NCC Dec. 15

A lecture by Terry Mitchell, an authority on unidentified Flying objects, will be held on the Northland community college campus on Monday, December 15, in the college auditorium beginning at 1 p.m. The public is invited by the Northland student association to attend at no charge.

Mitchell's two-part presentation will deal with flying saucer design and a discussion of his own UFO investigations.

Mitchell has spent the past five years as an independent investigator of Unidentified Flying Objects. His investigations have led him wherever UFO activity has been reported in Canada and throughout the United States. He has been the subject of interviews on over 100 radio stations and has appeared on all the major television networks.

He will share his findings with the audience and will welcome questions on the subject.

School Safety Patrols May Earn Honors

All schools in the state with school safety patrols or school bus patrols are eligible for and urged to compete in this year's safety patrol award program sponsored by the Minnesota safety council.

Written report forms required for entry into the award competition were mailed to all elementary schools in the state this week and must be completed and returned by mail no later than December 15 to be eligible for consideration.

Any school which has not received the forms by December 1 should contact the Minnesota safety council, 145 Hamm building, St. Paul, 55102.

After the written reports are scored, those school patrols that qualify will be inspected by troopers of the Minnesota state patrol. A final selection of winners will then be made by an award committee, and the Minnesota safety council will present plaques.

Plan Evening Class Starts At Goodridge

In cooperation with the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute, Goodridge school will offer several adult evening classes to be held at the Goodridge school. Classes proposed are in advanced welding, adult driver's education and early childhood education.

There will be a small tuition fee, depending on the number of persons enrolled, but classes will be offered free of charge to persons unemployed and registered at the employment office or who are over 60 years of age.

Additional classes may also be offered if there is sufficient interest. Persons interested in classes are asked to contact Gloria McKinley at the Goodridge school, telephone 378-3785. Classes will start in January.

Hospital Endorses Proposal By City

Northwestern hospital association board of trustees adopted a resolution in support of a city proposal for new low income and elderly housing facilities at a regular meeting held Monday evening in the hospital staff room.

Mayor Robert Carlson and city planner Terry Madson appeared before the board to present information on the proposed project which would be located on the west side of LaBree avenue, immediately south of the new medical office building now under construction.

Madson noted that a $300,000 grant had been received by the city for acquisition of property and removal of structures in that area and that negotiations are underway for the property acquisition. It would be the city's intentions to clear the area and then sell the property to a developer who would construct and operate the housing project under a rent subsidy contract with the federal government.

The hospital board's resolution, adopted unanimously by the members in attendance, endorses the concept of locating the housing facility in that area. It also expresses the intent of the hospital association to cooperate in whatever manner possible with the city in establishment of the facility and its function once completed.

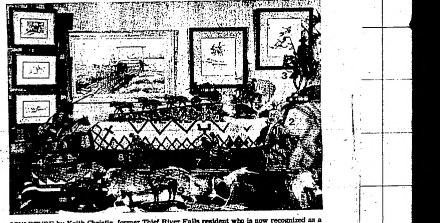
Among cooperative efforts considered at the meeting were location of sidewalks to permit easy access to the downtown area from the new housing development, availability of parking area on the property to be cleared and involvement of residents of the housing project in the senior meals program now underway at the hospital's CNC unit.

In other action Monday, the hospital board voted to enter into an agreement with the Minnesota hospital association which is establishing a statewide voluntary rate review program for Minnesota hospitals, hospital nursing homes and hospital skilled nursing facilities.

The process is designed to determine the propriety of rates on a prospective and continuing basis to assure users of health care services in hospitals, nursing homes and skilled nursing facilities that rates are established at a reasonable level.

The rate review board would consist of representatives from health care providers, third party payors and the consumers of health services. Hospital compliance with rates approved by the review board would be determined through examination of subsequent data filed with the board and as part of the audit process by the provider's independent accountants. An appeal panel would also be provided.

Preliminary discussion was also held on a site visit by state and federal representatives in regard to the annual staffing grant for the hospital's day-night unit. The site visit will take place December 16, 17 and 18 with a report session to be part of the visit procedure.



SCULPTURE by Keith Christie, former Thief River Falls resident who is now recognized as a leading western artist, has been in demand by major collectors and used for special trophies in rodeo competition. A brochure describing the work pictured above lists prices for the bronze castings ranging from $900 for the quarter horse (Number 9) to $7,500 for the stagecoach and horses at the center of the photo.

Former Resident Is Western Artist

Born in Thief River Falls four decades ago, Keith Christie is becoming well established as a self-made Western artist—specializing in bronze castings but working in other art media as well.

Christie is the son of Esther (Amren) Christie and the late Kenneth Christie. He is a nephew of Mrs. Adolph Kleinvachter of rural Thief River Falls, Mrs. Henry Sjolsvold of St Hilaire and Carl Amrem of Thief River Falls. His mother now lives on the West Coast.

A brochure depicting some of Christie's works of sculpture also describes the young Western artist as being equally adept as a sculptor, painter or draftsman. The background story continues:

Born in Thief River Falls, Minnesota in 1935, Keith was a "leppy" youngster. (That's cowboy jargon for a sickly calf.) Forced to spend a good deal of time indoors, he drew endlessly, mostly horses. Drawing became an emotional release throughout his childhood.

While in school Keith's papers were filled with western themes . . horses, cowboys, Indians and cattle. He states that it was almost an unconscious effort; while being attentive to lectures he would find his notes covered with drawings. Frequently he would find himself with an audience by the end of the lecture. His fellow students were far more interested in what Keith was doing than in what was being expounded.

His formal training in fine arts is practically negligible. His near obsession with being a western artist at the end of high school was given an anesthesizing blow during his first and only full year of art school. Back in 1954 modern art was very much in vogue and his instructors were insistent that he give interpretive stylizations of subject matter such as still life. He shelved the desire to be a commercial artist like his boyhood heroes, Harold Von Schmidt and Fred Ludikens. The many long years of careful study and work were put behind him. He enlisted in the Marines for a three-year tour and was sent to drafting school.

While working on his MA,

Airport Road Bids Received By City Tues.

Construction bids for the Pennington avenue (airport road) improvements project was announced during an adjourned regular meeting of the Thief River Falls city council Tuesday evening in the city auditorium council chambers.

Lowest of ten bids for the contract to provide curb, gutter, storm sewer and bituminous surfacing on 1.1 miles of the airport road south beginning from First street was $437,187.35 by Thorson Inc. of Bemidji. The high bid was $624,615.85. If the low bid is accepted, the total cost of the project would be estimated at $480,900 after the engineer's fee is included.

The cost would be paid by $152,617 in city funds, $212,032 in federal aid urban funds and $116,251 in county state aid highway funds. Between $85,000 and $90,000 of the cost to the city would be paid through assessments to approximately 10 property owners abutting the airport road. The assessments have been currently set at $13.85 per frontage foot for curb, gutter and surfacing and $3.06 per frontage foot as the storm sewer benefit rate.

However, four area property owners attending the meeting questioned their

Entertaining With Foods Discussed At Numedal Club

Entertaining with Foods was the lesson presented by Arlene Molskness at the meeting of the Numedal homemakers group held at the home of Lucy Swenson, rural Viking. Mrs. Molskness also gave a demonstration featuring various table settings, and various ways of folding napkins.

Roll call was answered by listing favorite Thanksgiving dishes.

During the business session, Gladys Johnson read the secretary's report and Florence Knutson, reported on the financial condition of the club. The Christmas project was discussed and the group voted to send a monetary donation to the Roseau Children's hospital for buying toys and gifts for the children at the home. It was earlier noted that following an inquiry, the home had given a preference for monetary gifts.

The club's Christmas party was also discussed and the event was temporarily set for December 29 or 30th with a gift exchange of hand-made articles. Exact time and place will be announced at a later date.

The club also voted to provide three dozen bars and a table decoration for the Pennington County homemakers Christmas party.

A pot-luck lunch was served.

Attending the meeting were Anita Hible and Tonya, Elaine Swenson, Kerri and Brian, Joyce Landis, Luella Swenson, Gladys Johnson, Lillie Mae Hible, Arlene Molskness, Florence Knutson and Lucy Swenson.

Trinity Mothers Family Yule Workshop Set

Trinity Mothers circle will meet Sunday at 1 p.m., in the church library lounge for a family Christmas workshop.

Those attending are asked to wear clothing suitable for making Christmas decorations and decorating cookies. Following the completion of the workshop, the group will assemble at Valley Home to distribute the decorations and cookies, and to sing Christmas carols.

Chairmen of the project are Mrs. Gordon Peterson and Mrs. Richard. Hostesses will be Mrs. Lynn Tele, Mrs. Ronald Ostby, Mrs. Myles Olson and Mrs. Carl VanHorn.

Nursery care will be provided for children under three years of age.

Rhonda Knutson Bridal Shower Set At Radium

Miss Rhonda Knutson of Viking will be honored at a bridal shower on Tuesday at 8 p.m., at the Immanual Lutheran church of Radium.

No cards have been sent. All friends and relatives are welcome to attend.

Susan Vraa-LeRoy Elg Vows Said At Goodridge

Miss Susan Elleen Vraa and LeRoy Carl Elg of Goodridge exchanged marriage vows recently at the Ekelund Lutheran church of Goodridge.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marion Vraa of Goodridge and the late Herbert Vraa. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Elg, also of Goodridge.

Rev. Bruce Anderson officiated at the double ring ceremony attended by approximately 300 relatives and friends. At the organ was Mrs. Dick Marquis, a friend of the couple. She played "O Perfect Love," as the bridesmaids entered, and the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional. Jessie Boyer, also a friend of the couple, sang "You're the best thing that ever happened to me," "Sweet Love," and "Follow Me." Acolyte was Richard Vraa of Goodridge, a brother of the bride.

For the afternoon ceremony, the chancel was graced with candelabra with greenery and orange ribbons. On the altar were two vases of orange and yellow carnations with green accents.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her brother, Gary Vraa of Minneapolis. She was attired in a floor-length gown of white angelskin designed in empire fashion with a chapel-length train. Cluny lace outlined the neckline. Matching lace motifs were appliqued on long sheer sleeves, the fitted bodice and the circular skirt. Her Juliet headpiece with an overlay of Cluny lace held her lace-edged veil of bridal illusion. She carried a teardrop arrangement of peach colored roses, white carnations, babies' breath and greenery. Her onyx necklace was a gift from the groom.

Gwen Blaine of Goodridge, a friend of the couple, was the bride's personal attendant.

Diane Paulson of Goodridge, also a friend of the couple, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of orange ice dotted voile fashioned with an empire bodice with short puffy sleeves and a deep square neckline. Orange ribbon and lace accented the three ruffled tiers that formed her skirt. To complete her attire, she wore an orange floppy hat with orange satin ribbon. Trimming the hat was a miniature cluster of flowers corresponding with her bouquet of yellow daisies, orange carnations, babies breath and greenery backed, by a circular lace dolly with orange ribbon streamers.

Wearing similar attire were the other attendants Valerie Vraa of Minneapolis, sister-in-law of the bride; Karen Bablow of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom; Jane Mutnansky of Hibbing and Gayle Dahlen of Goodridge, friends of the couple. Marilyn Vraa of Goodridge, a sister of the bride was junior attendant. Her empire fashioned gown, also of orange ice dotted voile, featured a floor-length skirt with a wide ruffle around the bottom. All of the attendants wore pearl necklaces, gifts from the bride.

Attending the groom as best man was Curtiss Quam of Goodridge, a friend of the couple. Groomsmen were Jamie McEnelly and Roger Hovet of Thief River Falls, friends of the couple, and David Vraa of Goodridge and Gary Vraa of Minneapolis, brothers in the bride. Ushers were Donnie Vraa of Goodridge, brother of the bride, and Fred Dablow of Thief River Falls, brother-in-law of the groom. The men of the wedding party wore deep brown Windsor tuxedos with orange ruffled shirts, brown velvet bow ties and orange carnation boutonnieres. The groom's boutonniere was a peach rose taken from the bride's bouquet.

The mother of the bride was attired in a peach polyester floor-length gown styled with long sleeves and a V-neckline complemented by a collar. Her corsage featured peach roses and yellow daisies. The mother of the groom wore a pink sleeveless floor-length gown topped by a voile long-sleeve floral jacket. Her corsage was of yellow roses and white daisies.

Honor guests at the wedding were Selmer Erickson of Goodridge, grandfather of the bride, and Mrs. Marvin Bakken, also of Goodridge, godmother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, the mother of the bride hosted a reception in the church parlors for relatives and friends. Host and hostess were Jim and Carol Weichert of St. Paul, brother-in-law and sister of the groom.

Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by Mrs. Eugene Wiskow. The cake was iced in white and decorated with white sugar bells. Fresh yellow daisies graced the middletier and a cluster of white daisies and orange carnations topped the cake together with a silver Christogram. Surrounding the base were white daisies, orange carnations and greenery. Mrs. Mayer Holen of Goodridge, a friend of the couple, and Mrs. Morris Miller of Thief River Falls, an aunt of the groom, cut and served the cake.

Pouring coffee were Mrs. Lewis Quam and Mrs. George Vraa of Goodridge, cousins of the bride.

Berny Vraa of Goodridge, a sister-in-law of the bride, presided at the guest book as Donna Quam of Goodridge, a cousin of the bride, and Debi Marquis of Minneapolis, a friend of the couple, served the punch. Waitresses were Barb Hermanson, Mavis Holen, Mary Marquis, Joni Sjulestad, Shelly Wiseth and Trudy Hyland.

Distributing rice packets from white straw baskets were Tanya Bourgeois of Minneapolis, Carla Dablow of Thief River Falls, nieces of the groom, and Tami Quam of Goodridge, cousin of the bride. They wore yellow-dotted Swiss floor-length gowns styled with white eyelet bodices with short puffy sleeves trimmed with white lace and yellow ribbon. They also wore white hats with yellow ribbons, and miniature daisy corsages.

At the gift table were Janelle and Lori Jo Bakken of Goodridge, cousins of the bride. Flower attendants were Gladys Bourgeois and Audrey Elg of Minneapolis and Marlene Herrin of California, sisters of the groom.

For traveling on the wedding trip to Winnipeg, Man., Canada, the bride wore a red and black pantsuit. The couple is now at home at Northwestern Trailer court in this city, lot 69. Both are graduates of the Goodridge high school. The bride is attending Northland Community college, and the groom, a graduate of Duluth Technical Institute, is employed by Gunderson Electric of Trail. Photo, Lund Photography of Roseau.

Rhonda Knutson-Kenneth Thomas To Wed Dec. 13

Approaching marriage of Rhonda Knutson and Kenneth Thomas is announced by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Knutson of Viking and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thomas of Grygla.

The ceremony will take place Saturday, December 13, at 2 p.m., at the Grace Lutheran church in Grygla.

All friends and relatives are invited to attend and to remain for the reception that will follow in the church parlors.

Swingin' Squares Set Dances And Refresher Course

Two dances and a refresher course in dancing have been scheduled by the Swingin' Squares square dance club of Goodridge.

The first dance will be held Saturday at the Goodridge school gymnasium. Dancing will begin at 8:30 p.m., with Virgil McCann as caller.

The Christmas dance is scheduled for December 20. Jim Kooyer of Detroit Lakes will be the guest caller. Dancing will be from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Dancers and spectators are welcome to attend both events. Lunch will be served.

The refresher course for couples who have taken lessons is scheduled for Thursday, December 4, at the Goodridge school gymnasium. Jim Kooyer will serve as instructor.

Maureen Schiff And Jon Nygard Wed At Hamel

Announcement is made of the marriage of Maureen E. Schiff to Jon A. Nygard of Ogema. The ceremony took place at Hamel on October 4.

The bride is the daughter of Milton D. Schiff of Minneapolis and the late Mrs. Ena Schiff. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Sigfred Nygard of Ogema. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Evan Jevne of Holt. The bride groom at one time lived in this area. After World War II, he spent his boyhood years with his parents at the Lake Agassiz headquarters.

Attending the couple were Rollie Schiff of St. Louis Park, as maid of honor; LaVerne Kinvig of Hamel and JoAnn Nygard of Ogema as bridesmaids; Ken Nygard, as best man; and Gordon Nygard of Fargo, N.D., Howard Bell and Gail Hanson of St. Paul, as groomsmen and ushers.

Following a wedding trip, the couple is now at home in St. Louis Park.

Senior Meals Menu Listed For Next Week

Senior meals program conducted at Northwestern hospital services through the Tri-Valley opportunity council has met with satisfactory acceptance since starting early in November, according to Linda Carlson, recently selected site manager for the senior meals program.

The program is directed toward residents 60 years of age and older (and their spouses) who may not be eating nutritionally sound meals because of a lack of adequate income, skills, mobility or incentive. Each participant is asked to contribute to the cost of the meals, although no one will be turned away because of inability to pay. To date, contributions have covered about half of the meal cost.

Menu for the senior meals program will be published on a regular basis in the Times as supplied by the senior meals site manager. Reservations for meals are to be made by 1 p.m. the preceding day, either at the site or by calling 681-4240, extension 335.

Menu for Thursday of this week includes roast pork and sage dressing, whipped potatoes, pork gravy, peas, corn relish, apple crisp with whipped cream, bread, butter, milk, tea or coffee.

Friday menu includes meatballs and gravy, steamed potato with parsley butter, fried parsnips, cole slaw parfait salad, prune whip, bread, butter, milk, tea or coffee.

Menu for next week is as follows:

Monday, Dec. 8—Cheeseburger on bun, boullion browned potato, creamed cabbage, ambrosia salad, white crunch cake;

Tuesday, Dec. 9—Oven browned chicken with giblet dressing, whipped potatoes and gravy, beets, perfection salad, blueberry dessert;

Wednesday, Dec. 10—Salmon loaf with cream sauce, baked potato with butter, green beans, deviled egg salad, strawberry cheesecake;

Thursday, Dec. 11—Cooked ham dinner with steamed potato and vegetables, fruit cottage cheese salad, Jello with whipped cream;

Friday, Dec. 12—Hamburger macaroni goulash, peas, chef salad, cherry pie with whipped cream.

Bread, butter, coffee, tea or milk are served with all of the above meals.

Coconut stars of rich, buttery sugar cookie dough belong on your Christmas tree. They're an invitation to help yourself. After chilled dough is rolled, cut into star shapes and make a hole in one point for hanging. Brush tops with cream, sprinkle with Baker's cookie coconut and bake. After cooling, insert ribbons for hanging the 5 dozen cookies you can make from this recipe.

Coconut Cooky Stars

¾ cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
1 egg
2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond or lemon extract
1 cup cookie coconut*
Cream
Additional cookie coconut

*Or use 1 1/3 cups (about) flaked coconut, finely chopped.

Cream butter. Gradually add sugar, and continue beating until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add flour, a small amount at a time, mixing thoroughly after each addition. Stir in vanilla, almond extract, and coconut. Divide dough in two portions and wrap each in wax paper. Chill 30 minutes. Roll chilled dough 1/8-inch thick. Cut with lightly floured 2-inch star-shaped cookie cutters. Make a hole in one point, using a plastic straw. Place on ungreased baking sheets, brush tops with light cream and sprinkle generously with additional cookie coconut. Bake at 400° for about 6 minutes, or until edges just begin to brown. Cool. Insert ribbons for hanging. Makes about 5 dozen.

Seed Potato Production Down For '75

Minnesota's certified seed potato production this year is estimated at 2.9 million hundredweight. That is a one-year drop of 1.5 million hundredweight, or 34 per cent less than the 1974 seed crop, and it is the shortest Minnesota seed potato crop since 1952, reports the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Jerome Jevning, supervisor of the state certified seed potato program, said some 5,100 acres of potatoes registered for certified seed production were destroyed by spring floods in northwestern Minnesota.

Minnesota's 182 certified growers harvested 19,428 acres of seed potatoes this year, compared to the 27,409 acres harvested in 1974. Kennebec, Norchip, Norland, Irish Cobbler, Red Pontiac and Russet Burbank are the leaders among 30 varieties certified.

White variety potatoes, 65 per cent of Minnesota's 1974 certified seed stock, dropped to 59 per cent of this year's lower supply because of the flook losses. Red potato varieties represent 31 per cent and russet varieties the remaining 10 per cent of this year's seed crop.

Jevning said the quality of this year's certified seed potatoes placed in storage is good, favored by ideal weather during the fall harvest.

Minnesota's 20 certified growers of foundation seed potatoes—the suppliers for most of the state's certified seed production—were not adversely affected by the spring floods and maintained average production.

Initial planting of Minnesota's 1975 certified seed potato stock is scheduled early next month in the Minnesota Department of Agriculture's annual winter variety trial plots near Homestead, Florida. Readings on the performance of 30 varieties in the test will be available to growers late in January.

Normally about 15 per cent of Minnesota's annual certified seed production is required for planting of the state's 91-95,000 acres of potatoes for all purposes, and the majority is marketed nation-wide.

The 1975 directory of Minnesota certified seed potato varieties and growers has been mailed to over 3,000 commercial producers in the United States and Canada. Copies may be obtained from the Minnesota department of agriculture.

Ag Curriculum Review Session Held On Mon.

In conjunction with the curriculum review and revision in the agriculture program of the Thief River Falls school system, a meeting of local school district officials and area farmers and agribusinessmen was held Monday morning at the Country Inn in Thief River Falls.

With a view toward what the local education system should be providing in agricultural education by 1985—10 years from now—the invited guests were asked to give their ideas on educational needs as they see them from their position in their communities.

Among the suggestions were increased emphasis on instruction in management, accounting, salesmanship and human relations. Reduction in length of programs was encouraged to permit establishment of some type of internship program to allow actual experience while in training. Encouragement toward making the high school vocational agriculture program more exploratory was also given.

With statistics indicating the advanced age of a large majority of active farmers in Minnesota and North Dakota, concern was expressed about the need to recruit good potential farmers and more actively promote farming and agribusiness activities.

Invited to attend and provide input for the meeting were Dennis Forsell, director of organization for the Minnesota Farmers Union, St. Paul; Dean Syverson, area fieldman for Land O'Lakes, Inc., Thief River Falls; Loren Johnson and Medard Yutrzenka, Argyle area farmers; George Schwartz, president of First Northwestern state bank of Thief River Falls; and Clarence Sande, vice president of Agsco, Inc., Grand Forks, N.D.

Representing local education institutions and programs at the meeting were Dr. William Corliss, superintendent of schools; Richard Berry, associate director of the area vocational-technical institute; Willard Koltke, dean of instruction at Northland community college; John Tofte, director of the Northwest vocational center; and Terry Courneya, Pennington county agricultural agent;

Also Ed Duke, Lawrence Helt and Terry Houff, instructors in the high school vocational agriculture program; Harry Oen, Verne Spengler, Don Johnson, Dr. Harvey Peterson and Alan Dalen, instructors in the several programs offered to adults through the AVTI in farm management and production.

assessments, and partially as a result of this the bids were tabled until the next regular meeting to allow the council tax and assessments committee to review the benefit rate.

The council did pass a resolution officially approving the CETA snow shoveling service for elderly and handicapped city residents this winter. The city had earlier given verbal approval to the program.

Most of the Tuesday night meeting was devoted to discussion of the 1976 city budget. No action was taken, but details discussed indicated that utility rate increases (water, sewage, sanitation, electricity) are imminent.

Keith Christie Now Is Noted Western Artist

received in 1964, he specialized in drafting and metals. He undertook a special problem in bronze sculpting, completing the piece gimself from start to finish. Later he built a backyard foundry in order to produce pieces for his home and presents for friends. His wife did not even recognize his artisitic abilities until he began to do some paintings for their living room.

At this time, Cotton Rosser, one of the largest rodeo producers in the country, asked Keith to create some sculpture for a show coming up at the Cow Palace. Because of the pressure of teaching and limited time, Keith began to use a commercial foundry, operated by Franco Vianello whose family has been bronze casters for centuries in Venice, Italy.

Keith sold his first sculpture to then president of the Cow Palace and trustee of the Cowboy Hall of Fame, Walter T. Rodman. In 1972 he began his first major work, a 5½ foot long stage coach with a six horse hitch. It so captured the interest of restauranteur Trader Vic that he persuaded a Wells Fargo bank vice president to view it. The bank was so pleased it ordered the entire edition of 12. Keith took a leave of absence from teaching and started his career as a professional artist.

Upon completion of the Wells Fargo series, Keith began creating unique sculptures that gained immediate acceptance. His work is shown at Troy's Cowboy art gallery in Scottsdale, Ariz., and has been added to many prominent western art collections. Olaf Wieghorst, dean of western artists and a former cavalryman, paid Christie the supreme compliment by purchasing his bronze of a cavalry officer and entitled "The Flanker".

At the onset of his career as a professional artist, Keith was hesitant for he knew what a full-fledged commitment it would take. But take it he did, for now he is wholly involved in work at his studio on the 80-acre ranch which he owns in the California Sierra foothills. It's full time now. . . he's geared to it.

When asked if he had to make a choice of media, Christi replied, "If I could use only one art form for the rest of my life, I would have to quit." To him, all media is interdependent; he needs it all in order to express himself. In all, he feels almost an obsession to be continually improving.

If you are planning to give your child a pet for Christmas, the American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA) has a few suggestions that can make the gift a joy for the entire family.

Select a pet that will fit into your family's lifestyle. Decide what size pet you can accomodate in your house or apartment, allowing enough room for the animal to sleep, eat, play and exercise.

Exotic animals such as monkeys, skunks, jungle cats and certain reptiles rarely make good pets. They can be expensive, difficult to care for and very dangerous. Their behavior in the home is often unpredictable.

Pets cost money. Be prepared for the day-to-day expenses of food, health care and other essentials. "Free" pets from animal shelters also involve some expense. Any animal you bring into your home should be vaccinated against infectious diseases. Depending upon local laws, your pet may also require a license.

Good health depends on regular medical attention, proper nutrition and correct treatment and handling. A veterinarian should give your pet regular health checkups. Be sure family members do not mistreat the pet. Very young children may unknowingly injure a young animal, often by "over loving" it.

Have your dog or cat surgically neutered as soon as your veterinarian says the animal is ready. Neutering helps prevent certain health problems, and usually makes pets less likely to roam or "spot" carpets and furniture.

Careful selection, proper planning and responsible care can make pet ownership a wonderful experience for the whole family.

How can I check the fit of my children's shoes?

There are two simple ways of detecting outgrown shoes. They are not as reliable as having the feet remeasured, but are infinitely surer than the old toe-hunt method which only ruins the toebox of the shoe.

One is to hold the shoe under a lamp so you can see the foot print on the insole. If the shoes are long enough, there will be a light area ahead of the mark made by the great toe.

At the risk of being considered a wise guy, the writer suggests counting the toe marks. Five is par for the foot, but many shoes show only four. Lacking proper shoe width the little toe is forced up over the fourth toe and into the upper part of the shoe. Five-toed feet that make four-toed footprints should be shod in "straight-last" shoes.

The second check is simply to put your hand in the shoe, palm upward, to see if the great toe is digging a hole in the top of the toe box. The above mentioned footprint may show a light area ahead of the great toe only because the toe of the shoe is too shallow to allow the foot to advance any further. The force is required to dig such a hole is sufficient to bunionate the great toe.

Former Native Of TRF Cited For Excellence

GLENN CARLSON, former Thief River Falls native, was recognized recently by the American Chamber of Commerce Executives organization with designation as a Certified Chamber Executive. He received the award from Les Bram, left, president of the national organization, at the 61st annual management conference held in San Francisco, Calif.

Glenn Carlson, a native of Thief River Falls and former employee of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, has been designated as a Certified Chamber Executive (CCE) by the American Chamber of Commerce Executives organization.

A release from the organization states that the CCE designation " . . . is a mark of distinction which recognizes chamber managers who have demonstrated that the quest for personal excellence has been achieved. It signifies the highest quality of professional and personal performance and its objectives are to motivate the recipient to develop even higher standards in order to be ready to face the challenges of tomorrow."

Carlson received the designation at the 61st annual management conference held in San Francisco, Calif.

One of only seven persons to receive the award at the national conference, Carlson has been on the staff of the St. Cloud Chamber of Commerce for 23 years, leaving Thief River Falls to accept the St. Cloud position. While in Thief River Falls he was active in the formation of Northwest Dairy Day and the Minnesota Princess Kay of the Milky Way competition. He was instrumental in establishment of Central Minnesota Dairy Day for the St. Cloud area.

Since he has been in St. Cloud, membership in the Chamber of Commerce has grown from 324 to 853 and dues receipts have jumped from $19,000 to $104,000 annually. An industrial park has been established there, a second industrial park is being considered and St. Cloud has received designation as an All-American city.

Marv Hanson

Kittson Farmer To Seek State Senate Post

Marv Hanson, a Kittson county farmer, announced at Hallock today that he will seek the DFL endorsement for the office of state senator from Minnesota's District 1.

In making his announcement, Hanson said, "Our district holds more opportunities now than ever before. With the public increasingly skeptical about politics and government, those of us interested in public service must build the confidence of our citizens in their government with truly responsible and effective policies and programs. I hope to serve and do my part in making the challenges facing our area the accomplishments of our future."

Hanson grew up in Kittson county and graduated from Hallock High school. He holds a B.S. degree with honors from the University of Minnesota in agricultural economics and graduated from Columbia university law school. Hanson served two years with the Peace Corps in Bolivia, working with farmers there on increasing their feed and livestock production.

Hanson farms with his father, Byron, and younger brother, Cal, in Kittson county. He and his wife, Gayle, live on their farm southwest of Hallock and have one child, a boy, born October 4 of this year.

Hanson worked with Congressman Bob Bergland during the summer of 1968 on Bergland's first campaign for Congress. Since 1970 he has served as Kittson county DFL chairman and is a member of various farm and local organizations. Presently, Hanson serves on the Kittson-Marshall water user commission which is the first project in Minnesota to pipe water to rural farm homes.

Hanson concluded, "The people of northwestern Minnesota have worked hard to build the strong communities we have, and I pledge to work vigorously to strengthen our future."

Need Insurance For Trailer License In '76

Owners of trailers who last registered their vehicles two years ago were reminded recently by the division of motor vehicles that they must now provide insurance information when registering their vehicles for the coming year.

For many trailer owners, two changes have been inaugurated since they registered two years ago: Trailers must now be registered annually, and the provisions of no-fault insurance apply to trailers as well as motor vehicles.

The motor vehicle division advised that trailer owners must enter the name of their insurance company and the policy number that applies to the trailer on the registration form. In most cases, trailers are covered by the insurance that is issued to the towing vehicle, and thus the towing vehicle's insurance policy number should be entered on the form.

Trailers used for commercial purposes, however, carry their own insurance policy and in this case the policy number of the trailer should be entered on the form. Owners who are unsure of the status of their trailer's insurance coverage are best advised to check with their insurance agent.

Trailers may be registered through January 10, after which time a $2.50 penalty is imposed. The plates must be displayed on the trailer by midnight March 1.

Government-guaranteed student loans may become harder to get. Even though Uncle Sam ultimately makes good on defaulted loans, banks would just as soon avoid the hassle of trying to collect, than having to make a claim on the government, which they currently do in nearly one out of five cases.

Carlson Herd Leads County DHIA In July

Mylo Carlson's herd led the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association in July, according to Jerry Hamre, supervisor. Carlson's herd registered at 1.85 pounds of butterfat and 43.7 pounds of milk. Other leaders were Gene Nelson (1.76 pounds butterfat and 42.8 pounds milk) and Duane Krohn (butterfat—1.54 pounds, milk—39.1 pounds).

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows, giving the farmer a record of the herd's monthly earning power. If two many dry cows are included in the herd, the average for the month may be low, even though the cows milking may produce heavily.

There were 27 herds on test in July with a total of 1,451 cows in the Pennington association. A total of 25 cows owned by 12 farmers finished with over 600 pounds butterfat during the testing year in a 305 day or less lactation. One of the five Gene Nelson cows over 600 pounds registered at 874 pounds butterfat, the leader for the month.

The other dairymen listed include Mordy Morrision, Darrow Lundeen, Gordon Wetterlund, Chester Gast (four cows), Mylo Carlson, Clarence Swanson (two cows), Marlan Augustine (three cows), Roy Nelson, and Martin Hanson, Duane Vatsaas and Knute Nesland (two cows each.

Know The Seven Toy Dangers

This year's toy buying season is well under way, but it's not too late to remember that all toys may not be safe. An estimated 124,000 children are treated annually in hospital emergency rooms for toy-related injuries.

To protect your child, the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission suggests that you be aware of the following seven toy dangers when you buy:

1) WRONG TOY FOR CHILD'S AGE. Remember that toys safe for older children can be hazardous for smaller children.

2) SHARP EDGES. Poorly constructed toys may have sharp edges or be made of brittle plastic or glass that breaks easily.

3) SMALL PARTS. Removable small parts, and those exposed when toys break open, can be swallowed or inhaled.

4) LOUD NOISES. Toy caps, noise-making guns and other toys may produce noise levels loud enough to damage hearing.

5) SHARP POINTS. Ribbons and other parts on dolls and stuffed animals could be attached with pins, staples and wires that can cut.

6) PROPELLED OBJECTS. Children should never play with adult lawn darts or other sharp-pointed sports equipment. Look for soft rubber or other protective tips on children's arrows and flying toys.

7) ELECTRIC TOYS. Electric toys with heating elements are not suitable for children under 8 years old.

Proper adult supervision of play will also help protect your child from injury.

For more information, to report a dangerous toy or a toy-related injury, write to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207. In the continental United States, call the toll-free hotline 800-638-2666. Maryland residents only, call 800-492-2937.

Refugees In Minn. Concern Of Governor

More than 3,200 Indochinese refugees are now living in the State of Minnesota, according to Governor Wendell Anderson. They have settled in small towns and cities throughout outstate Minnesota, as well as in the Twin Cities area. You may already have met a refugee family or perhaps your children now have Vietnamese or Cambodian classmates.

The Minnesota refugee population is larger than that of any other state in our six state Federal Region (Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, and Minnesota), even though Minnesota has the smallest population among these states.

"On a purely voluntary basis, with assistance in resettlement from our churches and private social service agencies, our Minnesota people have shown great concern and compassion by accepting these refugees into their communities," said Anderson.

"Resettlement in Minnesota has now reached the state where we need to be concerned about some of the longer-range resettlement programs of our new Indochinese residents," he added. "Recently the volunteer agencies and representatives of the refugees met with my staff and representatives of the U.S. government to discuss what could be done to ease the transition into Minnesota life."

As a result of the recommendations of this group, Governor Anderson said he is establishing an Indochinese refugee assistance liaison for the state, with the assistance of federal funds. During the next nine months, this liaison operation will work with the social service agencies and communities involved in refugee settlement: to develop and distribute important information to the refugees to help them deal with their own problems; to involve eligible refugees in job with the assistance of private industry; and to develop a profile of the Minnesota Indochinese refugee population for use in education and job training efforts.

"Eight voluntary social service organizations are now involved in resettling refugees in Minnesota. They will be represented on a special task force working with the state liaison," the Governor said. "In addition," he added, "the task force will include representatives of the Vietnamese-American association, the Cambodian refugee community, private industry, and such state agencies as the Governor's manpower office and the Departments of education, employment services and public welfare."

"We plan to have the refugee assistance liaison in operation before the end of November," concluded Governor Anderson. "It is a modest but important effort to help these new Minnesotans learn to be independent members of our society so that they can more fully share and contribute to our life in Minnesota."

Warns Many Holiday Plants Are Poisonous

The mistletoe you kiss under could kill you, said state health commissioner Dr. Warren R. Lawson recently. Every Christmas doctors treat patients for illnesses caused by eating poisonous holiday plants.

Mistletoe, holly, poinsettias, Jerusalem cherry and crown of thorns can cause nausea, skin irritation and even death if eaten. In fact, just a few holly berries cause a severe upset stomach, and it takes only about 25 to 30 berries to kill.

Poinsettia sap rubbed onto the skin can cause irritation. And eating the leaves or sap of mistletoe can cause severe stomach pains or death.

Children usually are the victims of Christmas plant poisonings and other plant poisonings. In the United States alone 12,000 children eat poinsonous plants every year. Luckily injuries and death are not his high. Christmas plants and berries taste so awful usually kids don't eat too much of them.

If your child eats any plant leaf, flower or berry call your family doctor immediately, or rush your child to the hospital emergency room. But take a sample of the plant with you for identification.

And for safety, if you do keep holiday plants in your home, keep them out of a child's reach. They can be deadly.

On Dec. 15, 1959, Capt. Joseph W. Rogers, USAF, set a world speed record flying an F-106 Delta Dart jet interceptor at Edwards AFB, Calif., at the speed of 1,520.9 mph over an 11-mile straightaway course.

History Data Workshops Set For Next Week

Three historical data gathering workshops to conclude the first round of Phase II planning for the Red River heritage interpretive program will be held December 8, 9 and 10 at Perham, Fosston and Warren.

The workshops will include interviews and discussion with area and local historians, as well as public information dinners each evening.

Sponsored by the Red River valley historical society, the workshops are conducted by Joseph Wetzel associates, interior environment design firm from Stamford, Conn.

Themes chosen by the three counties are: East Ottertail (Perham)—fur trade and commerce; East Polk (Fosston)—the professions; and Marshall (Warren)—folk arts and crafts.

The Wetzel group uses multimedia and other sensory experience techniques to translate experiences from the past into the understandable language of today. Long range goal of the RRVHS is a network of heritage interpretive programs depicting the history and culture of the Red River valley.

First three workshops in early November were at Fargo-Moorhead, Pembina-Emerson and Ada. The F-M program will anchor the system and will give an overview of the valley story. A second anchor building is planned for Winnipeg at the north end of the valley. Pembina-Emerson program will be located directly on the international boundary and will cover the theme of early settlement. The Norman county program (Ada) will include Scandanavian culture and immigration.

Workshops are funded by a matching grant from the national endowment for the arts.

Architectural consultants from Minnesota, Manitoba and North Dakota have been directed to work on phase II studies throughout the valley.

UFO Sighting In Mont. Has Local Interest

Mrs. John T. Struble of Columbia Falls, Mont., the former Mrs. Omer (Shirley) Olson of Thief River Falls, has reported to the Times a strange incident which involved her husband in mid-October. It may be recalled that this was about the same time the sighting of orange lights in the sky was reported in the area east of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. Struble's report is in the form of a clipping from the Missoula, Mont., "Missoulian" and was written by John Wright:

Separate sightings of unidentified flying objects were reported to have been made in northwest Montana Friday evening and early Saturday morning.

John T. Struble of Columbia Falls told The Missoulian he was "damned scared" after sighting a UFO about 25 miles northwest of Helena in the vicinity of Flesher Pass at 12:30 a.m. Saturday.

According to Struble, a large object about 50 feet in diameter and from 25 to 30 feet high passed over his truck from the rear and hovered approximately a hundred yards ahead of him for about five minutes. Struble said that all the power in his truck went out, including the lights and engine.

He described the object, which he said apparently directed a large spotlight in his direction, as hovering about 50 feet above the ground and having green flashing lights. "The whole canyon was lit up bright as day," he said, adding that he just sat there "frozen" the whole time the object was in view.

As soon as the UFO left, Struble said, the power in his truck came back on. He reported late Saturday that his eyes were still bothering him as a result of the spotlight's glare.

Struble, who has been driving a cement truck between Helena and Kalispell for the past three years, said that he had also seen another object with "bright flashing lights" for a matter of seconds at about 8:15 Friday evening near Clearwater Junction on Montana Highway 200.

The Flathead County sheriff's office dispatcher said Struble has reported the sighting to their office upon arriving back in Kalispell at 6:30 a.m. Saturday.

The secon UFO sightin was made by John Giacomino, Flathead Valley High School vice principal. He reported that he was getting ready to go hunting at 4:30 a.m. Saturday when he looked out of the window and saw a "big, bright object" near the top of Columbia Mountain, to the north.

After observing the object for about a half hour Giacomino woke his wife, he said.

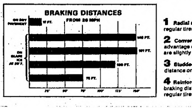
Mrs. Giacomino told The Missoulian in a telephone interview that the object "lit up the whole mountain" before it dimmed and turned red. She said the object disappeared at 6:18 a.m. after rising and going over the mountain to the north. This incident also was reported to the Flathead County sheriff's office Saturday morning, according to the Dispatcher.

Lt. Stuart Young of the U.S. Air Force's 716th Radar Squadron stationed near Kalispell said his station "officially" had seen "nothing out of the ordinary."

Lt. Ken Marks of Malmstrom Air Force Base near Great Falls said that the Air Force is "no longer involved in investigating UFO's following the completing of project Blue Book in December of 1969." Marks said that based on a University of Colorado study which indicated that UFO's posed "no threat," the Air Force has "no official viewpoint."

WINTER TRACTION FACT SHEET

Summary of Test Findings of the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards



1 Radial and bias-belted tires offer no advantage over regular tires when driving on ice.

2 Conventional snow tires (without studs) offer no advantage over regular tires in stopping on ice; in fact, they are slightly inferior to regular tires in this respect.

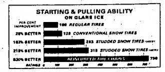
3 Studded snow tires on the rear wheels reduce braking distance on ice by 19 percent as compared with regular tires.

4 Reinforced tire chains on the rear wheels reduce braking distance on ice by 50 percent as compared with regular tires.

5 Conventional snow tires (without studs) improve pulling ability by 28 percent on glare ice and 51 percent on loosely packed snow as compared with regular tires.

6 Studded snow tires develop about three times the pulling ability of regular tires on glare ice.

7 Reinforced tire chains provide more than seven times the pulling ability of regular tires on glare ice, and better than four times the pulling ability of regular tires on loosely packed snow.



8 When used on the rear wheels only, these traction aids do not materially improve the cornering capacity of a vehicle. With studded tires on all four wheels, however, cornering speed is increased about 25 percent.

9 Regardless of efforts to improve traction on ice through the use of snow tires, studded tires, or reinforced tire chains, in no instance is the resulting traction close to that of conventional highway tires on either a dry or a wet pavement.

The above summary, prepared by the Safe Winter Driving League, is based on test reports of the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards for the years 1967 through 1973 and the Council's 1974 booklet, "Exercise Winter Hazards—Exercise Safe Driving Habits."

81,798 Minn. Unemployment Active Claims

Persons in active claims status under the five unemployment programs currently in force in Minnesota totaled 81,798 for the week ending November 21, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services reported recently.

The total is up 1,797 from the preceding week.

Initial claims filed during the week for the regular program totaled 5,914, up 294 (five per cent) from the previous week but down 1,536 (21 per cent) from the corresponding week a year ago. Total number of active regular claims was 51,028, up 2,208 (five per cent) from the previous week.

MEA President Says Teacher Freedom Vital

"Teaching is a person-to-person experience. The relationship between the persons involved is sacred if education is to remain free and vital," states Donald C. Hill, president of the Minnesota Education association.

"The proclivity of many special interests to make education fit their 'world' is tough to fight—and sometimes impossible to withstand.

"Those with a business-and-industry mind set are forever trying to make our education system 'more efficient'.

"Labor is trying to organize teachers—with a stronger commitment to the parent unions.

"Religious groups are screaming to keep their messages in or out—depending on where they are, defendant or complaintant on the 'church and state' laws," he said.

"Some political party leaders use teachers and schools as the butt for their problems with our country speeches.

"Teachers and our education system never should be harnessed, packaged or controlled by any one segment of our government or by special interest groups.

"At a recent meeting in Washington with a few state education association presidents and 100 representatives of the largest businesses and industries, we wrestled with what we felt business could do to help education. When I said I thought the best way for them to help was to pay their taxes and stop looking for ways to avoid paying and to effect changes in schools through local school boards and state agencies like everybody else does, I was immediately suspect.

"Was I against the interests of business and industry? Never. But I am against short circuiting the free education process. Local school boards, parents, administrators, teachers and students should have a most profound effect on the classroom. Blend in state interest (state government agencies) and national interest (laws, courts) and you have a mess—but you also have a democratic process that works," Hill added.

"The key to the whole operation is the sovereignty of relationship between the student and the teacher. Education in the United States has produced for our society pretty much what that society has demanded.

"Teachers are a cross section of the people in our state and country. Most of our strengths and weaknesses will be present within the ranks of teachers—and they should be.

"There must not be any shackles on a teacher's freedom other than those that politically make their way through the democratic process. It is the job of the MEA to see to it that the treatment of teachers is fair and to make sure the community understands and is in favor of the relationship among the administration, school board and teachers.

"The MEA is a means to an end—to help teachers with their profession—not an end in itself. The school board is a means to an end—to provide education for the people—not an end in itself. All government is a means to an end—to provide services to its constituents—not an end in itself.

"How ridiculous it would be for all of us, or any one of us, to forget that if we lose the person-to-person free education all the rest of our government agencies could lose their direction."

and horse displays due to the Bicentennial event.

Location of the midway on the fairgrounds was also considered, as was the parking situation which is now believed to be resolved through the city's erection of permanent fencing at the city sports arena site.

Borsheim and Wilbur Hallstrom, treasurer, reviewed the annual financial statement which showed total income of $32,622 from fair operations and other sources during the past fiscal year (Oct. 1, 1974 to Sept. 30, 1975). Expenses for the year reached a total of $36,337 for a net loss during the year of $3,715. Premiums paid out totaled $4,864.

Directors of the association expressed a desire for a more detailed cost break-down in the annual report in order to better determine where funds should be allocated or espenses reduced. A request was also made for increased premiums for the women's department and the superintendent of that department was directed to review the department's premium list and make recommendations for changes.

Volunteers offered their services for a number of duties related to the fair, including attempts to increase the machinery and farm equipment display, provide the Bicentennial entrance, determine interest in the ecumenical church service and investigate costs of rodeo performances.

CHRISTMAS

Remember what you decided last January 13?

Wasn't that the day your dried-out nasal passages really got to you? Your peeling wallpaper took a turn for the worst, and your last favorite plant collapsed into the dust! Didn't you say something like "I've had it! We've got to get some humidity into this house."

Well, this heating season, why not play it smart. Be comfortable from the beginning! All your dry-air problems can be solved with a West Bend Automatic Humidifier. That's all. It doesn't even cost much. And just think, all that spring-fresh humidified comfort will feel like a winter vacation.

May Register Trucks At A Lower Weight

Owners of certain classes of trucks in the state may have been assigned excessively high gross weights and corresponding registration fees due to an inequity in the formula used to compute the weight and tax of the truck. But these weights and fees may easily be changed, the Division of motor vehicles reported recently.

Taxes for 1976 registration on all trucks were calculated according to the gross weight of the vehicle, defined as the actual unloaded weight of the vehicle fully equipped for service plus the weight of the maximum load that the applicant intends to carry. The minimum gross weight that a truck may be registered at was set by law at one and one-half times the vehicle's empty weight.

The tax figure appearing on recently mailed registration notices was based on gross weights currently on record with the division. In the case of vehicles which were previously registered on a load only or empty weight basis (as many farm trucks were), a tax was computed on the basis of anticipated gross weight. However, vehicle owners have the right to select the gross weight at which they desire to operate and the gross weight of a truck thus may be changed if the owner desires.

A spokesman for the Motor vehicle division reported that although it was the division's intention to assign weights on the higher side of the scale to protect the owner or operator from arrests for overweight operation, the formula used to compute these weights appears to have assigned some weights which are excessive, particularly to pickup type trucks.

Truck owners receiving registration notices with assigned gross weights which appear to be high may have the weight changed by a deputy registrar at the time of registration. Any deputy registrar can provide additional information on the gross weight system should a vehicle owner have problems or questions.

Vehicle owners who wish to register by mail may clarify the status of their vehicle's gross weight and corresponding registration tax by phoning the Motor vehicle information section at (612) 296-6911. The registrant can then correct the registration notice himself if a change is in order and mail in the proper fee.

A truck owner who wishes to mail his registration notice back to the division for recomputation may do so, but since fees must be paid by January 10, the notice should be returned as soon as possible. No extension will be provided, and a late fee of $2.50 will be added for registrations after January 10.

The spokesman also reported that the Motor vehicle division is aware of a substantial increase in the munimum fees to be paid by the owners of towed recreational vehicles. A bill reducing the registration fees for such towed vehicles was passed by the House during the 1975 legislative session but final action in the Senate was not accomplished prior to the interim. It is anticipated that the legislature will again consider registration fees for recreational vehicles during the 1976 session.

Cite Possible Dangers Of Fireplaces

Citing the recent deaths of two children resulting from gases escaping from a burning fireplace, state fire marshal Wes Werner again warned of possible dangers from home fires.

"With a fireplace flu that draws well and a properly operating damper, homeowners assume that their fireplaces are entirely safe. However, if the fire burns down to smoldering embers after the family retires for the night, there is danger that the lack of heat will allow the flu to cool and dangerous gases can escape into the house.

"This can happen quite easily with hard, dense woods and with some types of compressed wood product logs."

Werner offered the following suggestions for fireplace use:

If a glass screen is installed, close it tightly upon retiring for the night.

If there is no glass screen, attempt to get the fire to burn out before leaving it for the night.

In either case, never close the damper tightly before retiring. Some gases are present without smoke or odor. They may be present without your knowing it.

Always keep one or two windows open slightly during and after fireplace use. A little ventilation makes the fireplace draw better and offers a safety valve in case of gas or smoke seepage into the house.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

MEA President Says Teacher Freedom Vital

"Teaching is a person-to-person experience. The relationship between the persons involved is sacred if education is to remain free and vital," states Donald C. Hill, president of the Minnesota Education association.

"The proclivity of many special interests to make education fit their 'world' is tough to fight—and sometimes impossible to withstand.

"Those with a business-and-industry mind set are forever trying to make our education system 'more efficient'.

"Labor is trying to organize teachers—with a stronger commitment to the parent unions.

"Religious groups are screaming to keep their messages in or out—depending on where they are, defendant or complaintant on the 'church and state' laws," he said.

"Some political party leaders use teachers and schools as the butt for their problems -with -our -country speeches.

"Teachers and our education system never should be harnessed, packaged or controlled by any one segment of our government or by special interest groups.

"At a recent meeting in Washington with a few state education association presidents and 100 representatives of the largest businesses and industries, we wrestled with what we felt business could do to help education. When I said I thought the best way for them to help was to pay their taxes and stop looking for ways to avoid paying and to effect changes in schools through local school boards and state agencies like everybody else does, I was immediately suspect.

"Was I against the interes's of business and industry? Never. But I am against short circuiting the free education process. Local school boards, parents, administrators, teachers and students should have a most profound effect on the classroom. Blend in state interest (state government agencies) and national interest (laws, courts) and you have a mess—but you also have a democratic process that works," Hill added.

"The key to the whole operation is the sovereignty of relationship between the student and the teacher. Education in the United States has produced for our society pretty much what that society has demanded.

"Teachers are a cross section of the people in our state and country. Most of our strengths and weaknesses will be present within the ranks of teachers—and they should be.

"There must not be any shackles on a teacher's freedom other than those that politically make their way through the democratic process. It is the job of the MEA to see to it that the treatment of teachers is fair and to make sure the community understands and is in favor of the relationship among the administration, school board and teachers.

"The MEA is a means to an end—to help teachers with their profession—not an end in itself. The school board is a means to an end—to provide education for the people—not an end in itself. All government is a means to an end—to provide services to its constituents—not an end in itself.

"How ridiculous it would be for all of us, or any one of us, to forget that if we lose the person-to-person free education all the rest of our government agencies could lose their direction."

and horse displays due to the Bicentennial event.

Location of the midway on the fairgrounds was also considered, as was the parking situation which is now believed to be resolved through the city's erection of permanent fencing at the city sports arena site.

Borsheim and Wilbur Hallstrom, treasurer, reviewed the annual financial statement which showed total income of $32,622 from fair operations and other sources during the past fiscal year (Oct. 1, 1974 to Sept. 30, 1975). Expenses for the year reached a total of $36,337 for a net loss during the year of $3,715. Premiums paid out totaled $4,864.

Directors of the association expressed a desire for a more detailed cost break-down in the annual report in order to better determine where funds should be allocated or espenses reduced. A request was also made for increased premiums for the women's department and the superintendent of that department was directed to review the department's premium list and make recommendations for changes.

Volunteers offered their services for a number of duties related to the fair, including attempts to increase the machinery and farm equipment display, provide the Bicentennial entrance, determine interest in the ecumenical church service and investigate costs of rodeo performances.

May Register Trucks At A Lower Weight

Owners of certain classes of trucks in the state may have been assigned excessively high gross weights and corresponding registration fees due to an inequity in the formula used to compute the weight and tax of the truck. But these weights and fees may easily be changed, the Division of motor vehicles reported recently.

Taxes for 1976 registration on all trucks were calculated according to the gross weight of the vehicle, defined as the actual unloaded weight of the vehicle fully equipped for service plus the weight of the maximum load that the applicant intends to carry. The minimum gross weight that a truck may be registered at was set by law at one and one-half times the vehicle's empty weight.

The tax figure appearing on recently mailed registration notices was based on gross weights currently on record with the division. In the case of vehicles which were previously registered on a load only or empty weight basis (as many farm trucks were), a tax was computed on the basis of anticipated gross weight. However, vehicle owners have the right to select the gross weight at which they desire to operate and the gross weight of a truck thus may be changed if the owner desires.

A spokesman for the Motor vehicle division reported that although it was the division's intention to assign weights on the higher side of the scale to protect the owner or operator from arrests for overweight operation, the formula used to compute these weights appears to have assigned some weights which are excessive, particularly to pickup type trucks.

Truck owners receiving registration notices with assigned gross weights which appear to be high may have the weight changed by a deputy registrar at the time of registration. Any deputy registrar can provide additional information on the gross weight system should a vehicle owner have problems or questions.

Vehicle owners who wish to register by mail may clarify the status of their vehicle's gross weight and corresponding registration tax by phoning the Motor vehicle information section at (612) 296-6911. The registrant can then correct the registration notice himself if a change is in order and mail in the proper fee.

A truck owner who wishes to mail his registration notice back to the division for recomputation may do so, but since fees must be paid by January 10, the notice should be returned as soon as possible. No extension will be provided, and a late fee of $2.50 will be added for registrations after January 10.

The spokesman also reported that the Motor vehicle division is aware of a substantial increase in the munimum fees to be paid by the owners of towed recreational vehicles. A bill reducing the registration fees for such towed vehicles was passed by the House during the 1975 legislative session but final action in the Senate was not accomplished prior to the interim. It is anticipated that the legislature will again consider registration fees for recreational vehicles during the 1976 session.

Watch UND-Creighton Upset

We had the opportunity to be on hand Monday when the University of North Dakota stunned highly regarded Creighton University 69-64 in a basketball game played in Grand Forks.

It was one of the finest, most exciting basketball games this writer has witnessed as the underdog Sioux battled the major college power Bluejays in front of an overflow crowd.

Northland community college graduate David Dickey had a hand in the win, playing an excellent defensive ball game and handling the ball well from his guard position. He collected a pocketfull of assists and scored the final Sioux points at the free throw line with just seconds remaining. He finished with seven points. Dickey has accumulated 16 assists in just three games for the Sioux.

The University of North Dakota junior varsity and Lake Region community college of Devils Lake, N.D. met in the preliminary game that night, with UND winning 72-63.

Northland plays host to both of those ball clubs. The UND jayvees will be here tomorrow (Thursday) and Lake Region is here Monday for 7:30 p.m. games.

The Sioux junior varsity will bring a pair of 6-8 ball players to Northland in Dave Wahlers (Des Moines, Iowa) and Emery Koening (Dickinson, N.D.), along with 5-10 play-making guard Jay Gibson (Dickinson). Six-foot, five-inch Nick Bradford (Detroit, Mich.) stars for Lake Region.

Moorhead Hockey Improving

Despite losing 5-3 to Thief River Falls Tuesday night in the sports arena, Moorhead showed that its hockey program is continuing to improve by leaps and bounds as the one-time lowly Spuds recovered from a 3-0 first period deficit to give the Prowlers all they wanted.

Thief River Falls coach Bill McGann praised the play of Moorhead after the game, saying it was the best Moorhead team he's seen during his four-year stay here.

Another indoor ice facility about to be completed in the Fargo-Moorhead area, bringing the total to three. The newest arena will use real ice this winter, but is expected to join the other two facilities with artifidial ice surfaces by next season.

Moorhead's population, and now the additional ice facilities should make the Spuds the team of the future in Region Eight.

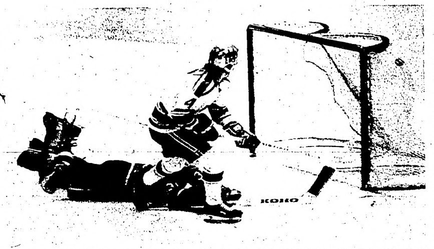
Miscellaneous

+WDAZ TV in Grand Forks has requested information regarding the rights that might be involved to televise the 1976 Region Eight hockey tournament.

+Crookston Tech transfer Andrew Kelson made an impressive debut with the Moorhead State University basketball team over the weekend with 36 points and 27 rebounds during two games in a four-team UMD invitational tournament.

+One-time Prowler standout Tom Goddard ranks second this week on the University of North Dakota hockey scoring charts with a team-high eight goals and seven assists for 15 points in 12 games. Linemate Joe DeIure of Calgary, Alta. leads the Sioux with 16 points.

+Pam Smith, whose brothers Rande and Kent play football for North Dakota State and Nebraska, respectively, is a member of the University of North Dakota women's basketball team. She's a freshman at UND.



JUNIOR DEFENSEMAN Bill Olson scored the first goal of the 1975-76 season for the Lincoln high school hockey team as he beat sprawling Moorhead goalie Perry Johnson on a clean breakaway while the Prowlers were penalty skating Tuesday in the sports arena. Olson's goal came just 2:50 into the first period. The Prowlers beat the Spuds 5-3.

Lindquist, Prowlers Outlast Spuds 5-3 In Hockey Opener

Jeff Lindquist collected a three-goal hat trick Tuesday to spark Thief River Falls to a 5-3 season-opening high school hockey win over Moorhead in the sports arena.

Thief River Falls jumped out to a 3-0 first period lead, but needed a pair of late game goals to subdue the scrappy Spuds who rallied to tie the game 3-3 in the second period.

Junior defenseman Bill Olson produced the first Thief River Falls goal of the year with a strong individual effort just 2:50 into the game. Olson broke loose for a clean breakaway while the Prowlers were penalty skating and beat Moorhead goalie Perry Johnson with a close range wrist shot.

Lindquist got into the act during a Prowler power play at 8:59 of the first period. A perfect feed from teammate Doug Dallmann positioned Lindquist in front of Johnson and the Prowler senior placed the puck into the upper right-hand corner of the net from 15 feet out.

Prowler team captain Mike Jury made it a 3-0 game at the 11:22 mark when spun around and wacked in a close range rebound during another power play opportunity. Lindquist earned an assist on the play.

Moorhead dashed any Thief River Falls thoughts of a rout, however, with a pair of goals over the final 3:08 of the first period.

Moorhead captain Jay Johnson found an open corner against Thief River Falls goalie Terry Sullivan at 11:52 and Spud teammate Luke Schroder muscled his way through the Prowler defense for a goal off a close-in scramble with just 45 seconds left in the hard-hitting opening stanza.

Brian Olmstead tied it for Moorhead 2:14 into the second period during a Spud power play. Olmstead grabbed his own rebound for the goal as his first shot hit a Prowler defenseman and came right back to his stick and a quick second shot slipped under Sullivan.

Lindquist snapped the tie, though, by sending a long slap shot from the blue line through a maze of players and past the screened Johnson at 13:03 of the second period. Dallmann earned an assist on the play—the third Prowler power play goal of the night.

Lindquist added an insurance goal late in the penalty-marred third period with a 20-foot straight-away wrist shot. A nifty pass by Jury from the corner set up the goal at the 4:15 mark.

"We're happy to win, of course, but we didn't really play as well as I thought we could," commented Prowler coach Bill McGann. "Our overall offensive and defensive game wasn't as consistent as I hoped it would be, but I guess penalties (18 in all) upset the style of both teams."

Although he was a bit disappointed in his team's play, McGann did find some bright spots. "Defensively, Steve Erickson played a heck of a game for us right from when the first puck was dropped to the final whistle," he offered.

The Prowler boss also had special praise for Moorhead, saying it was the "best Moorhead club we've faced in my four years here."

Thief River Falls swings right back into action Friday when the Prowlers play host to Grand Forks Red River in a 7:30 p.m. game in the sports arena.

Swimmers Handle Lakers In Opener

Thief River Falls opened its 1975-76 swimming season in fine fashion Monday, crushing Detroit Lakes 106-59 in the Franklin middle school pool.

Prowler swimmers won nine of 11 events, topped by double event winner Mark Storhaug who won the 200-yard individual medley in 2:18.4 and claimed the 500-yard freestyle race in 5:35.4.

Other Prowler winners included Dan Heieren with a 2:01.1 in the 200-yard freestyle; Tom Bjorkman with 95.90 points in the diving competition; Keith Poissant with a 1:06.3 in the 100-yard butterfly; Greg Omdahl with a 55.7 in the 100-yard freestyle; and Dan Cork with a 1:05.0 in the 100-yard backstroke.

Thief River Falls also won both relay events. The Prowler 200-yard medley relay unit of Cork, Jeff Carter, Storhaug and Omdahl was clocked in 1:53.7. The Prowler 400-yard freestyle relay foursome of Dave Glauque, Omdahl, Cork and Heieren turned in a 3:46.8.

"It was about the way I thought it would go," said Prowler coach John Kopari of his team's season opening performance. "We had a couple of nice surprises, though, from Tom Bjorkman in the diving and Keith Poissant in the butterfly. Those are traditionally our weakest events. Dan Cork and Kevin Murphy also looked good in the backstroke." For Poissant, it was his fastest time ever in the butterfly.

Thief River Falls will be right back in action Saturday when the Prowlers host Fargo South in a 1:30 p.m. dual meet in the Franklin pool.

EGF Girls Beat TRF Ball Club 41-31 Monday

East Grand Forks handed the Lincoln high school girls' basketball team its second loss of the 1975-76 season Monday as the host Green Wave downed the Prowlers 41-31.

Thief River Falls jumped in front 10-8 at the first quarter break, but East Grand Forks pulled away to a 22-15 halftime advantage and the Green Wave lead was never seriously threatened in the second half. East Grand Forks led 31-19 at the end of the third quarter.

"We had too many turnovers," pointed out Prowler coach Judy Charlebois. "It comes right back to our inexperience. They're coming along, but we're still making quite a few mistakes."

Cheri Onkka of Thief River Falls and Lanae Solum of East Grand Forks shared game high scoring honors with 14 points each.

Thief River Falls evened its junior varsity record at 1-1 with a 42-20 win over East Grand Forks behind the 19-point scoring outburst by Kelly Storhaug.

Thief River Falls will try to correct its 0-2 record tomorrow (Thursday) when the Prowlers travel to Red Lake Falls for an 8 p.m. game. The Prowlers play at Crookston Monday.

Prowlers Will Host Kennedy Five Saturday

Thief River Falls will host Kennedy Saturday in a 7:30 p.m. high school basketball game in the Lincoln high school gym.

The game will be the Prowlers' second test of the young 1975-76 season. Coach Glen Peters ball club crushed Roseau 72-47 in last week's season opener.

Kennedy impressed Peters who watched the Rockets battle preseason District 31 favorite Warren to the final buzzer before losing 41-37 Tuesday night.

"They've got some really quick kids," said Peters of Kennedy. "They're small, but they have good jumping ability. They have some very good ball players who all like to drive to the bucket. And they play real strong defense."

Kennedy's youthful line-up will include 5-9 junior Brent Bowman and 5-11 sophomore Barry Langen at the guards, 6-0 junior Ron Johnson and 5-11 junior Rich Deere at the forwards and 6-3, 240-pound senior Dave Langen at center.

"Bowman is one of the finest kids I've seen play basketball around here," praised Peters. Barry Langen and Bowman provide the Rockets with a solid one-two scoring punch. Mark Lundberg, a 5-8 junior, is Kennedy's top reserve.

Thief River Falls' line-up is expected to be unchanged this week with Don Forney and Terry Dyrdal lining up at guards, John Larson and Brian Peterson at forwards and Jeff Neelan at center.

Also expected to see extended playing time are Dave Peterson, Mike Wiebolt, Murray Semanko and Dave Poole. However, Wiebolt has been bothered by back problems lately and his availability Saturday is questionable.

Over G.F. Air Base

Ridley Sparks 78-68 NCC Win

Ridley

Caspers

Sophomore forward Frank Ridley scored 28 points Tuesday to help carry Northland community college to a 78-68 basketball win over the Grand Forks Air Force base team.

Ridley's game high scoring output was complemented by a pair of additional double figure Northland scoring efforts as Bill Whitney added 16 points and Dave Caspers hit 10.

The win was Northland's second triumph in as many starts this season. The Northmen will receive a stiff test tomorrow (Thursday), however, when the University of North Dakota junior varsity visits Northland for a 7:30 p.m. game. Northland will host perennial North Dakota junior college power Lake Region Monday.

"We played a little better defense," said Northland coach Chet Engelman in comparing his second game win to an 88-85 season-opening win over the Northland alumni last week. "We still had some lapses, but it was much better."

The two teams traded baskets to start the game until Northland snapped a 16-16 tie with eight straight points from four different ball players. Joe Brown, Ridley, Keith Cheek and Dallas Kemmer all hit from the field in just a sudden one-minute offensive outburst that pushed the Northmen ahead 24-16 with 8:32 left in the first half.

The visiting Northland ball club enjoyed its biggest lead of the first half when a Preston Curtis bucket gave the Northmen a 38-28 edge with 2:23 remaining. Northland led 43-36 at halftime.

The Air Force ball club managed to pull within 47-42 early in the second half, but Northland responded with another point-producing surge behind Caspers, Curtis, Ridley and Whitney to outscore the hosts 8-1 enroute to a 55-43 advantage with 13:42 remaining. The Northland lead was never seriously threatened the rest of the ball game.

B. J. Branigan paced the Grand Forks ball club with a 27-point showing.

Northland finished with a 67-52 rebound edge. Casper spulled down 12 caroms to receive special praise from Engelman. But the Northland also topped the turnover charts 35-21, a figure that bothered Engelman. "We turned the ball over too many times," he said. "If we can cut that down we'll be alright."

Northland connected on 34 of 77 field goal tries for a 44 per cent shooting effort. The Air Force quint made 32 of 88 attempts for a 36 per cent effort. Northland made 10 of 16 free throw tries while the Grand Forks squad made only four of 18 gift tosses.

Freshmen Trip EGF 46-42 In Season Opener

Lincoln high school freshman basketball team opened its 1975-76 season Monday with a 46-42 win over East Grand Forks.

Keith Christianson scored 13 points and Bill Michalek added 12 for the host ball club. Thief River Falls led 18-16 at halftime.

Coach Myron Peterson's Lincoln cagers will host Newfolden Friday at 5:30 p.m. at Lincoln.

Fertile Dumps Wrestlers 47-6

Defending Region Eight champion Fertile proved the Falcons are once again a northwestern Minnesota wrestling power Tuesday with a one-sided 47-6 dual meet win over visiting Thief River Falls.

Thief River Falls managed just two individual wins against Fertile as the Prowler dual meet record slipped to 0-2 for the year. Thief River Falls will break from dual meet competition Saturday when the Prowlers take part in the Sioux invitational meet at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks starting at 12 noon.

Scott Nelson and Duane Gonsorowski were the only Thief River Falls winners at Fertile. Nelson out-scored Ron Sannes 9-4 at 119 pounds while Gonsorowski snapped a 2-2 tie with a third period excape to edge Mike Swenson 3-2 at 155.

Fertile won the other 10 matches, including four pin wins. Falcon pins were recorded by Bruce Moser in 2:42 over Randy Ayers at 98 pounds, Paul Hegved in 1:11 over Clark Nelson at 105, Eric Ellegaard in 5:04 over Larry Swanson at 132 and Dan Larson in 1:25 over Mark Williamson at 138.

Elsewhere, Kevin Olen handled Lee Furuseth 16-2 at 112, Todd Olson beat Dan Hallstrom 8-2 at 126, Robin Stene dumped Peter Mosbeck 15-4 at 145, Tim Olson decisioned Dale Furuseth 7-2 at 167, Greg Legvold downed Randy Olson 6-2 at 180 and heavyweight Dwight Christianson whipped Neil Johnson 21-1.

MCC, Goodridge Claim Monday Cage Victories

Marshall County Central and Goodridge were winners Monday as the 1975-76 area girls' basketball season featured its first full schedule.

Newfolden defeated Karlstad 35-24 and Goodridge downed Warren 38-27, but Grygla lost to Roseau 43-24 to highlight area results.

MCC 35, Karlstad 24

Diane Anderson scored 13 points and Pam Odberg added 10 to lead Marshall County Central past Karlstad 35-24.

The host Nordics led at every quarter stop, 12-8, 16-14 and 29-18.

Newfolden will try to stretch its 2-0 record tomorrow (Thursday) when the Nordics play at Badger and Saturday when the Nordics travel to Warroad. Newfolden hosts Middle River Monday.

Goodridge 38, Warren 27

Goodridge jumped out to an 18-3 first quarter lead enroute to a 38-27 win at Warren.

The Huskies led 20-14 at halftime and 30-21 at the third quarter stop.

Georgine Troska poured in 18 points for the winners and Shirley Grabowska added 10. Kathy Kozejed scored 11 points for Warren.

Goodridge is scheduled to host East Grand Forks Sacred Heart tomorrow (Thursday) in the Huskies' home opener. Stephen visits Goodridge Monday.

Roseau 43, Grygla 24

Grygla lost its second start of the season, bowing to Roseau 43-24.

The visiting Rams led at every quarter break, 12-6, 14-9 and 27-15 as Jody Peterson and Carol Austin scored 16 and 14 points, respectively. Jill Day led Grygla's scoring with eight points.

Grygla will be back in action tomorrow (Thursday) when the Eagles play at Middle River. Grygla will play at Warroad Monday.

Northland-UND Hockey Games Are Scrimmages

Northland community college hockey coach Curt Geatz announced this week that a pair of Northland season-opening games against the University of North Dakota junior varsity have been relegated to scrimmages for the Northmen.

Northland is scheduled to play at Grand Forks tonight (Wednesday), with UND visiting Thief River Falls Thursday.

The official 1975-76 Northland season opening games are now scheduled to be played Saturday and Sunday, December 13 and 14, at Mesabi. Northland will not play a home game until a January 9-10 weekend series with Hibbing.

WHAT APPEARS to be a sure Thief River Falls goal is only a deflection off the arm of Moorhead goalie Perry Johnson that sailed just wide of the goal post during the first period of Tuesday night's hockey game in the sports arena. Jeff Lindquist of the Prowlers skated past fallen Jay Herman of the Spuds for a possible rebound. Lindquist scored three goals to spark the Prowlers to a 5-3 season-opening win.

Nordics Edge Huskies In Basketball Opener

Favored Marshall County Central high school outlasted a scrappy Goodridge ball club 43-38 Tuesday as both teams opened their 1975-76 basketball season at Newfolden.

Newfolden scored quickly to start the game and led 12-8 at the first quarter break. The Nordic maintained a five-to-six-point lead throughout the second and third quarters enroute to a 24-19 halftime edge and a 33-28 third quarter advantage.

However, Goodridge hustle led to several loose ball recoveries at the start of the fourth quarter and the Huskies converted the opportunities to take a 36-25 lead. It was a close ball game the rest of the way until Newfolden's Bruce Rokke iced the game for four straight free throws late in the final period.

Newfolden coach Ron Ueland was disappointed in his team's performance, but was quick to give Goodridge credit. "Goodridge came to play ball and we didn't," commented Ueland. "We just played sloppy. Goodridge played very well. I was very impressed by them."

Mike Fincher was the only Newfolden double figure scorer with 15 points. Kelly Dahlen scored 14 for Goodridge and Randy Nelson added 10.

Free throws and rebounds were telling factors in the game. Newfolden coverted 11 of 13 free throw opportunities while Goodridge hit just 10 of 23 gift tosses. Newfolden finished with a sizeable 31-14 rebound edge, with Fincher pulling down 13 caroms.

Newfolden connected on 16 of 50 shots from the floor for a 32 per cent showing while Goodridge made 14 of 41 attempts for a 34 per cent effort.

Goodridge returns to action Friday when the Huskies travel to East Grand Forks Sacred Heart. Newfolden will wait until Tuesday before hosting Kennedy.

TRF YOUTH HOCKEY

by Ron Novak
Program Director

Squirt division of the Thief River Falls youth hockey program is divided into an In-House program, a Squirt A team and a squirt B team.

The Squirt In-House division has about 60 boys registered this year who will be divided into six teams. The teams will be using three rinks for practices, with two teams working at each rink. Boys are assigned to practice at whatever rink is closest to their home.

Tom Barry and Jim Elleson will coach at the Franklin rink. Their players include Mitch Semanko, Rubert Huot, Steven Wiskow, Stuart Thompson, Mark Amundson, Brad Langell, Darren Bentow, Steve Jesperson, Jerry Kertz, Duane [illegible], Jim Geatz, Scott Trickle, Dan Imgrund, Todd Saver, Jeff Quamme, Bob Breiland, Scott Grochow, Matthew Samuelson, Lee Genereaux and Troy Walseth.

The Squirt league will practice Monday and Friday from 5 to 6:30 p.m. as soon as ice is made available. Players will be assigned teams Saturday with the Franklin rink reporting at 10 a.m., Northrop rink at 11 a.m. and the East Side rink at 1:15 p.m. All boys playing Squirt In-House hockey this year should report Saturday. First Squirt games are planned Sat., Dec. 13.

Traveling Teams

Five traveling teams will open their seasons Sunday. The Squirt A, Pee-Wee A and Bantam A teams will all host Crookston. The Pee-Wee B and Bantam B teams travel to Crookston.

The new Bantam C team will open its season by hosting Red Lake Falls at 7:45 p.m. Monday.

Candy Sale, Uniforms

Uniforms for traveling teams and Pee-Wee In-House teams will be issued Saturday. Pee-Wee jerseys will be issued prior to their game. Traveling team jerseys will be issued after practice.

All candy and money from the candy sale must be returned to Arv Mosher before a uniform will be issued. "This is very important. If the money or candy is not turned in, no uniform will be issued."

Week's Schedule

Wed., Dec. 3, 6:45 p.m. Pee-Wee B practice; 8 p.m. Pee-Wee A practice.

Sat., Dec. 6, Pee-Wee In-House games: 8 a.m. North Stars vs. Canadiens, 9 a.m. Blackhawks vs. Bruins; Squirt In-House: 10 a.m. Franklin rink, 11 a.m. Northrop rink, 1:15 p.m. East Side rink; 2 p.m. Squirt A practice, 2:45 p.m. Pee-Wee A and B, 4 p.m. Bantam B practice, 5 p.m. Bantam A practice.

Sun., Dec. 7, 12:30 p.m. Crookston at Bantam A; 1 p.m. Pee-Wee B at Crookston; 2 p.m. Crookston at Squirt A; 2:30 p.m. Bantam B at Crookston; 4 p.m. Crookston at Pee-Wee A.

Mon., Dec. 8, 7:45 p.m. Red Lake Falls at Bantam C; 9 p.m. Bantam A practice.

Tues., Dec. 9, 4 p.m. Mites A-H; 5 p.m. Mites I-J; 6:15 p.m. Bantam B practice.

VIETNAM VETERANS — YOU'RE ELIGIBLE

Offer Outdoor Programs At Eagle Center

Northern Minnesota has as many options for cross-country skiers, as the woods have trails. In the Bemidji area, enghusiasts are discovering the beauty of winter as individuals, groups or as part of the unique educational experience "Adventures in Contrast." All involve a close relationship between man and his environment, but the latter labels a program initiated by the Bald Eagle outdoor learning center (BEC).

The center, located east of Cass Lake, operates as an extension of Bemidji State University and will offer ski touring and expedition sessions on several dates: December 20-23, 26-29 and December 31-January 3. Teachers and students, in particular, may find these times suitable since they fall during Christmas vacations.

In addition to reviewing the basic techniques of Nordic skiing, participants can expect to increase their knowledge of dealing with the winter climate. Survival skills, winter safety, snow hydrology, orienteering, outdoor cooking, winter ecology and camping are all covered by practical encounters.

Equally important, according to BEC instructor Mimi Bergan, is the human relations aspect. Groups are kept to a limit of eight and are created on a similar interest basis.

"We choose the small number of people per leader for two reasons. It's a nicer community and it's also just plain safer. If someone starts to lag behind, you'll notice," Bergan says. "When the people first arrive at the center, the instructors each present the kind of trip they will lead. Depending on each person's expertise and inclinations—photography for instance—he or she can choose which group they want."

From this point on, each person is in partnership to share the challenges and asthetics of the Chippewa National Forest. As singular as this type of educational-recreational experience is the role of the instructor.

For those academically concerned, two credits are available according to BEC director Robert St. Peters, at the following costs: expedition—$37.50 undergraduate, $42.50 post baccalaureate; day touring—$43.50 undergraduate, $48.50 post baccalaureate. A minimum age requirement of 16 is observed.

Bears' Press Trips Grygla Five 77-56

Lake of the Woods-Baudette used an effective full court press to build an early lead Tuesday, keying a 77-56 season-opening high school basketball win over visiting Grygla.

Baudette jumped out to a 17-9 first quarter lead and enjoyed a 41-20 halftime cushion. Grygla outscored Baudette after intermission, but still trailed 59-42 going into the final quarter.

"They slapped that press on us and we lost the ball several times early in the game before we adjusted," pointed out Grygla head coach Van Swanson who found some bright spots in his team's second half play. "We came out and shot quite well in the third quarter," he said. "We played them even in the second half, but it was tough sledding."

Grygla's Gary Satre was the game's high scorer as the 5-9 senior guard poured in 30 points. However, no other Eagle reached double figures, a feat accomplished by three Bears as John Mitchell scored 23 points, Kevin McNeil 19 and Brian Palm 10.

Grygla returns to action Tuesday when the Eagles open their 1975-76 home season schedule against Roseau.

Geatz Keys LHS Hockey JV Win Over Moorhead

Steve Geatz scored three goals Tuesday to spark the Lincoln high school junior varsity hockey team to a 10-1 season-opening win over Moorhead in the sports arena.

Thief River Falls single goal scorers included Paul Phelps, Roger Roadfelt, Jeff Kosel, Murray Dicken, Brent Walton, Paul Wurst and Lyle Johnson.

Coach Glenn Chlodo's Lincoln skaters erupted for five goals in each of the last two periods after a scoreless first period. Moorhead scored its lone goal in the second stanza.

MAVIE . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Aandal and boys visited at the Charles Decken home Thursday evening.

Llewelyn Troska of Onemia spent the Thanksgiving weekend with his family the Harvey Troskas.

Vickie Troska was a Wednesday overnight guest of Donna at the John Cullen home in Goodridge.

Contrary to popular belief, the tail of the beaver is not used to excavate the earth, but helps the animal to stand erect.

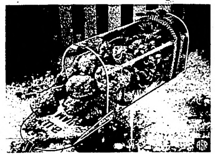
Candied Oatmeal Drops



When long distances separate you from folks you love...a holiday gift from the kitchen often means the most. Something you've baked yourself spells home.

Candied Oatmeal Drops will become a favorite — if they aren't already. The recipe makes five and one half dozen cookies. Along with its bright mix of holiday spices and candied cherries, you also mail a surprisingly large portion of good nutrition, too.

Because the cookies are based on enriched flour, they contain essential B-vitamins — niacin, thiamine and riboflavin and the mineral, iron. Add nuts to supplement the protein, then stir in quick cooking oats with their bounty of nutrients. Presto, your package of good cheer also becomes a cheerful package of good nutrition.

Candied Oatmeal Drops

about 5½ dozen

- 1 cup candied citron or glazed cherries, halved
- ¼ cup brandy
- 1⅓ cups enriched flour*
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 cup packed light brown sugar
- ¾ cup butter or shortening
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 3 cups quick cooking rolled oats
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Soak candied fruit in brandy while preparing dough or soak overnight. Stir together flour, salt, cinnamon, soda and cloves. In large mixing bowl beat together sugar, butter and eggs. Stir in flour mixture; fold in soaked fruit, rolled oats and nuts. Drop by level measuring tablespoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in preheated 375° oven 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly brown. Cool.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

NOTE: If self-rising flour is used, omit salt.

Holt

Mrs. Ida Horien, Newfolden, 449-2415

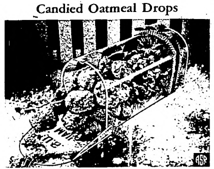
Candied Oatmeal Drops



When long distances separate you from folks you love. . .a holiday gift from the kitchen often means the most. Something you've baked yourself spells home.

Candied Oatmeal Drops will become a favorite — if they aren't already. The recipe makes five and one half dozen cookies. Along with its bright mix of holiday spices and candied cherries, you also mail a surprisingly large portion of good nutrition, too.

Because the cookies are based on enriched flour, they contain essential B-vitamins — niacin, thiamine and riboflavin and the mineral, iron. Add nuts to supplement the protein, then stir in quick cooking oats with their bounty of nutrients. Presto, your package of good cheer also becomes a cheerful package of good nutrition.

Candied Oatmeal Drops

about 5 ½ dozen

- 1 cup candied citron or glazed cherries, halved
- ¼ cup brandy
- 1½ cups enriched flour*
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- 1 cup packed light brown sugar
- ¾ cup butter or shortening
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 3 cups quick cooking rolled oats
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Soak candied fruit in brandy while preparing dough or soak overnight. Stir together flour, salt, cinnamon, soda and cloves. In large mixing bowl beat together sugar, butter and eggs. Stir in flour mixture; fold in soaked fruit, rolled oats and nuts. Drop by level measuring tablespoonfuls onto lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in preheated 375° oven 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly brown. Cool.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.
NOTE: If self-rising flour is used, omit salt.

Order for Hearing on Petition
For General Administration
State of Minnesota,
County of Pennington—ss.
IN COUNTY COURT
PROBATE DIVISION
IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF Sina Olson, Decedent.

IT IS ORDERED that the petition for general administration filed herein and any objections filed thereto be heard on December 12, 1975, at 9:30 o'clock A.M. by this court in the courthouse in Thief River Falls, Minnesota. That, if proper, at said time and place a representative will be appointed to administer the estate, who shall collect all assets and file an inventory thereof, pay all legal debts, claims, and taxes, and expenses of administration, and sell such real and personal property as may be necessary and for the best interests of the estate. Upon completion of administration, the representative shall file a final account for allowance and shall distribute the estate to the persons thereunto entitled as ordered by the court and do all other acts to close the estate.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, that creditors of decedent file their claims in this court within sixty (60) days from the date hereof and that said claims be heard on January 19, 1976, at 9:30 o'clock A.M. by this court in the courthouse in Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

Dated November 17, 1975.

Break-in And Theft On City Police Report

Northern Motors reported to the Thief River Falls police department Sunday that a break-in had occurred during the night. Approximately $600 damage was caused and a sizeable amount of money was taken as the intruders entered the shop, showroom-reception area, office area, offices and parts room. Entry into the safe was also attempted. The same day, Northern Motors reported that within the past two weeks the hubcaps were taken from a 1965 Nova Concours Coupe.

Friday, Home Lumber reported that a trailer house had been entered from which a number of items were stolen including two bar stools, a lamp, a living room chair and a kitchen set containing a table and four chairs valued at a total of $300. Damage to the trailer house door was set at $30. Signs of attempted entry were evident on two other trailers. The incident is believed to have occurred between Wednesday evening and Friday morning.

Two traffic accidents were reported within the last week. Tuesday, November 25, Charles Johnson of Thief River Falls backed out of a parking stall at Northland Manor, turned around the corner of a garage and struck a parked vehicle owned by Mary Miller of the city. The Johnson car was not damaged, but an estimated $300 damage was reported to the Miller car. The accident was reported at 3:48 p.m.

At 1:44 p.m. Saturday, Barbara Walseth of the city was traveling east on Nora street and was in the process of making a left turn when her car slid on ice and struck a car driven by Jeffrey Hendrickson of the city, who was traveling south on Spruce avenue. Damages were estimated at $300 to the Walseth car and $75 to the Hendrickson vehicle.

In other incidents, Frank Jasnoch of the city told police Wednesday, Nov. 26 that someone had kicked in the porch door of his house at 1515 First street east. Two male juveniles, 14 and 15 were apprehended.

The same day, Ralph Horstad of the city said that while his car was parked behind the employment office it was entered and his glove compartment and lunch box rifled. Two packs of cigarettes and a box of matches were taken in the incident, which is believed to have occurred between 5:30 and 9:30 p.m.

In one of two incidents reported Thursday, Arden Lamberson of Red Lake Falls reported that while his car was parked in the Legion lot it was backed into by another car, causing $200 damage.

Mrs. Palma Lorentson of the city told police that between 4:45 and 9:30 p.m. her house at 415 Kendall avenue S. had been entered. The intruder went through a basement window and two bedrooms and had tried to enter the patio. A wallet from her purse and other items were taken, and $6 damage was reported to the window.

Friday, Mrs. Norman Helle of the city reported that a 12-volt battery valued at $25 was taken from their car parked in their garage during the night. Joe Wessel of the city told police the same day that someone had been in his garage Thursday and Friday and had disturbed a number of articles and thrown some of them around. Eight holes were cut in the wall.

D & H market apprehended a male juvenile, 12, Monday for allegedly taking candy valued at 15 cents.

Colonial Music Featured Sun. At Zion Luth.

Christmas music of colonial America before 1810 will be featured in honor of the Bicentennial at a Christmas concert in Zion Lutheran church at 4 p.m. Sunday. The concert is sponsored by the Zion Lutheran Church women in cooperation with members of the senior choir.

Six anthems will be sung by the senior choir under the direction of Phyllis Dalager with accompaniment by Jerry Joringdal. Jerry Wedul will give a brief description concerning the origin and musical style of each number.

The songs include "Blow Ye the Trumpet, Blow", "Come, Thou Long-expected Jesus," "A Virgin Most Blessed", "The Shepherds and the Angel", "There Came Three Kings" and "Sing it Out".

Instrumental music will be provided by a brass ensemble composed of Andrew (Mike) Lehrer, Sverre Solheim, Jim Solsten, Alex Stoffel, Jan Stoffel and Les Torgerson.

The concert will be followed by a family-fellowship pot luck supper and the public is invited to attend.

80,001 Minn. Unemployment Active Claims

Persons in active claims status under the five unemployment programs currently in force in Minnesota totaled 80,001 for the week ending November 14, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services reported recently.

The total is up 144 from the preceding week.

Initial claims filed during the week for the regular program totaled 5,620; up 198 (four per cent) from the previous week but down 62 (one per cent) from the corresponding week a year ago. Total number of active regular claims was 48,820, up 547 (one per cent) from the previous week.

Initial claims for extended benefits (paid when regular benefits are exhausted) totaled 1,241; for federal supplemental benefits (paid when regular and extended benefits are exhausted), 831; for additional federal supplemental benefits (paid when regular federal supplemental benefits are exhausted), 568; and for special unemployment assistance (paid to workers not ordinarily covered by unemployment insurance), 123.

For the week of November 7, the latest for which figures are available, the total amount of benefits paid under all programs was $4,009,968. Included in those benefits were $2,407,885 in regular benefits, up $1,124,439 (88 per cent) over the corresponding week a year ago. The average weekly benefit amount was $71.22, up $8.30 from a year ago.

During the week of November 7, payments for extended benefits were $693,984; for federal supplemental benefits, $481,995; for additional federal supplemental benefits, $367,096; and for special unemployment assistance, $59,006.

Since the first of the year, $157,347,478 has been paid for the regular program, up $67,837,844 (76 per cent) from the same period a year ago.

Coordinator Is Selected For Regional Post

Charles Gibilisco of Omaha, Neb., has been employed by the Minnesota environmental education board to serve as coordinator for three regional environmental education boards in the northwest portion of the state.

Gibilisco, who will headquarter at Bemidji state university offices, teams with three other regional coordinators to assist volunteers to develop and implement environmental education programs and activities throughout Minnesota.

The 1973 state legislature established the 12-member environmental education boards in each of the state's 13 regional development areas. Gibilisco is directly responsible for regions one (including the counties of Kittson, Roseau, Marshall, Pennington, Polk and Red Lake); region 2 (Lake of the Woods, Beltrami, Clearwater, Hubbard); and region four (Clay, Becker, Wilkin, Ottertail, Traverse, Grant, Douglas Stevens and Pope). Board members are all appointed by the governor.

Gibilisco has almost eight years of experience as a naturalist at nature centers in Omaha, Neb., and Boston, Mass. Among regional chairpersons with whom he will be working will be Mrs. Lynn (Norma) Hanson of Goodridge.

MCRC Advises Close Look At Solicitations

Minnesota charities review council (MCRC) has warned Minnesotans to take a close look at solicitations by mail during the pre-Christmas season.

According to the review council, out of the top 12 sources of inquiry in November only four have made full disclosures under the Minnesota law and only two of those meet the council standards.

Care and the Minnesota Christmas Seal associations (now called lung associations) comply with the Minnesota law, spend over 70 per cent for programs stressed in their appeals and keep supporting costs well below 30 per cent.

Two organizations that complied with the law but fail to meet MCRC standards (because of high supporting costs) are the National Disabled American Veterans of Cincinnati, Ohio and the Help Hospitalized Veterans organization of San Diego, Calif. The Disable American Veterans supporting costs total over 65 per cent—Hospitalized Veterans reports spending 47 per cent of its income on support.

The remaining eight organizations include one that has registered with the state but has not made full financial disclosures, three that have claimed exemption as religious agencies, three that have not gone on record at all and one that is not a charity but a commercial enterprise.

The eight that do not make full disclosure are:

Ann Adams Greetings—Not a charity but a commercial firm.

CARIH (Children's Asthma Research Institution and Hospital)—Registered, but no financial disclosure.

Korean Relief (John A. Choi, Bishop of Pusan)—Claims religious exemption.

Missionaries of Africa—Not registered, no financial disclosure.

National Federation of Blind—Not registered, no financial disclosure. (This is the organization that sends mailings from St. Louis. The Minnesota agency using the same name has complied with the state law and does not mail out unordered merchandise.)

Pallottine Missions—Claims religious exemption.

Rehabilitation Center and Workshop—Not registered, no financial disclosure.

West Africa Emergency Relief (Community Churches of America)—Religious exemption.

Minnesota charities review council does not believe that religious affiliation justifies the refusal to make full financial disclosure when the general public is solicited for support. Many responsible exempt agencies voluntarily file annual reports with the state.

The council reminds those who receive unordered items such as miniature license tags, greetings cards and neckties, that they are not obligated to keep, return or pay for them.

If you are skiing out in the woods with an amiable companion, you can revel in the white beauty of the snow. If, on the other hand, you are on a city street, facing an icy wind, you may feel quite differently about the matter.

Isn't that the way it is with almost everything? The way we react to a situation so often depends upon the way it affects us personally. We aren't to be blamed for this; yet we should stop to think that there are two sides to every story. We should not judge the merit of a viewpoint on whether or not it agrees with our own opinion.

The Church is used to different viewpoints, to controversy. It has lived with changing times and opinions for centuries, and it has never been more involved than it is today. The Church is changing as change is needed, ever ready to investigate and to explore the new. Have you been keeping up with it?

Blessing Of The Animals

Blessing of the Animals, a rite that legend says was inspired by the congregation of animals present at the birth of Jesus, was held for the unique purpose of advancing animal welfare at this service in Beverly Hills, California.

An unusual congregation gathered recently to attend a very special service on the lawn at All Saints Episcopal Church in Beverly Hills, California. As well as properly dressed, two-legged parishioners, the group also included hamsters, rabbits, a tortoise, three bearded Japanese silky bantam chicks, ducks, a cougar, a host of dogs and cats and a garter snake.

As a choir of children sang, offerings were made for the advancement of animal welfare, and the congregation then led or carried their animals to the priest for his blessing. A few pets appeared dubious. The duck grew rigid with suspense as the cougar slunk by and the hamsters cowered before the avid glances of the cats. The garter snake napped through the ceremony in its shoebox while the dogs celebrated the occasion with joyous yelps and barking.

The occasion was the annual Blessing of the Animals, a ceremony celebrated in a growing number of churches, that dates back more than sixteen centuries, and probably to the birth of Jesus. The ceremony is often observed in the spring, but also around Christmas time or on the feast day of St. Francis of Assisi.

At the Beverly Hills service, the Rev. M. Gregory Richards pointed out that churches today are concerned with the well-being of all living things. "Our household pets are being threatened by an unprecedented population explosion, together with urbanization and a depressed world economy. If the continued survival of our humble brethren is to be assured, their population must be controlled," he said.

The collection was made on behalf of such animal welfare agencies as the American Humane Association, which is prepared to give information and assistance regarding animal birth control.

One approach to animal population control is a pet food containing a contraceptive ingredient which can be safely fed each day to female dogs. The product, developed by Carnation Company and the UpJohn Company, is presently being home tested before being submitted to the Food and Drug Administration for approval.

"It would be idle to pretend that the political and social implications of the transition to a more viable, steady state economy would be anything less than staggering. Opposition may be anticipated from commercial interests, the intellectual and scientific community. For such an economy cannot be made viable without thorough going controls not only on the depletion rates of many natural resources but also on the application of new technologies and on the direction of scientific research itself . . . our two hundred years' pilgrimage along the growth path is growing to a close—with neither Mecca nor Medina in sight."

—Dr. E. J. Mishan

A Good Report

We were recently provided with a copy of a letter received by instructors in the aviation mechanics program of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute. It was from Doug McCullum, originally from Mahnomen, who graduated from the program here in 1973 and is now employed by Boeing aircraft company in Wichita, Kan., as a modification mechanic.

Permission was received from McCullum to quote from his letter. Here is one paragraph:

"Presently I am on a modification contract with B-52s. I work fuel systems, for which I had one week of training. Today I was promoted to lead man, which means I have a crew of men working under me. I hope to eventually get into the commercial part of it all. I have been working seven days a week since I started in June and now am working 12-hour days, seven days a week, so I make about $650 a week."

No, that's not a misprint: $650 a week!

Impressive as the income figure is, however, we were more impressed with the young man's will to work. That tells us something about not only the type of student who enrolls in the vocational-technical institute but also about the type of instruction and guidance provided. The work ethic which built a strong and prosperous America is not totally dead as long as there are programs like the AVTI offers and people like Doug McCullum to take advantage of them.

It is also significant, we believe, that the letter was addressed "Dear Ray, Carl, Dean and Don" rather than something more formal or less personal. We think Ray Semrud, Carl Reed, Dean Paskewitz and Don Schoonhoven may well be proud of the product they turn out of their classes.

McCullum notes that several aircraft companies in Wichita are hiring employees for quite a variety of job openings, with most of the need for aviation and powerplant mechanics.

"A lot of the jobs sound like factory jobs," he writes, "but with an A & P license it isn't too hard to end up with flight line jobs which will mean a lot of good experience."

As far as we are concerned, the quality of the local program couldn't get a better report than that letter from a recent graduate. We're mighty impressed.

Admit A Mistake

When the Minnesota legislature returns to its session in January, one of the issues to be decided will be a raising of the legal age for drinking liquor in bars and restaurants to 19 from the present legal age of 18. A legislative sub-committee, by a 4-3 vote, has already approved the change.

We think it's time for the legislature to admit it made a mistake back in 1973 when the legal age for majority was dropped from 21 to 18. At that time the main argument was the right to vote, with the right to drink soft-peddled by the outspoken proponents of the change. And the legislators, under the speculation that more voters meant more votes (for them), blissfully voted the lower age limit.

Never mind the fact that the lawmakers hedged a little by retaining the age limit of 21 to hold office (vote for me, yes, but run against me, no), they were guilty of bad judgment in ignoring the difficulties which their action would create. Now they have a chance to rectify at least part of the mistake they made two years ago.

As might be expected, representatives of some student organizations testified against raising the legal drinking age at one of the hearings, saying that it creates a double standard. They questioned if it takes more maturity to drink than it does to buy a house or vote.

And while the question is really immaterial because of the unlikely comparison, the answer could well be, "Yes, it does." The 18-year-old in a high school setting is highly susceptible to peer pressure—the desire to be one of the crowd and do what is accepted, expected and popular with a particular group with which he or she associates.

Buying a house isn't a spur of the moment decision. Half a dozen boys don't get together after a ball game to go out and buy a house. And voting is a someting thing which also requires advance thinking. Its not likely for a couple of high school seniors to say, "Let's take our girls and go out tonight and cast a couple of votes."

Probably the real question is not whether it takes more maturity to drink than to buy a house or vote, but rather whether it takes more maturity NOT to drink than to exercise other privileges which come with the age of majority.

We see no magic in reaching the age of 19, 21 or 47 or 65 as far as being suddenly able to be a mature drinker. Indeed, there are a lot of drunks who never have had a mature attitude toward alcohol and never will. But the 19-year minimum age would eliminate a lot of problems for schools and, we believe, for high school students.

When the push was on for lowering the age of majority to 18, we argued against it. We had representatives of the Minnesota coalition to lower the voting age descend upon us with all kinds of material about rights and responsibilities. "Old enough to fight, old enough to vote," was one of the popular phrases during that vietnam war era. That makes no more sense than something like, "Old enough to read, old enough to teach". It didn't then and it doesn't now.

The legislators of Minnesota would do the state a service by admitting an error in judgement and correcting it by raising the legal age for drinking to 19. Personally, we would like to see it returned to 21, but we don't expect our lawmakers to admit they were that far wrong.

Maybe Too Smart?

There is a story going around about a clever young fellow in the mail room of a large U.S. manufacturing plant. It seems that this youngster was elected to take up a plantwide collection to buy a gift for a company vice president who was about to get married. He went the rounds, collecting 60 cents from each of the firm's 2,000 employees and with this money he bought 2,000 packs of cigaretts, the brand with the coupon on the back.

He then traded in the coupons for a very nice silver coffee service for the vice president's gift. This done, he went the rounds again and bestowed a pack of cigaretts to each of the 2,000 contributors, much to their delight and surprise.

Management got wind of this ingenuity and called the boy's supervisor: "Send that youngster up here. We want to congratulate him and put him on a bigger job. This company needs more resourcefulness."

Unfortunately, the boy couldn't be found anywhere in the plant. Later on in the day, the whole truth came out. The lad had bought the cigaretts at a supermarket which gave trading stamps with the purchase of cigaretts, had redeemed them for a splendid new fishing outfit, and had taken the day off to go to his "grandmother's funeral." Anyway, that's how we heard it.

Nation Bankrupt?

Following editorial is from the South Pasadena Review:

If our government's debts were judged by normal standards, the U.S. would now be bankrupt because the amount of debts owed is more than our assets are worth.

We spend over $28 billion a year just to pay the interest on the money we owe, according to a recent article in an Inflation Survival Letter. Yet we are still giving our money away or are sending it out of the country to buy things that we could get here if our business climate improved instead of being hampered by regulations and taxes.

For every three workers, one person is living on welfare or social security; add to this the number receiving unemployment or workman's compensation, and you begin to get the picture most business houses see when they make out the weekly payroll and pay the monthly taxes.

Borrowed Nonsense

A crew of workmen was building a house. After a lot of activity, the foreman went to see the architect. "Say," he asked, "did you want this house built from the top down or from the bottom up?" "From the bottom up," was the astonished reply. "Okay," the foreman said, then turned and yelled: "Tear 'er down, boys! We gotta start over."

No, it's not Sherlock Holmes. It's none other than the bane of all criminals—Inspector Clouseau, as played by Peter Sellers in "The Return of the Pink Panther." The picture will open Fri., Dec. 5, at the Galaxy Twin Theatre.

Looking Backward

An average of more than 400 carloads a day was shipped over the Soo Line's Winnipeg division the first 10 days in November, supt. W.A. Barnard reported. —State senator C.L. Hanson is spending the winter in Florida. —Oakland Park sanatorium has 38 patients. —While cranking a car at Viking, Ferdie Brown of this city sustained a fractured arm.

1935—FORTY YEARS AGO

The new 1,000 h.p. Diesel engine in the municipal power plant was given a test run this week, supt. Ole Legvold reported. —The city council approved final plans drawn by Henry C. Eckland for the proposed winter sports arena. —Hans Anton, O.C. Paulson and L.J. Kaliher were reelected to the county fair board. —A silver tea at the local library commemorated the 100th anniversary of the birth of Andrew Carnegie.

1945—THIRTY YEARS AGO

A civic group, with L.B. Hartz as chairman, recommended a merger of St. Lukes and Mercy hospitals. —Rationing of meats, fats and oils was discontinued November 24. —John Ranum, 31, Viking war veteran, died of injuries received in a car accident west of this city on highway 1. —More than 1,000 deer hunting licenses were issued by county auditor A.M. Senstad.

1955—TWENTY YEARS AGO

The body of Kenneth E. Lindberg, Northern State Bank cashier was found on the shore of Crescent Lake, located three miles south of the village of Clear Lake by a trio of rabbit hunters. He had been brutally murdered. Sherburne county sheriff Chester Goennes notified the FBI and an intensive, nationwide manhunt is under way. $200 in silver dollars was found at the scene of the crime. He had been missing for two weeks after being kidnapped along with $1,750 in silver coins taken from the bank. Earlier $1,530 of the money was found in his abandened car in Minneapolis. —Voters of the newly consolidated School District 18 approved by a margin of 1,080 to 211 a bond issue of $1,190,000 for construction of additional school facilities in TRF.

1965—TEN YEARS AGO

City taxes will remain at 40 mills for the coming year—the same as 1964. —Northwestern Bell Telephone company announced the appointment of Thomas R. Perrier as Thief River Falls manager. —Senator Walter F. Mondale addressed a breakfast session of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce.

THE VOICE of BUSINESS

by Richard L. Lesher, President
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Not long ago, a national cartoon featured a little kid asking, "Which side of the bread do I butter, Mommy?"

Most people would answer, "It doesn't matter." But to those of a more methodical nature, there is a scientific way to find out: Simply drop the slice of bread. The side it lands on is the side to butter.

The answer to this weighty question is found by applying Murphy's Law, which states, "If something can go wrong, it will."

Murphy's Law has many corollaries, one of which is, "The bread always falls buttered-side down."

Some others: —The part most difficult to replace is the one that breaks. — dropped tool will land where it can do the most damage (or it hardest to recover). The most delicate component is the one that falls. —The more innocuous a design change appears, the further its influence will extend.

And, of course, what might be called a false corollary of Murphy's Law (more properly from the realm of Aristotle): "A misplaced object always turns up in the last place you look for it."

There are numerous other laws and rules formulated in the attempt to account for the vexatious vagaries of daily life. Some of them are capable of standing alone; others should properly wear the Murphy mantle.

One of the former would certainly be Parkinson's famous dictum: "Work expands to fill the time available for its completion." Parkinson's Law has many corollaries of its own, validated throughout any bureaucracy.

A somewhat more recent addition to understanding bureaucracy is the Peter Principle, which declares, "An executive tends to rise to the level of his incompetence."

Laurence J. Peter, who derived it, reasons that competence brings promotion. Therefore, a person will tend to be promoted until he no longer exhibits competence, and at that point—having reached the "level of his incompetence"—he will stay.

(Intriguing, but it fails to take into consideration the Law of Upward Failure, which suggests that an executive can far surpass his level of incompetence if he moves fast enough so his next promotion always comes before his mistakes surface.)

As you can imagine, the Washington scene abounds with Murphy corollaires.

One attributed to a former Under Secretary of Defense, Dyrus Vance, is the Rule of Two-And-A-Half: "Any military project will take twice as long as planned, cost twice as much, and produce only half of what is wanted."

Alan Otten, of the "Wall Street Journal," thinks it should be adjusted for inflation, making it the Rule of Four-And-A-Quarter.

There is also Nies Law, reported by Otten: "The effort expended by the bureaucracy in defending any error is in direct proportion to the size of the error."

I'm tempted to offer, "The value of a government program is inversely proportional, and the cost directly proportional, to the noise made about it." But I'm not sure that one would hold up consistently enough to be called a "law."

There is one I am sure of, however: "For any given economic problem, the chance of adopting the appropriate corrective fiscal and monetary policies increases as the problem itself decreases."

Playing the Murphy Game is addictive. I'll bet you've already thought of several I've missed. If so, send 'em in. I'll write a selection in a future column if the response is good. The address is Cahmber of Commerce of the U.S., 1615 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20062

"It would be idle to pretend that the political and social implications of the transition to a more viable, steady state economy would be anything less than staggering. Opposition may be anticipated from commercial interests, the intellectual and scientific community. For such an economy cannot be made viable without thorough going controls not only on the depletion rates of many natural resources but also on the application of new technologies and on the direction of scientific research itself . . . our two hundred years' pilgrimage along the growth path is growing to a close—with neither Mecca nor Medina in sight."

—Dr. E. J. Mishan

A Good Report

We were recently provided with a copy of a letter received by instructors in the aviation mechanics program of the Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute. It was from Doug McCullum, originally from Mahnomen, who graduated from the program here in 1973 and is now employed by Boeing aircraft company in Wichita, Kan., as a modification mechanic.

Permission was received from McCullum to quote from his letter. Here is one paragraph:

"Presently I am on a modification contract with B-52s. I work fuel systems, for which I had one week of training. Today I was promoted to lead man, which means I have a crew of men working under me. I hope to eventually get into the commercial part of it all. I have been working seven days a week since I started in June and now am working 12-hour days, seven days a week, so I make about $650 a week."

No, that's not a misprint: $650 a week!

Impressive as the income figure is, however, we were more impressed with the young man's will to work. That tells us something about not only the type of student who enrolls in the vocational-technical institute but also about the type of instruction and guidance provided. The work ethic which built a strong and prosperous America is not totally dead as long as there are programs like the AVTI offers and people like Doug McCullum to take advantage of them.

It is also significant, we believe, that the letter was addressed "Dear Ray, Carl, Dean and Don" rather than something more formal or less personal. We think Ray Semrud, Carl Reed, Dean Paskewitz and Don Schoonhoven may well be proud of the product they turn out of their classes.

McCullum notes that several aircraft companies in Wichita are hiring employees for quite a variety of job openings, with most of the need for aviation and powerplant mechanics.

"A lot of the jobs sound like factory jobs," he writes, "but with an A & P license it isn't too hard to end up with flight line jobs which will mean a lot of good experience."

As far as we are concerned, the quality of the local program couldn't get a better report than that letter from a recent graduate. We're mighty impressed.

Admit A Mistake

When the Minnesota legislature returns to its session in January, one of the issues to be decided will be a raising of the legal age for drinking liquor in bars and restaurants to 19 from the present legal age of 18. A legislative sub-committee, by a 4-3 vote, has already approved the change.

We think it's time for the legislature to admit it made a mistake back in 1973 when the legal age for majority was dropped from 21 to 18. At that time the main argument was the right to vote, with the right to drink soft-peddled by the outspoken proponents of the change. And the legislators, under the speculation that more voters meant more votes (for them), blissfully voted the lower age limit.

Never mind the fact that the lawmakers hedged a little by retaining the age limit of 21 to hold office (vote for me, yes, but run against me, no), they were guilty of bad judgment in ignoring the difficulties which their action would create. Now they have a chance to rectify at least part of the mistake they made two years ago.

As might be expected, representatives of some student organizations testified against raising the legal drinking age at one of the hearings, saying that it creates a double standard. They questioned if it takes more maturity to drink than it does to buy a house or vote.

And while the question is really immaterial because of the unlikely comparison, the answer could well be, "Yes, it does." The 18-year-old in a high school setting is highly susceptible to peer pressure—the desire to be one of the crowd and do what is accepted, expected and popular with a particular group with which he or she associates.

Buying a house isn't a spur of the moment decision. Half a dozen boys don't get together after a ball game to go out and buy a house. And voting is a someting thing which also requires advance thinking. Its not likely for a couple of high school seniors to say, "Let's take our girls and go out tonight and cast a couple of votes."

Probably the real question is not whether it takes more maturity to drink than to buy a house or vote, but rather whether it takes more maturity NOT to drink than to exercise other privileges which come with the age of majority.

We see no magic in reaching the age of 19, 21 or 47 or 65 as far as being suddenly able to be a mature drinker. Indeed, there are a lot of drunks who never have had a mature attitude toward alcohol and never will. But the 19-year minimum age would eliminate a lot of problems for schools and, we believe, for high school students.

When the push was on for lowering the age of majority to 18, we argued against it. We had representatives of the Minnesota coalition to lower the voting age descend upon us with all kinds of material about rights and responsibilities. "Old enough to fight, old enough to vote," was one of the popular phrases during that vietnam war era. That makes no more sense than something like, "Old enough to read, old enough to teach". It didn't then and it doesn't now.

The legislators of Minnesota would do the state a service by admitting an error in judgement and correcting it by raising the legal age for drinking to 19. Personally, we would like to see it returned to 21, but we don't expect our lawmakers to admit they were that far wrong.

Maybe Too Smart?

There is a story going around about a clever young fellow in the mail room of a large U.S. manufacturing plant. It seems that this youngster was elected to take up a plantwide collection to buy a gift for a company vice president who was about to get married. He went the rounds, collecting 60 cents from each of the firm's 2,000 employees and with this money he bought 2,000 packs of cigaretts, the brand with the coupon on the back.

He then traded in the coupons for a very nice silver coffee service for the vice president's gift. This done, he went the rounds again and bestowed a pack of cigaretts to each of the 2,000 contributors, much to their delight and surprise.

Management got wind of this ingenuity and called the boy's supervisor: "Send that youngster up here. We want to congratulate him and put him on a bigger job. This company needs more resourcefulness."

Unfortunately, the boy couldn't be found anywhere in the plant. Later on in the day, the whole truth came out. The lad had bought the cigaretts at a supermarket which gave trading stamps with the purchase of cigaretts, had redeemed them for a splendid new fishing outfit, and had taken the day off to go to his "grandmother's funeral." Anyway, that's how we heard it.

Nation Bankrupt?

Following editorial is from the South Pasadena Review:

If our government's debts were judged by normal standards, the U.S. would now be bankrupt because the amount of debts owed is more than our assets are worth.

We spend over $28 billion a year just to pay the interest on the money we owe, according to a recent article in an Inflation Survival Letter. Yet we are still giving our money away or are sending it out of the country to buy things that we could get here if our business climate improved instead of being hampered by regulations and taxes.

For every three workers, one person is living on welfare or social security; add to this the number receiving unemployment or workman's compensation, and you begin to get the picture most business houses see when they make out the weekly payroll and pay the monthly taxes.

Borrowed Nonsense

A crew of workmen was building a house. After a lot of activity, the foreman went to see the architect. "Say," he asked, "did you want this house built from the top down or from the bottom up?" "From the bottom up," was the astonished reply. "Okay," the foreman said, then turned and yelled: "Tear 'er down, boys! We gotta start over."

No, it's not Sherlock Holmes. It's none other than the bane of all criminals—Inspector Clouseau, as played by Peter Sellers in "The Return of the Pink Panther." The picture will open Fri., Dec. 5, at the Galaxy Twin Theatre.

Looking Backward

An average of more than 400 carloads a day was shipped over the Soo Line's Winnipeg division the first 10 days in November, supt. W.A. Barnard reported. —State senator C.L. Hanson is spending the winter in Florida. —Oakland Park sanatorium has 38 patients. —While cranking a car at Viking, Ferdie Brown of this city sustained a fractured arm.

1935—FORTY YEARS AGO

The new 1,000 h.p. Diesel engine in the municipal power plant was given a test run this week, supt. Ole Legvold reported. —The city council approved final plans drawn by Henry C. Eckland for the proposed winter sports arena. —Hans Anton, O.C. Paulson and L.J. Kaliher were reelected to the county fair board. —A silver tea at the local library commemorated the 100th anniversary of the birth of Andrew Carnegie.

1945—THIRTY YEARS AGO

A civic group, with L.B. Hartz as chairman, recommended a merger of St. Lukes and Mercy hospitals. —Rationing of meats, fats and oils was discontinued November 24. —John Ranum, 31, Viking war veteran, died of injuries received in a car accident west of this city on highway 1. —More than 1,000 deer hunting licenses were issued by county auditor A.M. Senstad.

1955—TWENTY YEARS AGO

The body of Kenneth E. Lindberg, Northern State Bank cashier was found on the shore of Crescent Lake, located three miles south of the village of Clear Lake by a trio of rabbit hunters. He had been brutally murdered. Sherburne county sheriff Chester Goennes notified the FBI and an intensive, nationwide manhunt is under way. $200 in silver dollars was found at the scene of the crime. He had been missing for two weeks after being kidnapped along with $1,750 in silver coins taken from the bank. Earlier $1,530 of the money was found in his abandened car in Minneapolis. —Voters of the newly consolidated School District 18 approved by a margin of 1,080 to 211 a bond issue of $1,190,000 for construction of additional school facilities in TRF.

1965—TEN YEARS AGO

City taxes will remain at 40 mills for the coming year—the same as 1964. —Northwestern Bell Telephone company announced the appointment of Thomas R. Perrier as Thief River Falls manager. —Senator Walter F. Mondale addressed a breakfast session of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce.

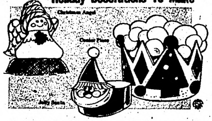
Holiday Decorations To Make



Gaily decorated holiday gifts are fun to make and give. With an eye to the budget, each one starts with an empty bleach bottle.

Christmas Angel Ornament: Take an empty, rinsed quart bottle of Clorox® liquid bleach. Cut off top section of bottle at top edge of label panel. With enamel, paint angel face on section above neck-indent. Draw features with felt pen. Paint an angel's dress on lower section. Cut wings, 4" x 3" deep, from rest of bottle. Attach wings to bottle. Paint wings. Cut a piece of net fabric to 10" x 24"; fold down to 5" x 12". Gather net in middle and attach to one end of a pipe cleaner. Pull other end of pipe cleaner through neck of bottle. Turn protruding top end to make hanger. Trim off fabric about ½" below edge of dress. Glue on yarn hair. Angel can also be used for a mantel or table decoration.

Jolly Santa Gift Holder: Spray an empty, rinsed 1½ gallon Clorox bleach bottle with red enamel. Draw line around bottle 4" from bottom. On side opposite handle, starting 2" below cap, cut out shape of Santa's hat down to drawn line. Then cut around rest of bottle from each side of hat to line. Glue on pink felt for face. Use colored ball fringe for cheeks and nose, felt or plastic circles for eyes, white cotton for beard, and white ball fringe for topping and edging hat. Fill holder with cookies, candies, a small gift or a holiday plant.

Holiday Centerpiece: Start with an empty, rinsed 1½ gallon Clorox bleach bottle. Cut off top section at top edge of label section. On bottom half, mark 8 even points around edge. Draw line around bottle 2" from top of bottom half. On this line mark off 8 points in between first 8 points. Cut from mark to mark to make jagged top. Spray holder inside and out with gold enamel. Cut out 4 felt trees the length of the point sections and glue onto bottle on every other panel. Decorate with sequins, glitter, pompons, yarn bows. Fill holder with Christmas tree balls or holly.

Bake butter butter cookies for the holidays.

Because the holidays are no time for substitutes.

You can't make real holiday butter cookies without real butter. Because real butter gives cookies a fresh, moist flavor. Makes them crisp and special—the way your family loves them. So bake a batch of holiday butter cookies now. For your family... or as gifts for your friends. Just clip out and try our butter cookie recipe. And make sure you serve butter butter cookies.

BUTTER BUTTER COOKIE RECIPE
1 cup (2 sticks) butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon almond extract
2½ cups all-purpose flour
Cream butter, gradually add sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Beat in egg and almond extract. Gradually blend in flour. Fill cookie press with ¼ of dough at a time; form desired shapes on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in preheated 350° oven, 8 to 10 minutes. Remove immediately to wire rack to cool. About 7 dozen.

WILL WINTER WEATHER EFFECT YOUR HEALTH?

Some people just beeze through the winter months without any problems. But, others seem to "catch" almost anything that is going around.

One way to increase your chances of a healthier winter is to schedule your annual physical check-up around this time of year. Then, if your physician finds you are not quite up to par, he might suggest or prescribe a good multiple vitamin or tonic to help build you up. Give yourself the extra edge this winter. Our winter medicines and health-aids are now in stock.

Bar Cookie Good For Gift-Giving

Mincemeat Oatmeal Bars stay moist, don't break up during travel and storage.

Here's a bar cookie that is great for Christmas gift-giving. Mincemeat Oatmeal Bars will help you say, "You're a special person" deliciously. The combination of ingredients is one that stays moist because you make it with velvetized evaporated milk. That makes Mincemeat Oatmeal Bars an even better choice for gift-giving. You needn't worry about them drying out or breaking. Bake several batches for friends and make enough for the family, too.

Mincemeat Oatmeal Bars
(Makes 24 bars)

1⅓ cups quick rolled oats
1¼ cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
¾ cup softened butter
1 egg
¼ cup sugar
1 package (3¼ ounces) vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk
1⅓ cups small flake coconut
1 cup prepared mincemeat

Combine oats, flour, baking soda and brown sugar in medium bowl. Cut in softened butter as for pie crust. Set aside 1 cup oatmeal mixture. Press remaining oatmeal mixture evenly in bottom of buttered 12 x 7½ x 2-inch baking dish. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 15 minutes. Beat egg in medium bowl. Gradually beat in sugar. Stir in pudding mix, baking powder, evaporated milk, coconut and mincemeat. Spread over baked crust. Sprinkle remaining oatmeal mixture evenly over top. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. Cool thoroughly. Cut into 24 bars.

Also enjoying the dinner was Mrs. Florence Oberg of Viking, who is spending the winter with Mrs. Urdahl.

Volume 64 | Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota | Monday, December 8, 1975 | Number 96

FOR 20 YEARS of service in providing manpower and facilities for operation of the Minnesota warning system in Thief River Falls, the local police department received a special citation from Gov. Wendell Anderson last week. Robert Smith (second from left), deputy director of the state division of emergency services, made the presentation to Kenneth Froschheiser, chief of police. Looking on are Ellsworth Jorgenson (left), county civil defense director, and Mayor Bob Carlson.

Operation ID Here Now At Standstill

by Paul Forsberg
Times Reporter

Success of the Operation Identification program depends for the most part on the initiative of a large number of residents and businesses, who are urged to go to their local bank, check out engravers and mark their valuables to provide identification if these articles are lost or stolen. In the Thief River Falls area, the program is virtually at a stand-still.

Pennington county deputy sheriff Bob Wold, who is serving as local project officer, partially attributes the current inertia to the local law enforcement agencies, who he says have been unable to properly promote the program due to a lack of time and manpower. Wold added that he is planning to speak before the Lions club and other groups to alert local residents to the program before Christmas.

Thief River Falls Jaycees, the Pennington county sheriff's department and the city police department began an Operation ID promotional effort May 1 of this year. Currently, 205 residents and businesses are enrolled in the Thief River Falls area, far short of the aspirations of law enforcement officials.

Can the program be successful with a suitable number a participants? Wold said it would take four or five years to properly gauge the success of Operation I.D., but he added that none of the 205 enrollees has reported a robbery since they entered the program

This fact appears to bear out state and national data, which indicates that the burglary rate for non-participants in Minnesota is four times greater than for Operation I.D. paricipants, and, according to a national evaluation funded by the law enforcement assistance administration, project participants have significantly lower burglary rates after joining compared to before.

However, the same national study indicates that Operation I.D. is far from a panacea to the ever increasing crime rate. City-side burglary rates have not been reduced where evaluated "Operation I.D." projects have been implemented and of the 18 projects visited, Operation I.D. markings did not lead to increases in the apprehension or conviction of burglars or the recovery or return of stolen property.

In Minnesota, despite a marked increase in Operation I.D. enrollment, the burglary rate increased nine per cent from 1973 to 1974, although this was mainly attributed to a 25 per cent increase in rural area burglaries, where the program was still relatively unknown or at least unused.

Operation I.D. is en-

Cindy Kjensrud

Cindy Kjensrud Candidate For Youth Award

Cindy Kjensrud, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kjensrud of Thief River Falls and a sophomore at Lincoln high school, has been selected as local nominee for the Hugh O'Brian youth foundation leadership seminar.

Each year the foundation enables selected high school sophomores to participate in a week-long, all expense-paid program designed to promote the development of leadership qualities. State winners, selected from among candidates selected by individual schools, will attend the seminar to be held April 3-10, 1976, in Washington, D.C.

Among Cindy's activities have been pep band, pep club, cheerleading, student council, Luther league, youth center committee, TRFinettes drum and bugle corps, volleyball team and garden club.

For four years she had a daily paper delivery route and in the past several years has been involved in visiting shut-ins and hospital patients and working in the church nursery and day-care center. An "A" honor student, she has tutored second graders and has instructed beginning buglers in the TRFinettes group.

Announcement of the selection was made by Mrs. Adeline Vollan, administrative assistant.

SECOND LOOKS were common last week as the time and temperature sign at First Federal Savings and Loan association began flashing Celsius readings as well as Fahrenheit. The installation was the first made by the sign company in the state of Minnesota. Sequence of information on the sign is now time, Fahrenheit temperature and Celsius temperature, with the latter designated by a letter "C" as shown above.

Skunk Bite Endangers Salol Youth

A bite from a rabid skunk has caused a boy from Salol to undergo a series of rabies shots which began Monday. Tommy Dixon, 10, was bitten the week before in the yard of his farm home near Salol. His father William Dixon, had sent the head of the skunk in for analysis. Tommy will receive two shots a day for 14 days.

Dixon said that he was destroying his two dogs and two cats that had attacked the skunk because they might be carriers of the disease, that sometimes takes up to six months to become evident. Mrs. Dixon said she had warned Tommy not to go near the skunk in the yard, since it had been "acting strange."

Police Receive Commendation For CD Work

Thief River Falls police department has received a commendation of outstanding service to the people of Minnesota from Governor Wendell R. Anderson for providing manpower and facilities in the operation of the Minnesota warning system for nearly 20 years.

This service award was presented because reconfiguration of the state warning system moved NAWAS warning point responsibilities from the Thief River Falls police department to the state patrol dispatch center at Thief River Falls. Robert Smith, deputy director of the state division of emergency services, presented the award in behalf of Governor Anderson.

"Now that the state of Minnesota has 24-hour capability at state patrol dispatch centers to disseminate warning should disaster strike," Smith said, "we want to take this opportunity to tell the people of Thief River Falls, and the people of this state, that their willing assistance has not gone unnoticed and we are grateful for Thief River Falls' spirit in helping to maintain an essential service to the people of this state."

Transfer of the NAWAS warning point from the police department to the state patrol dispatch center in Thief River Falls wil permit dissemination of warning messages to the counties by radio and telephone communiation facilities.

Dist. Winners Sweep Sewing Contest Sat.

District One captured two national trips—the only ones for which its contestants were eligible—at the Minnesota-North Dakota make it yourself with wool contest Saturday in Fargo, N.D.

Barbara Drevlow of Ada, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. A. Drevlow, won the combined junior and senior division among 16 Minnesota junior and senior winners. Barbara, 14, was the youngest girl participating in the contest and advances to the national contest in Wichita, Kansas, January 27.

Mrs. Yvonne Magnusson of Roseau won the adult division among eight district winners from Minnesota and North Dakota to also advance to the national contest.

Mrs. Gunder Legvold of Thief River Falls, District One director, said that there were 11 districts represented at the contest from Williston, N.D., on the west to Rochester on the south.

Other District One contestants—Julie Bergeson of Bagley, DeEtte Stamnes of Lake Bronson and Myrna Eklund of Roseau—also placed well in the contest, Mrs. Legvold said.

Argyle Youth Hurt In Crash

Harlan Kirkeide, 18, of Argyle was treated at Northwestern hospital for a fractured right hand following a one-car rollover nine miles east of Argyle at about 1:44 a.m. Friday.

Arbitration On School Issue Set Jan. 28-29

January 28 and 29 have been selected as dates on which an arbitration panel will meet to decide contract terms between Thief River Falls school district board and faculty, according to word received here from John W. Boyer, convenor of the panel. Other panel members are William Lloyd and Richard P. O'Connell.

Don Hejlik, chairman of the teachers' negotiating council, has issued a statement following receipt of notice of hearing dates. "It is unfortunate that the settlement be delayed until the end of January," he said. "The school board's unwillingness to negotiate further has caused this delay in settlement.

"The process of arbitration is time-consuming as well as costly. Last year's arbitration date was December 20. The salary settlement was received on December 23. However, the remaining contract decisions were not received until January 20. Last year seven items were arbitrated. This year there are 23 items to be arbitrated. Settlement will be much later than last year's.

"As to the expense of arbitration," he said, "each of the three arbitrators is paid $100 a day plus expenses. The arbitrators have a 10-day period from the initial hearing date to decide the contract settlement.

"The cost of the recently-arbitrated issue of lane change and increments was $1,066. This involved only one arbitrator and the cost was for four and three-quarters days work. Arbitration espenses are paid by the local chapter of the Minnesota education association and the taxpayers. Early contract settlement through negotiation would eliminate both the time and expense involved in arbitration," he said.

Gordon Olsons Selected As Conservation Farmer

MRS. GORDON OLSON and daughter Jane stir up a batch of cookies at the Olson farm home west of Thief River Falls. The Olsons were recently selected as conservation farmer of the year for the Pennington soil and water conservation district. The Olsons' eldest daughter Kathy, a graduate of the medical secretarial program of the Thief River Falls AVTI, is employed in Grand Forks.

TREE PLANTING is one of the conservation practices employed on the Gordon Olson farm west of Thief River Falls. Gordon and sons Bryan and Scott inspect the growth of trees planted only six years ago as a windbreak for cattle in the farm's beef cow operation. Three acres of land were devoted to the planting of 1,400 trees for this purpose. Other conservation practices have been wildlife water area and food plots, stockwater pits, seven and one-half miles of field surface drainage, soil testing, fertilizer application, crop rotation and pasture rotation.

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Conservation farmer of the year for the Pennington soil and water conservation district is a farm family which has developed a 320-acre beef and grain farm from an original investment in 240 acres of land with only 60 acres open. Award recipients Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson were recently guests of the local SWCD at its state convention held in Marshall.

Gordon is a native of the Thief River Falls community. His father, Gordon M. Olson, farmed about a mile from Gordon's present farm and his brothers Norman, Kenneth, Don and Glenn and sister Lila Klefstad all live in the Thief River Falls area. Another brother, Lawrence, lives in Los Angeles, Calif. The Gordon Olson Jr. farm is located four miles west and half a mile south of Thief River Falls in Norden township.

A member of the soil and water conservation district for about 20 years, Gordon has adopted approved conservation practices on the farm and developed a basic farm plan. Through the years he has installed four stock-water pits, a wildlife water area, planted many hundreds of trees (including 1,400 for a windbreak for his cattle) and developed seven and one-half miles of field drainage ditching. He has also installed several outlet structures on the field ditches and planted wildlife food plots.

With 50 head of beef cows on the farm, pasture and hay as well as feed grain are important. The farm land rotation annually involves about 100 acres of pasture, 100 acres of alfalfa hay and 100 acres of barley, oats and wheat.

Gordon pays particular attention to his pasture, taking soil tests and seeding a mixture of brome, orchardgrass, alsike clover in low areas and alfalfa. He maintains the pasture for three of four years, fertilizing it about the second year to stimulate maximum growth. His 100 acres of pasture divided into several areas with cattle moved from one to another every several weeks

CONSERVATION FARMER of the year for the Pennington county soil and water conservation district is Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson of Thief River Falls. The Olsons farm 320 acres of land four miles west and one-half mile south of Thief River Falls. They received a certificate of merit at the annual meeting of the Minnesota association of soil ans water conservation districts last week in Marshall.

Plummer Man Drowns Sat. At Maple Lake

Irving LaVoie, 65, of Plummer drowned Saturday afternoon in an apparent fishing accident at Maple Lake, near Mentor. LaVoie's body was found under the ice at about 4 p.m. after he had evidently fallen through a fishing hole inside of his dark house.

Liturgy of the funeral for Irving L. LaVoie will be offered Wednesday at 11 a.m., at the St. Vincent de Paul Catholic church at Plummer with Rev. Larry A. Wieseler officiating. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

The body will repose at the St. Vicent de Paul church hall Tuesday evening. The Petterson Funeral home of Red Lake Falls is in charge of arrangements.

Irving Leo LaVoie was born Jan. 30, 1910 in Tower City, N.D., to Harry and Regina Lareau LaVoie. He was united in marriage to Eunice Morevitska on March 2, 1934 at Fargo, N.D. The couple lived in North Dakota after their marriage. In 1951, they moved from Fargo to this area, settling on a farm east of Plummer. His wife died in 1969.

On Jan. 8, 1972, he married Mrs. Betty Loeffler at Brooks. Several years ago, he sold his farm and moved into the village of Plummer. LaVoie was employed for many years by Detroiter Mobile homes in Red Lake Falls.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Irving J. LaVoie of El Paso, Tex., four grandchildren, his father, Harry J. LaVoie of Tower City, N.D., and two sisters, Mrs. Florence Lindaus of Moorhead and Mrs. Harry (Irene) Moe of Fargo, N.D.

His mother preceded him in death four years ago.

Dr. Thorsgard Given Family Doctor Degree

Dr. Ernest Thorsgard of Thief River Falls has been named a fellow of the American academy of family physicians.

The degree of fellowship may be attained by successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, or achievement of diplomate status in the specialty of family practice as a result of passing a certifying examination administered by the American board of family practice.

Fellowship entitles the conferee to use the title "Fellow of the American Academy of family physicians," or "FAAFP." The degree was conferred at the AAFP's annual convention and scientific assembly in Chicago.

Danelle Lindahl-Walter Eldeen Wed In Dubuque

Candelabra and two large bouquets of yellow and white mums and white daisies graced the chancel at Holy Trinity Lutheran church in Dubuque, Iowa for the wedding of Miss Danelle Lindahl and Walter Eldeen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lindahl of Dubuque, Iowa. Her grandmothers are Mrs. Emma Lindahl of this city, and Mrs. Clara Hanson of Middle River. They were special guests at the ceremony. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ed Eldeen of Iowa City, Iowa.

Rev. A. Weinbender officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Carolyn Conry, the organist, played "One Love," for the processional and accompanied Don Albert, a friend of the couple, as he sang, "First Time I Saw Your Face," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of polyester organza with accents of Venice lace at the sheer ribbed empire bodice, ruffled neckline and on the cuffs of the sheer ribbed sleeves. Venice lace appliques highlighted the A-line skirt, flounced hemline and attached cathedral-length train. Her finger-tip veil was held by a headpiece of pen lace, etched with pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white mums with babies' breath.

Maid of honor was Sharon Pfiffner of Dubuque, a friend of the bride. Other attendants were Miss Norma Lindahl, Mrs. Cara Triervieler, sisters of the bride; Mrs. Rhea Lindahl, sister-in-law of the bride; and Miss Karen Eldeen of Iowa City, sister of the groom. They wore identical sleeveless gowns of dotted Swiss over yellow, styled with square necklines with lace appliques on the shoulder and flounced hemline. Topping the gowns were matching jackets with long sleeves edged with Venice lace appliques. A bow complemented the front opening. Each attendant carried a bouquet of yellow and white mums with white daisies and babies' breath.

Wearing a yellow dotted Swiss gown over taffeta, and carrying a bouquet similiar to the bridesmaids, was the flower girl, Leanne Canty of Leadville, Colo., a cousin of the bride. The rings were carried by her brother, Jonathan Canty. Like the men of the wedding party, he was attired in a navy blue tuxedo with blue ruffled shirt and a yellow boutonniere.

Attending the groom as best man was a friend, John Honey of Fort Carson, Colorado Springs, Colo. Groomsmen were Andrew Hoyt of Iowa City, brother-in-law of the groom; Dave Eldeen, a brother of the groom; Robert Triervieler, brother-in-law of the bride; and Barry Lindahl, brother of the bride. Dan Eldeen, a brother of the groom, served as acolyte.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lindahl selected a dusty rose floor-length gown topped by a matching lace jacket. Her corsage was of white sweetheart roses. A similar corsage was worn by the mother of the groom, who was attired in a gown of pale blue sheer.

Wearing white spider mum corsages were the honor guests: Mrs. Clara Hanson of Middle River, who wore a light blue floor-length gown with sheer sleeves; Mrs. Emma Lindahl of this city, whose gown was of a floral print; Mss. Bessie Long of Iowa City, the groom's grandmother, who was attired in a soft pink gown; and Mrs. Anna Schenkey of Middle River, the bride's great-aunt, who wore a floor-length gown of pale lavender.

Following the ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception at the Chateau Supper club for approximately 150 guests. Centering the serving table was a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow daisies and topped by a flowing fountain. Mrs. Roberta Graham of Waukegan, Ill., a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Kathy Hoyt of Iowa City, sister of groom, cut and served the cake. Kathy Pfiffner, a friend of the bride, registered the guests and arranged the gifts.

The couple is at home at 225 Byron Drive, Colorado Springs, Colo., where the groom is stationed at Fort Carson as a U.S. Army Engineer. He is a graduate of Iowa City high school. The bride is a graduate of Dubuque senior high school and Area I school of Practical Nursing. Prior to her marriage, she was employed as an LPN at the University hospital in Iowa City, Iowa. Job's Daughters November Events Are Announced

Three events highlighted activities of the local bethel of Job's Daughters during the month of November.

On Tuesday, November 18, two new members were initiated into the group. They were Marissa Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson, and Mary Kay Golden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Golden.

That weekend, 15 Jobs Daughters spent two days of fun at the Holiday Inn in Moorhead. They were accompanied by three chaperones.

On Monday evening, November 24, the group attended the regular meeting of the Northern chapter 82, R.A.M. They participated in the ritualistic rites by presenting the tribute to the Royal Arch Masons.

Retired Teachers Board Meeting Held In TRF

Executive board of the Northern division of Retired Teachers met recently in Thief River Falls for a luncheon-meeting at the home of President Ellen Peterson. Due to the inclement weather, the members from Bemidji were unable to attend. Myrtle Myrin, Bertha Anderson and Anges Hanson were appointed by the president to serve as proxies. Bertha Hastad served as secretary.

The financial problem of the district was discussed. It was noted that after the expenses of the October meeting were paid, there was a balance of $8.76 in the treasury. Mrs. Peterson reported that after writing to Al Sollom and Bob Larson, Uniserve I and II, respectively of the Minnesota association, Sollom had sent $100 to alleviate the district's financial problem. It was noted that another letter had been written to Larson, explaining the financial need.

Officers traveling expenses were also discussed. It was voted that officers of the division be paid 12 cents a mile for attending division meetings and anyone riding should contribute to the expenses. A motion was also introduced that hostesses of the spring and fall meetings be responsible for the refreshment expenses.

It was announced that several units are being established in the division. Cities in the process of organizing retired teachers' units are Crookston, Middle River, Roseau and International Falls.

The luncheon served by President Peterson featured the Thanksgiving theme.

Zachary David Otto Baptized At Mankato

Zachary David Otto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Otto of Mankato, was baptized Friday, November 28, at the Neuman chapel at St. Thomas More Catholic church. The child's mother is the former Mary Jensen of Thief River Falls.

Officiating at the baptism was Rev. Gerald Conway. Godparents were Richard Otto and Judy Lindberg.

Following the baptism, a reception was hosted by the child's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Otto. Guests, in addition to the child and his parents, were the child's materanl grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jorgenson, his great grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Williams, Tom and Jennifer Williams and Virginia, Rebecca and Richard Otto.

Christmas Dance Set By Argyle Twirlers

Argyle Twirlers will hold a Christmas square dance on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Argyle school. James Kooyer will call the tips. A door prize will be given. Lunch will be served.

Herb Swensons Are Feted On 25th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Swenson were honor guests at an open house Saturday evening, October 25, in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. Hosting the event were their daughter, Kaylynn Swenson, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Swenson.

Special guests were Jack (John) Nelson, who had served as best man at the wedding 25 years ago; Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Melhouse, parents of Mrs. Swenson; and Mrs. Martha Swenson, Swenson's mother.

A three-tiered anniversary cake decorated in fall colors graced the serving table. It was made and decorated by Mrs. Rudy Martinson. Topping the cake was a 25th anniversary emblem, made by the couple's daughter and daughter-in-law.

Relatives and friends were in charge of preparing and serving the reception.

The couple received many cards and gifts, in addition to a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations and a yellow rose boutonniere.

A large number of relatives and friends attended the anniversary celebration. Out-of-town guests were from Menahga, Radium, Viking, Lakeville and Fridley.

Sending gifts, but unable to be present were Mrs. Harda Hagen, Mr. and Mrs. Don Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Bevolden, Mr. and Mrs. Art Vik, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Wendelin, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Voldness, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Alexander.

Yule Program To Be Given At Historical Meet

Monthly meeting of the Pennington county Historical society will be held Thursday at 8 p.m., at the City Auditorium, instead of Friday as previously announced. The change was necessary as the auditorium wasn't available for Friday.

The program will be presented by the Northland Retired Teachers. It will feature an old-fashioned Christmas program with the teachers as school children.

The public is welcome to attend. Lunch will be served.

Local CowBelles Observe National Farm-City Week

Northwestern CowBelles of Thief River Falls joined other agricultural business and civic groups across the country in the recent observance of the National Farm-City week. The Northwestern CowBelles is affiliated with the Industry council of the American National Cattlemen's association and with the American National CowBelles, ANCA's women's auxiliary. Mrs. Roger Mott is president of the local group.

Activities for Farm-City week in Thief River Falls included a demonstration at a meeting of the Senior Citizen's group at the Senior center. The demonstration featured cutting a roast in five different ways to create different meals. They also gave information on the beef industry, and the many related industries.

Lunch served by the group included take-along beef sandwiches, that featured cooked roast beef, cut into tidbit pieces, simmered in barbeque sauce, and served on a bun.

Mrs. Mott stated that the prime purpose of Farm-City week is to create a better understanding between rural and urban people and to increase knowledge and appreciation of each for the American way of life.

Discuss King's Way Academy

Special meeting to discuss future location for the King's Way Christian academy at Thief River Falls will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Evangelical Covenant church in Thief River Falls. Parents of children enrolled in the academy and interested friends are encouraged to attend.

Its "Paycation" time for those who sell their "Don't Wants" with a Times Classified Ad.

Newcomers Club To Hold Cookie Exchange

Regular meeting of the Newcomers club will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m., at the city auditorium meeting room.

Included on the agenda will be the holiday cookie exchange.

All women new in this area are welcome to attend the meetings of the Newcomers club.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

by Ellen M. Spray

Featuring recipes from the Kitchen of

It was just a brief article, about five or six lines, in the home town paper giving the information that a former high school superintendent was hospitalized following open heart surgery. Letters were requested.

Writing a letter to "C. D." is a Must. Without his kindness and concern for that "dumb country kid" my life may have been quite different.

My most vivid recollection of "C. D." was in the fall in the early 1930's. It was a Friday and I had just received my first six weeks report card. As I was looking at the card, "C. D." came to the door and asked me to come into his office. In his hand he held a letter from a private school that I had attended during my freshman year. He stated that the school refused to release my credits. Earlier my parents had received a letter stating that upon receipt of $400, the credits would be transferred. (During those depression years, $400 was a fortune, and in my case absolutely unattainable.) Without those credits, the superintendent stated that it would be impossible for me to continue as a sophomore. However, he gave me two choices: of dropping out and returning as a freshman the following year, or, if the teachers were willing to spend their own time tutoring me, to catch-up on the six weeks lost, I could enter the freshman class. He advised that I continue, as too many students who dropped out failed to return. Continuing, he said, would mean double work for six weeks, and the unpleasantness of answering the questions of the classmates.

While I considered the matter, he consulted with the teachers. They all agreed and returned with the freshman materials. The superintendent's advice was accepted and I remained in school. The teachers, Dueland, Swenson, Day, Flagstad, Norman and "C. D." (who taught science) not only taught English, typing, physical ed, math and history, but they gave me encouragement when the going was rough. They stressed fairness of play, honesty and doing one's best. Some of their maxims were: "If a thing is worth having, it's worth working for," "It may not be important to you now, but when you get out in life, you'll need it," "Live your life so you can face yourself in the mirror," and "Do unto others as you would want them to do unto you." The one thing that they all had in common was their concern. They actually cared.

"Those teachers were no different than many of today's teachers who are dedicated to their profession and are respected citizens of their community. (Several years ago when our daughter missed many weeks of school, her teacher came to our home and tutored her. Last year, a grandson was tutored while in the hospital with a broken leg.) But as in everything else, we hear only about the bad apples in the basket, the ones who come to school smelling like a brewery and the ones who constantly complain how hard it is to live on teacher's wages.

We in this area are fortunate in having superb educational facilities. However, those facilities are worthless without teachers who are willing to accept the responsibility that the lives they lead, the example they set are the factors that mold the lives of today's children.

I do not remember C. D. Hollister's explanation of centrifugal force, but his kindness and concern will not be forgotten.

Yes, I must write to "C. D." today.

Today's recipe is from the Minnesota Heart Association.

Baked Pumpkin Pie

1 9-inch pie shell, unbaked
two-thirds cup granulated sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon nutmeg
pinch of ground cloves
1½ cups canned pumpkin
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1½ cups evaporated skim milk
½ teaspoon orange rind
3 egg whites, slightly beaten

Preheat oven to 450 degrees F. Combine the sugar, salt, cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg, and cloves. Stir in the pumpkin. Add the vanilla, evaporated milk, orange rind and egg whites. Beat with an electric mixer until smooth. Pour into the unbaked pie shell and bake 10 minutes at 450 degrees F. Reduce the heat to 325 degrees and bake until a knife inserted in the filling comes out clean, about 45 minutes.

Health Council Merger Topic For Hearing

On October 23 the Agassiz and Central Flyway health planning councils merged to form Agassiz health planning council, a formal bi-state agency serving 10 North Dakota counties and the Minnesota counties of Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Clearwater, Beltrami, Norman, Mahnomen and Hubbard.

Agassiz and Central Flyway councils have jointly established and developed a formal application in accordance with prescribed procedures under P.L. 93-641 to be designated as a formal bi-state health systems agency. Consistent with this effort, a formal public meeting will be held at the Westward Ho, Grand Forks, at 1:30 p.m. on December 19.

The public meeting is both an educational activity designed to point out the impact of the national health planning and resources development act of 1974 on the health service area, and to provide an opportunity for all interested organizations and individuals to comment on and affect the formal application.

Prior to the public meeting, individuals and organizatons are requested to submit written comments relative to the application to the Agassiz Health planning council, 123 DeMers Avenue, East Grand Forks, Minnesota 56721. Written and verbal comments will also be welcomed at the December 19 public meeting. An orderly registration will be held at the meeting.

A draft copy of the application may be read or duplicated at the individual's expense at the Agassiz health planning council, 123 DeMers Avenue, East Grand Forks, Minnesota 56721, or the Northwest regional library, Thief River Falls.

Winter Home Plants Subject Of Meet Thurs.

A meeting on selection and care of live plants for use in the home is scheduled for Thursday at 8 p.m. in the courthouse meeting room, Thief River Falls.

Jane McKinnon, University of Minnesota extension horticulturist, will discuss potting soils, light requirements, planting arrangements, disease prevention and watering. She will use colored slides and live plant materials to demonstrate how to grow plants in the home during the cold days of winter. The public is invited to attend and ask questions.

Show Aids One-Armed Homemakers

Imagine trying to open a jar, chop vegetables or stir a pan on the stove with only one arm. Homemakers who have had a stroke or have lost the use of an arm through an accident experience frustration from seemingly-simple tasks.

Fourth program in the six-part series "Ability—Not Disability" shows how physically limited homemakers have adapted their routines and techniques to cope with their handicaps. The program was filmed in the homes of persons with these problems. It was produced by the agricultural extension service of the University of Minnesota.

Among the ideas presented in the program are how to open packages, jars and cans; how to fill and drain heavy kettles at the sink; how to peel and chop foods; and how to store and organize supplies for easy access.

The program on home management for the one-armed will appear at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, on channel 2 or channel 13 on cable.

Need Entries For Mother Of Year Contest

Minnesota chapter of the American Mother's committee, Inc., is now sponsoring the annual search for the Minnesota mother of the year for the Bicentennial year of 1976.

There must be a sponsoring organization, and a candidate must be a successful mother and homemaker as evidenced by the character and achievement of her individual children and active in her church and community affairs.

She must embody the traits of ideal motherhood and be willing to assume responsibilities should she be chosen state mother of the year. The state mother will then enter the national contest where the national mother is chosen.

The candidate's youngest child must be at least 15 years of age. Mothers of adopted children are eligible.

Entry forms may be obtained from the state chairman: Mrs. Carlyle F. Willette, Mary Dove Cottage, Basswood Park, Winnebago, Mn. 56098.

TRF Student To Participate In UND Concert

Sheldon Buck of Thief River Falls will serve as assistant conductor of the annual University of North Dakota swing choir and choral union Christmas concert Tuesday at 8:15 on the college campus in Grand Forks. Buck is also a member of the swing choir.

Tribal Laws Are Part Of Culture

by Jeannie Hanson
U of M News Service

When people think of early law, they often think of the Code of Hammurabi—the "eye for an eye and tooth for a tooth" approach.

E. Adamson Hoebel, regents' professor emeritus of anthropology at the University of Minnesota, refers to tabulations such as this as "ideal law," proclamations from a king upon ascension to the throne.

Much more interesting, according to Hoebel, is the law of the way people really lived—custom law or tribal law, the "real law" of the culture.

This primitive law of preliterate people began much earlier than Hammurabi's time, and it can be found today in primitive tribes. It is not written down; it may not even be stated in abstract principles such as "stealing is wrong," Hoebel said. But it regulates the behavior of those in the society.

Hoebel brought tribal law to world attention. He and Karl Llewellyn, the late University of Chicago law professor, had to develop a whole new method to study it. Their "trouble cause method" focuses on the transactions and disputes of a tribe.

"If you ask a Comanche, 'What is your marriage law?' he will say, 'That depends . . but I can tell you what happened when Red Eagle stole Lame Deer's wife,'" Hoebel said.

Hoebel has spent a lifetime studying the legal systems of primitive cultures. He has lived with the Comanche, Cheyenne and Pueblo Indians and visited Pakistan to find out how these societies deal with disputes. "I know of no society without law," he said.

Hoebel thinks of law as "a part of the society-maintaining system in a culture, its distribution of rights and privileges and protection of them." Law has regularity, with official authority of some kind to enforce the laws, by force if necessary. Every group needs some way to settle arguments, to keep the group together.

Law proliferates, Hoebel has found, when a tribe passes from a life of hunting and gathering to a life of gardening and agriculture near a village. In the very primitive stages, the laws deal mainly with personal attacks and with controversies by men over women.

The more property, the more legal problems. Tribes dealing in grain "futures," where the goods are not bartered on the spot, have an especially large number of legal problems, according to Hoebel.

Comanche legal disputes most often involved horse-stealing or wife-stealing, Hoebel found. This tribe had no chief to decide disputes, so the parties met to state their cases, with everyone in the tribe especting them to bargain, compromise and settle. There were no lawyers, but a disputant could get a persuasive relative to speak for him if he liked, no fee required. There were no witnesses called.

If the evidence was in dispute, one of the parties would finally invoke a "conditional curse or oath," such as "Sun—Father, Earth—Mother, you saw this thing. If what I say is not true, may I not live until the geese fly south."

If the parties could not reach an agreement, attack followed. Again, a proxy might be used. A weak or frightened plaintiff could get an outstanding warrior to take his place. The warrior worked for the prestige and asked no fee.

The Cheyenne had a more elaborate legal system and "a beautiful sense of how to use the law," Hoebel said. A council of 44 chieftains appointed for a 10-year period decided the cases.

Homicides were taken very seriously. The Cheyenne word for "murder" translates as "putrid," and the penalty was banishment from the tribe. Murder was considered to "put blood on the feathers of the four sacred arrows of the tribe." The council convened to decide, punish and conduct the ritual of the renewal of the arrows.

The focus of Cheyenne law was rehabilitation. A warrior who hunted buffalo alone in the summer—a serious offense because it scattered the food supply for winter—was beaten, his horse taken and his clothes and weapons destroyed. But if he showed that he was sincerely sorry, his possessions were replaced quickly. Eventually, even a murderer could be brought back to the tribe.

Hoebel's respect for the Cheyenne and their approach to law was mutual. The Cheyenne named Hoebel "Morning Star" after their greatest chief. Of all his national and international academic honors, and they are many, Hoebel seems most proud of that one.

ALVIN HAUGEN, 24 of Newfolden was listed in stable condition at Northwestern hospital after he suffered a skull fracture in an automoblie accident at 11:15 p.m. Thursday in Thief River Falls. Haugen, driving a pickup, was traveling east across the Third Street bridge when he allegedly side-swiped a car (pictured above) driven by Lois Anderson, Middle River, who was traveling west across the bridde. The pickup continued east into the median strip at Third Street and Markley avenue, where it knocked over two road signs and crashed into a tree (below). A passenger in the Haugen vehicle, Gary Quam, 22, was treated at the hospital for a bruised left knee and released. A police department vehicle was following the pickup at the time of the accident.

Skating Group Announces 3 Meeting Dates

Thief River Falls recreational skating committee has announced its involvement in three meetings to be held in the next few days in which its general membership should be interested.

Tonight (Monday) at 7 p.m. a meeting of the recreational skating committee will be held in the city auditorium. The meeting will be open to the public and anyone interested in the local skating program may attend.

At 7 p.m. on Wednesday, the ice scheduling committee will meet at the city auditorium to develop the schedule for months following the first of the year.

Next Monday, December 15, the city park and recreation board will meet at 7 p.m. with members of the recreational skating committee and parents involved in the skating program. Scheduling of ice time and answers to questions stated in a letter to the park and recreation board from the skating association are expected to be discussion topics.

County SWCD Supervisors Attend Meet

Supervisor Leonard Skaar from the Pennington soil and water conservation district attended the 39th annual convention of the Minnesota association of soil and water conservation districts held in Marshall, November 30-December 2.

Also attending were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson, conservation farmers for 1975 in the local district.

About 300 persons attended the convention, which brought together local directors of many of the state's 92 soil and water conservation districts. Federal and state officials and representatives of various agriculture-related businesses and agencies also attended.

Soil and water conservation districts are organized under state law to direct conservation work within their boundaries. Each district is managed by an elected, unsalaried board of local citizens. In cooperation with the soil conservation service, the districts assist landowners to manage their land and conserve their resources.

Oakland Park Board To Meet

Executive board meeting of the Oakland Park Nursing home will be held Wednesday.

The meeting will be held at the Nursing home and is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m.

Haglund First As Mormon Deacon Here

Jon Haglund, 13, son of Mavis Haglund of Thief River Falls, recently became the first deacon in the Aaronic priesthood to be ordained at the Thief River Falls branch of the church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints.

He was ordained by city Mormon elders Douglas Johnson and Murray McDonnel, and by area president Ron Gruwell of Newfolden and elder Herb Spinler of Crookston. Johnson and McDonnel reported that Haglund, a Franklin school student, was found worthy to be ordained to the office through intensive study and instruction.

Adopt New Food Stamp Regulations

U.S. department of agriculture (USDA) recently adopted new regulations for determining food stamp allotments, and revised coupon allotments, purchase requirements, and maximum income eligibility standards, effective January 1.

On January 1, the amount of coupons allotted for a four-person household will be increased from $162 fo $166 a month, with adjustments for other household sizes in line with revised economics of scale. The maximum income eligibility level for a family of four will be correspondingly increased from $540 to $553 per month.

A total of 1,958 responses was received by USDA's food and nutrition service (FNS) in response to its invitation for interested parties to comment on three alternative proposals to revise coupon allotments in the food stamp program, all based on USDA's thrifty food plan. Responses received through the end of the comment period, November 13 espressed over 5,200 comments. More than 3,900 of these comments indicated acceptnace of Proposal III which provides a uniform allotment and eligibility standard schedule, much like the one presently in use.

The uniform allotment is based on the value of food required to feed a family of four persons consisting of a man and woman 20 through 54, a child six through eight, and a child nine through 11 years of age. The cost of the diet for this four-person household is the basis for uniform coupon allotments for all households, except for household size adjustments and adjustments which reflect the economics of scale set forth in the thrifty food plan developed by USDA's Agricultural research service (ARS).

The revised economies of scale developed by ARS are more generous for households of six or more persons than those used formerly in all the USDA food plans. Economies of scale are unchanged for households of five persons and less.

The Food stamp act, as amended, directs that coupon allotments be adjusted twice a year to reflect changes in food prices as published by the bureau of labor statistics. Cost of the thrifty food plan in August 1975—the month which sets the January-June 1976 schedule—was $166 for a family of four with school children.

Maximum income eligibility standards, effective Jan. 1, 1976 are: one-person household, $225; two-person household, $307; three-person, $433; four-person, $553; five-person, $660; six-person, $787; seven-person, $873; and eight-person, $993. For each additional household member over eight, add $127 to the eight-person level.

Gordon Olsons Selected For Farmer Award

to allow recovery and regrowth.

About six years ago the Olsons switched their livestock enterprise from a flock of about 200 ewes to the beef cow operation. Parasites became a problem with the sheep after the farm had been used for sheep production for a number of years.

Cattle on the farm now are a mixture of Hereford, Angus and Charolais and Gordon varies the breed of his herd bull according to the stock cow mixture. He is presently feeding out the herd's production of 47 calves to 600-700 pound started feeder weight. They will then go on the market, probably through the local sales barn. Selling locally has provided a good market, Gordon said, and it saves trucking and shrink associated with a longer haul to market.

Gordon bought 240 acres with only 60 acres open in 1947, shortly after completing service with the Merchant Marine in World War II. He married Wilma Zavoral of Goodridge in 1953. They lived on the Iron Range for three years where Gordon was employed in maintenance for Reserve Mining company of Babbitt.

First building on the farm was a 100x32 quonset built in 1955. The house was built in 1959 and that was the first year the family began living on the farm. Another 40x68 quonset was added in 1964, a 44x82 pole building for storage of approximately 8,000 bales of hay in 1973 and a garage and shop the same year. Most of the farm buildings were built by Gordon and his brothers.

Some of the trees on the farm were planted 20 years ago when hauled from the Skime area. The 1,400 trees planted as a windbreak for the cattle were planted only six years ago and have shown good growth.

The farm was expanded to 320 acres with the purchase of 80 acres from D. S. Green in 1963. The 80 acres adjoins the original 240 acres but is separated by a county road.

In addition to his farming enterprise, Gordon has been employed full-time in the maintenance department of Arctic Enterprises for 11 years. He served two years as treasurer of Norden township and was a member of the community committee of the county agricultural stabilization and conservation service. He also serves occasionally as an usher at Trinity Lutheran church.

Wilma is president of the Norden Good Cheer club, a group in the community which was formed some 50 years ago to provide help where needed and has existed through the years. She has also been an adult leader in the City View 4-H club and taught Sunday school for seven years. The children have all been active in 4-H club work, carrying projects in sheep, entomology, clothing, home improvement, rabbits, garden and other areas of activity. They have also been active in school extra-curricular events.

The eldest daughter, Kathy, is a 1973 graduate of Lincoln high school, completed the medical secretarial program at the area vocational-technical institute and is employed at a chiropractic clinic in Grand Forks. Scott, a 1974 Lincoln graduate, is employed by Hoover Construction company of Virginia. Bryan is a senior and Jane is a freshman at Lincoln this year.

At the state SWCD convention the Olsons received a certificate sponsored by the Farmer magazine, citing their accomplishment of being selected conservation farmer of the year. They will receive a plaque from the local district at the district's annual banquet in mid February.

FERDINAND MANDT, (left) manager, and Douglas Olson Jr. sub-station manager at St. Hilaire, representing the Farmers Union Oil company of Thief River Falls, recently attended Showcase '76, CENEX's annual merchandise exposition in Minneapolis. Renee Feldt, Miss CENEX and the official Showcase hostess, welcomed managers and buyers from local cooperatives.

PERFORMANCE as a sales distributor team earned an expense-paid trip to a four-day conference of Shaklee corporation in San Francisco, Calif., recently for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Culkins of Thief River Falls. The 2,000 eligible distributors in attendance earned the trips by increasing their business 20 per cent or more in 1975 and generated more than $40 million in sales during the year. The conference featured workshops, sales meetings and tours of the company's nearby production facilities as well as a Bicentennial banquet.

thusiastically endorsed by many law enforcement agencies throughout the state, even though its effectiveness may be limited. The program is seen as a way to "sell" crime prevention to the public and encourage better police-community relations.

Local insurance firms have also demonstrated support for the program by donating many of the 31 available engravers, which are available at First Northwestern state bank and Northern state bank during regular hours five days a week.

After the valaubles have been marked, with the designated identification numbers, the numbers are filed with the sheriff's department, and when participating residents return the engravers to the banks they are given door stickers with the Operation I.D. emblem.

C. Webster, Of Grygla Dies; Rites Today

Chauncey Webster, 78, of the Grygla community, died unexpectedly on Friday.

Funeral services for Chauncey Webster are being held today (Monday) at 2 p.m., at the Green Funeral chapel with Rev. Leland Uden officiating. Interment will be in the Fort Snelling National cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Leland Korstad, Allen Korstad, Wallace Holthusen, Herbert Holthusen, Clarence Carlson and Robert Zavoral.

Chauncey Webster was born Sept. 18, 1897 at Bluffton to John and Abigail Webster, now deceased. He was baptized at Bluffton in the Methodist church, and attended school and grew to manhood in that area.

In 1915, he moved with the family to the Thorbolt community. He served in the U.S. Army during World War I and following his discharge, he returned to the Grygla community. He also served in World War II. Following his discharge, he was employed by the Army in Alaska for several years.

On Nov. 7, 1950, he was married at Moorhead to Gladys Brooks. They lived in Oregon for two years before returning to this community in 1953 to live in the Grygla area. There he farmed until his retirement in 1970.

He was a member of the VFW, the American Legion, Fraternal Order of Eagles and the Loyal Order of Moose.

He is survived by his wife, a niece and one nephew.

He was preceded in death by four sisters.

Carlson Herd Leads DHIA In Sept. And Oct.

Jerry Hamre, supervisor of the Pennington county dairy herd improvement association, has listed the Mylo Carlson herd at the top of the association for both September and October. Carlson's herd average was 1.85 pounds of butterfat and 43.7 pounds of milk in September and 1.76 pounds of butterfat and 44.2 pounds of milk in October. Gene Nelson's herd was rated second in September with 1.76 pounds of butterfat and 42.8 pounds of milk, and Duane Krohn's herd was second in October with 1.51 pounds butterfat and 40.5 pounds milk.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows, giving the farmer a record of the herd's monthly earning power. If too many dry dows are included in the herd, the average for the month may be low, even though the remaining cows may be producing well.

There were 37 herds on test in September with a total of 1,451 cows in the Pennington association. In October, 34 herds were on test with a total of 1,429 cows.

September's total indicated 25 cows finishing with over 600 pounds of butterfat during the testing year in a 305-day or less lactation. Two of the five Gene Nelson cows over 600 produced the most butterfat with 874 and 807 pounds respectively. Other dairymen with cows over 600 pounds included Mordy Morrision, Darrow Lundeen, Gordon Wetterlund, Chester Gast (four cows), Mylo Carlson, Clarence Swanson (two cows), Marlan Augustine (three cows), Roy Nelson, Martin Hanson (two cows), Duane Vatsaas (two cows) and Knute Nesland (two cows).

Seven cows finished with over 600 pounds butterfat in October. Gene Nelson again led the list with a cow totaling 804 pounds and another finishing with 731 pounds of butterfat. Other cows listed were owned by Myron Erickson, Albert Chruszch, Clarence Swanson (two cows) and Martin Hanson.

SINGING EVANGELISTS Phil and Ruth Ekstedt will present a Gospel concert at the Thief River Falls Assembly of God church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. The Eckstedts, pictured above with their daughter, traveled extensively with a number of other singing groups before their marriage. The public is invited to their program of traditional and contemporary Gospel music.

Barley Day Set Jan. 15 At Grand Forks

Malting barley improvement association has announced the scheduling of the biennial Red River Valley barley day to be held at Grand Forks, N.D., on Jan. 15, 1976.

Program for this one-day meeting will be concerned with the development of new varieties, production practices and the malting and brewing process. Each topic will be reviewed by qualified specialists.

A complimentary noon luncheon will be sponsored by Malting barley improvement association for all in attendance.

All barley producers, elevator managers, barley shippers and others interested in malting barley are invited to attend.

Scout Council Leaders Here For Chat Wed.

Charles Lanham

Scouters from the Penn-Ro-Shall district will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. for a "fireside chat" at St. Bernard's Catholic church in Thief River Falls, according to Forster Davis, field director for the district.

Charles Lanham, new Northern Lights council executive, and Richard McCormick, president of the council, will lead an informal discussion on council operation and finances, council programs and their relationship to packs, troops and posts. Open discussion will follow.

The fireside chats are annual events in each district of the council, with the purpose and intent to give council leaders a chance to hear first hand any comments, suggestions and happenings in each district, Davis said.

Debating Skating

Could it be possible that in Thief River Falls—this hinterland hotbed of hockey—someone dares to expound the heresy that perhaps pushing a puck doesn't have to be the only game in town? So it would seem, according to a letter presented to the city park and recreation board last week.

The letter, prepared and presented by the community's newly-formed and abundantly active recreational skating association, asks some very pointed questions about total use of community ice facilities. It is expected some of these questions will be answered at a special meeting of the park and recreation board next Monday, December 15, at 7 p.m. in the city auditorium. We suspect there will be a lot of people there to hear those answers.

What are the questions? How about: "Why does hockey have primary accessibility to prime time hours in the old arena, outside rinks and new arena?" or "Why do all skaters pay for all facilities by way of city taxes, school taxes and fees, yet hockey groups apparently have monopoly choice, use and control of all ice facilities?"

The association defines prime time as 3:30 to 10 p.m. on school days, 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Saturdays and noon to 10 p.m. on Sundays. A tabulation made by the association for November of this year through March of 1976 shows scheduled prime time in the sports arena devoted 76.2 per cent (787 hours) for hockey and 23.8 per cent (226 hours) for all other use.

The break-down listed is as follows: High school hockey, 226 hours; youth hockey, 176 hours; Thief River Falls amateur hockey association (TRFAHA), 289 hours; recreational skating, 190½ hours; public skating, 52 hours; Northland community college hockey, 83 hours; men's city league hockey, 13 hours; and day care center, three hours.

Sounds like the recreational skating association is a subversive group determined to undermine an entrenched sport, doesn't it? It must be made up of a bunch of anti-hockey fanatics intent on destroying a traditional game which is synonymous with Thief River Falls. What have they got against hockey, anyway?

Well, the members of the association we have talked to don't impress us as being anti-anything. They seem more concerned about being pro-public and seeing to it that the people get a little more personal return on their investment.

The sports arena cost about $625,000 to build and equip—give or take a few thousand dollars. General obligation bonds in the amount of $484,000 were sold to finance most of the cost. Let's forget about wondering where the other $141,000 came from; that's past history.

Principal and interest payments on the $484,000 issue approximate $40,000 per year over the 20-year repayment period, ending in 1989. Add annual maintenance and operational costs to that and the total would probably come to an expense of $100,000 a year. That's a lot of money, but the arena is a first class facility for a community of this size. It should be used to the fullest extent to realize the greatest return on the investment.

What the recreational skating group appears to be asking is whether the current utilization factor for hockey is in the greatest public interest. It is a legitimate question which deserves a rational answer.

We recognize that it is considerably easier to advocate a policy of sharing when someone else has the apple. But it should also be evident from whose orchard that apple was picked, and sharing should not be limited only to the peeling and core.

Hockey provides an immense amount of activity as participants or spectators for people of all ages. It helps to shorten the winters, it aids in physical development of some youngsters, it adds to the total local entertainment picture. The present arena would not exist if it was not for hockey. Coincidentally, however, it would not be needed in its present form if not for hockey.

The recreational skating program has a total enrollment of 1,400 in its first year and 580 people currently taking Thursday skating lessons. Those are also impressive numbers.

An apparently amicable arrangement for scheduling to mutual satisfaction earlier this year seems to have broken down recently. The pre-emption of ice time on all indoor and outdoor ice facilities for hockey touched off the controversy which resulted in the letter in question.

We don't believe that any individuals or groups need to feel threatened by an effort to best utilize costly facilities for the benefit of most people. Nobody is demanding a change in philosophy of programs, even if the present hockey program has not produced a region 8 champion since 1960. The thrust of the effort is summed up in the last two paragraphs of the letter to the park and recreation board:

"We request that the park board and-or city council resolve the scheduling problems of the sports arena, also old arena and outdoor rinks for the months of January, February and March of 1976. In our opinion the arena scheduling committee has not carried out its function to arrange acceptable scheduling.

"We, the recreational skating committee, are pleased and encouraged by the participation and enjoyment in the recreational skating program. We see fun and laughter, the learning of new skills and total family involvement on family skating nights. Your continued support and enthusiasm for recreational skating are appreciated."

For a first-hand view, attend the meeting next Monday at 7 p.m. in the city auditorium.

Laws Beget Laws

A Montana newspaper editor probably had his tongue planted firmly in cheek when he commented about a bill to legalize prostitution being considered in the Montana Legislature. Here's what he wrote:

It doesn't matter whether the legislature meets annually or biennially or, for that matter, three times a year. The lawmakers will always find more than enough to do. One reason is that legislation generates legislation. A law passed this year will have to be corrected, amended or otherwise modified . . . even repealed . . .next year.

Often, laws are passed which produce effects the sponsors didn't anticipate, and those effects have to be dealt with later. A good example is the proposal to legalize prostitution, introduced by a Billings legislator. We can all thank our lucky stars the bill was killed.

Had the measure passed, the next legislative session would have seen a flood of bills designed to make prostitution a more perfect profession. Among the first would be proposals to set up complicated rate structures with a concurrent drive to place brothels under the jurisdiction of the Public Service commission.

Questions of advertising regulation would arise. Some senator would seek to attach a presumption of malice to the transmittal of venereal disease. Environmentalists would insist on the sporting house siting act, designed to keep the houses out of the scenic areas (or in the scenic areas, we're not sure).

Other environmentalists would oppose the houses altogether on the grounds they constitute pollution. The other side would say they provide jobs.

The civil rights people would appear to demand that the houses be kept free of discrimination by race and, we're afraid, by sex, too. Senior citizens would lobby to make sure no lady is deprived of her job on account of age. Women's lib groups would insist on measures to protect the dignity of the prostitute. Licensing and taxation proposals would occupy committees endlessly.

Naturally, labor would sponsor bills to establish rules for job safety, hours and piecework. There would be the question of union houses and the right to strike. Vacation rights, health insurance and pension benefits would have to be settled.

Consumer groups would argue for refund provisions. Welfare groups would argue for free fun provisions.

The only thing he missed was the likelihood of a full-scale legislative investigation into the quality of the program.

Borrowed Nonsense

"There you are, dear," said the little wife, putting a plate before her husband, "just the way you'd better like it."

Asked why it was no problem to get money from his father while other students found it difficult, a college freshman replied, "it's a snap, I just threaten to come home."

A used car dealer posted a sign reading, "Guaranteed used cars."

When asked for details of the guarantee, he said, "It means just what it says, I guarantee every one of these cars has been used."

Two small boys were waiting to cross a road in heavy traffic. One said, "Come on, let's go."

"No," said the other. "Let's wait for an empty space to come along."

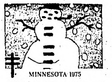
Former Local Girl Designs Christmas Seal



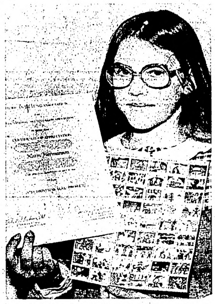
This year's edition of Christmas seals, mailed to potential contributors throughout the nation by the American Lung association, includes a seal designed by a former Thief River Falls girl.

Karin Hermansen, 13, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Louis Hermansen of Roseau, drew the white snowman on a blue background while a student of Mrs. Sheila Olson in the sixth grade at Roseau. Mrs. Olson submitted the entry to the state contest and it was selected as the state winner for this year. Karin is now in the eighth grade.

Rev. and Mrs. Hermansen and family lived in Thief River Falls from August of 1969 through December of 1972 while he was assistant pastor at Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Hermansen is now pastor of Messiah Lutheran church at Roseau.

The Christmas seals feature a drawing by a student from each of the states in the union. Karin learned about the state award from Roseau high school principal Thoralf Melby who had been informed by telephone from the state lung association.

A letter received by Karin from Dorothy Berg, managing director of the state organization, stated in part: "Please accept this certificate of appreciation from the American Lung association with our gratitude also. The art work chosen by the national committee is represented in the sheet of seals we have enclosed. I hope your interest in the work of Christmas seals will continue."



STATE WINNER of the Christmas seal design contest sponsored by the state lung association was Karin Hermansen, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Louis Hermansen of Roseau and formerly of Thief River Falls. The stamp design is also shown. Picture of Karin is provided through the courtesy of the Roseau Times-Region.

Food, Fiber Industry Faces Unsure Future

Facing an uncertain future, the largest segment of Minnesota's economy generates 40 per cent of the state's wealth, says a Minnesota scientist.

That segment is Minnesota's food and fiber industries. They generate 30 per cent of the jobs and 25 per cent of the personal income of Minnesotans, says Keith Huston, director of the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station.

Yet, this source of wealth is subject to what the winds will bring:

"No other segment is so vulnerable to unpredictable catastrophes caused by flood, drought, blizzard, pests or disease," points out Huston.

"Moreover, no other segment of the economy so profoundly affects the living standards of Minnesotans, particularly those with modest incomes."

McCormick Is New Boy Scout Council Head

Richard D. McCormick, vice president and chief executive officer of Northwestern Bell telephone company in North Dakota, was elected recently by the membership of the Northern Lights council, Boy Scouts of America as president of the council for 1976.

The council includes the entire state of North Dakota, 18 counties in Minnesota and two counties in South Dakota and Montana. As president of the scout council, McCormick will be responsible for giving leadership to a scouting membership of 16,000 youth, and 6,000 adult leaders in over 700 units.

McCormick has been active with the Northern Lights council executive board during the past year, serving as public relations chairman for the 1975 sustaining membership enrollment.

E. Grand Forks AVTI Offers 6-Week Course

East Grand Forks area vocational-technical institute will offer a six-week geriatric assistant training program starting on Jan. 5, 1976. Students completing the program will have the skills to obtain employment in nursing homes and long term care facilities. They would also be qualified to work in the private home setting and care for the elderly person or younger person with physical limitations or disabilities.

The geriatric assistant will usually work under the supervision and advice of either a registered nurse or a physician. Applicants must have a sincere interest in working with older persons or persons with physical disabilities who require assistance in their everyday activities.

The new program was developed to meet the employment needs of local nursing homes. The curriculum was developed with the assistance of an advisory committee. Students will receive four weeks of instruction at the institute and two weeks of a supervised internship at an area nursing home.

Applications and further information can be obtained by writing or calling the East Grand Forks Area vocational technical institute, East Grand Forks, 56721, (218) 773-3441.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

There has been a lot of conversation lately concerning hockey and recreational skating. Some people think our present ice facilities cannot handle both. Others feel with cooperation from those involved, we can find time for everybody interested in skating.

We would appreciate it very much if somebody could and would answer the following questions:

(1) Who is responsible for scheduling ice time? (a) Is it up to the park board? (b) Is it up to the park board director? (c) Is it up to the city council? (d) Who?

(2) Recreational skating is not a new program in Thief River Falls. Several people have unsuccessfully tried to get a program started. Why have these attempts been unsuccessful? (a) Lack of interest from the public? (b) Lack of ice or prime ice time? (c) Too expensive? (d) Other reasons?

(3) Is it true that the school district pays twenty thousand dollars for hockey ice time each year?

(4) What about girls interested in skating—does the school district pay for their skating abilities to be developed?

(5) Is there a Minnesota state law demanding equality for boys and girls in high school sports? If so, is it being obeyed here in Thief River Falls?

(6) If I want to complain, where do I direct my complaint? (a) School board? (b) School superintendent? (c) city council? (d) Who?

Skating is one of the few winter sports to be enjoyed by young and old. Let's get together, hockey and recreational skaters, and share the ice.

Sincerely,
Gerri Howe

IRS Undelivered Refund Checks List Announced

Ten area residents, including five from Thief River Falls, have been listed among 1,400 Minnesotans who have undelivered refund or rebate checks waiting for them, according to C. Dudley Switzer, IRS district director.

The city residents on the list include Nita Hanson, Richard L. Johnson, Albert M. Mostrum, Mark S. Norenberg and Michael Skinner. Four Newfolden residents were listed including Harold and Olga Hanson, Oscar M. Hanson, Ben B. Bengtson, and Joseph and Bertha Tunheim. Florek P. Lelito of Red Lake Falls was also listed.

According to Switzer, the most common reason for an undelivered check is the taxpayer has moved and left no forwarding address with the post office. Of the 1,439 checks, $5,423 is the largest amount, $1.03 is the smallest, and the total amount is $222,802.80 Switzer said.

Taxpayers who believe they are due an undelivered refund or rebate check are asked to call or visit the nearest IRS office. The toll-free number from anywhere in the state is 1-800-652-9062.

Switzer added that for all inquiries to the IRS, the person should be prepared to provide his name and address as it appears on the return, social security number, and the type of tax form filed.

Football Conference Talks

Football conference affiliations were discussed again last week when representatives from the Northwest and Mid-State conferences met at Detroit Lakes.

Possibilities of expansion, reduction or merger of both leagues were the topics of conversations at the Wednesday meeting attended by representatives from each of the seven Mid-State members and by Jim Sims of Thief River Falls and Les Drechsel of Crookston from the Northwest Conference.

Both conferences may lose members in the near future since Fergus Falls of the Northwest Conference and Little Falls of the Mid-State Conference have been mentioned as possible teams in a newly created league that would also feature Alexandria, Brainerd, St. Cloud Apollo, St. Cloud Tech, Willmar, Moorhead, Elk River and Cambridge.

The proposed new conference would consist entirely of Class AA football schools. Right now Fergus Falls and Little Falls are Class AA size, but are regarded as Class A schools because the Minnesota State High School League determines class status by the average football conference enrollment.

There has also been some pressure felt from MSHSL officials to prevent Class AA size schools from playing in Class A size football conferences. In past years actual Class AA size schools have enjoyed success participating in the MSHSL state football playoffs as members of Class A conferences. Burnsville in 1972 and Alexandria in 1974 were both Class A state champions although their enrollment exceeds the Class A standard.

Despite last week's meeting, and the possibility of additional talks in the near future, new conference ties for Thief River Falls and the rest of the Northwest or Mid-State conferences are purely speculation at this time.

"Very honestly, things seem very cool at this time," said Sims of possible conference changes. "There are a lot of if's involved. A lot of different ideas were discussed, but everything is strictly in the talking stages."

At the earliest, said Sims, conference changes would not be implemented before the 1977 season.

Peterson On MSU Junior Varsity

Wayne Peterson, a 1975 Lincoln high school graduate, is currently a member of the Montana State University junior varsity basketball team in Bozeman, Mont.

Montana State sports information director Ken Nicholson reported, "It appears Wayne will be a member of the junior varsity team (this year). He may, however, see some action with the varsity later in the season."

Bobcat head coach Rich Juarez says that Wayne is a "good perimeter shooter, sound fundamentally," in the MSU basketball program.

Peterson, a 6-10 freshman, has been playing behind 6-8 senior Daryl Ross, a two-year letterman, and 6-11 junior Bruce Smith, a one-year letterman.

Peterson was a two-time-all-conference pick and an all-state selection as a senior with the Prowlers when he averaged 18 points, 12 rebounds and five blocked shots per game.

The Montana State junior varsity plays a 16-game schedule, said Nicholson.

Miscellaneous

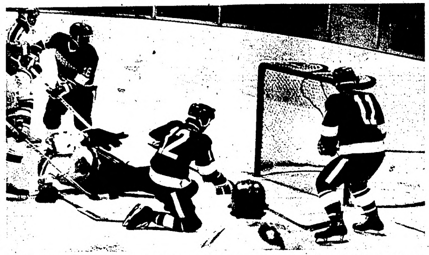
+Former Region Eight hockey players currently skating with the Concordia College hockey team in Moorhead include senior goalie Dave Morinville (Moorhead), sophomore defenseman Lew Erickson (Roseau), freshman wing Dave Perry (Moorhead) and freshman goalie Jim Froeber (Crookston).



GRAND FORKS Red River center Jeff Foss scored the second of his three goals on this play at the start of the second period of Friday's Thief River Falls-Red River hockey game in the sports arena. Foss (12) tapped in an uncovered rebound just 52 seconds into the stanza for a momentary 4-1 Roughrider lead. Prowler goalie Terry Sullivan and teammates Jeff Lindquist, Bill Olson and Bob Forberg watched the puck go into the net along with Red River's Paul Velaski.

Fourth Quarter Surge Sparks Prowlers Past Rockets 67-46

Thief River Falls broke open a close ball game by scoring 16 straight points at the end of the fourth quarter Saturday as the Prowlers turned back stubborn Kennedy by a 67-46 count in a high school basketball game in the Lincoln high school gym.

The game was a spirited five-point affair, 51-46 with 5:15 remaining, when Thief River Falls' late-game surge buried the underdog Rockets.

Reserve center Dave Poole started the outburst with a close-in bucket. Brian Peterson was left unattended under the Prowler basket for another two-pointer and Poole followed with a remarkable reverse lay-up under heavy guard, pushing the score to 57-46.

Prowler guards Terry Dyrdal and Don Forney then stole the spotlight to finish the unexpected rout. Forney pickpocketed a Kennedy ball handler and went in for an easy fast break lay-up. Dyrdal dropped in a driving lay-up and Forney finished the game with six straight points—a driving lay-up, two free throws and a running short jump shot.

First year Thief River Falls head coach Glenn Peters was hard pressed to explain his team's fourth quarter success. "Maybe we were in better shape," he offered. "It looked like they were tired at the end when we started running."

Thief River Falls looked like it was going to make short work of Kennedy at the start of the game when Dyrdal scored six straight points to spark a 12-point burst that brought the Prowlers from behind and put them ahead 16-6 with 45 seconds in the first quarter.

Back-to-back close range buckets by Jeff Neelan gave the Prowlers their biggest lead until the final buzzer, 20-7, with eight seconds left. Kennedy's Rich Deere canned a long jumper at the horn, though, for a 20-9 first quarter score.

The scrappy Rockets battled back into contention in the second quarter behind sophomore forward Barry Langen to pull within 23-19 midway through the period. Langen scored three straight points and guards Brent Bowman and Mark Lundberg hit from the floor in a seven-point Kennedy surge.

Thief River Falls retained its composure, however, and went into the lockerroom with a 34-27 halftime advantage.

Turnover and foul problems hampered both teams in the second half when the starry Bowman twisted inside for a driving lay-up and a tight 45-42 ball game with 1:09 remaining in the third quarter. Poole made his presence felt for the first time, though, by hitting a short turnaround hook shot just before the buzzer to give the Prowlers a 47-42 edge heading into the final quarter.

"I'm really pleased with the kids," praised Peters. "I think they did a tremendous job. Kennedy is not a bad ball club."

Dyrdal led a trio of Prowler double figure scorers with 15 points. John Larson played a strong game at a forward and hit 13 points before fouling out midway through the third quarter. Forney added 12 points. In addition, Forney handed out seven assists and Dyrdal was credited with five. Bowmann and Deere both finished with 14 points for the Rockets.

Thief River Falls shot 48 per cent from the field, hitting 28 of 58 attempts. Kennedy shot at 40 per cent clip, making 19 of 48 tries. Thief River Falls made 11 of 18 free throw attempts while Kennedy sank eight of 16 gift tosses. Thief River Falls finished with a 33-26 rebound edge and Kennedy topped the turnover charts 20-12.

Thief River Falls, 2-0 for the year, plays at Mahnomen Friday.

TRF Swimmers Outlast Fargo South By 89-82

Thief River Falls turned back an upset challenge from Fargo South Saturday as the Prowlers outlasted the Bruins 89-82 in a dual swim meet in the Franklin middle school pool.

Needing a win in the day's final event to earn its second straight win of the 1975-76 season, Thief River Falls' 400-yard freestyle relay team of Jim Harris, Greg Omdahl, Dan Cork and Dan Heleren easily accomplished that feat in a 3:42.6 effort, a whopping 10-second win over South's second place foursome.

Thief River Falls led only 79-78 heading into the final race, but the win assured the Prowlers of an unbeaten record heading into an early season clash with North Central Section power Brainerd next week. The two teams meet Tues., Dec. 16, at Brainerd. First, however, Thief River Falls will take part in an invitational meet at Fosston Saturday starting at 12 noon.

Heleren and Mark Storhaug were both double event winners for the Prowlers against Fargo South and both swimmers were also member of winning relay teams. Heleren won the 200-yard freestyle in 2:02.0 and took the 100-yard freestyle in 54.5. He was also a member of the meet-clinching 400-yard freestyle relay team. Storhaug won the 200-yard individual medley in 2:16 and captured the 500-yard freestyle in 5:26.3. He teamed with Cork, Jeff Carter and Omdahl to win the meet-opening 200-yard medley relay in 1:50.1.

Lake Region Is At Northland Tonight, 7:30

Northland community college had its 23-game home court winning streak snapped by an 68-64 overtime loss to the University of North Dakota junior varsity Thursday, but the Northmen will have an opportunity to start another win string tonight (Monday) when Lake Region junior college visits Northland for a 7:30 p.m. game.

A win over Lake Region won't come easy, though. The Royals from Devils Lake are a perennial North Dakota junior college basketball power. Nick Bradford, a smooth 6-4 sophomore forward from Detroit stars for Lake Region.

Northland, 2-1 for the year, will meet the North Dakota junior varsity again Saturday in Grand Forks at 5:30 p.m.

Riders Tip TRF 6-5 In Overtime

Grand Forks Red River broke loose for a clean three-man breakaway to score a tie-breaking goal with just 15 seconds left in an eight-minute sudden death overtime period Friday to edge Thief River Falls 6-5 in a wild high school hockey game in the sports arena.

Senior center Jeff Foss scored the game winner, notching the prestigious hat trick in the process. Although Foss came down ice with a pair of teammates, he did all the work himself as he intercepted a Thief River Falls breakout pass and beat Prowler goalie Terry Sullivan on the short, stick side, hitting the lower right corner of the net.

Thief River Falls opened the scoring in the wide-open game when a Jeff Lindquist close-range wrist shot trickled past Red River goalie Scott Anderson just 2:53 into the first period.

Red River bounced back with three unanswered goals, however, to take a 3-1 lead into the first intermission. Jim Clague rifled a 20-foot slap shot past Sullivan at 4:46; Jim Thorsen was left unattended in front of Sullivan for a tip-in at 7:60; and Foss tapped in an unattended rebound at the 14-minute mark.

The Roughriders opened a gapping 4-1 lead just 52 seconds into the second period when Paul Tupa converted another loosely played rebound.

Thief River Falls sophomore Doug Dallmann then took over as he scored three straight goals in a 6:49 span to tie things up 4-4. Dallmann scored his first goal just 21 seconds after Tupa scored when his sharp angle shot from near the boards eluded Anderson. A booming slap shot from the right point by Dallmann on a Prowler power play 2:15 later made it a 4-3 game. Dallmann scored the equalizer with a long, straightaway rising wrist shot at 8:02. Mike Jury and Tim Loeffler earned assists on the Dallmann goals.

Jim Tupa of the Roughriders snapped the tie just 1:37 into the third period with a well placed 20-foot wrist shot.

Thief River Falls didn't get the tying goal until 11:10 had elapsed in the third period. Bob Forberg tied it for the Prowlers and ignited the sports arena crowd by spinning and wacking in a slow rolling 12-foot backhand than handcuffed Anderson.

UND JV Snaps Northland Win Streak In Overtime

University of North Dakota junior varsity recovered from a 42-32 halftime deficit to edge Northland community college 68-64 in an overtime basketball game played Thursday at Northland.

The loss snapped Northland's 23-game home court winning streak as the Northmen lost their first regular season basketball game since the 1973-74 season.

Northland appeared to take command of the game late in the first half when the Northmen pieced together an impressive offensive outburst that netted 10 straight points in a 2:19 span, breaking open a tightly played contest.

Thief River Falls freshman Dallas Kemmer sparked the outburst. He sank two free throws to start the surge with 6:04 remaining. Seconds later he converted a dazzling two-one-one fast break with teammate Bill Gusa to put Northland ahead 27-24, snapping a unique streak of basket-swapping and lead-changing between the two teams that went on for 17 buckets and eight minutes.

Kemmer then shook himself free for an easy bucket underneath, Bill Whitney dropped in a tough short base line jumper in heavy traffic and Kemmer completed a three-point play for a 33-24 game with 3:45 left.

Northland went on to build a pair of 11 point leads before settling for a 42-32 halftime cushion.

North Dakota dominated most of the second half action, however as Northland suffered from cool shooting and even cooler rebounding efforts.

The Sioux pulled even on several occasions after intermission but never did gain the lead. John Stewart's long jump shot with 1:14 remaining tied the game for the last time 62-62.

North Dakota had a chance to win the game in the waning seconds of regulation time, but Whitney blocked a close-in baseline jump shot by Jerry Landblom with three seconds left.

North Dakota grabbed its first lead since midway through the first half at the outset of the five-minute overtime, though, and never relinquished the advantage.

High scoring 6-8 postman Dave Wahlers drilled a 10-foot jump shot nearly two minutes into the extra period to put the Sioux ahead 64-62. Moments later Landblom picked off an inbounds pass and raced downcourt for an uncontested lay-up.

Preston Curtis canned a long jump shot to pull Northland back to within 66-64 with 2:07 remaining, but North Dakota then proceeded to hold onto the ball for the next 1:54 before Stewart made the first of a bonus free throw situation for a 67-64 edge with just 13 seconds left.

A jump ball call on rebound off Stewart's second shot found the Sioux controlling the tip and Jay Gibson iced the game with a free throw with only four seconds to go.

Northland coach Chet Engelman found both good and bad points in his team's play. "We played a super first half," said Engelman. "And overall, our defense wasn't bad. We just died offensively in the second half. The offensive boards killed us in the second half."

Wahlers pumped in 28 points for North Dakota, scoring 20 in the first half to keep his team within reach of the Northmen. Gibson and Emery Koenig, another 6-8 pivotman, added 12 points apiece. Nine different Northmen scored, with Curtis getting 11 and Joe Brown and Whitney 10 apiece.

Northland shot 36 per cent from the field, hitting 28 of 78 shots. North Dakota shot a sizzling 51 per cent on 30 of 59. Wahlers alone hit 13 of 15 field goal tries. Northland made eight of 13 shots from the free throw line while North Dakota sank eight of 18 gift tosses. North Dakota held a 47-45 rebound edge and the Sioux also topped the turnover charts 29-22.

"We did a nice job offensively, but we quit going to the boards," sighed Engelman.

PROWLER TEAMMATES JEFF Neelan (53) and John Larson (51) combined to block this field goal attempt by the Rickets' Barry Langen during Saturday night's Thief River Falls-Kennedy basketball game in the Lincoln gym. Both Prowler performers later fouled out of the game; but not before combining for 23 points as Thief River Falls claimed a 67-46 decision.

Hockey B Squad Tips Red River By 4-3 Score

Lincoln high school junior varsity hockey team won its second game of the 1975-76 season Friday with a 4-3 win over Grand Forks Red River.

Thief River Falls trailed 1-0 after one period but gained a 2-2 second period tie on goals by Paul Phelps and Jeff Kosel. Third period goals by Mike Olson and Roger Roadfelt wrapped up the decision.

Thief River Falls finished with a slight 25-24 shots-on-goal edge. Keith Daley worked the Lincoln nets.

Northland Will Organize Cross Country Skiing

Jerry Winans, instructor of the cross-country skiing class at Northland community college, is interested in organizing a cross-country ski club for area ski enthusiasts.

The objective for such an organization is fellowship, planning ski outings, inviting outside authorities on skiing to speak to club members and the planning of competition. The club will be open to both men and women.

An organizational meeting will be held at Northland Tues., Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the college auditorium.

Organization of a ski club will depend on the number of people who attend the first meeting.

All Four Area Girls' Quints Post Victories

All four area girls' high school basketball teams were winners during a busy Thursday night schedule.

Grygla edged Middle River 30-28, Goodridge defeated East Grand Forks Sacred Heart 48-30, Marshall County Central outlasted Badger 51-40 and Plummer crushed Climax 46-19 Thursday.

Newfolden came back to beat Warroad 41-27 Saturday to complete the week's schedule.

Grygla 30, M.R. 28

LeAnn Holte's two free throws with about 20 seconds remaining snapped a 28-28 tie and provided Grygla with a thrilling 30-28 win at Middle River.

Grygla led 14-12 at the first quarter stop, but Middle River went ahead 20-18 at halftime and the Skippers enjoyed a 24-20 edge going into the final quarter.

Teresa Johnson was the game's high scorer for Middle River with 10 points. Bev Byklum scored eight points for Grygla.

Grygla, 1-2 for the year, is scheduled to travel to Warroad tonight (Monday). The Eagles will host Baudette Thursday.

Goodridge 48, S.H. 30

Georgine Troska poured in 19 points to spark Goodridge to a 48-30 win over visiting East Grand Forks Sacred Heart.

The Huskies jumped out to an 18-2 first quarter lead and were never threatened. Goodridge led 27-16 at halftime and enjoyed a 48-18 third quarter cushion.

Cheryl Fontaine and Bev Steinhaf both scored 13 points to account for 26 of the loser's 30 points.

Goodridge, 2-0 for the year, is scheduled to host Stephen tonight (Monday) before visiting Climax Thursday.

MCC 51, Badger 40

Three Newfolden scorers reached double figures as Marshall County Central beat Badger 51-40.

Diane Anderson paced the Nordics with 16 points while Pam Odberg added 13 and Sue Peters scored 10. Patty Hammer topped the Badger scoring charge with 12 points.

Newfolden led at every quarter stop, 18-5, 26-19 and 36-30 enroute to its third straight win.

The Nordics are scheduled to host Middle River tonight (Monday).

Plummer 46, Climax 19

Plummer jumped out to a 20-1 first quarter lead and coasted past Climax 46-19.

Janet Kvasager led a trio of Plummer double figure scorers with 14 points while Donna Peterson added 13 and Joyce Baune scored 12.

Plummer will try to improve its 1-1 season record tonight (Monday) when the Cardinals travel to Erskine. Plummer plays at Stephen Thursday.

MCC 41, Warroad 27

Marshall County Central recovered from an 8-3 first quarter deficit to beat Warroad 41-27 Saturday.

Newfolden went ahead 17-16 at halftime and owned a 27-23 third quarter edge.

Three Nordic scorers reached double figures as Pam Odberg scored 15 points, Diane Anderson 11 and Colleen Stokke 10.

Lose To RLF 35-24

Lincoln Girls Host Crookston, Spuds

Lincoln high school girls' basketball team, smarting from three straight season-opening losses, faces the unenviable task of playing the area's top two ball clubs this week when the Prowlers go against the likes of Crookston and Moorhead.

Both games will be played in the Lincoln high school gym. Crookston is scheduled to be here tonight (Monday) and Moorhead will appear here Thursday. Game times both nights will be 7:30 p.m. A year ago the Pirates and Spuds posted identical 17-2 won-lost records and those marks were not expected to be altered to any great degree this winter.

Red Lake Falls handed Thief River Falls its third loss in as many starts Thursday when the Eagles beat the visiting Prowlers 35-24.

Red Lake Falls led 7-4 at the first quarter break, pulled away to a 14-8 halftime advantage and expanded the difference to 28-12 at the end of the third quarter.

"In some respect we've improved our play," pointed out Prowler coach Judy Charlebois, "but the kids weren't driving toward the basket when the lane was open."

Val Elleson paced Red Lake Falls with a game-high 17 points. Cheri Onkka countered with 10 points for the Prowlers.

Red Lake Falls whipped Thief River Falls 34-12 in the junior varsity game. The Prowler B squad, 1-2 for the year, will play 5:45 p.m. preliminary games against Crookston and Moorhead this week.

UND JV Sextet Tops Northland 17-4 And 10-4

Northland community college hockey team initiated its 1975-76 season, but did not officially open the campaign last week with a two-game scrimmage series against the University of North Dakota junior varsity.

Northland dropped both ends of the home-and-away series 17-4 and 10-4 Wednesday and Thursday.

"We made a lot of mental errors," pointed out new Northland coach Curt Geatz. "But I'm pleased with the improvement we made from one night to the next. We showed a lot more confidence and did a lot more things right in the second game."

Despite the scores, Geatz had special praise for Northland freshman goalie Tim Erickson. "I thought he made some tremendous saves for us even though he didn't have much help in front of him," said Geatz.

"Face it," said Geatz, "they're big time. Even if they are the junior varsity, they're only a step away from playing in the WCHA."

Northland will officially open its belated 1975-76 season this weekend when the Northmen tackle Mesabi in an MJCAA weekend series. Northland and Mesabi meet Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Hoyt Lakes then tangle Sunday at 6 p.m. at Virginia.

LHS Skaters, Wrestlers To Face Bemidji

Lincoln high school athletic teams will face a pair of Bemidji squads tomorrow (Tuesday) to highlight the area early week sports schedule.

Coach Ed Krystosek's Prowler wrestlers will host their Lumberjack counterparts in a 7:30 p.m. match in the Lincoln gym.

Coach Bill McGann's Prowler hockey team will travel to Bemidji to face the Lumberjacks in an 8 p.m. game in the Bemidji State College arena.

LHS Freshmen Beat Newfolden By 49-33 Score

Lincoln high school freshman basketball team increased its 1975-76 season record to 2-0 Friday with a 49-33 win over visiting Marshall County Central high school.

Thief River Falls led 20-15 at halftime, breaking the game open after intermission as Keith Christianson scored 14 points and Jeff Oseid added 12.

Coach Myron Peterson's freshmen will travel to Mahnomen for a 4:30 p.m. game Friday.

Nelson Wins Sioux Invitational Title

Thief River Falls senior Scott Nelson was an individual champion Saturday as the Lincoln high school wrestling team took part in the annual Sioux invitational meet at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

Nelson, wrestling at 119 pounds, was the only Prowler winner in the 10-team meet. Nelson edged Rick Ronestadt of Larimore 3-2, pinned Doug Thomas of East Grand Forks Sacred Heart in 3:28 and stopped Mark Fayatte of Grand Forks Central in 5:21 in the championship match.

Grand Forks Red River won the meet's team title with 137½ points. Central was second with 105½ points, followed by Fertile with 103, Warren 85, Thief River Falls 84, Langdon 75½, Cavalier 63, Sacred Heart 51½, Rugby 48½ and Larimore 21½.

Only one other Prowler wrestler advanced into Saturday's finals. Dan Hallstrom beat Mark Delisle of Sacred Heart and Keith Grant of Cavalier, but lost an 11-5 overtime decision to Brian Goarnean of Central in the title bout.

Four Thief River Falls wrestlers placed third in their respective weight classes, including Randy Ayers at 98 pounds, Lee Furuseth at 105, Larry Swanson at 132 and Duane Gonsorowski at 145.

Ayers lost to Bruce Moser of Fertile, but bounced back to beat Tim Carr of Langdon. Furuseth defeated Jon Karominis of Larimore and Doug Wolf of Rugby, lost to John Schumaker of Red River but beat Jim Bushue of Central. Swanson decisioned Rick Cadreau of Sacred Heart, lost to Eric Ellegard of Fertile and beat Mike Patrick of Red River. Gonsorowski lost to Brad Patch of Central, but then pinned three straight opponents—Jim Halvorseth of Larimore, Tom Wattson of Cavalier and Kelly Forester of Warren.

The rest of the Prowler results are as follows: 112—Stuart Mickelson lost to Glen Filipi of Red River twice.

138—Don Park lost to Jerry Koan, Langdon; lost to Randy Askew, Cavalier.

155—Dale Furuseth lost to Steve Griffin, Red River; lost to John Carr, Sacred Heart.

167—Randy Olson lost to Vince Anderson, Larimore; lost to Bill Sand, Langdon.

180—Stuart Peterson lost to George Bowman, Red River; lost to Jeff Lull, Cavalier.

Heavyweight—Neil Johnson lost to Tim McMahnon, Sacred Heart; lost to Mike Gilberg, Red River.

Sacred Heart Tops Goodridge Cagers 42-35

Goodridge high school will open its 1975-76 home basketball season tomorrow (Tuesday) when the Huskies host area rival Plummer.

Coach Gary Hamilton's Huskies opened the year with a pair of road game losses last week. Goodridge bowed 43-38 at Newfolden Tuesday and then dropped a 42-35 decision at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart Friday.

Sacred Heart jumped out to a 13-4 first quarter lead and held the Huskies at bay the rest of the game. The Eagles led 22-15 at halftime and enjoyed a 36-25 advantage at the third quarter break.

Daryl Marek scored 14 points and Greg Kaiser added 13 for Sacred Heart. Jim Johnson of Goodridge was the game's high scorer with 15 points, but no other Huskies were double figure scorers.

Notice of Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That default has occurred in the conditions of that certain mortgage, dated the 12th day of September, 1968, executed by Norman L. Helle and Jeanette J. Helle, husband and wife, as mortgagors to First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Thief River Falls as mortgagee, filed for record in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the County of Pennington, and State of Minnesota, on the 13th day of September, 1968, at 2:00 o'clock P.M., and recorded in Book 108 of Mortgage Records, page 547, the original principal amount secured by said mortgage being $7,000.00; that no action or proceeding has been instituted at law to recover the debt secured by said mortgage, or any part thereof, that there is due and claimed to be due upon said mortgage, including interest to date hereof, the sum of Five Thousand Sixty-two and 09-100 DOLLARS, ($5,062.09), and that pursuant to the power of sale therein contained, said mortgage will be foreclosed and the tract of land lying and being in the County of Pennington, State of Minnesota, described as follows, to-wit:

Lots Forty-one (41) and Forty-two (42) in Eshelby's Rearrangement of Smiley's addition to Fairfield, according to the recorded plat thereof, will be sold by the sheriff of said county at public auction on the 14th day of January, 1976, at 10:00 o'clock A.M., at the front door of the Courthouse in the City of Thief River Falls in said county and state, to pay the debt then secured by said mortgage and taxes, if any, on said premises and the costs and disbursements allowed by law. The time allowed by law for redemption by the mortgagors, their personal representatives or assigns is six months from the date of said sale.

Dated November 28th, 1975.

Notice

The Agassiz and Central Flyway Health Planning Councils have merged and jointly developed a formal draft application, in accordance with prescribed procedures under P.L. 93-641, to be designated the formal bi-state Health Systems Agency for Governor's Planning Regions I and II in Northwest Minnesota and Governor's Planning Regions III and IV in North Dakota. Consistent with this effort a Formal Public Meeting will be held as noted: December 19, 1975, 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. (additional time as needed), Westward Ho, Grand Forks, North Dakota.

The Public meeting is both an educational activity and an opportunity for citizen input into the application. First, the impact of Public Law 93-641, "National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974", on the health care delivery system of this region will be explained. Secondly, the meeting will provide an opportunity for all interested organizations and individuals to comment on and affect the formal application. Citizens are asked to assess the four overall areas of: 1. legal and organizational structure; 2. selection process of the governing body; 3. staff and their job descriptions and; 4. the overall work program of the Agassiz Health Planning Council.

Please submit written comments relative to the application at the formal Public Meeting or prior to December 19. Comments may be submitted to the Agassiz Health Planning Council, 123 DeMers Avenue, East Grand Forks, Minnesota 56721. Additionally, verable comments any individual may desire to make will be welcome at the Public Meeting. Orderly registration will be held prior to the Public Meeting.

Copies of the draft application may be read at the locations listed below. Copies are available at reasonable duplicating cost. Additional copies will be available at the meeting.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

December 8, 1975
OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
Board Of County Commissioners
Pennington County, Minnesota
November 21, 1975

Pursuant to adjournment the County Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse at 10:00 A.M., Nov. 21, 1975.

Members present: Hanson, Christianson, Naplin, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

Kenneth Ose, Exec. Director of the Occupational Development Center appeared and presented an oral report on the progress of the Workshops serving the area and requested assistance from the County financially as in the past. Moved by Christianson seconded by Naplin that 30 cents per capita be appropriated from the Revenue Sharing Fund to the Minnesota Northwestern Area Sheltered Workshop. Motion unanimously carried.

Gene Beito, Norris Melander and others, representing Jobs, Inc. were present with a request for funds for an Agricultural promotion, namely the possible location of a Sugar Beet processing plant in the area. A need exists for soil borings and other preliminary expense that Jobs, Inc. proposes to assist the Farmers undertaking the project with the ultimate goal being the location of the Plant in the area.

Moved by Naplin seconded by Stenberg that the sum of $1,500 be appropriated and paid to Jobs, Inc. for the Agricultural promotion. Motion unanimously carried.

The minutes of the meeting of Nov. 4 were read and approved as read.

The Auditor reviewed a change in need indicated by the Court system whereby certain Law Books were declared surplus. An appraisal of the surplus sets of books has been accomplished and the Board was asked for approval of sale of said books.

Moved by Hanson seconded by Stenberg that sale of a part set of books, as appraised, be approved in the amount of $250 and that the Law Library Committee proceed to liquidate the other surplus books at the earliest possible opportunity. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Stenberg seconded by Naplin that the sum of $300 be appropriated to the Law Library Fund to provide funds for the balance of 1975. Motion unanimously carried.

The Public Examiners pointed up a deficiency in the minutes where the appointment of the Veterans Service Officer had inadvertently been omitted from the record. Moved by Hanson seconded by Stenberg that the record show that inadvertently the following resolution was not recorded in the minutes of the Board meeting of June 11, 1974, to-wit: BE IT RESOLVED, that Clerk Dyrud be appointed to the Office of Veterans Service Officer for a term of 4 years, effective June 1, 1974, at a salary of $350 per month with the office to be operated on a part time basis. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Naplin seconded by Stenberg that the General Contract for construction of the Law Enforcement Center be reduced by the sum of $189.00 by approval of Change Order G-3. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Christianson seconded by Naplin that the sum of $500 be set aside within the Revenue Fund as a Sheriff's Contingency Fund according to MS 387.212. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Naplin introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, the County Welfare Board has submitted a budget for Welfare purposes for the year 1976 and has requested a tax levy to provide funds to enable it to meet its responsibilities under Section 393.08, MSA, and

WHEREAS, said budget and requested tax levies have been duly considered;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of County Commissioners approve such budget, including the following tax levy, with the provision that when taxes are collected and apportioned, the apportionment to each of the welfare funds shall be in the ratio that the levy for each bears to the total levy for welfare purposes; as follows:

Adult Supplementary Aid	$ 15,000.00	3.85%
Aid to Families with Dependent Children	112,000.00	28.72%
Poor (Including General Assistance)	48,000.00	12.31%
Administration	105,000.00	26.92%
Medical Assistance	50,000.00	12.82%
Social Services	60,000.00	15.38%
Total	$ 390,000.00	100.00%

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the County Auditor be hereby authorized and directed to spread a levy for welfare purposes in the amount of $390,000.00 on the tax roles of the County. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Christianson and declared unanimously carried.

The County Auditor then submitted the proposed budget and tax levy, as follows:

Budget Requests	Amount	Less Attach. Mach. Aid	Less Local Govt. Aid	Net Levy
Revenue Fund	$ 373,306.83	$ 3,338.25	$ 150,260.05	$ 219,708.53
Road & Bridge Fund	309,208.00			309,208.00
Welfare Fund	390,000.00			390,000.00
Oakland Park Bonds	110,000.00			110,000.00
Law Enforcement Bonds	62,000.00			62,000.00
N.W. Regional Commission	4,432.00			4,432.00
Total General Levy	$ 1,248,946.83	$ 3,338.25	$ 150,260.05	$ 1,095,348.53

Also ½ mill for Red Lake Watershed and 1 mill for Middle River-Snake River Watershed where applicable. Moved by Naplin seconded by Christianson that the Board accept the levy and budget and authorized and directed the County Auditor to spread said levy on the tax books of the County for the year 1976, with the provision that as a part of the Road & Bridge levy there is hereby appropriated the sum of $28,500 to the City of Thief River Falls to be paid from tax collections in 1976 for use on State Aid Streets. Motion declared unanimously carried. Moved by Christianson seconded by Hanson that meeting adjourn to convene at 10:00 A.M., Tuesday, Dec. 9, 1975.

Motion carried.

Notice

The Agassiz and Central Flyway Health Planning Councils have merged and jointly developed a formal draft application, in accordance with prescribed procedures under P.L. 93-641, to be designated the formal bi-state Health Systems Agency for Governor's Planning Regions I and II in Northwest Minnesota and Governor's Planning Regions III and IV in North Dakota. Consistent with this effort a Formal Public Meeting will be held as noted: December 19, 1975, 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. (additional time as needed), Westward Ho, Grand Forks, North Dakota.

The Public meeting is both an educational activity and an opportunity for citizen input into the application. First, the impact of Public Law 93-641, "National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974", on the health care delivery system of this region will be explained. Secondly, the meeting will provide an opportunity for all interested organizations and individuals to comment on and affect the formal application. Citizens are asked to assess the four overall areas of: 1. legal and organizational structure; 2. selection process of the governing body; 3. staff and their job descriptions and; 4. the overall work program of the Agassiz Health Planning Council.

Please submit written comments relative to the application at the formal Public Meeting or prior to December 19. Comments may be submitted to the Agassiz Health Planning Council, 123 DeMers Avenue, East Grand Forks, Minnesota 56721. Additionally, verable comments any individual may desire to make will be welcome at the Public Meeting. Orderly registration will be held prior to the Public Meeting.

Copies of the draft application may be read at the locations listed below. Copies are available at reasonable duplicating cost. Additional copies will be available at the meeting.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

December 8, 1975

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS

Board Of County Commissioners

Pennington County, Minnesota

November 21, 1975

Pursuant to adjournment the County Board met in the Commissioners' Room in the Courthouse at 10:00 A.M., Nov. 21, 1975.

Members present: Hanson, Christianson, Naplin, Stenberg and Tasa. All present.

Kenneth Ose, Exec. Director of the Occupational Development Center appeared and presented an oral report on the progress of the Workshops serving the area and requested assistance from the County financially as in the past. Moved by Christianson seconded by Naplin that 30 cents per capita be appropriated from the Revenue Sharing Fund to the Minnesota Northwestern Area Sheltered Workshop. Motion unanimously carried.

Gene Belto, Norris Melander and others, representing Jobs, Inc. were present with a request for funds for an Agricultural promotion, namely the possible location of a Sugar Beet processing plant in the area. A need exists for soil borings and other preliminary expense that Jobs, Inc. proposes to assist the Farmers undertaking the project with the ultimate goal being the location of the Plant in the area.

Moved by Naplin seconded by Stenberg that the sum of $1,500 be appropriated and paid to Jobs, Inc. for the Agricultural promotion. Motion unanimously carried.

The minutes of the meeting of Nov. 4 were read and approved as read.

The Auditor reviewed a change in need indicated by the Court system whereby certain Law Books were declared surplus. An appraisal of the surplus sets of books has been accomplished and the Board was asked for approval of sale of said books.

Moved by Hanson seconded by Stenberg that sale of a part set of books, as appraised, be approved in the amount of $250 and that the Law Library Committee proceed to liquidate the other surplus books at the earliest possible opportunity. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Stenberg seconded by Naplin that the sum of $300 be appropriated to the Law Library Fund to provide funds for the balance of 1975. Motion unanimously carried.

The Public Examiners pointed up a deficiency in the minutes where the appointment of the Veterans Service Officer had inadvertently been omitted from the record. Moved by Hanson seconded by Stenberg that the record show that inadvertently the following resolution was not recorded in the minutes of the Board meeting of June 11, 1974, to-wit: BE IT RESOLVED, that Clark Dyrud be appointed to the Office of Veterans Service Officer for a term of 4 years, effective June 1, 1974, at a salary of $350 per month with the office to be operated on a part time basis. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Naplin seconded by Stenberg that the General Contract for construction of the Law Enforcement Center be reduced by the sum of $189.00 by approval of Change Order G-3. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Christianson seconded by Naplin that the sum of $500 be set aside within the Revenue Fund as a Sheriff's Contingency Fund according to MS 387.212. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Naplin introduced the following resolution and moved its adoption:

WHEREAS, the County Welfare Board has submitted a budget for Welfare purposes for the year 1976 and has requested a tax levy to provide funds to enable it to meet its responsibilities under Section 393.08, MSA, and

WHEREAS, said budget and requested tax levies have been duly considered;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of County Commissioners approve such budget, including the following tax levy, with the provision that when taxes are collected and apportioned, the apportionment to each of the welfare funds shall be in the ratio that the levy for each bears to the total levy for welfare purposes; as follows:

Adult Supplementary Aid	$ 15,000.00	3.85%
Aid to Families with Dependent Children	112,000.00	28.72%
Poor (Including General Assistance)	48,000.00	12.31%
Administration	105,000.00	26.92%
Medical Assistance	50,000.00	12.82%
Social Services	60,000.00	15.38%
Total	$ 390,000.00	100.00%

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the County Auditor be hereby authorized and directed to spread a levy for welfare purposes in the amount of $390,000.00 on the tax roles of the County. The foregoing resolution was duly seconded by Commissioner Christianson and declared unanimously carried.

The County Auditor then submitted the proposed budget and tax levy, as follows:

Budget Requests	Amount	Less Attach. Mach. Aid	Less Local Govt. Aid	Net Levy
Revenue Fund	$ 372,306.83	$ 2,338.25	$ 130,260.05	$ 219,468.33
Road & Bridge Fund	309,208.00	———	———	309,208.00
Welfare Fund	390,000.00	———	———	390,000.00
Oakland Park Bonds	110,000.00	———	———	110,000.00
Law Enforcement Bonds	62,000.00	———	———	62,000.00
N.W. Regional Commission	4,452.00	———	———	4,452.00
Total General Levy	$ 1,248,966.83	$ 2,338.25	$ 130,260.05	$ 1,093,348.33

Also ½ mill for Red Lake Watershed and 1 mill for Middle River-Snake River Watershed where applicable. Moved by Naplin seconded by Christianson that the Board accept the levy and budget and authorized and directed the County Auditor to spread said levy on the tax books of the County for the year 1976, with the provision that as a part of the Road & Bridge levy there is hereby appropriated the sum of $28,500 to the City of Thief River Falls to be paid from tax collections in 1976 for use on State Aid Streets. Motion declared unanimously carried. Moved by Christianson seconded by Hanson that meeting adjourn to convene at 10:00 A.M., Tuesday, Dec. 9, 1975.

Motion carried.

New Pipeline To Connect At Clearbrook

Northern Tier Pipeline company, a six-member consortium, announced last week that it plans a pipeline construction project to carry oil from the Puget Sound area near Seattle, Wash., to Clearbrook.

According to an Associated Press article in the Grand Forks Herald last week, the proposed 1,500 mile pipeline would cross Washington, Idaho, Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota before joining a Lakehead Pipe Line company interstate pipeline near Clearbrook.

No construction date nor cost estimate was given, but capacity was listed at 800,000 barrels a day. D. Michael Curran, company president, said huge underground storage tanks would be built in western North Dakota.

"Northern Tier will provide facilities which can deliver crude oil at competitive prices to all of the so-called 'northern tier refiners' who serve America's farmlands and are now dependent upon Canadian imports," he said.

The pipeline would be expected to handle not only Alaskan crude oil but also oil imported from foreign nations.

'U' To Offer Courses For Credit On TV

Effective citizen involvement in political action is the theme of "People Power: The World of Practical Politics," a University of Minnesota television credit course to be offered on Mondays at 9:30 p.m. on KTCA, channel 2, beginning Jan. 5, 1976.

Guests on the program will include Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Rep. Donald Fraser, Rep. William Frenzel, State Sen. Nicholas Coleman, Julian Bond, Jane Fonda, Rev. Jesse Jackson, Angela Davis and Elliot Richardson.

The course will consist of 10 television presentations, a study guide, required readings, and optional workshops. It may be taken for three or five credits through General college or for three credits through the College of education, with special emphasis on teacher needs.

Tuition is $45 for three credits or $75 for five credits, plus $4 for the study guide. Cost of required texts is additional.

The University's family social science department will sponsor two television credit courses on marriage and divorce.

Judie Savage, marriage and divorce counselor with the Hennepin county department of court services, is author and coordinator of the course, "The Dynamics of Divorce." Instructor for the course is Richard Hey, professor and head of the family social science department.

The course will be presented on KTCA, channel 2, on Monday evenings at 9 p.m., beginning January 5.

The "Dynamics of Marriage and Parenthood" will be shown on KFME, channel 13 and KGFE, channel 2 Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p.m., beginning December 30.

Tuition for each three-credit course is $45. Cost of the study guide and required texts is additional.

Information and registration materials for any of the television courses are available from the Department of independent study, 27 Wesbrook hall, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, 55455 or by calling (612) 373-4925.

Nominations For Volunteer Award Needed

Persons who dedicate many hours of volunteer service often go unrecognized for their efforts, but one way outstanding volunteers can be cited is by submitting a nomination for the national volunteer awards.

The national volunteer award program is run yearly through the national center for voluntary action (NCVA) in Washington, D.C. Any individual or organization engaged in voluntary and unpaid activites that benefit the community, state or nation may be nominated, and the nomination may be submitted by an individual or a group. There is no age limitation, and young persons through senior citizens who donate their services are eligible for the awards. NCVA is actively seeking information on programs involving youth 14-18 years of age as volunteers, and also programs involving groups of employees in business, industry or government who volunteer after hours.

The NCVA was established in 1970 to stimulate and support the voluntary movement. NCVA is a privately funded, non-profit, non-partisan organization which seeks to enhance the quality of American life by encouraging people to volunteer and by supporting and publicizing their efforts once they have done so.

Entry deadline is Dec. 31, 1975. An entry form, plus a statement of not more than 400 words describing the nominee's activities and their impact on the community and those being served, must accompany the nomination form. Pertinent supplementary material such as clippings and pamphlets of no more than 20 pages may also be submitted.

To obtain a nomination form, contact Kay Kraatz, RSVP office, UMC, Crookston, 56716, or call 281-6510, extension 296. Then nominate the organization or individual you feel is worthy of citation.

Special guests at the convention were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Olson (left), who were selected by the Pennington soil and water conservation district as conservation farmers of the year for Pennington county.

EDA Grant To Create Jobs On Reservation

Minnesota has been included as one of the five states to receive grants to help create jobs for the unemployed, announced Wilmer D. Mizell, assistant secretary of commerce for economic development. Other states include New Mexico, Ohio and Wisconsin.

The grants were approved by the economic development administration, U.S. department of commerce.

Projects included in this action were among those selected in October for participation in the job opportunities program, which is being carried out under an amendment adding Title X to the public works and economic development act.

Title X provides funds for projects that will put the unemployed to work in their own home communities, Mizell said.

Work on the projects approved under Title X is expected to get under way within 60 days and be completed within a year.

The Minnesota grant was for $200,000 to the Bois Forte reservation business committee of the Nett Lake Indian reservation in St. Louis county. The grant will be used to clear debris from Nett Lake river and to reopen trails and access roads to a timber stand. The EDA grant will meet the total cost of the project, which is expected to create 16 jobs.

State Hospital Drug Program Is Accredited

Drug dependency rehabilitation center at the Fergus Falls state hospital has received accreditation for a period of two years from the joint commission on accreditation of hospitals, a national accreditation body.

This accreditation was granted by the commission after it reviewed the recommendations of the Division of alcoholism of the accreditation council for psychiatric facilities which surveyed the hospital during a visit last August.

The Commission gave the drug dependency rehabilitation center a rating of being 100 per cent in compliance with its standards for patient care and treatment in the areas of service planning, patient rights, fiscal management, environment, personnel and evaluation; and a rating of 97 per cent compliance in the area of governing authority. The commission commended the drug dependency rehabilitation center for its excellent treatment program which the commission felt could be used as a model for other drug dependency treatment programs.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1975, the drug dependency rehabilitation center provided residential treatment services for 637 persons from west central and northwestern Minnesota who were suffering from the handicap of alcoholism or other soft drug addiction.

Crime Council To Meet Wed.

Region A Advisory council of the Governor's commission on crime prevention and control will meet on Wednesday at 4 p.m. at the District court chambers at Thief River Falls. The prioritization of grant applications will begin at 7 p.m. in the Court chambers.

Ask Support For Christmas Gift Appeal

Through the generosity of many area organizations and individuals, Christmas was brightened last year for 423 residents of the treatment programs for the handicapped at the Fergus Falls state hospital. The hospital volunteer council is again in need of support for its annual Christmas gift appeal, "Operation Merry Christmas—1975."

Many donors prefer so support the work of Operation Merry Christmas by sending a monetary contribution as their gift, thereby allowing the volunteer council to buy those Christmas gifts which would most please and meet the needs of each hospital resident.

Monetary donations and gifts should be mailed by December 15 to the Fergus Falls state hospital volunteer council, box 157, Fergus Falls 56537.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1975, the Fergus Falls state hospital provided services for 1,402 persons, from west central and northwestern Minnesota through its residential care, treatment and educational programs for persons suffering from the handicaps caused by mental retardation, emotional problems, physical disabilities and drug dependency problems.

TRF December Jobs Outlook Called Dismal

December job possibilities in Thief River Falls look "dismal", according to a report by manager J. K. Stadum of the city office of the state department of employment services.

The report stated "A marked decrease is evident in all areas of employment. Construction and labor openings are virtually nonexistent. Most jobs from this date forward will be hard to fill in that they will demand some specific skill."

As a result of the employment slump, the part-time job placement office at Northland community college has been closed. Persons looking for part-time work are invited to contact the employment office, but the report added that "the outlook is rather grim for part-time work presently."

Positions currently open include assistant extension agent, extension home economist (Red Lake Falls), nursing director, halfway house counselor, case aide, bank vice president, six sales clerks, seven office clerical, auto salesperson, chef (Roseau), nurse aides (TRF and Hallock), bartenders, dispatcher-jailer, auto mechanic, oil burner servicer, plumber, driver for heavy trucks and greaser (lube person).

Might Suspend Minn.-N.D. Milk Order

U.S. Department of agriculture (USDA) is considering suspending certain provisions in the Minnesota-North Dakota federal milk marketing order, to allow unlimited diversions of milk to unregulated manufacturing plants during December, January, and February.

H.L. Forest, dairy official in USDA's Agricultural marketing service (AMS) said the action was requested by Land O'Lakes, Inc. a cooperative, to accommodate the handling of reserve milk in excess of fluid demand during the three months. The order now permits unlimited diversions only during the months of March through June.

The suspension would temporarily remove the limit on the amount of milk that may be moved directly from producers' farms to an unregulated manufacturing outlet and still be priced under the order on the basis of its use.

Without the proposed action, milk diverted in excess of the limit in the order (50 per cent) would be excluded from the market pool. The milk could be pooled, although at a greater handling cost by delivering it first to a plant regulated under the order and then transferring it to an unregulated manufacturing plant.

Notice of the proposed suspension is scheduled to appear in the Federal Register December 4. Comments may be submitted, in four copies, until December 9 to the Hearing clerk, 112-A U.S. Department of agriculture, Wahsington, D.C. 20250, where anyone may review them.

Sen. Critical Of Appointment By Governor

A report that the governor's office bypassed qualified professionals and hired a long-time political worker to head a state department is another example of the growing patronage system in Minnesota, Senate minority leader Robert Ashbach said recently.

Gov. Wendell Anderson's chief aide, Tom Kelm, told a senate committee that an extensive but unsuccessful search had been made to fill the vacant commissioner of personnel post before former DFL campaign manager Michael O'Donnell was hired.

Kelm told the committee that no one with the proper qualifications could be found to take the job at its $32,000 annual salary, Ashbach said. Ashbach also questioned why the governor appointed O'Donnell, who apprently did not meet requirements for the office.

"It was reported that qualified professionals would have been delighted to take the job if it had been offered. This would strongly indicate that Mr. Kelm was less than sincere in both his search and in his comments to the senate committee," Ashbach said.

"For at least two reasons this entire matter is an affront to the legislative process. First, the report to the senate committee does not seem to square with the facts as reported. Secondly, the governor, by appointing an acting commissioner, has effectively prevented the legislature from either approving or disapproving this appointment.

"Now it is reported the governor's office wants to remove the experience requirement from the present law to make possible another political appointment to head this most important state department. This action would be most unfortunate," Ashbach said.

"The governor should investigate this matter, and if members of his staff have been less than candid in their reports to the senate committee, then the governor should take appropriate action to restore confidence in his office."

Tell Results Of Penn. Co. ASC Election

Results of the December 1 election of ASC county committeemen for 1976 were announced recently by Kermit Finstad, chairman of the Pennington county agricultural stabilization and conservation (ASC) Committee.

Named to a committee post in the mail balloting was Olaf Olson, Trail, who farms in Hickory township on a thousand-acre grain farm. Olson was elected to a second three-year term and will serve as a regular member of the committee in 1976.

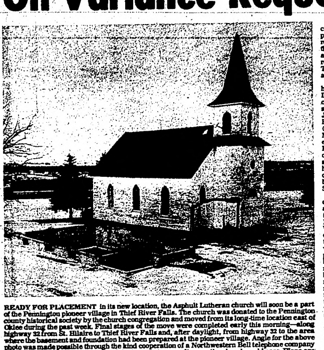
Elected first alternate to the committee for a one-year term was Vernon Anderson, route 5, Thief River Falls, who has a dairy and grain farm in Sanders township.

Elected second alternate to the county committee for a one-year term was Arnold Peterson, route 4, Thief River Falls, who has a grain and stock farm in Silverton township.

"Farmer committees are in charge of local administration of national farm programs," Finstad said. "At least one committee member and two alternates are elected each year. The farmer receiving the largest number of votes is elected to a three-year term, second largest, a two-year term, if the position is vacant. There was only one vacancy on the county committee in Pennington county this year."

Finstad was reelected chairman of the committee and Harold Kalsnes was elected vice chairman at the organizational meeting of the committee held on December 4.

Council Tables Action On Variance Requests



READY FOR PLACEMENT in its new location, the Asphult Lutheran church will soon be a part of the Pennington pioneer village in Thief River Falls. The church was donated to the Pennington county historical society by the church congregation and moved from its long-time location east of Oklee during the past week. Final stages of the move were completed early this morning—along highway 32 from St. Hilaire to Thief River Falls and, after daylight, from highway 32 to the area where the basement and foundation had been prepared at the pioneer village. Angle for the above photo was made possible through the kind cooperation of a Northwestern Bell telephone company crew which was using its boom truck in the area to move lines so the church could pass. Plans are to use the church for evening services during the summer months in cooperation with local pastors.

Thief River Falls city council tabled two city planning commission recommendations which were the subject of a considerable amount of discussion at the regular council meeting Tuesday evening in the city auditorium council chambers.

The planning commission had recommended, at a December 1 meeting, that the council grant two separate special use permit requests by James A. Kotz of 712 Red Lake Boulevard and Windfield R. (Whitey) Olson of 302 Merriam avenue S., to establish home businesses. Kotz is planning a catalog order sporting goods business specializing in the sale of hunting supplies. Olson would open a catalog mail order business titled the "BFJO Sports Shack".

Several downtown merchants who sell sporting goods attended the council meeting to oppose the permit request. Irvin J. Wilson, owner of Wilson's Sports Centre, addressed the council and stated that the home businesses would present unfair competition because by operating businesses in a residential zone, Kotz and Olson would have certain advantages over merchants in the commercial zone. They would be avoiding the higher tax base faced by the downtown merchants, and would not be called upon to support the community through donations and other requests as inner-city businessmen are, according to Wilson.

Kotz maintained that under city regulations, the key council consideration in a special use permit request is whether the proposed home business would have an adverse affect in his neigh-

AVTI Receives $30,000 Grant For Equipment

Thief River Falls area vocational-technical institute will receive a grant of $30,000 from the Upper Great Lakes regional commission following approval of a grant application by Gov. Wendell Anderson.

Gov. Anderson said the $30,000 grant would be used for acquisition of equipment in several of the institute's programs. The regional commission acted on the grant request at its meeting last Friday.

School Receives Grant

As of November 25, the child care facilities act has awarded grant-in-aid to the Thief River Falls nursery school $2,999 for the period November 1, 1975 to through June 30, 1976. New equipment will be purchased with the grant. Since rooms have been newly painted and carpeting added this fall, an open house is planned as soon as equipment arrives.

Pre-school education is not a new idea in Thief River Falls. The nursery school is now in its seventh year of operation. Thief River Falls nursery school is a parent co-op. Parents are very essential in operating the school. They help in every aspect from helping teach a small group of children during family time to serving on the board.

The nursery school provides an enrichment program for children four and five years of age. One-fourth of the children in nursery school this year are school referrals who need an extra year of maturation for kindergarten. In the program a child is exposed to social situations and experiences and a variety of learning media. Suzanne Steidl, teacher-director, feels each child should develop a feeing of self-esteem in an environment developed for them.

The children attend school three days a week for two and one-half hours a session. The staff includes one teacher-director; one teacher aide, Sharon Buchholz; and one parent at each session. Mrs. Steidl has her certificate in pre-school education.

A wide variety of children have benefitted from this pre-school program.

Pennington Has Four Deficient County Bridges

More than 23 per cent of Minnesota's 4,400 deficient bridges are located on county state-aid highways, state highway commissioner Frank D. Marzitelli said.

Estimated cost to replace the 1,027 deficient county state-aid bridges, excluding design and approach grading, would be about $147.6 million. There are 3,572 county state-aid highway bridges in Minnesota.

Replacement costs for the four deficient county state-aid highway bridges in Pennington county would be about $383,000.

Deficient bridges are those structures which do not meet minimum standards in one or more of the following categories:

Load—less than legal load carrying capacity; Condition—advanced state of deterioration which will lead to load capacity posting and high maintenance costs; Width—too narrow to safely carry current traffic; Clearance—insufficient horizontal clearance to safely handle current traffic or less than legal vertical clearance.

Marshall county lists 15 bridges as being deficient and replacement cost estimated at $807,000. Red Lake county lists six bridges at $642,000 and Roseau county lists nine bridges at $514,000.

Pennington county bridges are located on county road 18 at the junctions with county roads 77 and 65, and on county roads 20 and 22 at the intersection with county road 65.

County Senior Bus Fare Less

Inner city rates for the Pennington county senior citizen bus have been reduced from 50 cents for a round trip to 25 cents. One way fares will remain at 25 cents, and the present mileage charge four out-of-town travel on the bus is also unchanged.

Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, the sponsoring group, has applied the rate decreased in order to encourage additional senior citizen participation in the bus service, according to Art Taylor, county bus driver.

Retarded In Skating Program

Believed to be the only one of its kind in Minnesota, a full scale skating program for the trainable mentally retarded is underway at the Thief River Falls sports arena. The program is under the direction of Evan Armstrong, director of the Falls day activity center.

The program began in the middle of October with the encouragement and assistance of Mrs. Roger Worth. She works with the skaters and is assisted by Mrs. Fred Dablow and members of the day activity center staff. Skating hours are from 12:30 to 2 p.m., Monday and Friday.

Only two or three of the day activity center participants had any previous skating experience. When the program started, Armstrong said, they were the only participants who could be persuaded to get out on the ice.

Now the program has full involvement with 17 of the trainable retarded from 16 through 62 years of age taking part and seemingly enjoying it. There are nine center participants who are not involved in the program due to age or physical handicaps.

Skates for the students had to be specially fitted and were purchased at cost through Ace Hardware in Thief River Falls with financial help from the local United Way.

"The program started at a very slow pace and optimism was not high," Armstrong said. "Only a couple of the people had skated before and the others were really scared to try. We would help them on a one-to-one basis, but this was a slow process and most of the participants had to be sitting or standing around while the others were skating."

Then the day activity center officials learned of a skating aid for small children which had been developed by two local men and for which a patent had been applied. The men—Dr. Richard Heinrichs and Thomas Kenville—were contacted and with their cooperation and experimentation a model was found which has proved very acceptable for use in the program for mentally retarded adults. It was designed and manufactured at cost of materials only with Wemberg Welding doing the manufacturing.

Immediately upon introduction of the skating aids—simple mental forms with runners and handles which help a skater maintain his balance—the program accelerated. Day activity center participants who had to be nearly dragged on to the ice at the start of the program are now eager for their skating time to come each Monday and Friday.

"We really didn't have a

SANTA CLAUS TO VISIT YOUNGSTERS SATURDAY

Santa Claus will make his annual pre-Christmas visit to Thief River Falls on Saturday to visit with and distribute treats to area youngsters. His arrival will again be special this year.

Santa will arrive at the Soo Line depot on Third street on a switch engine provided by the Soo Line. He will greet youngsters who meet him there before boarding a fire truck for a ride to the city auditorium a few blocks away.

Members of the TRFinettes drum and bugle corps will lead the procession to the city auditorium and assist with the distribution of treats to the youngsters greeting Santa there beginning at 1 p.m.

According to the sponsoring retail trade committee of the Chamber of Commerce, Santa will remain at the city auditorium until 4 p.m. unless the supply of candy prepared for the distribution is gone before that time.

Christmas Party Highlights Legion Auxiliary Meet

Christmas party highlighted the regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary held December 1 at the Legion club rooms.

The party began with a program featuring songs and a short dialogue by Olga Bloomquist. In addition to a gift exchange, members gave a monetary gift to the Unit President project which will be used to purchase something for the Day Activity Center. The lunch served at the conclusion of the event included an assortment of Christmas goodies brought by the members.

Preceding the party, a brief business session was held with president Mrs. Ed Haraldson presiding. She reported briefly on the Fall Conference held in St. Paul. Following a discussion regarding the unit's Christmas projects, the Children and Youth chairman was appointed in charge of the needy family project; and the rehabilitation chairman was chosen to be in charge of presenting gifts to veterans in nursing homes and shut-ins. As a tribute to the elderly in this community, the unit voted to donate the Sunday Tribune for eight weeks to the local nursing homes. It was also announced that the Children's Christmas party has been scheduled for December 21, at 2 p.m., in the club rooms.

Legislative chairman Connie Ferber reported on a proposed change in the use of the Veterans Service office building. She urged all members to write to Governor Wendell Anderson and to the representatives urging that the building be retained for its original purpose.

A joint dinner with the post preceded the meeting. Guest speaker was Rep. John Corbid. Special music was provided by Laurie Achenbach, Tami Trudeau and Ruth Ferber with Mary Amundson as accompanist and Billy Saetre as director.

On Dec. 23, 1914, the Mackay Trophy for reconnaissance competitions was won by Capt. T.F. Dodd and Lt. S.W. Fitzgerald.

I wish to sell clothing for little girls, sizes 4, 5, and 6. These are some brand coat, dresses, 2 and 3 piece outfits. Have been well cared for and are in excellent condition.

Swanson and Schantzen Marriage Vows Spoken

Miss Betty Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swanson of rural Thief River Falls, and Dale Schantzen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Si Schantzen of this city exchanged marriage vows on October 11 at Redeemer Lutheran church.

Rev. Keith Prekker and intern Ron Allen officiated at the service. Providing music were friends of the couple: Ruthie Mosbeck, who served as organist, and Greg Sorenson and Val Kalsnes, who sang, "Cherish," "Wedding Song," and "O Perfect Love."

Candelabrum on either side of the altar formed the chancel setting.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white satin floor-length gown, sewn by Wendy Burtness, a friend. Needlepoint lace enhanced the bodice, formed the long fitted sleeves and the chapel-length train. Coordinating lace trimmed her three-tiered veil. She carried a large colonial bouquet of pink roses, blue and white carnations, and babies' breath, with navy blue cattail accents.

Miss Mary Kotta, a friend, was the bride's personal attendant.

Gloria Svir, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Other attendants were Deb Walhaug, sister of the groom, Marilyn Swanson, sister-in-law of the bride, and Pamela Swanson, sister of the bride. They wore identical floor-length, empire styled gowns of pink and white gingham checks. To accent their attire, they wore pink hats with a large pink rose.

Attending the groom as best man was Godfred Svir of Thief River Falls. Groomsmen were Steve Sorenson and Jon Folkadahl, friends of the groom, and Mark Swanson, brother of the bride. The groom was attired in a blue tuxedo with a white ruffled shirt; and his groomsmen wore white tuxedos with blue ruffled shirts and blue carnation boutonnieres.

Serving as ushers were Emery Wicklander, friend of the couple, and Lyle Swanson, brother of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a pink lace, long-sleeved, floor-length gown complemented by a dusty rose orchid. A similar corsage was worn by the groom's mother, who wore a mint green gown topped with a matching jacket.

The parents of the bride hosted a reception following the ceremony. Host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wilkins, cousins of the bride. Serving punch were Jerry Faye Larson and Tammy Jorde. Kay and Kristi Schantzen, nieces of the groom, were at the guest book.

Centering the serving table was a four-tiered wedding cake made by Mrs. Leonard Melin and Ruthie Mosbeck. The cake was decorated with pink roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Leonard Yonke and Mrs. Idella Rewertz cut and served the cake. Pouring coffee were Mrs. Chester Swanson and Mrs. Martin Olson.

Waitresses were Cheri Norberg, Kim Schantzen, Tammy Johnson and Kelly Thune. At the gift table were Wendy Burtness and Margie Lindblom. All are friends and relatives of the couple.

The newly-weds are now at home in this city at 716 South Crocker, Apartment 9. The bride is a 1973 graduate of Lincoln high school and is employed by J.C. Penney company. The groom, a 1972 graduate of Lincoln high school, is employed by Wennberg Welding. Photo, Lund Photography, Roseau.

CNC Volunteers Study Religious Needs Of Elderly

Religious needs of the elderly were studied at the monthly meeting of the CNC Volunteers held in the first floor lounge at Northwestern hospital. Leading the discussion was Rev. Frank Ringwelski of St. Bernard's Catholic parish.

Rev. Ringwelski complimented the volunteers for their motives, whether selfish or idealistic, for helping CNC residents enjoy a more meaningful stay at the hospital. In advising the volunteers to pray to the Holy Spirit for guidance, he stated: "Start a partnership with God and let Him take over. If a resident voices desire for prayer, seize the opportunity to pray."

To correspond with the discussion, six of the volunteers present each read a verse of an old 1890 Swedish hymn, "Thanks to God," revealing that people of that day found much for which to give thanks. The volunteers also expressed their own personal thanks for the many blessings of today.

Coordinator Evelyn Wold was in charge of the meeting. Ten regular volunteers attended in addition to A. Madunich and Mrs. Donald Rupprecht and her daughter, Melodee, who is a candystriper. Also present were two other candystripers, Cindy Poissant and Sue Spengler, who sang, "Pass It On," and "Follow Me." Melodee was the pianist. Mrs. Angeline Breznay served as secretary.

Mrs. Pat Temple, the social worker at the hospital, reported on the hospital's project of providing balanced nutritional meals for Senior Citizens over 60 years of age.

The next meeting of the CNC Volunteers will be held December 23 at 7 p.m., for Christmas caroling with the CNC residents. The public is welcome to participate in this event.

Patricia Ann Dunn And Bruce Halbasch To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dunn of 715 10th Street North, Fargo, N.D., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Patricia Ann, to Bruce W. Halbasch, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Halbasch of this city.

The bride-elect is employed by St. Luke's hospitals, in Fargo and her fiance is employed by Detroit Lakes-Becker County Industrial Development corporation.

The wedding will take place February 7 at the Olivet Lutheran church in Fargo.

Lindbergs Host Dinner In Honor Of Daughters

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Lindberg hosted a dinner recently in honor of their daughters: Jenny, who was four years old, and Kristi Ellen, who was observing her first birthday.

Guests were the girls' grandparents: Mrs. Vi Lindberg and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jorgenson, together with Pauline Lindberg.

For the occasion, the two birthday cakes were baked and decorated by Mrs. Jorgenson.

Valerie Thorson-Gary Vraa Wed At Goodridge

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Herbert Vraa are at home in Minneapolis at 7720-36th Avenue North, following an exchange of marriage vows at Goodridge and a wedding trip to South Dakota.

The bride, the former Valerie Lee Thorson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thorson of Minneapolis; and the groom is the son of Mrs. Marion Vraa of Goodridge and the late Herbert Vraa.

The double ring ceremony took place at the Ekelund Lutheran church with Rev. Bruce Anderson officiating. At the organ was Mrs. Dick Marquis of Goodridge, aunt of the bride. She played "Love Story," for the prelude, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," for the processional, and "The Wedding March," as the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Amy Anderson of Goodridge, friend of the bride, and Susan Elg of Thief River Falls, a sister of the groom, sang, "Wedding Song," "My Little Corner of the World," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Candelabras graced with sprays of blue and white carnations and greens formed the chancel setting. White ribbon streamers marked the pews along the center aisle.

The bride was attired in a white organza gown styled with an attached chapel-length train. Venise lace outlined the key neckline and trimmed the fitted sleeves, accented with flair cuffs. Miniature lace motifs were scattered across the A-line skirt. Matching lace edged her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of blue and white carnations, babies' breath and greenery, accented with navy blue cattails.

Matron of honor was Sandra Olsonoski of Minneapolis, a friend of the bride. Other attendants were Debbie Marquis of Minneapolis, Kaye Marquis of Goodridge, cousins of the bride, and Susan Elg of Thief River Falls, sister of the groom. They wore identical A-line gowns of a blue floral polyester styled with dust ruffles and back ties. Lace trimmed the high collars and edged the long sleeves. Their bouquets were of blue and white carnations, yellow mums, babies' breath and navy blue cattails, backed by lace with ribbon streamers.

Curtis Quam of Goodridge, a friend of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Leroy Elg of Thief River Falls, brother-in-law of the groom, and Donnie and David Vraa of Goodridge, brothers of the groom. Serving as ushers were Keith Thorson of Minneapolis, brother of the bride, and Richard Vraa of Goodridge, brother of the groom. All wore midnight blue tuxedos with brushed velvet lapels, cuffs and bow ties. The groom wore a white ruffled shirt and a boutonniere of three yellow baby roses. His attendants had baby blue ruffled shirts, complemented by boutonnieres featuring baby blue carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Thorson selected a green floral polyester gown designed with a ruffled lace yoke and long sleeves. The mother of the groom wore an aqua crepe floor-length gown, fashioned with a V-neckline and chiffon sleeves. Both wore identical orchid corsages.

Honor guests were Mrs. Clara Halvorson of Bagley, great-grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Millie Neill of Bagley, grandmother of the bride, Selmer Erickson of Goodridge, grandfather of the groom; and Lana Anderson of Goodridge, the bride's personal attendant.

Approximately 300 relatives and friends attended the reception that followed in the church parlors. Serving as host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Mitch Marquis of Goodridge, cousins of the bride.

To correspond with the bride's chosen colors, the reception room was decorated with blue and yellow streamers and white wedding bells. Centering the serving table was a five-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated with blue roses by Mrs. Henry Hovet of Goodridge, a friend of the family. Dancing cherubs supported the three upper tiers. Topping the cake was a miniature bride and groom ornament featuring a stairway with the wedding party on the steps. The cake was cut and served by Angie Marquis, aunt of the bride, and Dorothy Quam, cousin of the groom.

Pouring were Dora Vraa, cousin of the groom, and Willa Fjeld, a friend of the couple. Jean Marie Hawkinson, a friend of the bride, presided at the guest book as Marilyn Vraa, sister of the groom, and Lori Marquis, a cousin of the bride, served the punch.

Waitresses were Lemay Moe, Monica Roach, Diane Paulson, Joani Marquis, Bernie Vraa nd Gayle Dahlen. At the gift table were Monna Marquis, Susan Marquis, cousins of the bride, and Susan Mohna, a friend of the bride.

Valley Home Visited By Many Groups In Nov.

Large number of groups, representing churches, schools, and families, visited Valley Home during the month of November. Several presented programs, others served lunch and some visited with the residents in their rooms. Also during the month, two issues of the "Valley Home Flyer" were distributed by the CAP students: Pam Engelstad, Monica Miramontes, Debbie Quamme and Beth Brundage.

The monthly communion service was held November 5 with Rev. Roy K. Malde, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, in charge. Assisting him was Mrs. Malde. During the month, the Sarah circle of Trinity Lutheran church also visited the home and presented a devotional and musical program with Mrs. Frank Hamerlinck in charge. For lunch they served an assortment of fancy breads.

Another church circle that visited the home during November were the members of the Naomi circle of Zion Lutheran church. This was a sympathy visit to Anna Oftelie, whose brother died recently. They also served an assortment of fancy breads to the residents at the home.

Other groups from local churches visiting the home were two groups of children from the United Methodist church, who presented a musical program; the Pathfinder group of the Seventh-Day Adventist church, who also gave a program, and the Catholic Daughters of St. Bernard's, who made their monthly visit distributing birthday cards to all who had birthdays during the month. To add to the variety of events, Rev. J. A. Riveness of Karlstad visited the Home and showed slides of his recent trip to Norway.

School children visiting the home were the Washington school morning and afternoon Kindergarten children, who presented a Thanksgiving program, and the Brownie troop 109, also of Washington, who visited with the residents.

The monthly birthday party was held November 15 with games played and a festive lunch served. Residents honored were Louis Lokken, Tillie Anderson, Anna Oftelie, Ole Olson, Elmer Hylland, Joe Hovlik, Carrie Sanner, Randolph Thompson, Laura Feragen, Louis Mandt, Paul Thyren and Hazel Hammett.

Other birthday observances were held November 6, when the family of Louis Mandt served a decorated birthday cake in his honor, and on November 10, when Tillie Anderson, Ole Olson and Anna Oftelie served nut breads for the afternoon lunch in observance of their birthdays.

The 25th anniversary of the Jewel Box was also noted with decorated cakes brought to the home by Phil and Steve Hess.

Rev. Biegner Accepts Call To Willmar

Rev. Paul Biegner of St. John Lutheran church in Thief River Falls has accepted a call to be pastor of Redeemer Lutheran church of Willmar and will be installed in his new parish on Sunday, January 4, at 7 p.m.

A dinner and reception for the Biegner family will be held on Sunday, December 14, following the morning service at St. John church. Rev. Biegner has served St. John church and Redeemer Lutheran church of Plummer since Easter of 1963.

In the Thief River Falls community, Rev. Biegner has served as a member of the school board and regional library board. He has also served as president, secretary and program chairman of the Thief River Falls ministerial association for six years, and has served as an officer and president of the Thief River Falls Lions club.

In wider service to the church, Rev. Biegner currently is chairman of the Minnesota North division of mission administration, a position he has held since 1963. It involves subsidized parishes, planting of new congregations, missions and ministries and supervision of campus ministries and special work with the deaf, Indian, Finnish and leisure ministries.

SPEAKER at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Lions club last week was Onealee Russell, instructor in the hearing impaired program in the Thief River Falls school system. She thanked the Lions club for a $500 gift which was used to purchase AMESIAN (American sign language) films for use in the program. She demonstrated the films and gave some examples of sign language.

Council Tables Action Tuesday On Special Use

borhood. He presented a petition of support for his business which included the signatures of 68 city residents living within a 400 foot area of his home. "I have had no opposition at all from my neighborhood," he said.

The council members generally agreed that complaints of alleged unfair competition are somewhat irrelevant in a special use permit request, but, as Mayor Robert Carlson said, they also felt that this was a good forum for the airing of such considerations. Noting the large number of home businesses that are currently operating in the city, some councilmen indicated that regulatory measures for such businesses should be considered by the council and planning commission.

Alderman Ambrose Wysoski moved that since Olson was not available to appear before the council that night due to the death of a relative, action on both permit requests should be tabled until the next regular council meeting. Milton Reierson seconded, and the motion passed by a 5-2 vote, with William Penning and Fred Sorensen opposed.

The council did approve two other recommendations from the planning commission. The city will list two community development priorities, rehabilitation of Site B in the south-central development area of the city, and additional housing rehabilitation, on the city application for HUD community development grant funds. The second recommendation was to grant a variance to allow a 40 x 50 foot addition to be constructed on the municipal liquor store on Highway 59 S.

In other matters, the council passed a resolution to proceed with the Pennington avenue (airport road) improvements project, and accepted a bid of $437,185.35 by Thorson, Inc., of Bemidji for construction of curb, gutter, storm sewer and bituminous surfacing on 1.1 miles of the airport road south beginning at First street and extending to the city limits. The council discussed the assessment role for the project, but final action on this will be considered at a later meeting.

Council opposition to the on-sale of 3.2 beer on Sunday was again evident Tuesday when the council acted, by a 5-3 vote, to deny a request for Sunday sale by Emery Lee, owner of Russell's bar. Roger Worth, Fred Sorenson and Ambrose Wysoski voted against the motion.

The council unanimously approved the hiring of Brian Peterson as the new director and Mike Lee as assistant director for TASK, the city youth center.

By a 4-4 tie vote, a motion to allow city assessor Gerard DeHaan to adjust his vacation schedule failed. DeHaan had requested to carry over one week of his 1975 vacation time into next year.

At the request of chief of police Kenneth Froschheiser, the council accepted a bid of $4,787 from Thomas Motors, the lowest of four bidders, for the sale of a new patrol car to the city.

The proposed airport maintenance and operation agreement was discussed. The state proposal for the transfer of these responsibilities to the city on a February through June basis prior to the complete takeover by the city was questioned by some of the councilmen because some aspects of the agreement are apparently unclear. The city will invite the state aeronautics commissioner and his accountant to the city for further clarification.

A petition for curb, gutter and bituminous surfacing from persons living in the Oakville addition, Belmont drive and Belleville court was delegated to city engineer D. H. Stewart for a feasibility study.

Proposed 1976 budget presented by the municipal band was given to the finance committee for a recommendation.

If the Shoe Fits...

How do you achieve a good shoe fit?

A good fitting shoe on a child or adult takes in many factors. One of the first factors for consideration is shoe length. Most parents are concerned whether there is enough toe room for growth. One of the most popular methods used is the rule of thumb measurement. Those using this method claim that if there is a thumb's width between the end of the large toe to the tip of the shoe, the shoe has adequate growing room. This method is really not too adequate for fitting shoes. After all not everyone has the same size thumb.

Others claim that you should have a half inch toe room. While this may be a little better guide, there is still just one best way to make sure of adequate toe room in a shoe. The following method is the one we use in our store for accurate fitting. That is, the use of the ball of the foot arch measure. The ball of the foot is the widest part of a normal foot and this should fit into the exact widest part of the shoe. Usually if the two coincide you have the start of a good fit with adequate growing room.

great deal of optimism for the program," Armstrong said, "although we certainly felt it was worth the effort to give it a try. With the current success we have been enjoying, it is one of the better programs we have undertaken. We have sent some video tapes to a national conference for viewing and will be interested to see what reactions we'll get from that national exposure.

"To the best of my knowledge," he continued, "we are the only day activity center in Minnesota providing a full-scale skating program for trainable mentally retarded."

He added that more information about the skating aid as applicable to mentally or physically handicapped can be obtained by contacting the Falls day activity center, 681-5951. It is expected the product—called the Hein-a-Ken skating aid—will be manufactured commercially locally if there is sufficient demand.

Gordon Barge Services Held At Karlstad

Gordon Jacob Barge, 71, of Karlstad, died unexpectedly on Wednesday afternoon, December 3, at Karlstad.

Funeral services for Gordon J. Barge were held Saturday at 2 p.m., at the First Lutheran church in Karlstad with Rev. Donald Peterson officiating. Mrs. Loren Germundson was the soloist and Mrs. N. O. Folland, the organist. Interment was in the Karlstad cemetery with the Collins Funeral home in charge of arrangements.

Pallbearers were Chester, Donald and George Souder, Wayne and Ruben Stromgren and Robert Vik.

Gordon Barge, a son of the late William and Sophie Barge, was born Aug. 20, 1904, at St. James. He attended school there and at the age of 16 years, moved with his family to Indiana where they lived for several years. He later moved to the Halma community and was employed there on the Torger Folland farm for many years.

He was a faithful member of the Eidsvold Lutheran church of Halma. Since he retired and moved into Karlstad, he had been a member of the First Lutheran church of Karlstad.

He is survived by one brother, Melvin Barge of Las Vegas, Nev.; two sisters: Mrs. Gertrude Sele of Everett, Wash., and Mrs. George H. (Selma) Miller of Minneapolis, and several nieces and nephews.

10 Car Crashes Noted By Police

Ten automobile accidents in Thief River Falls within the last week caused total estimated damage of $3,900 to vehicles and injuries to two pedestrians.

Tuesday, December 2 at 1:31 p.m., Joseph Seidel of Thief River Falls was turning south into Main avenue after driving west on Third street when he struck a pedestrian, Lloyd Nelson of the city, who was in the crosswalk and walking east on Third. Nelson was taken to Northwestern hospital where he was examined and treated for a cut on his head.

In the first of five accidents reported Wednesday, December 3, at 10:15 a.m., Emil Howard of Watertown, S.D., was driving a truck pulling a trailer home north on Atlantic avenue until he turned east on Eighth street and, in the process, the trailer home struck a car parked on Atlantic. Damage to the car, owned by Larry Gehrke of Cass Lake, was estimated at $300, and $25 damage was estimated on the trailer home. The truck was owned by Chickasha mobile home of Watertown.

At 11 a.m., Franklin Ferguson of the city was traveling north on LaBree avenue when he slid sideways, struck a vehicle driven by Byron Nilson of the city which was headed east on Seventh street, and pushed the Nilson vehicle into a tree. Damages were estimated at $600 to the Ferguson car and $700 to the Nilson vehicle.

Alton Hendrickson of Strandquist was coming out of the alley behind Iver's cafe at 12:44 p.m. when he pulled into Eighth street far enough to see around two trucks parked on the street and was struck by a car driven by Rance Berggren, TRF, who was traveling west on Eighth st. Damages were estimated at $225 to the Henrickson car and $25 to the Berggren vehicle.

At 8:55 p.m., Michael Johnson of 510 State avenue N., TRF, was traveling south on Highway 59 when he turned west into the frontage road by the car wash and collided with a car driven by Steven Onkka of the city, who was waiting to turn into the highway. An estimated $200 damage was set on each car.

Janet Peterson of the city was moving into a parking spot at 518 Merriam avenue S. at 9:33 p.m. when she backed into a parked car driven by Timothy Trudeau, TRF, causing an estimated $100 damage to her car and $150 to the Trudeau vehicle.

Saturday at 1:30 p.m., Clarice Olson of Grand Forks was traveling south on the 100 block of Conley avenue N. when she struck a parked vehicle facing south on Conley. Damages were estimated at $150 to the Olson car and $225 to the other car, which was parked by Darlene Kelley and owned by Mrs. Arnold Kelley.

At 2:25 p.m. the same day, C. Wendell Pope of the city was backing out of a parking stall at United Methodist church when he hit a vehicle owned by Duane Hagman of the city which was parked near the cab stand. The Hagman car sustained an estimated $250 damage, but the Pope car was not damaged.

A vehicle driven by Mrs. Loren Voecks of the city was turning north on Edgewood drive at 2:05 p.m. Sunday when she hit an icy patch which caused her to slide over the curb and strike a tree owned by Adolph Oseid. Damages were estimated at $750 to the car and $100 to the tree.

Monday at 5:15 p.m., Hal Kelley, TRF, driving a Hall's flower shop vehicle, was traveling north on Horace avenue and crossing the Second street intersection when he struck Mrs. Arlette Ruud of Gatzke, who was walking north of the crosswalk. Mrs. Ruud suffered a broken right wrist and a hip bruise.

In the most serious theft and vandalism case reported last week, Jerry Ulferts of the city reported Wednesday, December 3 that someone had entered his car and taken 15 eight track tapes, a pair of curling shoes, a slider for the shoes, one pair of fleece lined leather gloves and a 12 pack of beer—a loss totaling $123.50. His tape player was damaged beyond repair and both back speakers were cut, causing an additional $130 damage.

On Tuesday, December 2, a local store reported that a tape deck valued at $39.97 was shoplifted, and the next day Julie Helle of the city told police that one of her car tires had been cut while the vehicle was parked in the courthouse lot. Damage was set at $61.50.

A female juvenile, 10, was apprehended at Gibson's Thursday for allegedly shoplifting a bottle of nail care valued at 73 cents.

In one of three incidents reported Friday, Howard Vigen of Grygla reported at 1:40 a.m. that while his vehicle was parked in the Kentucky Fried Chicken lot it was struck, causing an estimated $250 damage. Gibson's apprehended a female juvenile, 16, for allegedly taking some make-up valued at $1.09. Daniel Austad of the city reported that the windshield valued at $12 was taken during the night from his snowmobile.

Two 13 year old males were apprehended Saturday for allegedly taking two radiators from a business and selling them.

In one of two incidents Monday, Mrs. Lester Nordhagen of the city reported that the rear view mirror had been broken off her car while it was parked in the VFW lot during the day. Damage was set at $5. Mike Kaushagen of the city told police that at some time since Friday his car had been walked on, leaving dents on the trunk and hood. Damage was set at $30.

NOTICE

We will be closed all day Saturday, starting December 13th through the winter months.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS were sung with enthusiasm by Franklin middle school students at the annual Christmas concert Tuesday evening at the school. Various groups performed in different rooms at the school and people attending moved from one room to another to hear the music or watch their favorite students perform. Groups pictured above are the sixth grade mixed choir and the sixth grade boys' choir which were part of the total group directed by Miss Marcia Knuttila in the Franklin gymnasium.

88,296 Minn. Unemployment Active Claims

Persons in active claims status under the five unemployment programs currently in force in Minnesota totaled 88,296 for the week ending November 28, Commissioner Emmet J. Cushing of the Minnesota department of employment services reported recently.

The total is up 6,498 from the preceding week.

Initial claims filed furing the week for the regular program totaled 8,855, up 2,941 (50 per cent) from the previous week and up 843 (11 per cent) from the corresponding week a year ago. Total number of active regular claims was 55,933, up 4,905 (10 per cent) from the previous week.

Initial claims for extended benefits (paid when regular benefits are exhausted) totaled 1,472; for federal supplemental benefits (paid when regular and extended benefits are exhausted), 914; for additional federal supplemental benefits (paid when regular federal supplemental benefits are exhausted), 596; and for special unemployment assistance (paid to workers not ordinarily covered by unemployment insurance), 168.

For the week of November 21, the lastest for which figures are available, the total amount of benefits paid under all programs was $4,339,834. Included in those benefits were $2,716,397 in regular benefits, up $1,162,856 (76 per cent) over the corresponding week a year ago. The average weekly benefit amount was $72.18, up $8.22 from a year ago.

Dahl Wins Post As Marshall Co. Committeeman

Marcel Dahl of Stephen narrowly defeated incumbent Einar Strandquist of Argyle for a three-year term as Marshall county ASCS committeeman, it was announced followint tabulation of the final results.

Strandquist, chairman of the commiteee for the past year, will be first alternate for a one-year term, and a third candidate, Roy E. Anderson of Stephen, will be second alternate for a one-year term.

Other committee members currently serving terms are Leo Orpen of Middle River and Alton Nybladh of Stephen.

With 633 ballots cast, voting was lighter than usual this year; the first year of direct balloting for a county committeeman. In prior years, elections were held for community committeemen who in turn elected the county committee. Ballots will be retained in the county office until Jan. 3, 1976, and are available for inspection upon request.

Local Men In NATO Exercise In Germany

Army private Michael A. Srnsky, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Srnsky, and Army sergeant first class Ronald A. Hedlund, son of Arthur Hedlund, all of rural Thief River Falls, recently participated in Exercise REFORGER in Germany.

Pvt. Srnsky is regularly assigned as a driver in Headquarter company, 1st battalion of the 1st Infantry division's 26th Infantry in Goppingen, Germany, while Sfc. Hedlund is regularly assigned as a dining room sergeant in Headquarters company, 2nd Battalion of the 3rd Infantry division's 30th Infantry in Schweinfurt, Germany.

The purpose of the annual exercise was to sharpen techniques for receiving, equipping, assembling and deploying dual-based units. This year the exercise was incorporated in a broader, coordinated series of NATO and national exercises known as the "Autumn Forge 75 Exercise Series". The broad objective of the series was to improve the capability of the NATO forces.

The U.S. Air force military airlift command flew approximately 10,000 U.S. based soldiers and their equipment to Germany to participate in the exercise.

Srnsky entered the army in April of this year and completed basic training at Ft. Polk, La.

Hedlund entered the army in December 1954 and was last stationed at Ft. Jackson, S.C. His wife, Karin, is with him in Germany.

School Forest Is Established At Alexandria

Department of natural resources announced this week that school district 206 at Alexandria now has an officially designated school forest, thanks to a donation of land by life-time area residents Mr. and Mrs. Hilmer Peterson.

DNR Commissioner Robert Herbst certified the tract on November 19 and said it brought to 66 the number of school forests now in the program.

"The Petersons donated the land because of their desire to do something constructive for young people in the Alexandria area," he said.

The tract will be used by the schools as an outdoor classroom in an effort to improve the environmental education program.

"Such forests provide a living laboratory where students can touch, listen, smell and even taste the things around them," said Herbst, "These learning experiences cannot be found in the indoor classroom."

He said that schools interested in creating school forests of their own should contact their local state forestry office or the DNR division of forestry, Centennial office building, St. Paul.

Inflation-Fighting FOOD IDEAS

HELPFUL TIPS

HOMEMAKER'S VERSATILE HELPER

Now you can make a wide variety of delicious dishes—superb stroganoffs, smooth souffles, fruit desserts—that taste rich and creamy yet save you the price of cream.

By using the nation's most popular frozen non-dairy coffee creamer, Coffee Rich, you can enhance the flavor and consistency of recipes calling for cream. Many gourmet cooks say it tastes better than cream.

Soups, sauces and gravies can easily be made smoother and more flavorful, for less money. What's more, Coffee Rich, which has outstanding uniformity, resists breaking down under cooking temperatures. And it can be stored indefinitely in a frozen state and for up to three weeks in a refrigerator.

Test kitchen directors and home economists at Rich Products Corporation in Buffalo, N. Y., have come up with a wide variety of new applications of this versatile cooking helper for everyday at-home use, including unbaked cookies, casseroles, cocktail meat balls, strawberry punch, vegetable entrees, egg and cheese top-of-the-range dishes, custards, omelets and oven sauteed chicken.

In all its applications, Rich's non-dairy creamer blends instantly and completely. Because of its non-dairy aspects and lack of butterfat, it is compatible with many special diets. Happily, it has only 20 calories per average serving.

What started out as a single purpose product—a non-dairy creamer that doesn't feather, curdle or oil in a cup of coffee—has skillfully turned into one with many purposes. For the homemaker interested in making fine foods easily and economically, it would seem to be the "cream" of the crop.

Copies of recipes may be obtained by writing to Recipes, Coffee Rich, Box 245, 1145 Niagara Street, Buffalo, N.Y. 14240.

Tour To Rome Is Offered For NW Residents

Dean of students Ray Berg of Rainy River community college at International Falls has announced a travel venture for this coming spring. Berg stated that a special air tour to Rome has been arranged and will be open to all high school seniors, college students and adults in northern minnesota.

Set for March 6 through 14, the Rome tour will include all air travel costs; first class hotel with bath for seven nights; breakfasts; service charges; sight seeing tours and numerous other items. Cost of this special spring break tour is $528 for students and $615 for older adults.

Some of the activities arranged by the tour directors include: Tours of the ancient Roman forums, Castel San Angelo, Spanish Steps, Coliseum, Pantheon and Borghese and Tivoli Gardens.

Days will be spent touring St. Peter's cathedral and Vatican museums and Michelangelo's Sistine chapel. Also scheduled is a day on the Mediterranean sea coast and a look at the ancient catacombs. Side tours to the Renaissance city of Florence or the Vesuvius area of Pompeii are planned for the ambitious members of the tour. Many more famous ancient, Renaissance and modern Roman sites will be viewed by the tour participants.

After seven days and nights the group will return via Alitalia airlines to Winnipeg.

Among other community colleges invited to participate in the spring tour is Northland community college of Thief River Falls. For further information, students or community adults should contact Ray Berg at Rainy River community college, International Falls, Minnesota, telephone (218) 283-8491 or Recreational Services of Northeastern Minnesota, Virginia, Minnesota, telephone (218) 741-9331.

Property Tax: Good News And Bad News

In fiscal 1974—the 12-month period that began July 1, 1973—Minnesota's property tax load per capita was below the national average for the first time in at least 15 years, according to Don Paterick, executive director of the Minnesota taxpayers association.

Paterick cited statistics contained in the U.S. Department of commerce publication 'Government Finances in 1973-74' showing that property tax collections in Minnesota in fiscal 1974 averaged $216.90 per person, down $4.16 from the previous year, and that the average for all states and the District of Columbia was $225.90, up $10.12.

"That's the good news," Paterick said. "To accomplish it, the 1971 Legislature raised income tax rates, boosted the sales tax rate to four per cent, added another nickel to the cigaret tax, upped the tax on beer, and made other tax law changes.

"A goodly portion of the increased state revenue was assigned to property tax reduction purposes: higher school aids and aids to local government, more money for home owners' tax relief, and other measures intended to reduce the need for local property tax increases.

"The bad news is that since fiscal 1974 spending by local units of government—school districts, cities, counties—has far outstripped both the increased state aids and the money from federal revenue sharing. Property taxes payable in 1975, for example, are up more than 15 per cent from 1974.

"Early indications are that property tax levies payable in 1976 will show another big jump. It seems quite likely that for Minnesota's property taxpayers, the good news is behind us."

Mondale Says Action Needed On Canada Oil

"We must work now to lay the groundwork for a decision on long term alternatives to Canadian crude oil imports to the Upper Midwest," states Sen. Walter F. Mondale. "In 1973, Canada announced a phase-out of oil exports to the U.S. by 1982. This phase-out presents an urgent regional, and in many respects national, energy problem. A solution must be found and it must be found soon.

"In Minnesota, roughly 60 per cent of the petroleum products we consume comes from four independent refineries. More than 80 per cent of the crude oil used by these refineries comes from Canada. Because no oil pipelines serve Minnesota except from Canada, they have no practical alternative source of crude. This problem is not confined to Minnesota. Refineries in Montana, North Dakota and Wisconsin face a similar dilemma.

"Short term steps have been taken to minimuze the effect of Canadian export reductions. The federal energy administration is preparing to implement an allocation program to distribute supplies according to need, provided that the Congress enacts enabling authority such as that contained in a bill I introduced last September. Both the FEA and the state department have also been negotiating with the Canadians to remove any government obstacles to agreements among private Canadian and U.S. companies for swapping of oil," he said.

"However, neither allocation nor private swaps can provide more than temporary relief before the reduction in supplies begins to seriously jeopardize essential uses. By 1977 or 1978 at the latest, a long term alternative to Canadian crude must not only be found, but also fully developed and ready to meet the needs of our northern tier refineries.

"Right now, there is no agreed upon alternative supply network. A number of options have been suggested, but there is desagreement regarding the cost and feasibility of these projects. However, the construction of major new pipelines from the Southwest or Gulf states, or even reversal of the Trans-mountain pipeline, each raise significant environmental issues that could take years to resolve under the national environmental policy act and state environmental laws," Sen. Mondale added.

"That is why I have proposed a $1 million, six-month study by the FEA to tell us how much time we have and which alternatives are the most viable in view of economic, environmental, legal political constraints. They would be required to recommend steps that the federal government can take to expedite a workable solution to meet the energy needs of the northern tier.

"Should the northern tier states become victims of delay and indecision at this crucial time, I truly fear that we may be faced with a situation more dire than any experienced furing the 1973 embargo. America simply cannot afford to let any region of the country, most particularly the breadbasket of this nation, suffer the kind of dislocation that is literally just a few years away."

SKATING ASSISTANCE is given to participants in the Falls day activity center skating program by volunteer workers and staff members of the activity center. In the photo above several of the participants are given individual attention, with or without use of a skating aid which has been developed locally.

On Dec. 26, 1943, pre-invasion bombing of Cape Gloucester (New Britain) during WW II completely destroyed enemy defenses; Fifth Air Force adopted the term "Gloucesterizing" to describe complete destruction of a target.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTION is given to Judy Fisher by Mrs. Roger Worth in the unique skating program for the mentally retarded in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Falls day activity center uses the arena from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Monday and Friday for what is believed to be the state's only skating program for the trainable retarded. Miss Fisher is one of only two participants in the program who had ever been on skates before the program started in October.

Governor Signs Bicentennial Project Scroll

Governor Wendell Anderson kicked off a two-part program allowing the citizens of Minnesota to rededicate themselves to the principles on which this nation was founded nearly 200 years ago.

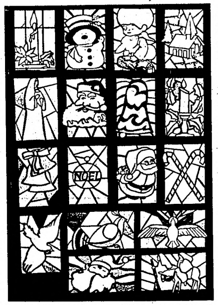
Gene Cisewski, chairman of the Bemidji Bicentennial commission, presented for the Governor's signature a 2,000 foot Declaration of Independence scroll which will be circulated throughout the state in coming months. The program is mainly aimed at the youth of the state and the fully signed document will be placed in a time capsule in Bemidji after it is signed by the president.

Gene Anderson, state Bicentennial commission wagon train coordinator, secured the Governor's signature on one of the official scrolls used in conjunction with the Conestoga wagon train program. These scrolls are presented for citizen signatures at appearances of the wagon throughout the state and will be placed in Minnesota's wagon before it begins its trek to Valley Forge next April.

The official scrolls bear the lines of the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness . . ."

The Bemidji-sponsored project is the work of the Declaration committee of the Bemidji American Revolution Bicentennial commission (BARBC).

Effort of the Bemidji project is to stimulate an awareness of what the founding principles of American government are to Minnesotans by getting all of us to be aware of what they are, reaffirming our faith in these principles, and using these principles in our everyday life. An educational pamphlet will be produced by the committee members after the first of the year.



SIMULATION of a stained glass window was created by art students at Franklin middle school and drew considerable attention at the Franklin school Christmas concert Tuesday evening. The colorful window was placed on the glass front of a large lighted trophy case which permitted a back-lighting effect.

MSHSL Representatives Here

Representatives of the Minnesota State High School League are scheduled to be in Thief River Falls today (Wednesday) to address the public in an informational meeting in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

MSHSL executive director Murrae Freng and assistant director Orval Bies have indicated they will be here today and Marv Helling, associate executive director of the organization is tentatively scheduled to appear along with Freng and Bies.

The three members of the MSHSL hierarchy will present their program from 3 to 6 p.m. The general public is invited to attend.

"It's an informational meeting," explained Thief River Falls athletic director Russ Smith. "I think it'll be worthwhile for people to attend the meeting. They'll (MSHSL representatives) explain how the league operates and I'm sure they'll have a question and answer period to answer any questions anyone might have about the league."

The meeting here is just one of several sectional meetings the State High School League is conducting throughout the state on a kind of goodwill basis.

Worner, McGrath Presented Golf Awards

Fred Worner and Dolly McGrath were named most improved golfers of the 1975 season at the Thief River Falls Country Club, it was announced Tuesday by club manager Vern Isaacson.

A personalized certificate from "Golf Digest" magazine, America's largest circulation golf publication, was presented to both winners by the Country Club.

The certificates, it was pointed out are among the nation's most highly prized individual golf awards, recognizing the game's most important objective—individual improvement. The most improved golfer program was originated by "Golf Digest" in 1956. A list of the most improved golfers from throughout the United States will appear in a special feature in the magazine's January issue.

Mrs. McGrath's husband Mick is the reigning city tournament champion here.

TRF Night At UND

Northland community college basketball coach Chet Engelman and University of North Dakota sports information director Lee Bohnet have announced that Saturday has been designated as "Thief River Falls night" at the UND fieldhouse in Grand Forks.

On Saturday, Northland's basketball team will take on the University of North Dakota junior varsity in a 5:30 p.m. game in the UND fieldhouse as a preliminary contest to the 7:30 p.m. North Dakota-Eastern Montana game.

Northland is 3-1 for the year, with the UND junior varsity handing the Northmen their only loss in a 68-64 overtime game played in Thief River Falls recently.

Adding a Northland flavor to the North Dakota varsity is junior guard David Dickey, a two-time junior college All-American at Northland before transferring to North Dakota this year. Dickey starts for the Sioux, averaging 8.6 points and five assists per game.

"We would like to have a big section of Northland fans at the game," said Engelman. "It would be nice if we could get a bunch of Northland fans to sit together there."

Tickets for the two-game basketball evening, priced at $2.50 for adults and $1 for students and senior citizens, are available at Northland and at Bjorkman's.

Lund Named Girls' Swimming Captain

Shelly Lund, a junior on the 1975 squad, was named Monday as captain of the 1976 Lincoln high school girls' swimming team.

The Prowlers were feted at a post-season awards banquet Monday at Lincoln, with about 120 people in attendance.

Receiving special recognition awards from Prowler coach John Hustad were senior Joy Grant, hardest worker; junior Joan Jury, most valuable swimmer for the second straight year; and freshman Kathy Omdahl, most improved.

A pair of junior varsity awards were presented to seventh grader Teresa Ness, hardest worker; and seventh grader Franki Kuyath, most improved.

The most improved swimmer awards were selected by Hustad. Voting among team members decided the other award winners.

Bemidji Drops Wrestlers 53-9

Lincoln high school wrestling team was saddled with its third straight dual meet setback of the 1975-76 season Tuesday when Bemidji crushed the Prowlers 53-9 in the Lincoln gym.

Thief River Falls won just two of 12 decisions against the potent Bemidji squad. The Prowler wins were back-to-back triumphs by Dan Hallstrom at 126 and Larry Swanson at 132.

Hallstrom edged Gary Stay 4-2 with a first period takedown and a second period reversal. Stay countered with a third period reversal, but wasn't able to score the equalizer.

Swanson was the Prowler bright spot of the night with a first period pin of Doug Mason. Swanson claimed a quick takedown and then stretched Mason in just 1:32.

Bemidji wrestlers were winners in the other 10 matches, however, including a forfeit victory by heavyweight Mark Wilcox. Prowler heavyweight Neil Johnson was sidelined by an ankle injury.

Six Bemidji wins were of the pin variety as Rick Knutson pinned Randy Ayers in 1:53 at 98 pounds, Nestle Grimes stopped Scott Nelson in 3:47 at 119, Mike Schmidt stretched Don Park in 4:21 at 138, Mark Erhardt flattened Dale Furuseth in 4:33 at 155, Kevin Okerman ousted Randy Olson in 4:16 at 167 and Richard Bohlman pinned Stuart Peterson in 3:34 at 180.

Elsewhere, Brad Edwards defeated Clark Nelson 4-1 at 105, Tom Grimes manhandled Lee Furuseth 33-5 at 112 and Sam Mason out-scored Duane Gonsorowski 8-4 at 145.

Edwards scored with takedowns in both the first and second periods while Nelson came up with only a second period escape.

Tom Grimes, whose brother Nestle was a Minnesota state champion as a sophomore a year ago, racked up five takedowns, seven nearfalls and a reversal in his one-sided win. Furuseth managed five one-point escapes.

Mason overcame a 4-3 deficit with a five-point period to beat Gonsorowski. The Prowler senior scored with a first period takedown and a second period reversal, but Mason produced a third period reversal and nearfall for the win after scoring in the first period on an escape and takedown.

Thief River Falls jumps from the frying pan into the fire tomorrow (Thursday) when the Prowlers travel to Greenbush for an 8 p.m. match against the powerful Tigers. Bagley will be in Thief River Falls for a 7:30 match Tuesday.

Bemidji also took a one-sided junior varsity win by a 56-7 score. The lone Thief River Falls junior varsity win was an 8-2 verdict by Tim Schoonhoven at 145 pounds. Stuart Mickelson at 119 and Matt Overby at 155 were involved in ties.

98—Rick Knutson (B) pinned Randy Ayers (TRF) 1:53; Scott Lyseng (B) pinned Jim Scheuneman (TRF) 1:08.
105—Brad Edwards (B) dec. Clark Nelson (TRF) 4-1; Mark Schmitt (B) pinned John Monroe (TRF) 1:09.

MCC, Goodridge Girls Unbeaten In Cage Action

Marshall County Central and Goodrdige high school girls' basketball teams kept their unbeaten records intact Monday as the Nordics whipped Middle River 40-26 and the Huskies handled Stephen 41-29.

Grygla was a loser in the early week activity, however, as the Eagles dropped a close 21-19 decision to Warroad.

MCC 40, M.R. 26

Marshall County Central stretched its 1975-76 season record to 5-0 with a 40-26 win over visiting Middle River.

The Nordics trailed 6-4 at the first quarter break, but pulled away to a 21-10 halftime cushion. Newfolden led 27-20 at the end of the third quarter.

Diane Anderson scored 13 points for the Nordics and teammate Pam Odberg added 10. Kari Peterson was the game's high scorer for Middle River with 15 points.

Newfolden faces its toughest test to date Monday when the Nordics host highly regarded Roseau.

Goodridge 41, Stephen 29

Georgine Troska poured in 17 points to lead Goodridge past Stephen 41-29.

The Huskies, 3-0 for the year, led only 8-6, 18-13 and 25-21 at the three quarter breaks before pulling away from the visiting Tigers in the fourth stanza.

Pam Kwiowski led the Stephen scoring efforts with 16 points.

Goodridge is scheduled to travel to Climax tomorrow (Thursday). The Huskies visit Argyle Monday.

Warroad 21, Grygla 19

Warroad edged Grygla 21-19 in a low-scoring game played at Warroad.

Grygla led 8-4 at the first quarter break and owned a 12-10 halftime edge, but the Warriors went ahead 19-16 at the end of the third quarter.

Bev Byklum and Dawn Stare shared top scoring honors for Grygla with six points apiece. Jean Stukel scored nine points for Warroad.

Grygla will try to improve its 1-3 record tomorrow (Thursday) when the Eagles host Baudette. Badger visits Grygla Monday.

Bemidji Trips Lincoln Hockey JV Squad 4-2

Lincoln high school junior varsity hockey team lost its first game of the 1975-76 season Tuesday when Bemidji claimed a 4-2 win over the visiting Thief River Falls squad.

Roger Roadfelt and Scott Sabo scored Thief River Falls junior varsity goals.

Elks Sponsor Hoop Shoot At LHS Saturday

Thief River Falls Elks lodge 1308 will sponsor a "hoop shoot" free throw contest Saturday beginning at 1 p.m. in the Lincoln high school gym.

The local contest, conducted as part of a nation-wide competition, is open to both boys and girls ranging in age from eight to 13-years-old.

Youngsters will compete against their own sex in three separate age groups. The age pairings include groups for eight and nine-year-olds; 10 and 11-year-olds; and 12 and 13-year-olds.

Thief River Falls winners will advance to district level competition.

BEMIDJI WRESTLER Mike Schmidt tried to maneuver Thief River Falls' Don Park to his back during the 138-pound match of Tuesday night's wrestling match in the Lincoln high school gym. Park wasn't very cooperative at this point in the first period, but Schmidt did pin Park in the third period. The Lumberjacts beat the Prowlers 53-9.

Third Period Outburst Sparks Lumberjacks Past Prowlers 6-3

Bemidji snapped a 3-3 tie with three goals in a 2:31 span late in the third period Tuesday to beat Thief River Falls 6-3 in a high school hockey game played at Bemidji.

The Prowlers at one time enjoyed a 3-1 lead early in the game, but the Lumberjacks battled back to tie the contest in the second period before taking charge in the final stanza.

Bemidji's Ron Bouchard scored his second goal of the game with just 3:36 remaining in the third period to break the 3-3 deadlock.

Jim Dyrhaug added an insurance goal at the 13:05 mark and then Rod Beck finished things up with the Lumberjacks' sixth goal just 50 seconds later.

"It was one of those nights where not much went right for us," said Thief River Falls coach Bill McGann. "We did have that 3-1 lead, but at crucial stages when we needed a goal we couldn't get it. We hit the goal pipe three times and hit the cross bar once. It was frustrating."

Thief River Falls scored first when Doug Dallmann converted passes from teammates Bill Olson and Jeff Lindquist into a 1-0 lead 4:07 into the game.

Bemidji's Dan Dow tied it just 43 seconds later, but a pair of rapid-fire Thief River Falls goals pushed the Prowlers in front 3-1.

Jay Kverno scored only 26 seconds after Dow on feeds from Steve Geatz and Kent Ehrenstrom. Then 50 seconds later Gordie Markstrom beat Bemidji goalie Steve Shulke on an assist from Scott Bergland.

Bouchard scored his first goal at the 11:10 mark, however, to pull Bemidji within 3-2 at the first period break.

The Lumberjacks' Lee Hanson tied the game 3-3 2:32 into the second period.

"Our forechecking patterns broke down and our breakouts weren't working right," said McGann.

Thhief River Falls goalie Terry Sullivan was bombarded with 34 shots while Shulke turned aside 18 shots on goal.

Injury problems also plagued the Prowlers. Kverno strained shoulder ligaments and Ehrenstrom stretched knee ligaments during the game. Kverno is expected to miss about a week of action while Ehrenstrom's status is questionable at this point. In addition, Mitch Dicken played Tuesday with a bruised shoulder and Tim Loeffler missed the game because of the flu. Chris Biegner is still sidelined with a shoulder injury suffered in a pre-season scrimmage.

Biegner, Ehrenstrom and Dicken are all defensemen, putting extra strain on the Prowler blueline corps heading into a scheduled Saturday night assignment against Grand Forks Central in the Thief River Falls sports arena. Game time Saturday is 7:30 p.m. Crookston Cathedral will be here Tuesday.

Prowlers, Indians Meet At Mahnomen

Thief River Falls will put its 2-0 basketball record on the line Friday when coach Glen Peters' Prowlers travel to Mahnomen for an 8 p.m. clash with the Indians.

The game will be the first Thief River Falls road trip of the season after a pair of home court wins over Roseau 72-47 and Kennedy 67-46.

Defending Region Eight champion Mahnomen opened the 1975-76 season by losing to Crookston, but the Indians have beaten Halstad and Waubun in their latest outings.

Friday will mark the first meeting between the two teams that met in the 1975 Region Eight championship game when the Indians upset the favored Prowlers 39-37. Both teams have had a bundle of personnel changes since last March, though.

"Our success this year will depend upon the improvement of our underclassmen," said veteran Mahnomen coach Ray Stinar, pointing to the graduation losses of six seniors and four starters of last year's state tournament squad.

"We have fair size," pointed out Stinar, "so we hope that rebounding will be one of our strong points. Our biggest need will be playing experience."

Seniors Paul Muckenhirn, Myron Brusven, Greg Stock and Jon Otto and junior Tom Kaste were members of Mahnomen's 22-6 team a year ago. Muckenhirn, a 6-4 forward, and Brusven, a 5-8 guard, are Indian co-captains. They, more than anybody else, make the team go.

Thief River Falls has benefited from balanced scoring in its first two games. Four Prowler players own double figure scoring averages at this early date, including guard Don Forney with a 17.0 figure, center Jeff Neelan at 12.0, guard Terry Dyrdal 11.5 and forward John Larson 10.5. Brian Peterson rounds out the Prowler starting line-up at a forward.

"Mahnomen has a good ball club," commented Peters. "We'll find out just how tough we are Friday."

Peters feels his team will have to pay special attention to Muckenhirn and Brusven. "They're both good ball players, expecially Muckenhirn. They more-or-less run their offense around him."

Thief River Falls' ability to fast break may decide the outcome of the game against the bigger Indians. "We'll have to rely on speed," said Peters. "We'll have to run on them. If we can hit the boards and run, we can do a good job against them."

Strong NCC Finish Keys 71-63 Win Over Royals

A strong finish by the Northland community college basketball team carried the Northmen past Lake Region 71-63 Monday night in the Northland gymnasium.

The win improved Northland's season record to 3-1. The Northmen will try to make amends for their only loss to date Saturday in Grand Forks against the University of North Dakota junior varisty. The Sioux edged the Northmen 68-64 in overtime last week.

Although Lake Region trailed by as much as 10 points early in the second half, the Royals battled back to within two points on four different occasions late in the game. The Devils Lake, N.D. ball club couldn't quite match Northland's point production, however.

Freshman forward Al Wilcox hit a short jump shot while on the run to pull Lake Region within 59-57 with 4:45 remaining, but the Royals were never again that close to the Northmen after Bill Whitney rifled in a long base line jumper over Lake Region standout Joe Mertens for a 63-57 ball game with 3:22 left.

Steve Larson of the Royals came back with a pair of free throws to trim the difference to 63-59 with 3:14 to go, but Northland then went into a semi-stall that coach Chet Engelman prefers to call a "controlled offense" that held onto the ball until Bill Gusa was intentionally fouled with 1:29 left. He made both free throws to more-or-less decide the outcome.

Wilcox came up with a short jump shot on the Royals' ensuing trip downcourt, but another intentional foul situation found Whitney making both ends of the one-and-one free throw opportunity for a 67-61 game with only 46 seconds left.

A single Royal free throw was answered by Northland baskets from Johnson on a goal-tending call against Mertens and by Whitney on a fast break to seal the decision.

Although the game finished with a bang, the first 28 minutes were not particularly well played. A streak of 13 straight points by Northland, including six by Johnson alone, carried the Northmen to a 37-30 halftime lead.

Freshman center Dave Davenport, Northland's offensive star in the first half with several turnaround jumpers in heavy traffic, banged in a rebound four minutes into the second half to give the Northmen their biggest lead of the game at 45-35.

"I was happy that we were able to take over at the end," said Engelman, "even though we didn't play that well most of the ball game. Defensively I'm fairly satisfied and we did a good job shooting free throws, but our shooting percentage was poor—it has been all year."

Davenport and Whitney, both praised for strong play by Engelman, finished with 14 points apiece for the Northmen and Johnson added 10. Mertens paced the Royals with 16 points while Wilcox and Dan Foss added 10 each.

Northland made 29 of 81 field goal tries for a 36 per cent shooting effort. Lake Region wasn't even able to match that unimpressive figure as the Royals hit 26 of 75 shots for 35 per cent. Northland did, however, enjoy a banner free throw shooting night, sinking 13 of 16 gift tosses. Lake Region made only 11 of 22 free throws. The Royals finished with a 59-56 rebound edge, though. Davenport pulled down 13 caroms for the Northmen and Johnson added 11. Lake Region topped the turnover charts 25-21.

NORTHLAND FRESHMAN guard Keith Cheek sailed past Lake Region's Joe Mertens (42) and Joe Uriell (24) for a driving lay-up during Monday's college basketball game at Northland. The Northmen improved their 1975-76 season record to 3-1 with a 71-63 win over the Royals.

ON A PLAY resembling a football game more than a basketball game, Lake Region center Joe Mertens cradled the ball while Northland forward Bill Gusa apparently tried to play defense in the prone position during Monday night's college basketball game in Thief River Falls. Lake Region guard Kevin Dvorak watched the play. Northland won the game 71-63.

Fincher, Rokke Key MCC Win Over Kennedy 56-47

Mike Fincher and Bruce Rokke combined for 40 points Tuesday to carry Marshall County Central high school to a 56-47 basketball win over Kennedy in a game played at Newfolden.

Fincher and Rokke both scored 20 points and took turns tormenting the Kennedy defense. Rokke erupted for 14 points in the first half and Fincher came back with a 14-point second half performance.

Newfolden led only 12-11 at the first quarter break, but expanded the margin to 30-21 by halftime. The Nordics were ahead 46-37 at the end of the third quarter.

Rich Deere scored 15 points for the Rockets and Barry Langen added 13.

Newfolden coach Ron Ueland was pleased with his team's play after a sputtering opening season 43-38 win over Goodridge a week earlier. "We played considerably better than our first game," said Ueland who had special praise for both Fincher and Rokke. "We had 15 turnovers—13 in the second half—which was too many," he pointed out, "but otherwise we played well. Our bench played very well for us."

Newfolden shot 38 per cent from the field for the game, hitting 26 of 68 attempts. Kennedy shot 32 per cent on a 21 for 65 showing. Newfolden made four of eight free throw tries while Kennedy sank five of nine gift tosses. The strong rebounding Nordics finished with a hefty 40-19 board edge, with Fincher hauling in a whopping 21 caroms.

The Nordics host Argyle Friday in their third straight home game of the young 1975-76 season. Newfolden travels to Alvarado Tuesday.

Lincoln Girls Lose 53-35 At Crookston

Meg Schnabel and Sue Ross combined for 31 points Monday to spark Crookston past Thief River Falls 53-35 in a girls' high school basketball game at Crookston.

Schnabel, a guard, poured in 16 points on eight field goals as she burned the Prowlers with several fast break lay-ups. Ross, rated among the best athletes among the girls in Region Eight, pumped in 15 points from her center position.

"Sue Ross is pretty good in the middle; almost unstoppable," said Thief River Falls coach Judy Charlebois who also had praise for Schnabel's outside shooting ability.

Crookston jumped out to an 18-8 first quarter lead and was never seriously threatened by the Prowlers who trailed 34-14 at halftime and 41-31 after three quarters.

Sophomore center Cheri Onkka continued to carry the bulk of the Prowler scoring load with a 12 point effort against the Pirates, although she was complemented by a nine-point effort from Marchelle Cuppett.

Thief River Falls evened its junior varsity season record at 2-2 with a win in the preliminary game.

The Prowlers, still looking for their first win of the year after four straight losses, host Moorhead tomorrow (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln gym. Fisher will be in Thief River Falls for a 4:30 p.m. game Monday.

NCC Skaters To Play Mesabi In 1975-76 Opener

Curt Geatz will make his debut as Northland community college hockey coach this weekend when the Northmen open a belated 1976-76 season schedule with a pair of road games against Mesabi community college of Virginia.

The two teams will meet Saturday at 7:30 p.m. on natural ice in Hoyt Lakes and then will clash again Sunday at 6 p.m. in Virginia.

This weekend's Northland-Mesabi MJCAA hockey conference series will be the only games during the 1975 portion of the 1975-76 season for the Northmen.

Northland will wait until Friday and Saturday, January 9-10 to open its home season schedule against Hibbing, a pair of 7:30 p.m. games in the Thief River Falls sports arena.

The Northmen will make up for their early season inactivity by finishing the season with 16 games in six weeks of action.

Over 11,000 private waterfowl hunting clubs control, through ownership and leases, a minimum of 5.2 million acres of land.

Rams Hand Eagles 71-44 Cage Defeat

Grygla suffered its second setback of the 1975-76 basketball season Tuesday as the Eagles dropped a 71-44 decision to visitin Roseau.

Lonnie Lofstad led a trio of Roseau double figure scorers with a big 20-point night. Paul Novacek and Jim Berg each tossed in 11 points for the Rams. Grygla's Gary Satre matched Lofstad for game high scoring honors with 20 points, but no other Eagle scorer was able to crack the double figure barrier.

Grygla battled Roseau to a 13-13 first period stand-off, but the Rams pulled away to a 40-24 halftime lead. Roseau led 58-36 at the end of the third quarter.

"Turnovers and rebounds hurt us," pointed out Grygla coach Van Swanson. "They pressed us and we threw the ball right into their hands. We got off to a good start, but then things kind of fell apart."

Grygla shot 35 per cent from the floor for the game by hitting 17 of 48 field goal attempts. Roseau shot at a 43 per cent clip, hitting 29 of 67 tries. Grygla made 10 of 20 free throw opportunities while Roseau made 13 of 23 gift tosses.

Grygla will play twice this weekend when the Eagles host Strandquist Friday and travel to Middle River Saturday. Grygla plays at Warroad Tuesday.

Sophomores Lift Cards Past Huskies By 61-51

Sophomores Marty Hesse and Stan Tvedt were standouts Tuesday as Plummer opened its 1975-76 basketball season with a 61-51 win at Goodridge.

Hesse pumped in a game-high 19 points and Tvedt scored 16 for the Cardinals who made their debut under new head coach Paul Williams.

"I was real pleased with the play of the two sophomores," said Williams of the Hesse-Tvedt combination. We didn't get enough shots off and we turned the ball over too much, but I was really pretty well satisfied for a first game effort."

Carl Torkelson also reached the double figure scoring column for Plummer with 13 points. Goodridge boasted three double figure scorers in Rick Easthouse with 16 points, Randy Nelson 13 and Jim Johnson 10.

Easthouse enjoyed a big 14-point first half performance when the Huskies trailed only 33-27 at intermission. However, Plummer pulled away 48-35 by the third quarter break. The Cardinals led 14-9 after the first quarter.

Plummer enjoyed a hot shooting hand from the field, hitting 26 of 45 attempts for a sizzling 58 per cent effort. The Cardinals made nine of 18 free throw tries while Goodridge sank three of seven gift tosses. Willett and Tvedt placed Plummer's rebounding charts with 15 and 11 caroms, respectively.

Both teams will be in action Friday when the Huskies host Stephen and the Cardinals entertain Red Lake Falls. Plummer plays host to Oklee Tuesday while Goodridge, 0-3 for the year, travels to Red Lake Falls the same day.

Urge Non-Hunters To Buy Duck Stamps

"Individual American citizen can make a substantial contribution to the conservation of wild waterfowl in the United States by purchasing a migratory bird hunting stamp at the local post office for $5," Lynn A. Greenwalt, director of Interior's U.S. fish and wildlife service, said.

The proceeds from the sale of these stamps—known popularly as "duck stamps" go directly into the purchase of wetland habitat for ducks and geese. The stamp is issued annually and is required of all waterfowl hunters 16 years of age and older, but the Interior department is now encouraging non-hunters who also enjoy the wildlife resource through photography and birdwatching to contribute to the U.S. conservation effort this way.

Since 1934 when duck stamps first went on sale, over $160 million in revenue has been collected and used for the setting aside of close to 2 million acres of waterfowl habitat. Each year over 2 million hunters, by purchasing the stamps, provide close to $11 million in revenue. It is hoped that upwards of a half million to a million non-hunting Americans will voluntarily purchase one of the stamps.

Waterfowl abundance and distribution are closely related to the availability of living space. When requirements for production, migration, and wintering are not fully met, waterfowl numbers decline.

Central to the needs of most waterfowl is an aquatic environment. An estimated 127 million acres of wetlands existed in the United States at the turn of the century. By 1953, only 82 million acres remained intact, of which less than one-fourth was judged to be of significant value to waterfowl.

A 1964 inventory by the U.S. fish and wildlife service indicated that 2.7 million acres of the most productive wetland types remained in the prairie pothole region of the Dakotas and Minnesota. Surveys between 1964 and 1968 in the same area indicated losses of nearly two per cent annually.

Estuaries and coastal wetlands, particularly along the mid and south Atlantic coasts and the Gulf of Mexico, are wintering grounds for a major segment of North American waterfowl. During the period from 1922 to 1954, at least 25 per cent of shallow coastal water and marsh areas were destroyed. Seventy-three per cent of the nation's estuaries have been moderately or severely degraded, according to a 1970 study. Recent estimates conservatively place the nationwide rate of loss of coastal wetlands at 0.5 to 1.0 per cent annually.

The loss of wintering habitat affects the distribution of wintering waterfowl. Some 20 million acres of wooded swamps and overflow bottomlands remained along the Mississippi river and its tributaries during the 1950's. By the mid-1960's, conversion of hardwood forests in the lower half of the Mississippi river basin to cropland for cotton, rice, and soybeans resulted in a reduction of waterfowl habitat values on about two-thirds of the overflow bottomlands. During the 1960's an average of 200,000 acres of bottomland hardwoods were cleared annually in the lower Mississippi river region. These areas provide major wintering grounds for mallards and critical breeding habitat for wood ducks.

On the plus side, the U.S. fish and wildlife service administers as part of the national wildlife refuge system 276 waterfowl refuges and 68 migratory bird refuges which encompass 8,337,700 acres of land and water. In addition, the refuge system contains 1,371,000 acres of waterfowl production areas, located in the glaciated prairie region of North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska and Wisconsin. Other units of the refuge system include an estimated 240,000 acres of waterfowl habitat.

State conservation agencies control 4.5 million additional acres of land and water having major value to waterfowl. About half of the acreage is owned by the states, and the remainder is managed under lease, easement, or other temporary arrangements.

Ducks Unlimited, Inc., a private non-profit international conservation organization, working in cooperation with Ducks Unlimited (Canada), has developed 1,200 wetland projects in Canada. The projects involve over 9,500 miles of nesting shoreline and 1.8 million acres of controlled water on managed marshes. Ducks Unlimited affiliates were formed in Mexico in 1969 to help preserve wintering areas in that country.

An additional 400,000 acres of wetlands are owned or leased in the United States by private conservation organizations. The nature conservancy and the national Audubon society hold most of these wetlands—about 350,000 acres.

Private citizens contribute to wetland preservation through organizations such as "wetlands for wildlife" and the Minnesota duck hunters association. These organizations purchase wetland areas, thereby insuring that they are not lost. There are no nationwide figures available as to the amount of habitat preserved or developed as the result of activities of such groups.

While waterfowl breed throughout North America, the prairie region of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, Montana, the Dakotas and western Minnesota produces from 50 to 75 per cent of the total of the 10 duck species most abundant. This semi-arid region is subject to recurring drought, and its capacity to support breeding ducks varies markedly from year to year. Federal duck stamp revenues in the coming years are being focused on this vital area of the country to set aside and preserve what's left of North America's "duck factory."

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Shame on you Thief River, you did it again. You had the very nerve to build hockey arenas, not once, but twice, and use them primarily for hockey. But don't worry, recreational skating has arrived on the scene to save you from the error of your ways. Of course you can't say recreational skating has just arrived because it's been tried unsuccessfully before. Isn't that like saying, if the Minnesota Vikings win the Super Bowl they will not be the new champs because they have tried to win unsuccessfully before?

According to the definition of prime ice time by the Recreational Skating association, there are 55.5 hours per week. From the first of November to the end of March there are 21 weeks. This works out to 1,165.5 hours. If one subtracts the 787 hours recreational skating says is devoted to hockey and the 226 hours they claim is used for all others, there is a missing 152.5 hours. Now if recreational skating could find these missing hours and add them to the present 190.5 hours they already have their total would be 343 hours and on top of the prime ice time parade in the new arena.

At last count there were still 24 hours in a day and 168 hours in a week. This means that there is available in the sports arena 112.5 hours per week the Recreational Skating association doesn't consider prime time. Is the Recreational Skating association willing to use some of this time? For instance, the youth and high school hockey programs are unable to use the time during school hours; this amounts to 35 hours per week. Are the recreational skating people all at work and in school or would they be willing to use some of this 735 hours of available ice time?

The youth hockey uses some of the early morning hours, 6 a.m. to 8 a.m., for practice. The high school hockey team, because they gave their prime ice on Thursdays to recreational skating, practice before school. How come recreational skating can only be done during prime time?

The Recreational Skating association's own break down of prime ice time in the sports arena shows them in third place out of eight users. The association figures show they have almost 20 per cent of the prime ice time. Can this be called just the skin of the apple? It looks more like a large bite.

Hockey started in Thief River almost 40 years ago. There have been many people who worked hard, at a great cost to themselves of time and money, to bring hockey from Alex Campbell's back yard to the fine facilities we have now. The Recreational Skating association, without the hockey people's background of freezing on outdoor rinks and fighting to have the arenas built, says it's unfair that they haven't been given more than one fifth the prime ice time in the sports arena. I would like to remind them that the hockey program existed 30 years before it had any ice time, prime or not, in the sports arena.

If recreational skating is successful in removing ice time from the hockey program, it is not the high school or the high school feeder programs that will show the immediate effects. The portion of the hockey program that would suffer immediately is the recreational portion, the in-house teams of boys and girls that may never make a traveling team but come out because they love to play the game and enjoy the competition offered.

Thank you,
Arthur B. Cloutier

Park Permit Is Suggested As Christmas Gift

Department of natural resources today offered a Christmas gift idea that can be used and appreciated all through the year—a motor vehicle entrance permit that is good at every state park in Minnesota.

Don Davison, director of parks and recreation, pointed out that at a cost of only $3, the permit falls within the "stocking stuffer" category in price.

The permits can be obtained through the mail by contacting state park offices throughout the state or by writing the DNR division of parks and recreation, third floor centennial building, St. Paul. Phone 612-296-2270.

The permits will provide motor vehicle entrance throughout the Bicentennial year of 1976 to all state parks administered by the department of natural resources.

DNR Converts Army Trucks To Fire Equipment

A department of natural resources program which helps convert surplus property military trucks to tough, durable fire fighting units has proved a boon to rural fire fighting organizations.

Under the program the DNR obtains the vehicles without cost from the federal government and by using available federal aid funds, pays up to 50 per cent of the cost of converting them to fire trucks suitable for fighting fires in forests, grasslands and villages.

Larry Garvey, DNR rural fire protection forester, said 22 of the converted trucks are in service now and 12 more trucks are being received from the federal government withing the next few weeks.

"The program is the only one which provides direct aid to rural fire companies," he said, "and has proved of tremendous value in providing fire suppression to vast areas of Minnesota where DNR fire fighting forces are thinly spread."

Some of the towns which already are using their new fire fighting trucks are Baudette, Big Falls, Fifty Lakes, Wheaton, Lake Bronson, Kerrick, Sturgeon Lake and Kettle River.

Garvey said the department is also in a position to assist rural fire departments in organization, training and equipment under a three year pilot project utilizing federal funds administered by the U.S. department of agriculture.

Communities interested in acquiring a fire fighting truck or seeking assistance under the pilot program should contact Garvey at the DNR's northern service center in Grand Rapids, phone 218-326-3433.

Thin Ice Slows Spear Fishing Season Opener

Minnesota's fish spearing season started Mon., Dec. 1, but the department of natural resources warned that ice on most lakes is still unsafe.

The only species of fish that may be legally speared in Minnesota are northern pike, rough fish, catfish and whitefish.

In addition to an angling license, spear fisherman must purchase a special spearing license and another license for their dark house—if they are using one.

It is unlawful to have a spear within a shelter or dark house when it is being used for angling.

Canada Geese Drawing Picked For Duck Stamp

A striking India ink scratchboard drawing of a pair of Canada geese and their brood by Alderson Magee of Sharon, Connecticut won the 1976-77 duck stamp competition on October 29 at the Interior department.

Magee's design will be reproduced on next year's $5 migratory bird hunting stamp which migratory waterfowl hunters 16 years of age and older are required to purchase. Revenues from the stamp are used to purchase wetland habitat for waterfowl.

Magee is a well known artist whose works have won several other competitions in recent years, although this was his first entry in the duck stamp contest. He has had no formal schooling in art and prior to changing careers in 1971 was a full-time commercial pilot and representative for a jet engine manufacturer. Then, after reading about it, he became interested in the scratchboard technique—a meticulous process in which India ink baked on china clay is removed by scratching the surface with engraver's tools. It is one of the most painstaking artistic techniques. No mistakes can be made.

His work won over those of 263 other entrants, a record number for the contest, scoring 49 out of a possible 50 points.

A panel of judges selected for the contest by assistant secretary of the Interior Nathaniel P. Reed included William G. Conway, general director of the New York zoological society; Les Line, editor, Audubon magazine; Larry Jahn, vice-president, wildlife management institute; Guy A. Greenwell, bird unit curator, national zoological park; and George Reiger, senior editor, National Wildlife magazine.

Although there is no official prize other than a sheet of stamps autographed by the secretary of the Interior, in recent years the winning design has gained immediate commercial value in the wildlife art and stamp collecting marketplaces. It is not uncommon for the artist to net more than $200,000 for reprint sales.

The competition is the only art contest regularly sponsored by the federal government. The colorful stamps constitute the longest running annually issued series of stamps in revenue or postage stamp history.

All revenue from the stamps, except the cost of printing and distribution is used to purchase wetland habitat for waterfowl. Since 1934 when duck stamps first went on sale, over $160 million in revenue has been collected and used for the acquisition of two million acres of prime waterfowl habitat. By purchasing the stamps, more than two million hunters annually provide close to $11 million in revenue.

This year, the Interior department is encouraging nonhunters who also enjoy the wildlife resource through photography, birdwatching and other activities to contribute to the U.S. conservation effort by buying a stamp.

Next year's issue will go on sale at post offices on July 1, 1976.

Winter Carnival

"Everybody's Ice Centennial" is the theme of the 1976 St. Paul winter carnival scheduled to be held January 23 through February 1.

Ev Carter serves as the 1976 winter carnival president. Lowery J. Smith is the event's general chairman.

Carter's leadership of the nation's top winter celebration follows his service on the board of directors as treasurer in 1973 and as special events vice president in 1974.

Raised in Pennsylvania and New York, the new carnival president graduated from Saint Lawrence University, Canton, New York, with a degree in chemistry. Carter was vice president of T.T.E.-Sylvania in charge of the chemical metalurgical division in Towanda, Pennsylvania, at the time of his move to Saint Paul in 1969. He is now executive vice president of Buckbee Mears company, a manufacturer of precision component parts, primarily for the electronic computerized optical industries and in graphic arts and printing.

Smith, 45, is vice-president of marketing and on the board of directors of the J. L. Shiely company. He heads the sales and marketing of sand, gravel and crushed stone from Shiely's four Twin Cities and Saint Cloud operations.

Raised in Western South Dakota on the Pine Ridge Indian reservation, Smith graduated from the South Dakota school of mines and technology with a degree in geological engineering. He was a natural for the selection as 1970 Prince of the west wind, serving with Boreas Rex XXXIII William H. Hite.

Smith's commitment to civic involvement is not limited to carnival. He is also a member of the boards of directors of the Midway YMCA and the Midway civic and commerce association, plus he serves as chairman of the Bethlehem Covenant church stewardship committee. He has held professional posts including president of the Minnesota surveyors and engineers society and regional vice president of the South Dakota school of mines alumni association. He is also a member of the Town and Country club."

Lee Vann

On December 1, Lee Vann became commissioner of the department of economic development. This is good news for the tourist industry of Minnesota. There is no one in the state more qualified for the post than is Mr. Vann.

We have known him since 1954 when he was executive secretary of the Chisholm Chamber of Commerce. Later, he became executive secretary of the Minnesota Arrowhead association, one of the most progressive tourist promotion groups in the nation. Lee joined J.F.P. and associates in 1969 as its chairman.
